

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the accounting cycle. It outlines the ten steps involved in the process, from identifying the accounting entity to preparing financial statements. Each step is explained in detail, with examples provided to illustrate the concepts.

The third part of the document discusses the various types of accounts used in accounting. It categorizes them into assets, liabilities, equity, revenue, and expense accounts. It also explains how these accounts are used to record and summarize the financial activities of a business.

The fourth part of the document covers the process of adjusting entries. It explains why adjustments are necessary and how they are recorded. It provides examples of common adjusting entries, such as depreciation, amortization, and accruals.

The fifth part of the document discusses the preparation of financial statements. It outlines the steps involved in preparing the balance sheet, income statement, and statement of owner's equity. It also explains how these statements are used to evaluate the financial performance of a business.

The sixth part of the document covers the process of closing the books. It explains how the temporary accounts are closed to the permanent accounts and how the closing entries are recorded. It provides examples of closing entries for each type of account.

The seventh part of the document discusses the importance of internal controls. It explains how internal controls help to prevent errors and fraud, and how they are used to ensure the accuracy and reliability of the financial information.

The eighth part of the document covers the process of auditing. It explains the role of an auditor and how an audit is conducted. It also discusses the different types of audits and the importance of an independent audit.

The ninth part of the document discusses the various types of taxes that a business may be required to pay. It explains how taxes are calculated and how they are reported to the tax authorities. It also provides information on the various tax deductions and credits that are available to businesses.

The tenth part of the document covers the process of budgeting. It explains how a budget is developed and how it is used to plan and control the financial activities of a business. It also discusses the importance of monitoring and evaluating the budget.

Dallas/Fort...Worth the trip

By Helen & John Blaker
The Texas Metroplex comprising 27 northern Texas cities, boasts the hottest arts, cultural and heritage-oriented attractions in the Lone Star State.

Fort Worth is cited as "Where the West Begins." It is no longer just cowboy country: Downtown contrasts are rich in history between fanciful tales of the Old West to high rises of glass and steel, plus a modern entertainment district. A virtual renaissance began in the 1980's with major corporation headquarters, theaters, hotels and restaurants and shopping malls and public parks proliferating.

Would you believe the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport has the most acreage in the country, with each city an even 15 miles apart and Irving midway between? The Chisholm Trail began here, and later cattle pens extended nearly a mile, being shipped by train to Kansas packing plants, so Fort Worth became known as the "Richest Little Town in the world."

One can explore the area starting in Denton, a charming small town of 70,000, about a half-hour from Ft. Worth, brimming with nostalgia. Historic curator, Bob Montgomery, conducts visitors through its unique 100-year-old County Courthouse. The limestone walls have traces of oyster shells indicating how the terrain must have been undersea eons ago. The town's namesake, Methodist minister John Denton, is buried on the side lawn.

Denton is abrim with local artists, among them the Longhorn Gallery with its western theme displaying numerous Texan artists' works. The Center for the Visual Arts and Meadows Gallery are also awe inspiring, as are the Square Works, or the Austin Street Gallery.

Take a break for lunch at Guiseppe's Restaurant to experience great Italian cuisine at reasonable costs. Then, be sure to tour the Campus Theatre, a renovated 1940's movie house, now producing live shows from Broadway.

Denton is a popular university town, hosting the University of North Texas and Texas Woman's University. At the latter one can view the gowns of the First Ladies of Texas arranged by the local DAR ladies. There is also a fine library of interest to women.

Nearby, stop at the Little Chapel in the Woods, where former Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw was married to ice skater Jo Jo Starbuck. Incidentally, the library has a great collection and Women Air Service Pilots exhibit.

In Fort Worth we recommend you stay at the luxurious Worthington Hotel, located in historic downtown Sundance Square. Boasting over 500 guest rooms, it houses four restaurants, 24-hour room service, plus fitness center and indoor pool. It connects to Sundance Square which has thousands of twinkling lights lining red brick streets in the picturesque entertainment and shopping district.

Fort Worth's cultural district is fascinating. The IMAX Theatre's giant screen was showing a movie on climbing Mount Everest. We enjoyed a dandy buffet lunch at the Kimbell Art Museum, followed by an auto tour through the famed Stockyards National Historic District, the largest in the country, where they still have live rodeos and western-style shows. Take pictures of the life-size Will Rogers statue in front of the Cowtown Coliseum. The Will Rogers memorial center is the focal point of the Cultural District. The city's most-attended event is held here each year. Over a 17-day period 800,000 visitors attend in Jan./Feb.

During the afternoon we toured the Bass Performance Hall, costing 67 million, with 2,056 seats seeing backstage behind the scenes with staff. That evening we caught the sold-out performances of "Red and White Tuna," a hilarious farce performed by its creators. Earlier we had enjoyed a gourmet Texas steak dinner at the Reata (meaning rope in Spanish) with a breathtaking view from high up on the 32nd floor. All located in beautiful Sundance Square.

The next day, in Grapevine, Tarrant County's oldest settlement, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, we enjoyed lunch at popular Espanza's feasting on typical Texas goodies. Strolling the Art Walk, one can explore 70 beautifully restored buildings, transformed into unique shops and antique stores. It is said the bank was once held up by desperadoes, Bonnie and Clyde. The Grapevine Heritage Center is home to artisans who create arts and crafts. Maybe the blacksmith will mold you a tiny heart or horseshoe. Ride the Tarrantula Train, an 1896 steam locomotive, linking Fort Worth with Grapevine's historic district. A Delaney Vineyards wine tasting made a thirst-quenching stop, sampling luscious wine varieties.

In delightful Irving, a tour of their Arts Center is a real treat for the eyes, featuring contemporary and traditional works adequate enough to keep you culturally intrigued for hours.

Not far off is Irving's Las Colinas Urban Center, where nine larger-than-life bronze mustangs gallop across a granite screen. You have to see 'em to believe 'em. It took seven years to create this unique art, by African Wildlife Artist Robert Glen. A photographer's dream!

joyed at the Four Seasons Resort and Club's Wine Room after the opportunity to change in their Spa and observe deluxe suites overlooking the golf course, where the PGA Bryon Nelson Classic is held every spring.

The next day we checked out of the Worthington Hotel, heading for breakfast at Arlington's Coffee Haus, famed for fat waffles topped with fresh fruit plus freshly brewed flavored coffees.

Be sure to tour the home of the American League Texas Rangers baseball team, Museum and Children's Learning Center. Philly Mike Schmidt's uniform, hat and glove are among the displays with many other stars. Built in 1994 with real grass and great drainage, in summer is needed to be watered six times daily because it drains so quickly, so is definitely easier on the ballplayers' legs.

Across the street lunch at Humperdink Big Microbrewery with seven samples of beer, and consume samples of Texas Tex-Mex delicacies and seafood trays.

Editor's Note: Next week, the Blaker's column will continue with their fun in Dallas and a side trip to Ennis, (a bit of Czechoslovakia in Texas).

Jefferson Sleep Center looking for insomniacs

A study to determine if a new medication works in putting patients back to sleep following nighttime awakening, and in avoiding unwanted daytime sedation, is currently underway at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital's Sleep Disorders Center in Philadelphia.

The investigational drug Zaleplon is in the final stage of review by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. The medication promises to have fewer side effects than existing sleep medications, and researchers believe that it will be much less likely to cause next-day drowsiness and impair next-day performance than available medications, said Sleep Disorders Center Director Karl Doghranji, M.D., associate professor of Psychiatry and Human Behavior, Jefferson Medical College of Thomas Jefferson University. Dr. Doghranji and assistant center director Sharon Schutte, M.D., instructor in Psychiatry and Human Behavior, Jefferson, are co-investigators of the study.

"The safety and effectiveness trials have been done. We know that it works well and that it is a safe medication," Dr. Doghranji said. "What we want to find out is, if you take it in the early morning hours, are there any residual effects on your daytime performance?"

The effects of Zaleplon last for a short period of time, two to three hours, while currently available sleep drugs last five to eight hours, Dr. Doghranji said. This means the new medication can be taken more than once during the night if sleeping problems persist, he noted.

In addition, because Zaleplon lasts for a shorter period than other medications, it does not produce the side effects other drugs do including next-day grogginess.

"So just think about the potential uses," Jefferson's sleep specialist said. "If you wake up in the middle of the night and take this sleeping pill, you can wake up at 7 a.m. and have no residual effects. You may take it during the night as needed."

Previous studies on the investigational drug also indicated that patients do not build up a tolerance to the medication, Dr. Doghranji said.

Zaleplon, however, can produce minor side effects in some patients including daytime sedation for short periods.

The clinical program will involve nine patients and last approximately eight months to one year. Ideal volunteers for the study will be men and nonpregnant women, age 18 to 65 or older, who have maintenance insomnia, who wake up frequently during the night, but do not have any major medical problems.

Participation is free and voluntary, and volunteers will be required to be screened for other sleeping problems, and to complete a blood test and physical examination performed by Jefferson staff. Volunteers selected for the study will come to the sleep center lab for a total of six nights over the course of three to four weeks.

The Sleep Disorders Center, which is accredited by the American Sleep Disorders Association, is engaged in the diagnosis and treatment of sleep disorders - most commonly, sleep apnea syndromes, insomnia and narcolepsy. Excessive daytime sleepiness, a history of snoring, weight gain or obesity or respiratory pauses observed by others are signs of possible apnea. Patients with these warning signs should be referred for a sleep evaluation. Excessive daytime sleepiness is also a primary symptom of narcolepsy. This can be diagnosed by a sleep laboratory study and is usually treated effectively.

Common sleep treatments include changes of the sleep/wake schedule, medication, relaxation techniques, counseling or the use of special breathing devices.

To see if you are eligible for the clinical program, or to obtain more information about Jefferson's Sleep Disorders Center, please call 215-955-6084 and ask for the sleep study coordinator.

Howdy!

The following is the list of writers who signed up for the June Arts, Culture and Heritage Press Tour, as well as a copy of the confirmation letter which was mailed yesterday. Currently, we have 13 writers on the tour. Shirley Fong-Torres already dropped out, and we can probably expect 2-3 more to do the same, which would give us a tour comprised of approximately 10 writers.

Please remember to bring press material relating to this specific tour to the June 9 media committee meeting so Margie will have adequate time to put press kits together; feel free to send additional material on your city or attraction(s) directly to the journalists at any time. If you have any questions or concerns prior to June 9, please don't hesitate to call. Thanks for your help!

