NEWMAN, JOSEPH TERRY

F673

Joseph Terry Newman

The first Newmans in Texas were Joseph Austin Newman (b. York County, South Carolina 1780) and his wife, Rachel Rabb (b. Fayette Co., Pa. 1790), who came to Texas with Stephen F. Austin's "Old 300" in 1822. Joseph died in Egypt, Texas, in 1831; his widow survived until 1872. Their son, Joseph Austin Newman, Jr., was born in Wharton County in 1824. He married Mary Rice. One of their children, John Austin Newman, was born in DeWitt County in 1871. He married Julia Ann Terry, the daughter of John and Julia A. Middlebrooks Terry. John Austin died in 1940 and his widow in 1950. They had eight children, the third generation of Newmans in Texas: Joseph Terry, b. 1894, d. 1981; Carrie, b. 1897, d. 1964; Cecil, b. 1899, d. 1957; Irene, b. 1901, d. 1984; John "Pete", b. 1903, d. 1966; Walter, b. 1906, d. 1951; Ann, b. 1910, d. 1983; and Jesse, b. 1915, d. 1988.

The first son, Joseph Terry Newman, was born at Stratton and grew up in that rural community of DeWitt County. He attended Baldwin Business College in Yoakum and had just started in business when World War I broke out. Newman served as a Sergeant in the United States Army and was engaged in combat in France for a number of months during which time he was wounded in action. He returned to DeWitt County in 1919 and settled in Cuero. In 1920 he was elected to his first of two terms as DeWitt County Clerk. He did not seek reelection in 1924 but went to work for Alamo Lumber Company as manager of its local branch.

Reentering politics in the depths of the depression, he was elected to his first term as Mayor of Cuero in 1934. He was to serve a total of twenty-four years as the city's chief executive. Newman reorganized the administration of the City, then a General Law city, by eliminating several elected posts and substituting appointive offices. Fighting the effects of the Great Depression he was instrumental in obtaining many public works programs to give employment to the people of the community. Against strenuous opposition he pushed through the purchase and construction of the Cuero Municipal park consisting of a club house, golf course, swimming pool, baseball diamond, picnic units, and other facilities. Completed in 1936 the Park has been the recreational and amusement center of the City for more than 50 years.

Convinced that the future of the City depended on an inexpensive supply of electric power, Newman pushed for a municipal electric distribution system. In the first election, the issuance of municipal revenue bonds was defeated. Refusing to give up the Mayor called for a new election as soon as possible and this time the bonds carried. The election resulted in litigation which went all the way to the Texas Supreme Court. The City was represented by the late H.W. Wallace. The City won all the court battles and in 1938 and City purchased the Central Power & Light Company's distribution facilities and entered into a long term contract with the Lower Colorado River Authority to supply electric power. Interestingly, the Mayor argued in support of the bond issue that a City-owned electric utility might contribute as much as $20,000.00 per year in profits to the City operations. That prediction was considered wildly optimistic by the opponents of municipal ownership. In the event the electric system has contributed millions of dollars to the City coffers. While working for the acquisition of the City electric distribution system Newman was also influential in the foundation of the DeWitt County Electric Cooperative and the realization of Rural Electrification for the first time in DeWitt County.

Neweman was instrumental in bringing the National Youth Administration division head-quarters to Cuero and the NYA building with men's and women's dormitories and meeting and dining facilities were erected in the Municipal Park.

As war clouds gathered over Europe and the Pacific and the nation entered a period of frantic rearmament, Newman worked to insure that Cuero would share in the war effort. He persuaded the voters to purchase 500 acres just north of the City from the late Kos Morgan and entered into a contract with Clyde Brayton for the operation of Brayton Field, a civilian contract primary training field which brought thousands of young Army Air Crops cadets, officers, and training personnel to Cuero and pumped millions of dollars into the local economy during World War II.

After the War Newman suffered his first political defeat in 1945. It was believed that his support for the then controversial proposal to charge for City water on a metered basis was a factor in his defeat. Newman returned to office in 1949 and served until 1955 when he voluntarily retired. He returned in 1959 and served two more terms. During his various administrations he initiated the first storm sewer system in the City, paved and curbed many blocks of the city streets, created the sanitation department, obtained a new city sewer plant, developed Cuero's first Airport, saw the erection of the National Guard Armory on Municipal Park property, proposed and secured the adoption of Cuero's first City Charter, initiated the City Manager system and participated in the selection of the City's first Manager.

At the same time, he was developing new subdivisions, building new homes, and directing the business of Newman's of Cuero which included construction, lumber, hardware, and furniture. Newman was honored as Grand Marshal of the Turkey Trot Parade in 1960 and in 1964 he was awarded the first Cuero Chamber of Commerce community service award.

In 1964 at the age of 70 Newman announced his candidacy for State Representative. He was elected three times, serving in the 59th, 60th, and 61st Legislatures. He served as vice-chairman of the State Penitentiaries Committee and as a member of the Livestock, Parks, & Wildlife, Urban Affairs, and State Water Committees.

Newman was married to Ruth A. Westerburg (b. 1896 in Pennsylvania, d. at Cuero, 1944), by whom he had three children: Joseph Terry Newman, Jr., David Crosby Newman, and Marjorie R. Newman. Joseph Terry Newman, Jr., married Dorothy J. Matthews. He was in business with his father before the Second World War. He went into service and was killed in action in 1945. He left one child, Terri Dale Newman. David C. Newman married Billye M. Menn. They have four children: David C., Jr., Joe Terry, and twins Marva Lee Meitzen and Martha Ruth Harwood. David was also in business with his father and is now engaged as a contractor under the firm name of Newman's of Cuero. Marjorie R. Newman is the mother of three children: John N. Warren, Barbara A. Warren, and Candace R. Collins.

After the death of his first wife, Mayor Newman married Sophie Rolland (born 1912) in 1947. Newman died at Cuero on April 12, 1981, at the age of 87 years. At the time of his death he had been a member of the American Legion for more than 62 years and a Master Mason for more than 50 years. His widow, Sophie R. Newman, died at Cuero in 1984.

NICHOLS, LAZARUS AND MARGARET LOUISA MEANS

F674

Lazarus Nichols was born in Simpson County, Mississippi, March 17, 1825. The only thing known of his parents is that Lazarus said his father landed at New Orleans, from Ireland, during the battle there. (After the death of Lazarus, $139 was added to his estate as listed in the DeWitt County courthouse from A.A. Nichols, administrator of the estate of William Nichols of Scott County, Mississippi).

