Emily Reddington, 911 Dispatcher for City of Plano, Public Safety Communications

Also in attendance, Dana Mays, Operations Manager, City of Plano, and is Emily's supervisor, and Susan Carr, Public Safety Communications Department Director. Dana provided the following on Emily:

Emily has worked for Plano Public Safety Communication for two years now. Every day she comes to work with a smile on her face and enthusiastic attitude. She works hard to meet & exceed our department standards and has one of the best customer services voices I've ever heard, even in dealing with difficult situations. Emily was quickly placed into a position of Training Officer (CTO) and has very recently promoted to a Lead Operator position (Leadership/Supervisory Group). Emily was recommended by our department to be a part of a City Of Plano "Every Job Has a Purpose" video series. She willingly took on the task and did a great job in the video. Emily understands the importance and relevance of her role, and can be counted on to do it with integrity. She is one of those individuals who gets along with everybody, and while she is not naive, she truly sees the best in those around her. Emily is a breath of fresh air that people are drawn to for her positive nature and upbeat personality, and we're lucky to have her in Plano.

Emily and Dana each spoke about the importance and love of the job and service to the community.

General discussion and questions for both Emily and Dana followed. David Kinsey, Chapter President, virtually presented Medal and Certificate to Emily and advised they would be mailed to Emily. The McKinney Chapter thanked her for her service.