Regards,

Dear Nancy:

Thank you for your interest in the Dallas/Fort Worth area! We're looking forward to seeing you June 25-28 for a cool press tour of "The Texas Metroplex's" hottest arts, cultural and heritage-oriented attractions.

As you probably already know from the itinerary, it's going to be a full tour. The best advice we can give you is the same advice we give to ourselves: Rest up now and start taking your vitamins! We also ask at this point that you stay committed to the tour and its specific itinerary. We're certain you can appreciate that in many cases only a limited number of tickets were available or tickets had to be purchased; therefore, we are unable to accommodate people wishing to change the itinerary once they have arrived for the tour.

Margie Ranc, executive director of the Dallas/Fort Worth Area Tourism Council (D/FWATC), will be in touch with you very soon to coordinate your travel arrangements. Please be sure to let Margie know if you have any special dietary requests or needs so she may accommodate you wherever possible. And if you have some health concerns, please let us know ahead of time so we may be prepared should any emergency arise.

As a reminder, the tour is complimentary to members of the working media. This means airfare, hotel, meals, attractions admissions, ground transportation, etc. We will not issue your airline ticket until about two weeks before the tour, to accommodate any last-minute cancellations. Although all writers receive complimentary airline tickets for this tour, most of these tickets will not be complimentary to us, and therefore, most will be non-refundable. Because of this, we ask that once you finalize your flight arrangements and we have purchased your ticket, you must attend. If you cancel after the ticket has been purchased, you will need to reimburse D/FWATC for the price of the ticket.

All freelance writers need to let us know if you have garnered an assignment from a publication, and we must have clips from articles you have published within the last two years. Our airline contacts (that work with us on rates) prefer writers have assignments before issuing tickets, but they will accept current tearsheets. If you have not already submitted any tearsheets, please do so immediately. Feel free to call me at 800/247-8464 or Margie at 817/329-2438 with any questions whatsoever.

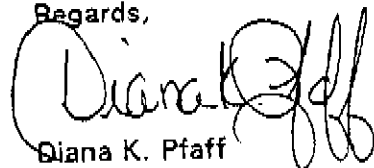

Lastly, you'll want to bring cool, casual clothing and comfortable walking shoes for daytime activities; business attire is more appropriate for evening events. You'll have ample time to change and freshen up each evening.

Listed below is accommodation information during your stay. If you are participating in a pre- or post-tour, all relevant information will be sent to you by the host city prior to your departure. If for some reason you're no longer able to participate in this tour, please give me a call immediately; we have a rather long wait list.

Thank you again for your interest, and we look forward to seeing you soon!

Regards,

The Collection

The pioneer spirit of frontier Texas...the graceful lifestyle of the antebellum South...the robust growth of the Lone Star State from wagon trains to railroads to space ships...the aura of special occasions at the White House...the election of the first woman governor of Texas.

These historic periods are represented in the authentic Collection of Gowns of the First Ladies of Texas on display at Texas Woman's University.

This collection, the only one in existence, includes either the actual garments or faithful copies of the gowns worn by the wives of the governors of Texas and presidents of the Republic of Texas. In addition, the collection includes dresses worn at formal events at the White House by the wives of two presidents of the United States and the wife of a vice president of the United States.

The collection was created by the late Dr. Marion Day Mullins, a noted genealogist, historian, club woman and civic leader. It was assembled by the Texas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution during Dr. Mullins' two-year term as State Regent of the organization. In 1940, she presented the collection to TWU on behalf of the DAR.

A life-size wax figure of Dr. Mullins has been placed in a separate case at the entrance to the museum as a memorial to her service to the DAR and the State of Texas, and her commitment to education and this collection of gowns.

Many thousands have visited the collection, and it is frequently used as a teaching and study resource for TWU students and faculty, public school classes and other groups interested in the authentic garments or copies of gowns worn by outstanding women since the founding of the Republic of Texas in 1836.

Accessions

The collection has grown steadily because of the generosity of individuals who have donated and lent items and funds to it. Since it was installed in 1940, relatives and descendants of presidents and governors, friends of TWU and members of the state DAR at large, and especially the Denton and Fort Worth Chapters, have both enlarged and updated the collection.

Location

The collection is located on the ground floor of the Human Development Building on the TWU campus in Denton. Handicap access is available. Please call for information.

Admission and Hours

Visitors are admitted free of charge. The collection is open by appointment only. Call 898-3201 for appointments.

Meetings, Tours and Information

Clubs, special groups or public school classes may have guided tours of the collection and hold meetings within the area. To make special arrangements in advance or for additional information about the collection, please contact: Office of the President Texas Woman's University P.O. Box 23925 Denton, Texas 76204-1925 817/898-3201.

The University

Texas Woman's University is a comprehensive public university, primarily for women, offering baccalaureate, master's and doctoral degree programs through eight schools and colleges. A teaching and research institution, the university emphasizes the liberal arts and specialized or professional studies.

Established by the Texas Legislature in 1901, TWU is the largest university for women in the United States. Enrollment is more than 9,400 students; of these, 93 percent are women and 53 percent are undergraduates. The university's 270-acre main campus is located in Denton, (pop. 66,270), just 35 miles north of Dallas and Fort Worth—the nation's eighth largest urban center.

The university also has clinical centers in Dallas (near Parkland and Presbyterian hospitals) and in Houston, within the Texas Medical Center complex. Both centers offer upper level (junior and senior year) and graduate studies in the health sciences.

TWU library holdings total 766,394 volumes, 3,296 current periodical and serial publications, 501,649 microforms, and 7,004 audiovisual materials which support all major areas of study at the university. Special resources include the Woman's Collection, the largest depository in the South and Southwest of research material about women and one of only three major collections of its kind in the United States. The Blagg-Huey Library on the Denton campus also is the location of the "Texas Women: A Celebration of History" exhibit.

We strive to know and have a personal relationship with as many of the artists as possible. It makes the work come alive when you know and work with these people on a regular basis. It is meaningful to the collector if we can relate some of the character of the artist, beyond what would be written in a biography. We are convinced that such an effort is not only fun for us, but sets Longhorn Gallery apart.

Come see what treasures await you at Longhorn Gallery. You'll be surprised!

*Bob and Bette Sherman,

LONGHORN GALLERY
101 NORTH ELM
On the historical square in
DENTON, TEXAS 76201
(817) 484-8778

You are welcome guests of the Longhorn Gallery. As you enter, all of your senses are engaged. You will listen to quiet music, smell the pine and cedar of the campfire, and be encouraged to experience all of the artwork.

Our vision for the gallery is to bring the finest western art by established and emerging artists, similar to that found in Santa Fe and Scottsdale, to the Dallas/Ft. Worth metropolis.

We have found Denton, Texas to be the ideal place to start such an enterprise. The home of University of North Texas and Texas Woman's University, Denton has a rich tradition of appreciation and support of the fine arts. A city where artistic talent is the norm rather than the exception...where the birth of a new gallery evokes universal enthusiasm.

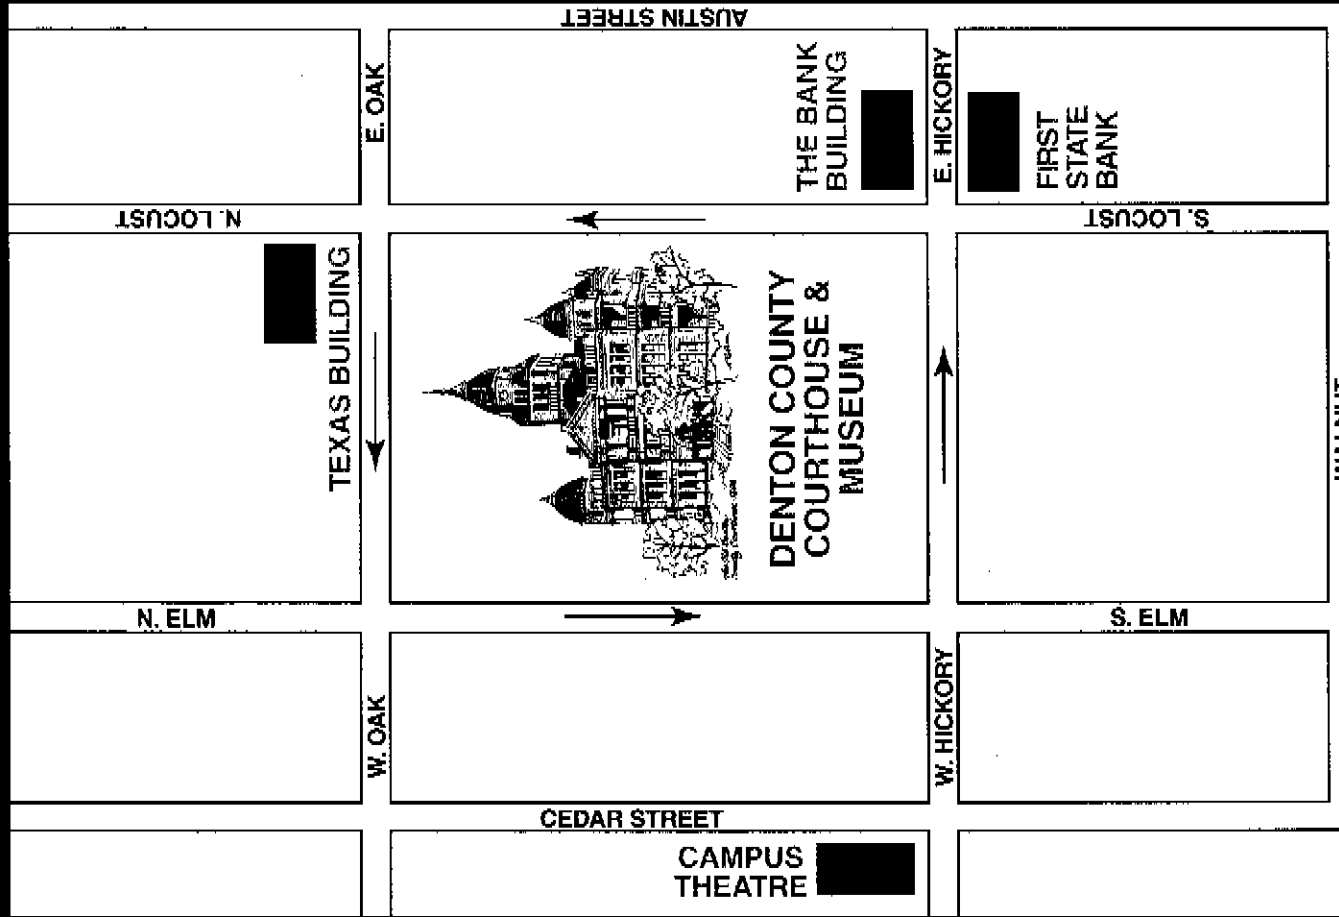

We have designed a beautiful building on the famous courthouse square reminiscent of the turn of the century. Built specifically to house the Longhorn Gallery, it is itself on an historically designated site. It will become a landmark building in the years that follow.