Lazarus first came to Texas as a frontier "drummer" (salesman) of butter churns. Lazarus Nichols' first purchase of land in DeWitt County was 200 acres from John and Elizabeth McCoy on McCoy Creek in the McCoy League, January 12, 1850. On October 31, 1850 he took out a marriage license at the county-seat, Clinton, and was married the same evening to Margaret Louisa Means by H. McBride Pridgen, J.P., DeWitt County.

Margaret Louisa Means was born November 16, 1833 in Sabine County, to William and Frances Means, who came from Georgia with his mother, Rachel Means, a widow who received a settler's Land Grant in her own name to land on the Pedernales (now part of the LBJ ranch). On the 1846 DeWitt County tax roll. her father owned 1100 acres of the George W. Davis Survey; and on the 1850 Census, he and his wife and five children were listed as DeWitt County residents on this land. Margaret Louisa was the second child and her age was nineteen. (The household inventoried next after William Means on the census was "E." Nichols a twenty-four year old householder from Mississippi). Margaret Louisa's father was a colonel at the Battle of San Jacinto, assigned to guard the baggage and wounded at the camp opposite Harrisburg by Sam Houston a task that had to be "assigned" as everyone there wanted to fight. In 1836 he was sheriff of Sabine County, he represented Sabine County in the Eighth and Ninth Congresses, 1843-45, and had also been a tax collector for Sabine

Margaret Louisa was a small, fiery woman. At one time, while Lazarus was on a lading trip with supplies on the wagon train from Indianola, a notorious cattle thief stole cattle from him and from his neighbors. Margaret Louisa confronted the rustlers, but they just laughed. When her husband returned, she handed him his gun. Lazarus went to his neighbors and told them: "If you want to get your cattle back without a shot fired, come follow me."

When they neared the cattle, Lazarus told his neighbors to remain hidden in a live-oak mott until he raised his hand above his head. He rode up alone and shouted: "Who's the leader of this outfit?" When the leader wheeled his horse in front of Lazarus, he drew his gun and told the rustler, "Tell your men to throw down their guns and ride yonder way. They may kill me, but I know I'll kill you." Then he raised his hand above his head, and told his neighbors to cut out their cattle and his, and "head them yonder way." Later the rustlers sent word that they were coming to get him, and Lazarus sent word back: "Tell them to come any time, but be sure the foremost man has religion, for he's mine.'

Once Sarah Jane Newman (Sally Scull), a

pants-riding, gun-toting cowgirl of the Texas frontier came through and spent the night at the Nichols' Ranch. Lazarus asked her, the next time she came, to bring him a horse a lady could ride. She brought him a wild horse, and when Lazarus objected, she got on and rode it. Lazarus bought the horse.

Tom Stell recounts how, during the feud in Cuero's young days in the seventies, both factions were in town on opposite sides of the street. Lazarus, a very tall man, went into the street, unarmed, and persuaded them to take their quarrel out of town.

Lazarus wanted a strong legal system, and when he saw a rising, honest young attorney, Henry Clay Pleasants, he asked him to run for county judge. The young man said he didn't have the where-with-all to campaign, and that if he lost, his family would suffer while he was re-establishing his practice. Lazarus gave him one hundred dollars saying he knew he could win, and that if he didn't win, Lazarus would pay him the judge's salary for a year. "Now can you run?" The answer, "Yes, Mr. Nichols, I believe I can."

Lazarus and Margaret Louisa had the following children: Morgan Oliver, who married Fanny Hardy; Lenora Jane, who married Nathan A. McFaddin; Elizabeth Ann (Betty), who married R.P. Orrell; the twins - Eliza, who married Samuel Winston Lane II, and Elisha, who died in his twenties and never married; Jennie, who married Millard Chaddock; Della, who married Otis Drake; and Margaret Letishia (Tishie), who married George Austin Clegg. Each of his children received a large tract of land, stocked with cattle, after his death; land which most of the girls sold. He became ill in the late summer of 1882, and died at their home in Clinton, December 30, 1882, and was buried in the Nichols' Lost Creek Cemetery. Margaret Louisa built a home in Cuero, and died there May 5, 1908, and is buried in the petite, curbed grave beside her husband.

NICKEL FAMILY

F675

My mother was Anice Lucille Brown, daughter of James Edgar Brown and Brunetta Gates. James Edgar Brown was the son of Joseph P. Brown and Tennessee Alabama ("Bamie") Edgar. Joseph P. Brown was born in Marshall County, Mississippi November 10, 1847. He died in Yoakum December 1936 and is buried at Thomaston. "Bamie" Edgar was born in Murray County, Tennessee February 10, 1849. Her father was Henry Edgar. She is also buried at the Thomaston cemetery. Joseph S. Edgar had been to Texas and fought in Texas Revolution from Mexico. His name is inscribed on the San Jacinto Monument. He received a grant of land from the new Republic for this service and thus began the Edgar immigration to the Republic of Texas. Joseph P. Brown served in the Confederate army and he received a pension for this in his later years.

We have documented proof in my mothers maternal family that the Gates' were of the Essex family in England. The ship the family came to the new colonies in was the "Tempest" which sunk off the coast of the Bermuda Islands. Eventually they made their way to America. Sir Thomas Gates was one of the first defenders of Virginia and fought in the Revolution of the colonies from England. The family multiplied and began to spread out in the new country. William and Catherine Gates brought their family to Texas. They came with Stephen F. Austin and the first three hundred families. Austin had received permission from the Mexican government to settle their families in Texas. A son, Amos Gates built a ferry for the settlers to cross the Brazos River to site of Austin's colony. Catherine Gates was the first white woman to cross the Brazos River and the Gates family was on the first crossing. Thus, the Gates family feel they should be known as the First Family of Texas. Members of the family fought in our revolution from Mexico and the war between the states. Joseph Dillard Gates, my great grandfather was born at Washington on the Brazos. He married Adeline Duren and had twelve children. Joseph D. Gates and his brother Sam were members of the Waul's Legion and J.D. Gates was made 1st Lieutenant by Governor Edmund J. Davis. Joseph Dillard Gates was the first man to answer the call of the Confederacy in 1861. One of the Gates brothers came home after the war. He had walked all of the way and his health had deteriorated so badly that he died within a few days.

Joseph and Adeline moved the Sam Gates place in Gonzales County in 1879. Joseph was a road commissioner for many years. I believe that part of his precincts were probably DeWitt County at that time and the county lines were changed later.

My paternal grandparents were Annie Holub and Frank Nickel. Both were Czechoslovakians from the province of Bohemia, whose families emigrated to the United States. I believe the spelling of the Nickel name has been Americanized. I have visited cemeteries in Moravia and Praha and find the name spelled Nykl, Nikl and other but I feel this is the same family.

