Public hearings will gather Texans' views on the future of transportation

Committee Named to Examine Transportation Needs Through 2030

AUSTIN - A new committee is coordinating a comprehensive update of Texas transportation needs through the year 2030. The new "2030 Committee," which is comprised of experts in business and transportation, will hold public hearings beginning in Austin on July 24. The committee is charged with presenting an estimate of the state's transportation needs in the context of today's economic reality.