We delight in showing the work of different artists who utilize a broad spectrum of media. We are excited to have traditional oil and bronze, found most frequently in a gallery of fine art, along with exquisite hand-etched crystal, semi-precious stone and silver jewelry, and authentically created artifacts. To add to this western flavor, all works are displayed using hand-crafted furniture and antiques.

Square's future bright

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

What is the future of Denton's Square? No one has a crystal ball. But the Main Street organization states it has a "growing" future.

With the Square's occupancy rate at an average of 98 percent and many businesses squeezing into the side streets and back streets around the square, Main Street is optimistic.

The Square area, including linkage corridors, is bounded by Locust Street from University Boulevard to Carroll Boulevard and from Carroll to Bell Street.

The May House on Oak Street is generally accepted as part of the area. Businesses on Carroll Boulevard also are included.

The greater Square area is diverse in businesses.

Restaurants in the area include: Andy's Bar & Grill, Sweetwater Bar & Tavern, Cupboard Natural Foods, Homestead, Good Earth Cafe, Mr. Gatti's Pizza, Locust Street Grill, Dan's Bar, Mercado Juarez, Ruby's Diner, Rama's Courtyard Cafe and Enrique's.

Art galleries include the Longhorn Gallery, Austin Street Gallery, Martha Wahler Gallery, Square Works and Art Alley.

Antiques stores include Off-the-Square Antiques, Kara Kristine Antique Gallery, The Courthouse Collection and Evers Hardware.

Many unique stores in the

DENTON RECORD-CHRONICLE/BARRON LUDLUM
Good Earth Cafe offers varied menu for downtown visitors.

Square area include Sleeping Lizard, Fantasia, Shore & Co., Furniture Works, The Candy Store, Olufsen's, United Holland, Wood House, Jake's Turn Around, Lloyd's Embroidery and Hickory Street Fish Market.

When looking to the future of Denton's Square, it is important to see that new businesses are being planned.

The Greenhouse Restaurant will open soon at the corner of Locust and Congress. The Texican Grill also is scheduled to open in the Square area. King Richard's Cat is moving one block east of the Square on Hickory from its location on North Elm.

Many buildings have been renovated, including the Texas Building, James Kirkpatrick's office in the old bank drive-through and the Cupboard.

There are alternative uses for old buildings, such as Sleeping Lizard's reincarnation from an old drive-in restaurant to a jewelry and unique gift store.

With the city's new streetscape plans for the Square and arts corridor, there is no question of the investment in the area.

By June, the Main Street organization hopes to have a designation for National Trust Registration for the downtown area.

It would be the first National Registry area in Denton.

"Part of it is just recognition," said Denisha Williams, Main Street coordinator, "but it will enable us to put up more signage on the highway pointing to downtown."

Wright Opera House's praises sung

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

As the 21st century begins to hum through our lives, Georgia and Robert "Bob" Caraway have been uncovering history covered by plaster and abandoned years ago.

The Wright Opera House was built in 1903, while the 19th century was still a fresh memory.

Recently, the Caraways purchased the building on the northwest corner of the Square and have started renovating the upstairs portion, which was home to the old Wright Opera House. Downstairs, where Recycled Books and Records now operates, a dry goods store was located.

The Caraways plan to build their own apartment, plus others to rent. There are more than 7,000 square feet in the upstairs portion. Mr. Caraway is an attorney and has his office in the building.

"There's not much left of the Opera House but floors and shadows," said Ms. Caraway, who is owner of Texas Institute of Antiques & Collectibles and partner with Karen Dawkins in TIAC-Estate Liquidation. Ms. Caraway also writes articles on antiques, which run in the Denton Record-Chronicle.

While Ms. Caraway sings the praises of her future apartment, the building has revealed a few secrets from its past. A sign that hung back stage at the Opera House reads: "Please Do Not Smoke On the Stage After 5:30 p.m."

"We'll preserve this small sign that was plastered into the wall. And we've noticed that the planks on the floor change to wide boards where the stage was," Ms. Caraway said.

While ceilings had been dropped during previous renovations, the Caraways have had them removed to find 18-foot ceilings and beaded boards. The ceilings are tall enough that some of the apartments may feature lofts. The floors are all pine and will be preserved.

When the building still housed the Opera House, the stairs (from the sidewalk) led to the lobby area. The balcony was probably at the same level where the ceilings were dropped in. About 1935, walls were built to divide the space into offices. The wood frames still stand. Many of the doors are still useable.

"We'll keep doors and preserve as much history as possible," she said.

When the plaster was stripped off the walls, the 1877 brick was exposed. "Mr. Wright bought the brick that had been used in the courthouse. The courthouse had been struck by lightning, so he bought the brick and built the Opera House," she explained.

All the apartments will have exposed brick walls. That will be "one of the highlights of the space," she said. The building may have been built in two parts, because the Caraways have found that W.C. Wright, who originally constructed the Opera House, bought the property at two different times.

This may help explain why the second story is missing from the most western half of the building. "We think during the 1960s, something happened to lose the second story," Ms. Caraway said. "But we don't know what."

Another curious revelation is that at one time, the eastern edge of the upstairs had windows, which were later bricked in. It is puzzling to the Caraways, because there was supposedly another building on the other side.

The 1930s walls outline the boundaries of the apartments.

"Mr. Martin Cornbaltt bought the western side of building in 1935 and renovated it into offices," Ms. Caraway said. Later, in the 1960s, he bought the eastern side, which had housed a commercial club, which is now known as the Chamber of Commerce, and then a dance club."

The Caraway's dwelling will be a generous two-bedroom apartment overlooking the Square. And though renovations might remove the shadows and outlines of the old opera stage, Ms. Caraway has promised to paint the shadows back into the space to preserve that portion of the history.

The pair are in the process of applying for historical designation.

Redbud, Magnolia inns offer style

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

When John and Donna Morris bought the house that they turned into Redbud Inn in 1991, it was a culmination of several years of decisions and planning.

"Owning a bed and breakfast was not in our live's dream. We thought we'd buy an old house and fix it up, but then we went to England and stayed in a bed and breakfast," said Ms. Morris.

"The Morrisses of the Redbud and Magnolia inns took derelict houses and gave them life they wouldn't have had otherwise," said Mike Cochran, a Denton city councilman and history buff.

These two houses have passed approval by the Denton Landmark Commission and zoning board for historical markers. The Morrisses must still go before the City Council.

After their trip, they decided that if they ever bought an old house, it would be to operate a bed and breakfast. They began collecting items, such as antique furniture, decorative items and pictures. When their garage filled up, they decided it was time to buy.

The Redbud Inn opened in 1993.

"We bought the Redbud house and worked on it for about a year before we moved in. Then we worked another six months before we could open as Redbud Inn," said Ms. Morris.

"We just came in and tore it apart. We had new wiring and plumbing put in. When we came back in and hung the doors, we had 22 left over. Older homes had many cubby holes."

The is also the couple's home. It was originally built in 1912 as a one-story house. The second story was added in 1922.

"John and I did a lot of work together. But one thing we don't do is wallpaper together," she joked. "It's for the sake of our marriage. I do it!"

In 1995, "we lost our minds again," said Ms. Morris. "We bought the house next door," which is now the Magnolia Inn. Work began in May 1995 and Magnolia rooms were rented by Dec. 31. The restaurant opened in November 1996.

While the Magnolia Inn is the oldest, built in 1902, it took less time to renovate.

"It looked worse on the outside, but the inside was in better shape," she said. In the 1950s, the inn served as a dentist office and home.

Nearly all of the houses' furnishings are antiques.

"John is the greatest scrounger in the world. He traveled with B.F. Goodrich and he'd come home with all sorts of finds, such as wash basins, chandeliers and a wash stand that looked more like a box of wood.

"We got a lot from auctions,

DENTON RECORD-CHRONICLE/HARRON LUDLUM

The Redbud Inn offers a unique bed-and-breakfast experience for guests.

and some were family pieces. The banisters (in the Redbud Inn) came from the First United Methodist Church," Ms. Morris said. "The stained glass window (in the Magnolia Inn) also came from there during their remodeling."

The fence around the Magnolia Inn came from an old cemetery. Redbud and Magnolia inns are the only bed-and-breakfast facilities in Denton that accept children.

The house has many old family photos decorating the walls. The names of the rooms aren't "cutsie" but refer to the furnishings.

There are private baths in each room. Ms. Morris said that they had to get a bit creative in their plumbing to achieve this. The Magnolia Inn luxury suites feature Murphy beds and larger rooms. The downstairs portion of the house is operated as Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant.

The Redbud and Magnolia inns also accept weddings and receptions. Each has a gazebo and an old-fashioned back porch.

Longhorn Gallery lends historic feel

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

The Longhorn Gallery, the newest building on the Square, adds historic flavor to offset its newness.

The Longhorn Gallery and courtyard have replaced historic buildings that burned. Owners Bob and Bette Sherman were surprised by the number of people who say how glad they are to see the gallery on the Square's southwest corner.

"There's a lot of emotion about the Square," said Ms. Sherman.

"The fire put a scar on the psyche of the community," said Mr. Sherman. But when we started building the gallery, "it became a community project."

Mr. Sherman, a Denton native, said, "As long as I was growing up, the Square was the center of commerce. Even Denton Center wasn't there when I was a youngster."

When he returned with Bette, Main Street was actively working to revitalize the Square. The couple had looked at courthouses and squares in other cities, but they liked Denton's the best.

"We were taken with the beauty of the Square," said Ms. Sherman. "Also, we had an opportunity to build what we needed for our business."

When the Shermans originally bought their lots, someone else owned the two lots where the courtyard sits today. However, the owner changed his

'We were taken with the beauty of the Square. Also, we had an opportunity to build what we needed for our business.'

Bette Sherman,
gallery co-owner

mind about his plans for the lots and sold them to Mr. Sherman's father.

This allowed the Shermans to build the courtyard.