Frank Nickel had a very colorful life. He went on many cattle drives to Missouri and Kansas. They probably went on the Chisholm Trail because that was the one people from this area opened and used. We believe he may have been a trail boss or another important position because, he said he was the one that always cut the cattle out of the herd to give to the Indians for passage through their land. Often, at the end of a drive he would get on his horse and go exploring. I believe he visited most of the western states in his travels. He talked much of his adventure when he was older but, his own children didn't pay much attention. My mother found him very interesting but, sometimes he would lapse into speaking Bohemian from English.

My grandparents were married and lived at Praha before moving to Fordtran, on the Victoria prairie. Frank Nickel bought land in DeWitt and Victoria Counties. The DeWitt County land was bought for a wood pasture for there was no wood on the prairie land in Victoria County where they built their home. The family eventually had 12 living children. Some of the family stayed on in Praha and some of the older boys went on to Fordtran in order to put in a crop at both places the first years. Henry Wolf, a local historian, wrote that when the first settlers arrived in Fordtran, the Nickel family was already there. My father, one of the youngest sons, was born at Fordtran and attended school there through the sixth grade. That's probably as high as the school went then. Fordtran became a rich farming community. At one time it has as many as three cotton gins and my aunts and uncles tell of many negroes picking cotton in the fields and singing as they worked.

James E. Brown, son of Tennessee Alabama Edgar and Joseph Brown, met and married Brunetta Gates, (daughter of Joseph Dillard Cato and Julia Jackson, cow hand for Tom Nickel 1930's and 40's.

Gates and Adeline Duren) while teaching school in Cheapside community. They were both very handsome people. My mother, Anice Lucille, was born in the building that had been the old Concrete College, October 6, 1898 and then was being used as a residence. She was delivered by Dr. Finley Blackwell. The James E. Browns lived in many places in DeWitt and Gonzales Counties. Anice graduated from Yoakum High School in the tenth grade. She then took an entrance examination at Southwest Texas Normal College in San Marcos and was entered as a sophomore. She was chosen to a S.W.T.C. beauty of her class that year. She attended only one year. Anice then took another examination and got her teachers certificate. She taught at Center, Cheapside and later Salem, in Victoria County. Anice met Tom W. Nickel in Yoakum, while visiting her parents. They were soon married. Tom had one of the first taxi cabs in Yoakum. Tom worked at various things and all along he was doing some cattle trading. In 1925 they bought land near his family at Fordtran. There was a terrible drought in Cuero and the area around there at this time. The land my parents bought had not been grazed for several years. They made their first payments on the land by pasturing cattle from DeWitt County ranchers that had no grass. My mother had stayed in Yoakum until I was born July 29, 1925. Tom then bought an abandoned house about five miles away from our ranch. He and his father, Frank Nickel, moved this house with mules and a stump puller to its present location. The house has been added on to and remodeled several times. The original building is still the best and strongest part of the house. Tom traveled all over the country roads buying cattle. There were no auction sales. He would buy large or small herds of any kind of cattle. He had regular customers that would write to him when they had stock for sale. Others would just wait until he came. He bought from small farmers and ranchers as big as Irma Keeran in Inez, Texas. Tom would set up delivery points and dates. The sellers would drive their stock to the point of delivery. There, we met them with our cowboys and took over. On the way back we would pick up the other herds he had bought. I often got to ride on these drives and enjoyed every minute of it. We watered the cattle, our horses and drank ourselves when we crossed creeks and small rivers. Mother usually met us at noon with a good lunch she had cooked at home. At the home ranch Tom would class his cattle. Some he had standing orders for. He sold to people like Mira Gonzales and "Bud' Murphy of Nursery. Will Blackwell and sons of Cuero and others. Some of our cattle were kept and shipped to the wheat fields of Kansas and Oklahoma to be fattened for market and sold there. We shipped these cattle by rail from the nearest railroad shipping pens. We most often used Julia pens at Thomaston by the McCrabb ranch. We drove the cattle there. I got to go on some of these drives too.

My mother and I stayed in Cuero with her parents for me to start school. I went to John C. French and my first teacher was a lovely lady, Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery. I went to the 2nd and 3rd grades in Fordtran. I rode my horse "Sugar" the five miles to and from school most of the time. If the weather was very bad my folks usually managed to take me in our car.

Tom and Anice Nickel separated in 1935. Mother and I moved to Cuero. I was ten years and started to Junior High. These were the early Roosevelt years and times were still hard. My mother did various things. About 1936, she taught night school at the First Baptist Church for people who could not read and write and had very little education. This was one of the New Deal programs sponsored by the government to help our country on its feet and going after the depression. In 1937 she got a job teaching the Roseville School just out of Cuero. For a while we lived in that community with the Wesely Weber family, with whom we became good friends. I still attended Cuero schools. After this Anice took a beauty course in San Antonio and became a beautician. She returned to Cuero and bought the Vanity Fair Beauty Shop on Main Street. She successfully operated her shop there until 1945. The business was sold and she then opened a shop at her home on 509 Clayton. She was in business there until she retired, well past the age of 70. Anice Nickel will be 91 years old october 1989. She has been living at Retama Manor West these later years. Her mind and memory are still very good.

During the Roosevelt years Tom Nickel remained at our Fordtran ranch and became a very successful rancher and business man. He was one of the outstanding cattlemen of his time. He bought ranches in DeWitt, Jackson, Lavaca, Karnes and Victoria Counties and leased thousands of acres. He built and operated the only modern, government regulation slaughter house that Cuero has ever had. The slaughter house was built on land he bought from Mr. Tully near the Cuero Livestock Commission Co. Tom Nickel successfully operated a custom slaughter and feed lot business there until his untimely death, at the age of 42. To Tom Nickel this had only began phase one of his plans for a large packing plant to be located in Cuero. He was also, a consultant to the Victoria Bank & Trust Co. in all matters pertaining to livestock and land.

I graduated from Cuero High School in 1942. We did not have all the usual festivities graduates usually have because our country was now engaged in World War II. In December 1941, I was on a hunting trip with my father and friends at our Morales Ranch in Jackson County. We camped out and stayed several days. Sunday December 7, we took my girl friend, Doris Lee Schultz, back to her home in Edna and stopped at a drive-in for a hamburger. The drive-in had a P.A. system hooked up and President Roosevelt was declaring war against Japan. I felt as if I had been gone for a much longer time, so much had changed that weekend. I went to Victoria Junior College in 1943. I did not go back to school in 1944. My father offered to put me in the cattle business and I took him up on his offer. I spent most of my time with him until his death. I was in the cattle business and more important was the chance to learn about business.

