DART Easily to MegaFest Events in June

Dallas Area Rapid Transit (DART) is the easiest way to attend MegaFest when it returns to the Kay Bailey Hutchison Convention Center June 28 through July 1. An estimated 100,000 people from across North Texas and the country are expected and a lot of them will ride DART's buses and trains.

MegaFest is a four-day festival of faith, film and family oriented events held in Downtown Dallas partly because of DART, which can transport attendees to the convention center, airports, hotels, restaurants and other area attractions.

Attendees can ride DART Blue and Red Line trains directly to Convention Center Station, just a short walk to events held at the Kay Bailey Hutchison Convention Center. TRE customers can connect to DART by transferring to a Red or Blue Line train at Union Station.

Save time and pre-purchase your DART and TRE 3-Day Pass in advance from the free GoPassSM mobile ticketing application available for both Apple and Android. Individual Local Day passes for DART Rail, bus and passengers riding the TRE between CentrePort and Union Station are $5. Attendees coming from Tarrant County or Denton County must purchase a Regional Day Pass for $10. Passes can be purchased on GoPassSM or at ticket vending machines located at all DART and TRE stations.

Additional information is available at DART.org/MegaFest or by calling DART's Customer Information at 214-979-1111.