"People rent the gallery for functions and use the courtyard," said Ms. Sherman. "We've had artists and musicians use the space."

"I'm just thrilled to see people sitting on the benches. And people throw pennies into the fountain. Periodically, we clean it out and donate the money to the Denton Human Society."

The Shermans are strong supporters of Main Street. And they speak highly of how Main Street and the city work together to help business get started.

"They (senior staff at the city) actually made things happen rather than stand in the way," said Mr. Sherman. "They were wonderfully responsive to us as private people putting in a building. And the work done along the perimeter common areas (sidewalks and landscaping) is all the city's."

The Longhorn Gallery has a western theme and displays numerous Texas artists. Collectors may "reserve" numbered editions on selected artists.

Along with attractive prints and original paintings, the gallery carries crystal, jewelry, pottery, gourds, music, incense, books, decorative frames, greeting cards, a wide variety of flat art, bronze sculptures, welded wire sculptures, posters and other items.

The Shermans put a complete framing store within their gallery.

"Custom framing is a very important part of the gallery and the comprehensive services offered customers," Ms. Sherman said. "Our goal is to provide gallery clients with fine art to purchase, and also offer preservation and display alternatives."

The Longhorn Gallery periodically sponsors art shows and sales. The business also offers a consulting service that includes going to a client's home or office to make recommendations on art displays or framing, as well as arranging art shows for special occasions.

Civic Center Park features a varied landscape to please visitors.

Jewels in the rough

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

The Civic Center Park is one of Denton's "crown jewels," said Ed Hodney, director of parks and recreation for the city.

This jewel is being redefined and made more beautiful, and the idea behind the park is being extended to include the Square and what some are calling the "arts corridor." The projects have been "borne out of the Vision for Denton Committee," said Mr. Hodney.

The parks' history reflects a site where the former Quaker Town community was in 1926. By the 1960s, however, the park had become the seat of municipal government and included City Hall, the Civic Center Building, Emily Fowler Library and the swimming pool.

The park and its features have remained essentially unchanged since 1968. Perhaps that is why, in 1996, the City Council allocated $40,000 to develop a new master plan for the area.

The city hired the Ford, Powell, Carson Inc. architectural firm for the work. The San Antonio firm, led by architect, Boone Powell, helped develop three plans.

The three proposals were publicly discussed, and the decision recently was made to go with what was termed the "Lake Scheme."

Not everything in the original plan will be done exactly as it was proposed, but "it is about 90 percent in keeping with the proposed Lake Scheme," said Mr. Hodney.

This plan would add a lake created by a dam constructed at the park's eastern edge.

"One of the most significant changes to the park area would be acquisition and demolition of the two-story building (old county jail) between City Hall and the Civic Center. It frees up space for parking and staging events, such as the Arts and Jazz Festival," he said.

While Oakland Street is now a four lanes, the plan would reduce it to two lanes, using the additional space for parking.

Other improvements would add footpaths and walks, including a perimeter walk around the park. Other perimeter walks might be added around large spaces "to define the open spaces better," he said.

The garden between the Civic Center and City Hall would also be changed, creating a more formal garden, possibly even a pond.

The tennis courts would be removed and not reinstalled. The amphitheater would be relocated between the senior center and the swimming pool, which should make audience viewing for the amphitheater more defined, Hodney explained.

In addition, the Downtown Improvement Committee has set out on a year-long project to transform the Square into a beautiful park-like area. The makeover will resemble the improvements put in during the building of the Longhorn Gallery.

The Hickory Street side of the gallery has large pots, with trees, plants and a bricked-in area surrounding the parking. This streetscape idea will be extended around the Square, adding antique-looking benches and light poles, trees and shrubs.

The streets themselves will undergo some improvements, with the Denton North Star design embedded into the four corners of the Square. The North Star design was selected for the entryway markers and will soon be erected.

Plans for the arts corridor will extend the park-like atmosphere of the Square to tie the arts areas together through landscaping and wider sidewalks. Improvements on the Hickory Street side of the Square would simply extend down the street and continue down to Bell Avenue and the Center for the Visual Arts.

While the main monies will be spent on the Square, it is hoped that the bond money will stretch to cover all makeovers.

The Diesel Power Plant at the corner of Hickory and Bell streets has been included in the improvement plans.

The plan has been to set aside $85,000 from the $700,000 Square and arts corridor bond package for the plant, Hodney said. Before the money is spent, however, "We may need to find a use for it before we put a back on it that might have to be torn down later."

The money will still be avail-

Eclectic gifts purveyed

The Courthouse Collection started its sixth year last August. Located at 111 W. Hickory St. on the south side of the Square, the store is filled with gift items.

"I grew up around the Square," said owner Karen Wilson. "And after looking at strip centers, I knew what I wanted to do wouldn't work in a strip center. I also knew I didn't want to be at a mall."

The Courthouse Collection offers a variety of gifts, collectibles and some antiques. While antiques are not the store's strongest items, it carries many items that are unusual and that you couldn't find in a chain store.

Ms. Wilson describes her store as "very eclectic."

Books, heritage lace and a complete room of stuffed animals are some of the fun things to browse through to find gifts or add to a collection. The store carries the entire line of Boyd's Bears, including folkstones, dollstones and shoebox bears.

They are also the largest dealer of Fenton art glass. You can find the entire Lady Primrose bath line in the store. Other name brands include: Buyer's Choice, Cherished Teddies, Beanie Babies, Plush Times, Cat's Meow, Rowe and Dedham pottery, and Medallias.

The store specializes in sterling silver jewelry. It also carries Yankee and Trapp candles.

"I also have some clothing," Ms. Wilson pointed out. But the selections are more unique than in a traditional clothing store.

Square living a unique alternative

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

"Just about everything you need is on the Square," said Carol Collins of Carol's Custom Draperies Etc. and a resident of the Square.

There are restaurants, shopping, a drug store, entertainment and places to walk, she pointed out. The Civic Center Park is close, and the Courthouse lawn gives the feel of a park. The library is in easy walking distance, and, of course, there is always Recycled Books and Records. Groceries are available at the Cupboard.

Entertainment can be found at the Campus Theatre and in the many events that happen on the Square.

There isn't a stereotype for living on the Square. People of all ages, and families live there.

"It would be nice to have a backyard for Constance to play in," said Cynthia Savino, who lives with her husband, Christopher, and daughter in the building behind and above Savino's, a guitar and musical instrument shop. Christopher is a luthier and worked out of their home before they bought their building and moved to the Square.

Ms. Savino said the guitar shop is on the first level, along with the Savino's kitchen. The living room, bathroom, Cynthia's dance studio, which doubles as their bedroom, and Constance's bedroom are all on the second level.

"There are no closets, so we use antique wardrobes," she said.

The building was built in the mid- to-late 19th century and when Mr. Savino removed all the plaster from their second level wall that covered the old bricks, they found a large mural advertisement for the Union Pacific Railroad's "Reclining Chair Car" service to New Orleans, Ms. Savino pointed out.

"It's a very interesting piece of history. That wall is also all that remains of the building that was the original site of the University of North Texas.

"The biggest drawback to living behind a store is that it is not a very private place to live," Ms. Savino said. "But we are very social people. Besides, on the weekends and evenings when we want privacy, we close the shop and turn off the phone."

On the other hand, Mrs. Savino said, living on the Square offers a "sense of community, the beauty of the courthouse, and the historic interest of the buildings. We love taking a leisurely breakfast at Ruby's Diner. We stroll among the beautifully lighted trees on the courthouse lawn. We make a wish in the Longhorn Gallery's fountain."

As a dancer, Ms. Savino performs or directs at the Campus

Theatre for her company, Walk, Run, Jump, and, most recently, for The Denton Civic Ballet Inc. for which she was named artistic director in January.

"We feel we have truly found our niche in Denton life, living on the Square," she said.

Moving to the Square from a house made it a bit more tough for the Collinses.

Getting used to not having a yard or a garage required some adjustments. They had owned a house while raising their children and sold it before buying the building where Carol's drapery store sits.

Now that they're living on the Square, Ms. Collins said, "I don't miss it (a yard) that much, because I see the Courthouse lawn."

Their living room looks out over the north lawn of the Courthouse.

"Next year, I plan to have a roof garden," she added. "I love the downtown area. Main Street has done a marvelous job in revitalization," Ms. Collins said. "We just didn't need a big house anymore. We had never lived in an apartment before, but we have almost 2,000 square feet. There are a number of people who live down here."

DENTON RECORD-CHRONICLE/NABIL MARI

Area around courthouse offers unique environment.

Ms. Collins likes the fact that she only needs to go down stairs to get to work.

"Not having a garage we've had to get used to, but parking has not been a problem. I'm in and out all day. There are free spaces on the street behind,"

she said. The biggest disadvantage, she said, is in "owning a dog and leaving for the day."

Dan Martin, a high school teacher in Lewisville, rents an apartment in the Scripture Building over the Boyd law offices.

Evers Hardware: Building history

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

History sometimes is held together by nuts, bolts and other fasteners. For 113 years, Evers Hardware has provided essential and unusual goods to the entire community.

The hardware store has been in the family for a longtime, said Celia Reid, whose father owned Evers before she and her husband, Mike, took it over. Most Dentonites would agree that the Square without Evers just wouldn't be the same.

Stores on the Square have come and gone, but Evers has remained a mainstay. However, the Reids aren't shy about saying that it's been a constant struggle to keep open the doors.

There are lots of competitors; even grocery stores now sell hardware. Many people pass over the fact that Evers stocks such a wide variety of things — everything from hand tools to cookware and pottery to antique furniture.

The store originally was owned by Adolph and Robert Evers. Adolph sold his share in the business to his brother Robert and went into farming. Robert remained as the Evers' entrepreneur until his death in 1936.

At that time, Robert's three sons — Will, Marion and Dolph — took over the operations. Dolph remained at the helm until his death in 1983 when the home and store were probated to Bob Tripp, son of Dolph's sister Lula Catherine Evers Tripp, with the stipulation that he keep the store open until its 100th anniversary.

Mr. Tripp operated the store beyond its 100th year, until the daily commute from Dallas wore him down and he turned it over to his daughter, Celia and her husband, Mike.

"We're still committed to it," said Ms. Reid. "In the late 1970s before my father got it (the store), it was pretty run down. The stock had dwindled. My father spent years building it up to be a 'real hardware store.'"

Evers carries a wide range of hardware and continues to help with the hard-to-find hardware problems. And though they carry a selection of reproduction hardware, there are still some items that can't be easily fixed.