I married Wayne "Buss" Vaughn in 1946. He was descended from the Wayne Smith's of Bastrop County, another large family of early settlers. Wayne Smith told me he had also gone "up the trail". He was very young and had wrangled the horse herd, a job reserved for younger, greener cowboys. Wayne's uncle R.G. Smith took part in the building of the original causeway into Corpus Christi. This man was also instrumental in building the first road through the King Ranch into the Rio Grande Valley. R.G. moved to the Rio Grande Valley and was farming in a big way. He soon sent for his father to come and help him. Pancho Villa and his men were often raiding into Texas for horses and mules. Eventually most of the Smith family moved to the Valley, including Otis and Dixie Vaughn, my husband's parents. Otis was a veteran of World War I. Wayne returned there after serving in World War II in the Air Corps. Wayne was in the African invasion and was the recipient of a purple heart. He served until the war ended.

Wayne and I moved to Fordtran to our home ranch and lived there for ten years. When our daughter, Ann Mary, was six, we moved back to Cuero because we were very far from schools. We have lived here continuously and operated our ranches from here. Ann Mary attended all Cuero schools and graduated in 1971. She finished her education at Victoria College.

My husband's health has deteriorated but, I am still operating my ranches. We live at 1016 Main St. My daughter Ann Mary Vaughn was married briefly. She and her daughter Marianne Anice are living with us. Marianne Anice Vaughn started kindergarten at John C. French August 30, 1989. She is the third generation of our family to go to that school. I am looking forward to them to carry on the family business and traditions. I hope this helps them to always remember they have a proud heritage.

NIEMEIER, EDGAR LEE AND ROSE BLOCK

Edgar Lee and Rose (Block) Niemeier

Edgar Lee Niemeier, the third of five sons of Henry and Bertha Schaper Niemeier, was born on September 29, 1914 outside of Runge, in Karnes County, Texas. He attended schools at Cabaza and Ratcliff.

Rose Elizabeth Block was born on August 1, 1916, the oldest of two children of Arthur and Susie Brantley Block, at Garfield, Texas. She attended school at Yorktown and San Marcos and graduated from Yorktown High School in 1934.

Edgar Lee and Rose were married at the First Presbyterian Church in Yorktown on November 25, 1936. Their first home was on a farm south of Nordheim. Here they farmed with Edgar's parents. While they lived on this farm, their two oldest daughter's were born. Virginia was born April 11, 1938, and Doris, October 1, 1939.

In November of 1939, Edgar Lee and Rose moved to the farm at Garfield that they had purchased. Here they farmed and Edgar also broke horses and mules for $5.00 each. Edgar also participated in rodeos where he rode bulls and broncs. It was during this time that Edgar lost the sight in one eye due to an accident while roping a horse.

Due to the health of both Edgar Lee and his daughter, Doris, the Niemeier family moved to the Texas Hill Country outside of Boerne in 1945. Here they lived for three years while Edgar was the ranch foreman of a large ranch. Rose drove over nine miles of hills and river crossings everyday to transport her two daughters to the nearest school. On July 31, 1948 their third and last daughter was born and they named her Beth. In October of that same year, they had an opportunity to work on a ranch south of Runge in Karnes County. The desire to be nearer their parents, and the improved health of the family, made this move possible.

In 1969 Rose and Edgar Lee bought the land that they had lived on since 1948. They built a new home across the road from the old home in 1973. Here they continue to live and ranch.

Rose is active in the Yorktown First Presbyterian Church where she has held several offices in the Women's Circle. She is also a member of the Yorktown Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and held several offices in that group. Rose is a member of the Victoria Chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas and a Charter member of Stephen F. Austin's "Old Three Hundred" State Organization. Also included in her many activities is being a life member of the Runge PTA and one of the first women to become a member of the Nordheim Shooting Club Hall.

Edgar Lee is active in the Yorktown First Presbyterian Church and has been an Elder in the Church. He is a Director of the Nordheim Shooting Club Hall and a life member of the Runge Fire Department. He has been active on the Tax Review Board of Karnes County, served on the Karnes County ASCS, a member of the Nordheim Fire Department, and been a school trustee for both the Garfield and Runge Schools, and was a Director for the Nordheim Co-OP Gin.

Rose and Edgar Lee Niemeier were fortunate to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary on November 25, 1986 at the Nordheim Shooting Club Hall with over six hundred relatives and friends in attendance.

They are blessed with three daughters, three son-in-laws, six grandchildren, three step-grandchildren, two grandchildren by marriage and two great-grandchildren.

NIEMEIER, HENRICH

Henrich (Henry) Niemeier was born on February 15, 1841 in Putlitz, Province Brandenburg in Perlesburg, Germany. Fredricka (nee Frieda Schroeder) Niemeier was born on February 1, 1843 in Putlitz, Province Brandenburg in Perlesburg, Germany. She was baptized and confirmed in 1857.

Henry and Frieda, as they were called, were married on March 15, 1867 in the Elizabeth Church in Berlin, Germany. They lived in Berlin for eleven years until they came to America in 1878. They had nine children, of which two died young. The three oldest children came to America with their parents and four more children were born here. There is no record of when the two infants were born or died, but presumably it happened while Henry and Frieda were still in Germany.

It is known that Henry was employed as the horse trainer for the Kaiser when he lived in Germany. Hence the interest in horses through the generations of the Niemeiers.

When it came time for the Niemeiers to board the ship to come to America, Henry was desperately trying to sell his horses and buggy before the ship sailed. He almost missed the boat. Frieda, who was expecting a child at the time, and her three children were already on the ship. It was surely a frightening experience for them since they didn't speak a word of English. It has never been learned how Henry got on the ship.

After Henry and Frieda landed at Indianola, they located to Lavaca County and the other four children were born at Breslaw. In 1885 when their youngest child was one year old, they moved to Concrete. Later they moved to a ranch located about two miles from Clinton, which is outside of Cuero in DeWitt County.

To this union were born nine children, of whom only records of seven are available. They are: Alma Niemeier Haynes born April 23, 1868; Bertha Niemeier Schultz born January 17, 1873; Frieda Niemeier Haynes born September 7, 1877; Charlie Niemeier born July 19, 1878; Emma Niemeier Rabke born November 17, 1880; Martha Niemeier Rabke born November 6, 1882 and Henry Niemeier Jr. born November 16, 1884.