However, Evers believes in fixing anything rather than throwing it away. That's what they have been famous for all the years in business. And the

"I was hoping to find a place with character," Mr. Martin said. "So many apartments are 'cookie cutter' types. I have 12-foot ceilings, old wood paneling and the original brick wall from something like 1891.

"It is much different than living in an apartment complex," said Mr. Martin. Large windows and better construction are only two qualities that help make living on the Square a good choice. "I'm always going to restaurants. And there are all kinds of events," he said. "It's just neat!"

City guidelines help preserve historic areas

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Denton has been and continues to be a city of renovations and historical preservation. While rehabilitations started about 10 years ago with the courthouse, much has taken place since to change the face of the Square and nearby historic areas.

Property appearance guidelines for Denton assist building owners with the character-giving elements that help preserve history when they renovate older buildings or launch new construction.

The revitalization plan of Denton Main Street has sparked new design guidelines that respect the individuality of each structure.

The guidelines also inform historical building owners about suggestions and approaches and provide the Historic Landmark Commission a basis for making informed, consistent recommendations.

Properties that are designated historic landmarks are required to have a certificate of appropriateness before a building permit is issued for any exterior work. Plans for this sort of work must be submitted to the Historic Landmark Commission for review.

The guidelines are useful in such planning to avoid inappropriate rehabilitation. Voluntary submissions to the Historic Landmark Commission may make the applicant eligible for financial incentives.

Documents that may be required are current slides of the building and of its original state, and when appropriate; elevations; site plan; roof plan; materials samples; color samples; and a statement of how the project meets the city's appearance guidelines.

The guidelines will be used by the city staff when advising property owners or when making administrative reviews. The Historic Landmark Commission also will use the guidelines in considering certification or when reviewing a project for comment.

A copy of guidelines can be obtained through the Denton Main Street and the Historic Landmark Commission.

It is planning to put in more trendy items, such as old-fashioned games. The atmosphere at the old store will change with the installation of a music box that will play all the time. The Reids are hoping people will come in and stay awhile.

May House offers old-time hospitality

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Built in 1878, May House Bed and Breakfast is the oldest house in Denton.

The business is owned and operated by Mike Cochran and Linda Lavendar, who book rooms for family, friends and relatives of Dentonites, travelers and honeymooners.

Like many bed and breakfast inns throughout the world, May House offers sleeping quarters for many special occasions and visits.

The house offers such amenities as a large library for reading at leisure and numerous antiques, as well.

"It's more aesthetically pleasing than a hotel," said Mr. Cochran. "People like that way of traveling.

"It is a good way to go traveling. As bed-and-breakfast hosts, we meet lots of nice people. And it is a good way to use historic property," he said.

When people stay longer than just overnight, the May House, 609 W. Oak St., has a working kitchen that is available to guests. Each morning, a continental breakfast is served.

Recycled Books and Records offers huge selection to readers, music fans.

Store recycles culture

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Five years ago, Recycled Books and Records moved onto the Square and into the space under the Wright Opera House.

That space previously had been a dry goods store and most recently an office supply. The book store needed more space and the location offered lots of growing room.

Now, owners Don Foster and Lucy Lovely, said, "So far we're doing OK space-wise, but sections grow." The store has about 200,000 to 250,000 books, 15,000 compact discs and 10,000 record albums.

"We encourage people to stay for awhile," Mr. Foster said. "We have couches and chairs around."

It's hard for Mr. Foster to pick what are the best-selling books in his store.

"Literature, art, all the genres and religion sell well. We do well with history, anthropology and business, but they don't move as fast. But if we stuff those sections with good books, people are always looking for them."

"We sell lots of CDs. Records are still selling pretty well," he said.

The collectible market has been a good one for Recycled Books and Records. But Mr. Foster has noticed a fall-off in the $10-15 market with a bigger business in the $4-$5 range. People are often looking for unique items. And the store encourages people to call.

"We'll look for a particular title. It's always a thrill when people find a book they've been looking for for a long time. We try to be customer-friendly and help people find what they want," he said.

The store now has about 12 employees.

able for this building, but there will not be enough to finish it out.

"It's important to know," said Mr. Hodney, "that we have $100,000 to do the pedestrian bridge" in the Civic Center Park. This is scheduled to start soon and possibly be completed before the Arts and Jazz Festival in April.

There are some other monies to complete improvements in the playground area and renovate the restrooms, but most of the money to complete the large-scale Civic Center Park plans outlined in the new Master Plan "will have to come from private and corporate funds, plus future bond money," he said.

For the Square and arts corridor improvements, "we've got $700,000 to do everything," said Mr. Hodney. The Downtown Improvement Committee, which is a spinoff from the Vision Cabinet, will oversee the projects.

Arts council ties groups together

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

The Greater Denton Arts Council (GDAC) is the umbrella arts group for Denton with 20 to 30 member organizations and 700-800 individual and business contributors.

The Center for the Visual Arts (CVA) and the Campus Theatre house the arts groups. The Campus Theatre is leased to Denton Community Theatre.

GDAC provides a cultural facility, the CVA, which has two art galleries open to the public at no charge.

GDAC also "supports member organizations by providing $40,000 in grant monies to qualified organizations to do arts programming," said Herbert Holl, the organization's executive director. "We also provide some services, such as technical services and workshops to member organizations."

Many events take place at the CVA, such as the annual Children's Art Festival in August, annual art competitions, summer art camps, adult workshops and joint projects with other organizations. The CVA has craft studios, two galleries and a dance studio.

The Denton Civic Ballet offers educational classes for children and adults. These classes are taught at the CVA dance studio. Denton Celtic Dancers, Ballet Folklorico de Denton and other dance groups also use the dance room.

The Denton Light Opera Company rehearses its productions at the CVA, as do other community groups. Through the use of the building by GDAC and its member organizations, the building "easily serves 150,000 people," said Mr. Holl.

Art shows in the galleries include the "Materials Hard & Soft," which is a juried art showing. Art is submitted to GDAC and seasoned jurists make selections based on years of study and experience. This show is part of a national contemporary crafts competition.

Another art show that is derived from competition is the "On My Own Time." Local companies hold art shows for employees' work.

For more information, call GDAC at (940) 382-3787.

Carol's fashions drapes

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Carol's Custom Draperies Etc. & The Lamp Gallery is at 112 W. Oak St. in a building owned by Carol and Bill Collins.

They purchased the building in May 1996. Previously, the shop was located in the building next door. They have restored the shop area, sold their house, and now live above the store.

"When we moved in July 1996, there were things we had to do. It had been an antique shop before and had been a restaurant before that," said Ms. Collins.

Plaster had been taken off the walls, revealing old brick, but the carpet was old. Ms. Collins also built a wall between the store and her work and storage areas.

"I want to do some more work," she explained, "but nothing major."

Carol's Custom Draperies offers just about everything needed in window fashions and decorating ideas. She has a full-service decorating center and is personally involved with each client's needs from start to finish.

"I even do my own installing," she said.

The store has a myriad of fabric samples, everything is special ordered. Most selections are available in two days to two weeks.

"I have the largest selection of upholstery fabrics in the area," Ms. Collins stated. "I've got a wider range of fabrics, because if you're going to spend the money for custom draperies, you want custom fabrics. You don't want to see your fabric next door."

Carol's is a full-service shop specializing in drapes.

Whatever the client needs, the store tries to accommodate. If it's not in the store, Carol will try to find it. She said living close to Dallas is an advantage.

"I'll go to the Dallas Market Center to get what a client needs," she said.

The store offers a variety of ideas, products and colors for every window decor. It is sincere in providing the "ultimate" service, selection and satisfaction. Carol works hard to give customers prices that reflect honest values, while still providing custom workmanship that lasts.

The store guarantees complete satisfaction. You get free measuring and installation, as well as free consultation and price estimates. And the good news is, you can pick the price range that fits your budget.

The Lamp Gallery at Carol's offers a selection of brass and porcelain lamps. The store has a wide selection of lamp shades, but Ms. Collins suggests that you bring your lamp in to be fitted for an appropriate shade. Lamp shade restoration is another unique service offered.

Upholstery plays an important role in the continuity of any home decor. Fabrics and upholstery service is available. For professional, prompt service, Carol's is a friendly solution.

If you prefer, call for an in-home decorator appointment.

Hidden treasure graces courthouse

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Denton's Courthouse on the Square might be remembered as the "hanging place," with the last legal hanging in 1895.

And though there are tales about the ghosts that haunt the courthouse, there's probably more truth in the buried treasure tales.

Of course, the buried treasure was located when the courthouse was renovated about 10 years ago. No, it wasn't gold or silver. It wasn't even any of outlaw Sam Bass' bank robbery money hidden for posterity.

It was pressed tin that is now exposed in the ceiling for the first floor.

One of the complicating factors in restoring the old courthouse had been locating tin ceiling material with the original 1890s patterns.

But it was found and now it graces the courthouse ceiling.

Courthouse renovations cost more than $3 million and restored the facility to its original 1897 beauty. Now the courthouse has passed its 100th birthday.

Ten years ago, as work was being completed, the Denton Record-Chronicle predicted: "Once word gets out of the beauty of the restoration, visitors will come from near and far to see."

Today, visitors by the bus loads come to Denton's Square to see the courthouse, shop and eat.

Movies have been shot there, and the courthouse has been seen on CBS' popular "Walker, Texas Ranger" as headquarters for the Dallas-based Texas Rangers depicted in the show.

Main Street groups promote downtown

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Main Street is a nonprofit organization supported by the businesses and individuals of Denton. Its projects and concerns are primarily centered on the heart of the city: the downtown square.

Denton supports its Main Street Program, which began in 1989, by funding administrative costs. However, all promotion, advertising and events are funded by the private sector through the Main Street Association.

Denton Main Street's two staff members are coordinator Denisha Williams and promotions specialist Julie Glover.

A seven-member executive committee represents the Denton Main Street Association. This volunteer board represents merchants and interested parties in the area.

There is also a city council-appointed board of 11 members. This is the Downtown Development Advisory Board, which functions in an advisory capacity to Main Street. These two organizations meet jointly each month.

The primary goal of Denton Main Street is to develop and maintain a healthy, vital downtown by: (1) organizing the downtown into a cohesive unit that works to better the area; (2) encouraging appropriate design in the maintenance, renovation and re-use of downtown buildings; (3) sponsoring events in the central business district that include sales, concerts and festivals; and (4) aiming for full use and occupancy of downtown.

"In general," says Ms. Williams, "Main Street is very much invested with development. We do small-business recruitment. And historical preservation is closely linked with our goals, because tourism is linked with preservation." The boundaries of the Main Street district are, from north to south, both sides of Locust and Elm from University to Eagle. The western boundary is Carroll Boulevard and includes the area between Congress and Sycamore. The eastern boundary is Bell Avenue and includes the area between Withers and Oak (the Civic Center Complex). The southern boundary is the railroad tracks and the area west and to the south of Eagle.

Denton began its association with the Texas Main Street

Program in January 1990.

Now unique specialty shops, traditional downtown businesses, restaurants and offices keep the downtown lively. Main Street also has encouraged the development of 19 loft apartments on the square.

The storefront occupancy rate is 98 percent, with 55 percent of the businesses owner-operated.

Downtown has become an important economic development tool for corporate and industrial recruitment and tourism development, said Ms. Williams.

"Main Street is a part of the economic development with the city, so we work closely with those who are doing industrial recruitment," she said. "One of the main factors that individuals look for is the quality of life, and downtown is one of those items."

As Main Street and Denton look toward the 21st century, residents can look forward to more capital improvements in the downtown area.

"Right now, we're working on Walnut Street, looking to see what we can do to make it more accessible to both pedestrians and for parking cars," said Ms. Williams.

'North Star' will shine on Denton

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

The vision for Denton has given Texas a "North Star." Well, at least the signage for Denton will include a star forever shining over a stone-etched replica of the Courthouse on the Square.

Soon, residents will be seeing the marble-and-brick markers going up. This has been a realization of the "Vision for Denton — the 21st Century" strategic planning effort. Five entranceway markers are planned.

The markers are part of a larger plan to make Denton more beautiful and more visible. Other ideas include signs that will point visitors to such sights as the Center for Visual Arts, Campus Theatre, Courthouse and the downtown Square.

Among other projects proposed by the Vision program are: a pedestrian corridor from the Center for the Visual Arts to the Square, which is now being called the "Arts Corridor" project; downtown enhancements, which include street, sidewalk and landscape improvements; public art for buildings, which has been implemented; enhanced airport access and improvements; optional annual allotment for economic development; and upgrading existing parks, also implemented.

The "Vision for Denton — the 21st Century" is a broad-based, grass roots, strategic planning effort, designed to involve all residents.

The program acknowledges that residents should shape their city. It is through their actions that a city's soul takes form and then soars to new heights.

Sponsors of the visioning project include: city of Denton; Denton Chamber of Commerce, Denton Independent School District, Denton Record-Chronicle, Texas Woman's University, United Way of Denton County and University of North Texas.

For additional information about the Vision project, call (940) 566-8509.

We're proud to be a part of Denton's growth and serving the community for 20 years!

Square theater reborn

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

The Campus Theatre started life in 1949 as a state-of-the-art movie house and continued until closing in 1985.

When Denton Community Theatre directors began searching for a permanent home, it wasn't hard to convince the Greater Denton Arts Council that the Campus Theatre was a workable upgrade.

The building was purchased for $150,000. A renovation of $1.95 million dollars turned the Campus Theatre into a performing arts theater. Construction started in July 1994. The grand re-opening was in July 1995.

The site is leased by Denton Community Theater, which is the resident managing company.

DCT has seen its season subscription climb from 250 to more than 1,400.

While DCT is an integral part of the Campus, arts groups and individuals also perform in the space.

Scot Wilkinson, the Campus Theatre's executive director, said he wears many hats. "I became a full-time bookkeeper, and I've hired more technical personnel."

One of the more exciting things for performers is that the theater has received an anonymous donation to finish out the dressing rooms.

"The only thing left," quipped Mr. Wilkinson, "is a counterweight fly system, which will move scenery up out of the way. But we'll need more donations for that."

Nostalgia plays a large part in why some people come to the theater, he said.

"People want to reminisce about the time they had their first kiss or shared their first bag of popcorn. It brings back a lot of nice memories."

While the Campus Theatre is used by various arts organizations on a rental basis, the it is home to DCT. The group plans to run three musicals this summer.

In addition, other performances by the Denton Civic Ballet, Denton Light Opera Theatre, Mature Denton Pageant, Professional Black Musicians of UNT, Tejas Storyteller and the Bach Society are scheduled. Several of the aforementioned groups rent offices in the theater.

"We're about out of office space," said Mr. Wilkinson. The DCT never dreamed that the theater would be as popular as it is.

"When we moved into the Campus, we had no idea how busy just the box office would be. We're trying to get a computerized ticket system installed," he added.

If running the Campus Theatre doesn't keep DCT busy enough, then staging Pied Pipers, the group's children's program, should.

Sonny Strait, the co-director and instructor for Pied Pipers, said: "We're starting a program for older students. In the past, we've offered classes for kids from kindergarten through the 12th grade. This year, we'll focus on them, but we will also offer older students something new: Back Stage Players.

"This group will be for junior high and high school students. They'll be acting and learning about the technical side of putting on a play, such as lighting, sound and directing. They'll be putting on a play, as well as directing it and providing all the technical help."

The first production for the Back Stage Players will be the "Adventures of Brer Rabbit," which is scheduled for the Campus Theatre May 22-23.

DCT also is planning a performing puppet troupe. Mr. Strait is writing a play to be told through the puppets.

"We've talked with the Dallas Puppet Theatre and they will build our puppets, which usually sell for $250 per puppet. And they've agreed to build them for us (for free), if we allow them to perform the play," said Mr. Strait.

Peek into past provided

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

Taking a peek into history requires only a trip to the Courthouse on the Square.

A museum is housed in one of Denton's historical jewels: the courthouse, built in 1896. But there's more to the museum than meets the eye.

An entire library of history has been cataloged and archived in the Courthouse-on-the-Square Museum. Collections of all varieties, including family photos, papers and historic documents are carefully preserved.

Educational materials, tours, and kits are just as much a part of the displays as the antique furniture set up to show what a kitchen, bedroom or living room used to look like.

Volunteers help by cleaning the cases that house displays, by sleeving negatives received as donations or by helping put up displays.

Among the displays are permanent exhibits on Denton County. Other displays include rare dolls, Sam Bass memorabilia, guns and fashions. The museum has more than 700 pieces of blue pressed glass, and collections and exhibits are often changed out.

The walk-through museum is open to the public and is free. It is self-guided, with recorded information available at many exhibits. The museum provides free material about exhibits whenever possible.

When children come to visit, they often want mementos. The large gift shop offers an opportunity for shopping. But adults can be accommodated as well by a number of books, including "1909-1929 Obits," "Story of Sanger" and "IOOF."

There are books on Texana and Denton County history, as well as local cookbooks, old paper dolls, and many small items for purchase.

Visitors interested in Denton's culture will find that the museum integrates all cultures. The roots of all ethnic cultures in Denton are part of the city's recorded history.

Old Southern Hotel now seniors' home

By Connie Dunn
Contributing Writer

History buffs may remember that members of the infamous Sam Bass gang hung out in Denton at the Southern Hotel.

But the people who have moved into what is now the Pecan Place Apartments (on Locust Street just off the Square across from First United Methodist Church) call it a joy, said manager Shirley Hensley.

In its day, the Southern Hotel was the grandest of area hotels. However, when Isabel Miller and Mary McCain, architects of the Pecan Place Apartments, began to survey the dilapidated building in 1993, they found a hole in the roof, an inoperable elevator, damaged stairs and debris throughout.

Low-income seniors may call it grand that they have affordable housing. You must be 62 or older to qualify for senior housing, or you can be 55 and disabled, said Ms. Hensley.

"The problem with having a disability is that we're not wheelchair accessible in the apartments, but other disabilities could qualify," she said. Applicants cannot have more than $16,900 in assets and, must have just Social Security for income.

"It's just like any other apartment complex. They (the residents) have to function and take care of themselves. Because it's a high-rise, it's different. There are only 24 apartments and everyone knows each other. The location is convenient for downtown shopping, restaurants, banking and entertainment," said Ms. Hensley.

The tenants have become a community, she said. "They are enjoying the social aspects. We have a residents' association that plans different functions they want to do, such as potluck dinners, little trips, binge and movies."

Interfaith Ministries and the Community Food Room renovated the back of the building. The Family Resource Center is still in the fund-raising stage for renovating a room for its office.

The apartments are intended for one person or a couple, with a living room, kitchen, bath and bedroom. Common areas include a library, a parlor, a large living area, dining area and game room.

For more information, call the Denton Housing Authority at (940)-484-9535.

Hall

equipped for viewing the council meetings. It can be used for "overflow" or by people waiting to speak.

"We didn't have a work room before," said Ms. Brock. The work room has permanent video cameras so meetings can be televised.

The City Council chamber also has television cameras, a big screen and individual screens at each council member's seat. An overhead camera can display a photo, drawing or other item on the big screen in the chamber, and, at the same time, the image is shown on each of the individual screens.

Electronic voting and an electronic polling system help keep the meetings fair, accurately tallied and moving along.

One of the "Vision for Denton" items that has now been realized inside City Hall is the addition of original art.

Dear Helen and John,

I am looking forward to your visit next week. I think you will find that Denton has much to offer to the traveler interested in the arts, culture, and heritage. I am enclosing an itinerary for the tour and some brochures about specific locations on the tour. You will receive other information in your press packets from Margie Ranc of the Dallas/Fort Worth Area Tourism Council.

The temperature has been in the upper 90's, so you will want to wear comfortable clothes. There will be some walking involved in our tour, so comfortable shoes are a must. The weather forecasters say a cool front may come through from the north, but I wouldn't count on it getting much cooler than the low 80's. Summers in Texas are extremely warm, but it's still a great place to be!

I am not sure of the arrangements for picking you up at the airport, but I will get with Margie and one of us will call you to let you know who it will be. I hope you have a wonderful trip to Texas and enjoy your tour of the Dallas/Fort Worth region. If you have any questions, please call me at (940) 382-7895. See you next week!

Sincerely,

Christine Gosssett

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This not only helps in tracking expenses but also ensures compliance with tax regulations.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data. These include direct observation, interviews, and the use of specialized software tools. Each method has its own strengths and limitations, and the choice of which to use depends on the specific requirements of the study.