An interesting story is told about the time that Henry and Frieda's oldest child, Alma, was eloping with Doc Hayes. Supposedly Alma's father, Henry, pulled a gun on Doc so that he couldn't take Alma. At the same time, Doc's brother pulled a gun on Henry. In the end Alma went with Doc and they were married.

On April 15, 1903, Henrich Niemeier died suddenly at his ranch home near Clinton. He was buried on the ranch. His remains were later moved to the Yorktown Lutheran Cemetery by his son-in-law, Doc Haynes.

Frieda lived for about twenty more years, living with each of her children at one time or another. She died on June 4, 1923 and was buried beside her husband in the Lutheran Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

NIEMEIER, HENRY AND BERTHA SCHAPER

Henry Niemeier, the son of Heinrich and Frieda Niemeier, was the youngest of nine children and was born November 16, 1884 at Breslaw. He was raised on a ranch two miles from Clinton, which is located near Cuero in DeWitt County.

Bertha Schaper, daughter of August and Ida Gohlke Schaper, was born near Rabke on March 10, 1887. Bertha's father, August Schaper, was the son of John A. Schaper, the famous Methodist Circuit Rider preacher, who founded the Hondo, New Fountain, and Elm Church German Methodist Churches. At the time August and Ida met and married, John Schaper was serving the Rabke Methodist Church.

Henry and Bertha (Schaefer) Niemeier

Henry and Bertha married at the Rabke Methodist Church on August 8, 1906. They moved to the Niemeier Ranch at Clinton and ranched for several years. They moved several more times and farmed all their lives. Eventually they moved to Nordheim, where Henry served as Constable for many years.

Henry always owned and raced horses and for many years had the locally famous race horse "Old Rock". Henry was a member of the Nordheim Shooting Hall Club, where he and his wife, Bertha had the pleasure of celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1956.

Bertha lost her mother when Bertha was only eight years old. Her Aunt Mary Rabke raised her and there always was closeness between the families. Bertha was raised as a Methodist but in her later years joined the Lutheran Church in Nordheim. She was also a member of the Garden Club, the Home Demonstration Club, and actively helped those who were in need or sick. She was a loving friend and neighbor.

Henry and Bertha had five sons. They are: Arthur Adolph born June 6, 1907; Henry Jr. born April 9, 1910; Edgar Lee born September 29, 1914; Joe Clifton born December 21, 1921; and Clarence William born October 1, 1924.

Their son, Arthur, died in a automobile wreck on July 28, 1945. Their son, Henry Jr. died while they lived in Runge and is buried there. He died on November 5, 1915 of diphtheria. Bertha died July 16, 1969 and Henry died December 27, 1975. Both are buried in the Runge City Cemetery in Runge, Texas.

NORTH, ISHAM REESE

Isham Reese North, b. 9 October 1816 at Franklin, Tennessee in Rutherford County to Elisha B. North and Rhoda Reese, the youngest of thirteen children.

This submission centers around Isham Reese North, and his kin, who settled on a farm on the Upper Cuero Creek in 1840. It would take a very long book to write about his kinfolk.

Isham's paternal grandfather of Dinwiddie Co., VA, was John North, Sr. His known children were John, Jr., b. about 1760; Abraham B., b. Jan. 1763, d. 7 Feb 1856; Elisha B., Isham's father, b. 1 Feb 1769, d. 19 Sep 1837.

Isham's mother was Rhoda Reese, b. 1771 in Dinwiddie Co, VA, d. 1 May 1833 at Franklin, TN. Rhoda's father was Isham Reese, b. 30 Sep 1731, d. —. Rhoda's mother was Rhoda Thomas, b. —, a daughter of William Thomas, all of Virginia.

Elisha and Rhoda moved from Virginia to Tennessee in 1809. They owned slaves and farmed. In 1833 Rhoda died.

On 13 Sep 1835, Isham married Martha Jane Baker, oldest daughter of James McCullough Baker and Martha Jane Smith, of Maury Co, TN. Isham's father died 19 Oct 1837. Isham inherited his father's clock, watch, gun, house, some acreage and a negro boy, named Robin. He also purchased from his father's estate a negro boy named Isaac for $800, a girl, Aggy, for $860, and a baby, Patty, for $60.

The Bakers had moved to Sharron, Mississippi, about 1836. Isham and Martha were with them there on 24 Jan 1840, when Martha gave birth to a daughter, also named Martha Jane. The young mother died. That same year Isham and the Bakers moved to Texas, where Isham bought 1200 A. on the Upper Cuero Creek, four miles from Cuero, and with his slaves built a two-story log house and cleared land.

On 30 Oct 1841, Isham married his second wife, Mary Barrow. Their children were: 1) Ophelia Clementine, b. 23 Sep 1842; 2) William Elisha, b. 26 Dec 1844; 3) Valerie Marie, b. 8 April 1848; 4) Samuel Isham, b. 14 May 1849. Mary left Isham after a "fight" and got a divorce.

On 7 Aug 1851 Isham married his first wife's younger sister, Mary Clementine Baker Foster, b. 31 Aug 1826. (She was a widow of the Rev. Foster.) They were married by William Rice. The marriage license was issued at Clinton, the county seat before Cuero. Children of Isham and Mary Clementine were: 1) Viola, b. 14 June 1852; 2) Bolin Reese, b. 7 July 1854; 3) James Baker, b. 14 Jan 1858; 4) Gertrude May, b. 31 Jan 1859; 5) John Alynthus, b. 1 Feb 1861; 6) Robert Henry, b. 15 May 1863; 7) Thomas Murphree, b. 25 Nov 1865; 8) Paul, b. 7 Dec 1869.

Isham fought in the Battle of Salado on 23 Sep 1843. All the main body of Texans were killed. Isham was with Dawson and Sorrel Simons. None with Dawson were killed. It was related that Sorrel was hit in the stomach by a Mexican ball. He was sick at the time from eating too much spoiled beef. If it hadn't been for the bullet the beef would have killed him; if it hadn't been for the beef the bullet would have killed him.

Isham rode a mule at the time of the battle, not wishing to endanger his horses. Isham loved horses and possessed some of the finest horses, from Tennessee, in the area. It is reported he wagered heavily on horse races.

My grandfather told me that when he was ϵ small child the cotton Isham raised was much taller than it is now. By 1860 Isham owned ϵ total of 3700 A. and paid taxes on 64 slaves.

In 1861 when the Civil War broke out, his daughter, Ophelia, was going to school in Tennessee. Isham hurried to bring her home. They came down the Mississippi by steamboat. On reaching Galveston, they found Union gunboats blockading the harbor. The boat slipped through the blockade and Isham brought her home in a buggy pulled by a mule.

In 1864 Isham bought a house and lot in Conrete from W.B. Briscoe and Thomas Simms of New Orleans for three hundred dollars. After the Civil War, about 1867, Isham moved his family to Concrete where he kept a hotel and stage stand.

In 1869 Isham wrote his will; he was generous with his wife, children, and friends.

The story goes that Isham took his wife, Clementine, and young son, Tom, to New York City. One day Clementine went on a shopping tour. During this time a storm blew in. When she failed to return Isham set out in a foot of snow to find her. Meantime, Clementine returned to the hotel. Some hours later Isham returned soaked and chilled to the bone. When he found his wife safe and sound he was so relieved that as people will in times of stress, he became quite agitated and refused to take off his wet boots, resulting in his becoming ill. Shortly after that he died of what was called "galloping consumption." He died 1 Oct 1873 and was buried in the old cemetery at Concrete.

NORTH, JAMES BAKER JR.

F680

James Baker North, Jr., my father, was born on a farm two miles north of Concrete, Texas, 6 April 1894. He had four sisters and three brothers who survived childhood.

He went to school in Concrete. One of his teachers was his Grandfather Glass. He went to college in Del Rio, Texas, and farmed for a while. Once he ran away from home and ended up in North-east Texas. It cost his father $45 to get him and his horse back home. He went into the Navy during WWI, was stationed in New York City for awhile, and made many friends. After the war, he attended a Bible College to train as a missionary and met my mother, Anna Mildred Bartholomew. She was known as Mildred. She was also in training to become a missionary. They were married 22 April 1921, at Mildred's home in West Chester, Pennsylvania. The local paper reported that she had married James Binkendorf, the local baker. They honeymooned in Concrete, Texas. The Norths impressed her by serving each a half watermelon and kidded her saying they knew the dishes were clean because they had been washed by seven waters. Later she learned that the old hound dog was named Seven Mildred and Jim were not called to their mission post until about October of 1924. Jim worked, in the meantime, for his father, James Baker North, Sr. People soon found out Mildred was a talented and dedicated nurse. She helped Dr. Blackwell deliver many babies; at least two were named Mildred. Once, when a man came knocking at our door saying that his wife had a bad stomach ache, Mildred accompanied him to his home and delivered his wife of a healthy full term baby.

Shortly after my sister Marian Melrose was born, 11 Aug 1924, we left for Kenya. Dad taught the natives to plow and farm. They set up a mission farm and coffee plantation. Mother was much in demand night and day delivering babies, patching people up. There were lots of sick people. Once I stood outside the hospital looking for my mother. A lady came out and told me to go home or I would get a horrid disease. I didn't know what that was, but the way she put it, I knew I didn't want any.

While in Africa, my father was well received, especially by the Kenyan natives. He took off in a buggy pulled by a mule into a vast and wild unexplored area peopled by tribes who had seen very few white people. They called him Bwana Pua Mckubwa (Mr. Big Nose). Once Dad loaded the family in the buggy for a camping trip. One day we came upon a small village of the Masai tribe. They were in turmoil, upset, and afraid. A lion had killed one of their cows. They had an old gun with no stock and they had wounded the lion. A wounded lion who can't catch game will kill and eat people. Dad had with him an old double-barrel 10gauge shotgun. One barrel wouldn't shoot. He said if one of them would go with him, he would go and see if the lion was dead. They tracked the lion to some thick brush. As they approached, the lion jumped up fifteen feet away. Dad shot the lion in the throat. He was so close that the blast knocked the lion backward. All the people came and they had a celebration. The men who were with Dad commenced to chant and reenact the whole episode. Dad was a big hero to them. In about a year, the story had been told far and wide.

Unfortunately, Dad got a bad case of malaria which would not yield to treatment and we returned to The States.

From 1930 to 1942 Dad farmed in Texas and Pennsylvania. In 1942, on the strength of his Navy discharge, he enlisted in the Merchant Marine, serving during 1942 and 1943.

Dad, James Baker North, Jr., retired to Santa Barbara, California, about 1950. During a visit to New York State in 1971 he was killed in an automobile accident.

I, James Baker North III, was born 28 Dec 1922. My mother, Mildred Bartholomew and my father, James Baker North, Jr. met in New York City, where I was born, while attending a Bible College, studying to become missionaries. On 11 Aug 1924, my sister, Marian Melrose, was born on the De Witt County, Texas, farm then belonging to my grandfather, James Baker North, Sr. Some three months later, my parents received their long awaited call to a mission station in Kenya, British East Africa. Our family returned in 1929, just in time for the "Great Depression". We lived for a time in Concrete, Texas. I started school there. My first grade teacher was Mrs. Pittman.

We then moved to Cuero. Mother was a registered nurse and worked for Dr. Burns in the local hospital. Dad had a few milk cows and pastured them on public land where the Country Club and golf course is now. There was a nine-hole course farther out. Dad got the job of keeping up the course. On 11 April 1931, our sister Jean Ellen was born.

In about 1934-35 we moved to Pennsylvania to live with my mother's parents, William and Lillian Bartholomew. I attended schools in Bucks County.

In March of 1942, I went into the Merchant Marine. I shipped on oil tankers along the Atlantic coast and saw many of our convoy sunk by German U-boats. I shipped, also on freighters, in the North Atlantic, where MOST of our convoy was destroyed. In 1942 we went to Archangel, Russia, and home again. I stayed in the Merchant Marine until August, 1945. I was in Okinawa when our first child was born.

During a furlough, I bought a farm in Morrilton, Arkansas, where I met a beautiful girl, Laurine Bostian. We were married 2 May 1944. This year we celebrated 45 years of marriage. We have lived in Santa Barbara, California, since August, 1946. We have five lovely daughters and ten grandchildren. We are soon to be great grandparents. Our children are: Genetta Estella b. 30 June 1945; Patricia Ann b. 30 May 1947; Audrey Marie b. 13 Dec 1949; Marian Mildred b. 12 Nov 1954; Gloria Jane b. 17 Dec 1959.

NORTH, JAMES BAKER, SR.

F681

Jim was born Jan. 14, 1858, on his father's farm on the Upper Cuero Creek about 4 miles from Cuero, Texas.

He always said that when he was small he was gored by an ox. When he was very old he had his appendix removed. It was found that indeed his liver had been damaged.

Once while telling about his childhood, he related that one day he was playing up in a chinaberry tree near their home. Some Indians came on the warpath. He and his older half-sister, Ophelia, were the only ones at home. He stayed hidden and the Indians carried off Ophelia. His father, Isham, and some friends were out looking for the Indians at the time. When they returned Jim was able to put them on the track of the Indians. Isham and his friends were able to catch up with the Indians and rescue Ophelia, but not before an Indian shot her in the chest with an arrow. Luckily she had on a whalebone corset that deflected the arrow.