The third section provides a detailed overview of the results obtained from the data collection process. It includes several tables and graphs that illustrate the trends and patterns identified in the data. The analysis shows that there is a significant correlation between the variables being studied, which supports the hypothesis of the research.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the findings and a discussion of their implications. It suggests that the results of this study could be useful for other researchers in the field and for practitioners looking to optimize their processes. The author also identifies some areas for future research and acknowledges the limitations of the current study.

Pre-Tour and Post-Tour Options

Pre-Tour Options (3)
Wednesday, June 24

Change restaurant to Giuseppe's and maybe put TWU before downtown

1. Denton

Your day in Denton begins at noon, with an outdoor concert on the city's historic downtown square, where a stately courthouse stands guard over this quadrant filled with quaint restaurants, tea rooms and shops. After lunch on the square, it's on to a tour of the 101-year old grand Denton County Courthouse, the Longhorn Gallery, the historic Evers Hardware Store and the Campus Theater, a renovated 1949 movie theatre that serves as a community performing arts facility.

After a quick tour of the Meadows Gallery in the Center for the Visual Arts, it's on to Texas Woman's University, one of two major state institutions located in Denton, for a tour of the Ladies Gowns Museum then on a tour of local historic homes.

Depart Denton at 5:00 p.m. for Fort Worth. Dinner in Sundance Square; overnight accommodations will be provided by the Worthington Hotel.

2. Ennis – also a post-tour option

Relax and return to yesteryear at a noon concert in unique Ennis, where a "little bit of Czechoslovakia" is still alive today. Amid the cobbled brick streets in the downtown historic district, Czech musicians pull out their accordions to play a polka or waltz. Colorfully costumed Czech dancers entertain amid the grand old buildings and quaint downtown. Many of them have carried this fine heritage from generation to generation.

Wax nostalgic and feast on wonderful Czech food, including strudels, kolaches, klobase (sausage), all just 25 minutes south of downtown Dallas. Tour a local Czech sausage factory, and then the Ennis Czech Museum, one of only two such museums in Texas. Peruse the fine examples of the local Czech heritage, including crystal, costumes, handiwork, books and art.

Stroll inside an historic old bank structure built in 1880, which now houses the popular "Chez Willie's Cajon Hideaway" restaurant. Recall the days when Jesse James and his gang robbed the local bank, and enjoyed libations at an area saloon. See the "wildest" Main Street in the world in downtown Ennis, then stop by the Ennis Railroad and Cultural Heritage Museum, located in an old railroad restaurant building that at one time welcomed passengers from 10 daily trains. A diorama and 8 minute video will detail the city's history, while railroad memorabilia, including a few exhibits of train china, will delight you.

Take the historic driving tour which encompasses two dozen buildings on the National Historic Register. You can check out architectural styles from every decade – from the 1880's to the 1970's – all in one single Ennis street. Stroll through the downtown antique mall located in a 1905 structure, which houses dozens of dealers.

If Texas heritage is your interest, we'll take you to a cattle auction, where the highest bidder can still buy longhorns and horses, and many a grandfather has taken his grandchildren to see a little bit of the "Old West."

Depart Ennis at 4:30 p.m. for Fort Worth. Dinner in Sundance Square; overnight accommodations will be provided by the Worthington Hotel.

3. McKinney

In historic McKinney, you'll bask in the splendor of Victorian charm at its finest. Only 30 miles north of Dallas, McKinney is home to the second largest historic district in Texas.

Your visit to McKinney starts with a tour of Chestnut Square - a museum district on the National Register consisting of seven historic structures dating to 1853. All are completely furnished with accurate period pieces and includes an extensive historic garment collection and gardens designed by a group headed by Neal Sperry.

Then it's on to the art galleries on the historic downtown square, followed by dinner at Goodhues, a wood fire grill. A local bed and breakfast will provide accommodations for the evening.

Post-Tour Options (2)

Sunday, June 28 - Monday, June 29

1. Ennis - also a pre-tour option

See pre-tour option #2 for itinerary. Overnight accommodations in Ennis.

2. Granbury

Granbury, Texas is nestled on scenic Lake Granbury. This quaint town will take you on a journey back in time filled with legends and lore of the Texas frontier.

Your first day in Granbury includes a performance of the Broadway smash hit Annie at the Granbury Opera House. Built in 1886, the Opera House is a main attraction to Granbury, offering professional performances. Then it's on to a walking tour of Granbury's Historical Town Square, where you'll visit it's stately courthouse, with it's original Seth Thomas clock, still in use and hand-wound every two weeks. You'll also visit an 1885 jail, complete with original prisoners' graffiti and the actual hanging tower. This town square was the first in the state of Texas to be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Your second day will include a visit to the Great Race Hall of Fame, which features an array of completely restored pre-1942 automobiles, and a tour of Granbury in a 1925 Yellowstone Park tour bus. The Yellowstone tour goes by Jesse James' gravesite and a "turn of the century" train depot, as well as eighteen designated historical homes. You'll enjoy free time on Granbury's historic square and then dine at The Merry Heart Tea Room, a quaint, Victorian establishment where the food is as delicious as it is beautifully prepared.

Lodging will be provided by one of Granbury's historic bed and breakfasts.

Here is the itenerary for the pre-tour of Denton. We will not be able to see Oliver because the only nights it runs are Thursday - Sunday. So, I have changed to schedule to get them to the Worthington on Wednesday night. If we take them there before dinner are we responsible for the meal that night, or would it be better to keep them here in Denton through dinner and then take them to the Worthington? Let me know and I will arrange for them to have dinner here in Denton. There are a few more galleries I could add to the list until dinner.

If you have any other questions, please let me know. My metro number is (972) 445-5558. Thanks!

- Christine

Tourism Council

March 25, 1998

Dear Travel Writer Friend:

Want to spend your summer like a real Texan? Then come to the Dallas/Fort Worth area for our "air-conditioned" Arts, Culture and Heritage Press Tour. We've put together an itinerary that includes stops at some of the area's finest museums, galleries and theaters for an enjoyable, cool few days June 25-28, 1998. We'll show you metropolitan cities and charming suburbs, and the many arts and culture aspects that make "The Texas Metroplex" the state's most popular tourist destination. And, we promise you won't leave without first sampling some of our true Texas heritage.

The area's story-friendly diversity guarantees you will find timely, entertaining and unique arts, culture and heritage stories of interest to your readers. First-time visitors and long-time fans of the Dallas/Fort Worth area are sure to enjoy this taste of Texas hospitality.

Air transportation, meals, hotel accommodations at the Worthington Hotel and Hotel Crescent Court, and ground transportation are provided for you free of charge, or for a nominal fee if your publication policy requires payment. Because of limited ticket availability, we are able to accommodate working spouses only for this very special press trip.

Enclosed is a preliminary itinerary, registration form and Dallas/Fort Worth Area Visitor Guide to give you some story ideas. We know our schedule will be full, but if there are areas of interest to you not covered in your selected itinerary, then we encourage you to come early or stay late and pursue additional story ideas. You'll also find some options for pre-tours and post-tours of four unique cities just outside the Metroplex.

Please mark your calendar and respond with the enclosed registration form at your earliest convenience. Space on the tour is limited, so first come, first served. Our reply deadline of May 25, 1998, is firm, but we won't object if you respond sooner!

The Dallas/Fort Worth Area Tourism Council has a membership of city convention and visitors bureaus, hotels, entertainment facilities, attractions, transportation companies, restaurants, tour companies and other allied members. For more than 17 years, the organization has worked cooperatively to promote travel to the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex.

Sincerely,

Arts, Culture and Heritage Press Tour
June 25-28, 1998

Thursday, June 25 - Grapevine and Irving

- Noon Depart Worthington Hotel for Grapevine
Tarrant County's oldest settlement listed on the National Register of Historic Places.
- 12:30 - 1:30 p.m. Lunch at Esparza's
- 1:30 - 2:30 p.m. Grapevine Art Walk
Downtown Grapevine offers over 70 beautifully restored buildings dating back to the late 1800's which have been transformed into unique dining establishments, speculate shops and antique stores.
- 2:30 - 3:15 p.m. Grapevine Heritage Center
The Center is home to several artisans who demonstrate arts and crafts that are over 150 years old, such as traditional rug hooking, woodcarving, boot-making and smithing; also houses the Grapevine Farmers' Market, Grapevine Heritage Artisan Center, the Milican Blacksmith Shop and the Grapevine Community Gardens.
- 3:15 - 3:45 p.m. Tarantula Train Tour
Tarantula's Excursion Train consists of a beautifully restored 1896 steam locomotive, turn-of-the century Victorian coaches and open air patio cars. It operates over 21 miles, linking Fort Worth's historic Stockyards and downtown Grapevine's historic district.
- 4:00 - 5:00 p.m. Delaney Vineyards Tour
Opened in 1992, Delaney Vineyards is a beautiful working winery featuring a 10-acre vineyard and fabulous formal gardens. Amid antique oak vats in the grand Barrel Room, you will experience the age-old art of winemaking firsthand, then sample one of Delaney's fine vintages.
- 5:00 p.m. Depart for Irving

Pre-Tour and Post-Tour Options

Pre-Tour Options (3)
Wednesday, June 24

1. *Denton

Your day in Denton begins at noon, with an outdoor concert on the city's historic downtown square, where a stately courthouse stands guard over this quadrant filled with quaint restaurants, tea rooms and shops. After lunch on the square, it's on to a tour of the 101-year old grand Denton County Courthouse, the Longhorn Gallery, the historic Evers Hardware Store and the Campus Theater, a renovated 1949 movie theatre that serves as a community performing arts facility.

After a quick tour of the Meadows Gallery in the Center for the Visual Arts, it's on to Texas Woman's University, one of two major state institutions located in Denton, for a tour of the Ladies Gowns Museum then on a tour of local historic homes.

Depart Denton at 5:00 p.m. for Fort Worth. Dinner in Sundance Square; overnight accommodations will be provided by the Worthington Hotel.

2. *Ennis – also a post-tour option

Relax and return to yesteryear at a noon concert in unique Ennis, where a "little bit of Czechoslovakia" is still alive today. Amid the cobbled brick streets in the downtown historic district, Czech musicians pull out their accordions to play a polka or waltz. Colorfully costumed Czech dancers entertain amid the grand old buildings and quaint downtown. Many of them have carried this fine heritage from generation to generation.

Wax nostalgic and feast on wonderful Czech food, including strudels, kolaches, klobase (sausage), all just 25 minutes south of downtown Dallas. Tour a local Czech sausage factory, and then the Ennis Czech Museum, one of only two such museums in Texas. Peruse the fine examples of the local Czech heritage, including crystal, costumes, handiwork, books and art.

Stroll inside an historic old bank structure built in 1880, which now houses the popular "Chez Willie's Cajon Hideaway" restaurant. Recall the days when Jesse James and his gang robbed the local bank, and enjoyed libations at an area saloon. See the "wildest" Main Street in the world in downtown Ennis, then stop by the Ennis Railroad and Cultural Heritage Museum, located in an old railroad restaurant building that at one time welcomed passengers from 10 daily trains. A diorama and 8 minute video will detail the city's history, while railroad memorabilia, including a few exhibits of train china, will delight you.

Take the historic driving tour which encompasses two dozen buildings on the National Historic Register. You can check out architectural styles from every decade – from the 1880's to the 1970's – all in one single Ennis street. Stroll through the downtown antique mall located in a 1905 structure, which houses dozens of dealers.

If Texas heritage is your interest, we'll take you to a cattle auction, where the highest bidder can still buy longhorns and horses, and many a grandfather has taken his grandchildren to see a little bit of the "Old West."

Depart Ennis at 4:30 p.m. for Fort Worth. Dinner in Sundance Square; overnight accommodations will be provided by the Worthington Hotel.

3. McKinney

In historic McKinney, you'll bask in the splendor of Victorian charm at its finest. Only 30 miles north of Dallas, McKinney is home to the second largest historic district in Texas.

Your visit to McKinney starts with a tour of Chestnut Square - a museum district on the National Register consisting of seven historic structures dating to 1853. All are completely furnished with accurate period pieces and includes an extensive historic garment collection and gardens designed by a group headed by Neal Sperry.

Then it's on to the art galleries on the historic downtown square, followed by dinner at Goodhues, a wood fire grill. A local bed and breakfast will provide accommodations for the evening.

Post-Tour Options (2)

Sunday, June 28 - Monday, June 29

1. Ennis - also a pre-tour option

See pre-tour option #2 for itinerary. Overnight accommodations in Ennis.

2. Granbury

Granbury, Texas is nestled on scenic Lake Granbury. This quaint town will take you on a journey back in time filled with legends and lore of the Texas frontier.

Your first day in Granbury includes a performance of the Broadway smash hit Annie at the Granbury Opera House. Built in 1886, the Opera House is a main attraction to Granbury, offering professional performances. Then it's on to a walking tour of Granbury's Historical Town Square, where you'll visit it's stately courthouse, with it's original Seth Thomas clock, still in use and hand-wound every two weeks. You'll also visit an 1885 jail, complete with original prisoners' graffiti and the actual hanging tower. This town square was the first in the state of Texas to be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Your second day will include a visit to the Great Race Hall of Fame, which features an array of completely restored pre-1942 automobiles, and a tour of Granbury in a 1925 Yellowstone Park tour bus. The Yellowstone tour goes by Jesse James' gravesite and a "turn of the century" train depot, as well as eighteen designated historical homes. You'll enjoy free time on Granbury's historic square and then dine at The Merry Heart Tea Room, a quaint, Victorian establishment where the food is as delicious as it is beautifully prepared.

Lodging will be provided by one of Granbury's historic bed and breakfasts.

March 25, 1998

Dear Travel Writer Friend:

Want to spend your summer like a real Texan? Then come to the Dallas/Fort Worth area for our "air-conditioned" Arts, Culture and Heritage Press Tour. We've put together an itinerary that includes stops at some of the area's finest museums, galleries and theaters for an enjoyable, cool few days June 25-28, 1998. We'll show you metropolitan cities and charming suburbs, and the many arts and culture aspects that make "The Texas Metroplex" the state's most popular tourist destination. And, we promise you won't leave without first sampling some of our true Texas heritage.

The area's story-friendly diversity guarantees you will find timely, entertaining and unique arts, culture and heritage stories of interest to your readers. First-time visitors and long-time fans of the Dallas/Fort Worth area are sure to enjoy this taste of Texas hospitality.

Air transportation, meals, hotel accommodations at the Worthington Hotel and Hotel Crescent Court, and ground transportation are provided for you free of charge, or for a nominal fee if your publication policy requires payment. Because of limited ticket availability, we are able to accommodate working spouses only for this very special press trip.

Enclosed is a preliminary itinerary, registration form and Dallas/Fort Worth Area Visitor Guide to give you some story ideas. We know our schedule will be full, but if there are areas of interest to you not covered in your selected itinerary, then we encourage you to come early or stay late and pursue additional story ideas. You'll also find some options for pre-tours and post-tours of four unique cities just outside the Metroplex.

Please mark your calendar and respond with the enclosed registration form at your earliest convenience. Space on the tour is limited, so first come, first served. Our reply deadline of May 25, 1998, is firm, but we won't object if you respond sooner!

The Dallas/Fort Worth Area Tourism Council has a membership of city convention and visitors bureaus, hotels, entertainment facilities, attractions, transportation companies, restaurants, tour companies and other allied members. For more than 17 years, the organization has worked cooperatively to promote travel to the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex.

Sincerely,

Your first day in Granbury includes a performance of the Broadway smash hit Annie at the Granbury Opera House. Built in 1886, the Opera House is a main attraction to Granbury, offering professional performances. Then it's on to a walking tour of Granbury's Historical Town Square, where you'll visit it's stately courthouse, with it's original Seth Thomas clock, still in use and hand-wound every two weeks. You'll also visit an 1885 jail, complete with original prisoners' graffiti and the actual hanging tower. This town square was the first in the state of Texas to be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Your second day will include a visit to the Great Race Hall of Fame, which features an array of completely restored pre-1942 automobiles, and a tour of Granbury in a 1925 Yellowstone Park tour bus. The Yellowstone tour goes by Jesse James' gravesite and a "turn of the century" train depot, as well as eighteen designated historical homes. You'll enjoy free time on Granbury's historic square and then dine at The Merry Heart Tea Room, a quaint, Victorian establishment where the food is as delicious as it is beautifully prepared.

Lodging will be provided by one of Granbury's historic bed and breakfasts.

Greetings!

The following is a draft of the Arts, Culture and Heritage Press Trip Pre and Post Tour options. If you have not noted arrival/departure times to and from your city, please do so. It's not necessary to do a time line for your whole itinerary, however, in order to determine flight times and other tour concerns we need start/finish times.

The regular tour begins at the Worthington Hotel on Thursday, June 25 at noon and ends at 2:00 p.m. at the West End in Dallas. Please plan your itinerary accordingly. And please note that you will be responsible for travel to and from your city (this does not include airfare, just transportation to and/or from the airport, the hotel, West End, etc.).

As for accommodations, the Worthington can provide pre-tour accommodations on Wednesday evening, but not post tour on Sunday evening. If you are offering a post tour, you will also need to plan on providing overnight accommodations. If you are offering a pre-tour, please let me know if you will provide overnight accommodations or if you plan on taking them to the Worthington.

Also, Ennis is offering the same tour as a pre or post tour option. Let me know if you would like to do the same. Please fax your revised itinerary to my attention at 972/257-3153 by noon on Monday, March 23.

Thank you all for your help, and please call with any questions/comments.

Regards,

Diana Pfaff

1. *Denton

Your day in Denton begins at noon, with an outdoor concert on the city's historic downtown square, where a stately courthouse stand guard over this quadrant filled with quaint restaurants, tea rooms and shops. After lunch on the square, it's on to a tour of the 101-year old grand Denton County Courthouse, the Longhorn Gallery, the historic Evers Hardware Store and the Campus Theater, a renovated 1949 movie theatre that serves as a community performing arts facility.

After a quick tour of the Meadows Gallery in the Center for the Visual Arts, it's on to Texas Woman's University, one of two major state institutions located in Denton, for a tour of the Ladies Gowns Museum then on a tour of local historic homes. Dinner will be provided at Giuseppe's, a restaurant on the bottom floor of the Magnolia Inn, a quaint B&B within walking distance of the historic downtown square. Following dinner it's back to the Campus Theater for a performance of Oliver.

Overnight accommodations will be in Denton or at the Worthington Hotel (which one?)

Depart Denton at _____ for Worthington Hotel

2. *Ennis

Relax and return to yesteryear at a noon concert in unique Ennis, where a "little bit of Czechoslovakia" is still alive today. Amid the cobbled brick streets in the downtown historic district, Czech musicians pull out their accordions to play a polka or waltz. Colorfully costumed Czech dancers entertain amid the grand old buildings and quaint downtown. Many of them have carried this fine heritage from generation to generation.

Wax nostalgic and feast on wonderful Czech food, including strudels, kolaches, klobase (sausage), all just 25 minutes south of downtown Dallas. Tour a local Czech sausage factory, and then the Ennis Czech Museum, one of only two such museums in Texas. Peruse the fine examples of the local Czech heritage, including crystal, costumes, handiwork, books and art.

Stroll inside an historic old bank structure built in 1880, which now houses the popular "Chez Willie's Cajon Hideaway" restaurant. Recall the days when Jesse James and his gang robbed the local bank, and enjoyed libations at an area saloon. See the "wildest" Main Street in the world in downtown Ennis, then stop by the Ennis Railroad and Cultural Heritage Museum, located in an old railroad restaurant building that at one time welcomed passengers from 10 daily trains. A diorama and 8 minute video will detail the city's history, while railroad memorabilia, including a few exhibits of train china, will delight you.

Take the historic driving tour which encompasses two dozen buildings on the National Historic Register. You can check out architectural styles from every decade - from the 1880's to the 1970's - all in one single Ennis' street. Stroll through the downtown antique mall located in a 1905 structure, which houses dozens of dealers.

If Texas heritage is your interest, we'll take you to a cattle auction, where the highest bidder can still buy longhorns and horses, and many a grandfather has taken his grandchildren to see a little bit of the "Old West."

Overnight accommodations at Worthington Hotel.

3. McKinney

In historic McKinney, you'll bask in the splendor of Victorian charm at its finest. Only 30 miles north of Dallas, McKinney is home to the second largest historic district in Texas.

Your visit to McKinney starts at _____ a.m. with a tour of Chestnut Square - a museum district on the National Register consisting of seven historic structures dating to 1853. All are completely furnished with accurate period pieces and includes an extensive historic garment collection and gardens designed by a group headed by Neal Sperry.

Then it's on to the art galleries on the historic downtown square, followed by dinner at Goodhues, a wood fire grill. A local bed and breakfast will provide accommodations for the evening.

Depart McKinney at _____ for Worthington Hotel.