Jim went to school at Tehuacane in Limestone County, also Concrete College.

He was one of the last trail drivers. He ran away and went up the trail as far as Oklahoma. Somewhere along the trail he broke his arm. It wasn't set right and mended at a noticeable offset.

When his father, Isham, passed away he inherited some oxen, cows, horses, over $1,000 money, a one-sixth interest in a store in Concrete and over 600 A. about two miles west of Concrete. He built his home there. He said the lumber came by wagon from the coast and cost eight dollars and fifty cents per one thousand board feet.

Sometime before 1877 he married Dana Steen. They had a daughter, Dana May, born Dec. 28, 1878. Dana died before 1880. Dana May was living with her grandmother, Mary Clementine, on June 3, 1880.

Jim married Katherine Clover Glass of Hochheim on Dec. 5, 1881. Kate was born Feb. 1, 1862, at Hochheim. When he asked her father, William Johnston Glass for her hand, her father said he hated to lose her as she was his best corn planter. This may have been a joke as there was an old story about her that as a child she put all the corn in one hill so she could go play.

Jim and Kate had four girls and four boys: 1) Gertrude May, b. Sept. 25, 1882; 2) William Glass, b. Feb. 1884; 3) Thomas Murphree, b. March 19, 1885; 4) Mary Clementine, b. Dec. 12, 1888; 5) Margaret, b. Feb. 17, 1887; 6) James Baker, Jr., b. April 6, 1894; 7) John Edward, b. Feb. 23, 1896; 8) Fidelia Bertha, b. Jan. 1, 1898.

Their home burned to the ground about 1948. Kate died Aug. 1, 1949, and earlier the same year Jim passed away Jan. 27, 1949. Several hours before he died he said to his son, Edward, "Turn the radio off. I'm not going to need it any more."

Chris Spellmann Nuinez, second son of Joe and Tommie, was born January 24, 1946, and was a candidate for graduation from Texas A&I University when a car accident took his life on March 28, 1968. He is buried in Westside Cemetery in Yorktown. Elizabeth Ann, third child and only daughter of Joe and Tommie was born May 15, 1954, graduated from Texas A&I University and married Alfred Harvey. Joe Aladin Nuinez, Jr., grandfather of Joe Edward, was born January 15, 1866, in Louisiana. Records show that he was baptized at the Church of St. Magdalen, Abbeville, Parish of Vermilion, State of Louisiana, the son of Joseph Aladin Nuinez, Sr. and Remise Suir.

Remise Suir, also known as Mary, was born in 1849 in Louisiana, died January 12, 1883, and is buried in the Woods Cemetery near Yorktown, Texas.

Joseph Aladin, Sr., married his second wife, Mary Patterson, in June, 1883. After selling her land in Gonzales County they went back to Louisiana. He died in 1906 and is buried in Creole, Louisiana.

Celestin Nunez, father of Joe Aladin, Sr., was born in Louisiana in 1806 and married Marie Carmelite Broussard. He was the son of Joseph Nunez, born in Galizza, Spain, who came to Louisiana with two brothers, one named Adrian, the other unknown.

Louisiana records show the spelling of the name as Nunez. The earliest record we found with the present spelling, Nuinez, was in the deed records in Gonzales County, 1887.

OLIVER, JOHN CAREY AND DIANA (HINCKLEY)

F684

John Carey Oliver & Diana Gale (Hinckley Oliver moved to DeWitt County in September 1976. They purchased the old Floyd Ladner place near Westside Cemetery outside of Yorktown. John was born July 17, 1942 in Robstown, Tx. to Leamon & Libby Ruth (Drye) Oliver. They lived around the Corpus Christi, Tx. area and moved to San Antonio, Tx. where John went to Harlandale High School. Diana was born June 14, 1945 in St. Louis, Mo. to Elijah Gardner & Lucille (Lambert Hinckley. They moved back to San Antonio, Tx. in 1946 and she attended Alamo Heights High School.

They met and married in San Antonio & have one son Randall Carey Oliver, born July 8, 1962 in San Antonio. The family moved from San Antonio to Victoria in 1964 & stayed in that area until they moved to Yorktown. They laugh and say they are moving into smaller and smaller communities, but they love the feeling of everyone being a neighbor and friend.

John's family, as far as has been traced, comes from Shelby & Polk Counties in East Texas. Last year they went to their first Oliver Family Reunion and met many, many cousins for the first time. It seems the Olivers came from Georgia to Texas, and at that time Oliver was a very common name in Georgia and there needs to be more research done. There are even rumors that there is Indian back in the family tree, but at this point only rumors.

Diana's family has been well traced on several lines, and as most ancestors who came to America, they landed on the East coast, coming on ship from England and Wales. Then from generation to generation they slowly moved across the Southern States to Texas. Both John & Diana had ancestors who were here during the forming of the Republic of Texas, which shows real pioneer spirit. Diana also has ancestors who came to America on the Mayflower, and is a direct descendant of Pocahontas; but she doesn't brag too loudly on the horse thieves and scoundrels along the way.

John presently owns York Welding located at 535 E. Main St., Yorktown, and enjoys being a part of the business community. They are active members of Rocky Creek Baptist Church, members of various organizations in the community; The Masonic Lodge, The Eastern Star, The Daughters of the Republic of Texas, The Daughters of the American Revolution and The Volunteer EMS Service.

There son now lives in Bastrop, Tx. He married Lurah Scott and they have two grand-children Brandon Carey Oliver & Lurah Kathleen Oliver.

While looking back is fun and interesting it's the present and future that count, and John & Diana, both, praise God for all things.

OLSEN, MAGDALENA WEIGELT AND JOSEPH J.

F685

Magdalena Weigelt, the third child of John Weigelt and Margaret Wendel was born Oct. 4, 1872, in Colorado County, Texas. She moved with her parents to Victoria County, Texas in 1875. Magdalena attended Nazareth Academy in Victoria before moving to land purchased in DeWitt County in 1892. Magadalena was 20 years old at the time of the relocation to the land near Hochheim and it was not long before she attracted the eye of a young man who lived on a neighboring farm. He was Joseph J. Olsen, who was born in Chicago July 4, 1872, and moved with his parents, Henry F. Olsen, a native of Kiel, Germany and Ellen Coffey, from Toronto, Canada, to land located between Gonzales and Hochheim in what was said to have been the Denton Creek area.

In 1895 Magdalena Weigelt and Joseph J. Olsen were married and continued to live on her parents land near Hochheim. In 1910 Magdalena and J.J. Olsen moved to the Yoakum area. J.J. had farming at heart and acquired land near Yoakum where he farmed and raised cattle. He was a State Representative from Lavaca County when he died in March, 1920.

J.J. Olsen and Magdalena Weigelt had three children. The first child was Henry (1898-1965). He married Martha Ann Mergenthal, who preceded him in death in 1965. They had no children. John Olsen, the second child (1900-197 -) married Florence Dahlgren and they had two sons, John Paul and Robert, both of whom were killed during World War II. THE OROZCO FAMILY

Primitivo and Aurora E. Orozco settled in Cuero in 1951. Primitivo was born in 1914 to Felix Orozco and Teresa Vega in Atoloniquillo near Guadalajara, Mexico where they raised alfalfa on a small farm. He was the third of 3 children and took up bootmaking when he moved to Guadalajara. Aurora Estrada was born in 1918 in Cerralvo, Nuevo Leon near Monterrey to Gertrudis Toscano Gonzalez and Lorenzo Estrada. She was the fifth of 8 children. Her father was a U.S. company foreman in Mexico and in Texas. In 1924 the Estrada family settled in Mercedes where they still reside.

In Mercedes, Aurora attended segregated schools but eventually graduated from Mercedes High School in 1938. She was working at Lee Ann's Dress Shop when she met and married Primitivo who had immigrated to the United States in the early 50s.

Before settling in Cuero in 1951, the Orozcos lived in Kennedy and Halletsville. Primitivo found employment at Bohne's Boot Shop on Main Street. Because of racial discrimination, they were initially refused a home loan by Buchel Bank but then settled in at 311 South Gonzales St. where they still reside. The Orozcos have six children: Maria Teresa (1953); Sylvia (1955); Irma Estella (1956); Edmundo (1957); Cynthia Ann (1958); and Robert Alexander (1959). All graduated from Cuero High School.

Primitivo worked at Bohne's Boot Shop for 20 years and was recognized locally for his fine craftmanship in bootery. He made shoes and also crafted belts, wallets, and other leather work. In his younger days he enjoyed bicycle riding. Primitivo loves Mexican culture, music, food, and soccer. Likewise, Aurora worked as a salesperson at Lieberman's Department Store for twenty years until she retired in 1985 when the store closed.

Aurora has been active in Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, especially as president of the Guadalupanas Catholic Society (1971-1981), a member of the parish of council (1971-1983), and as a lector since 1978. She played a key role in fund raising through bingo and in organizing the church's annual Jamaica. She has been involved in a number of Mexican American organizations including Texans for the Educational Advancement of Mexican Americans (president 1968-70), Familias Unidas (secretary (1977-78), LULAC (secretary 1975), and is now a member of the Cuero Voter Registration and Education Organization. In 1970 she helped organize the first Mexican-American graduation class dance in Cuero. Aurora was honored in 1984 by the National Association for Chicano Studies in Austin for her work as a mother, writer, and community activist. She has written an autobiography. short stories, essays, and poetry, all in her native Spanish language.

Aurora has also been active in the concerns of the broader community. She was a member of the Parent Teacher Association (1958-1973), the Cuero City Advisory Board (1985-1988) for which she received a certificate of appreciation, has served on jury duty, attended school board meetings, and has been a diligent voter. She fought racial discrimination in Cuero schools so that her children could graduate and be prepared for college.

All six of the Orozco children graduated from college with a Bachelor's degree. When Life magazine featured Cuero as an All-American city in 1969, Maria was selected to represent Cuero. She was then a member of the Honor Society. Maria served as parish secretary at Our Lady and graduated from Victoria College, Texas A&I, and the L.B.J. School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas in Austin. She also attended Columbia University in New York and worked with Immigration and Naturalization Service Director Lionel Castillo in Washington, D.C. She has worked in Los Angeles and Dallas and is now employed by the University of Houston.

Sylvia was active in Future Teachers of America in high school and graduated from UT in Fine Arts. In 1977 she founded Familias Unidas in Cuero and helped organize Diez y Seis that year. A recipient of the National Council of Science and Technology scholarship, she attended the School of Fine Arts at UNAM (Universitaria Nacional Autonomous de Mexico) in Mexico City where she worked on a master's degree. There she founded the Center for Art Research and Information with her husband Pio Pulido of Mexico City. They have been commissioned by St. Joseph's Multicultural Arts in Houston, the University of Texas, and the City of Austin Public Arts Program to paint murals. She is currently co-founder and co-director of Mexic-Arts Museum with Pio.

Irma worked as a reporter for the Cuero Record and served as co-editor of Turkey Talk in 1973-74. She graduated in her class' top ten. At UT, she majored in journalism and broadcast news. She worked at several television stations in Austin and served as producer of "Saludos," a program on local Mexican American issues. She helped found Para La Gente, a bilingual newspaper in Austin with statewide circulation. She received a scholarship and attended the College of Philosophy and letters in UNAM in Mexico City where she worked on a masters degree in Latin American literature. Cynthia served as president of student council in 1975-1976, but after she gave her graduation speech, high school principal Dwayne Scott illegally fired her from her school job. A UT graduate, she is currently working on a Ph.D. in history at UCLA. She has participated in the Cuero Voter Registration and Education Organization and worked as Research Associate for Hispanic Studies at the Texas State Historical Association where she worked on the Handbook of Texas. She recently received one of ten $18,000 scholarships awarded by the Ford Foundation in Washington, D.C. to complete her study of LULAC.

Robert served as president of the 1976-77 Cuero Senior class and has attended five colleges including Rice University, the University of Texas, and San Antonio Community College. His B.A. is in engineering. He advises Cuero residents interested in his accomplishments to review the 1977 school annual but does admit he was a bright student. He likes Cuero because it allows for close knit friendships to develop over 60 or 70 years and he has enjoyed partying on West Main, especially at Arthur's. He also enjoyed being part of a happy family, living in a large house, and "zero-crime." Robert also loves Cuero's location because it is a launching point to San Antonio, Houston, and Austin. He is now an instructor in the Department of Microcomputer Technology at Palo Alto Community College in San Antonio.

PARGMANN, GERHARD AND REBECKA

F688

Johann Gerhard Pargmann was born in Oldenburg Schweiburg, Germany to Johann Martin Pargmann and Gesche Margarete Meinen on November 13, 1851. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and attended school in Oldenburg. He had five brothers and some sisters. We do know that one brother named Friedrich came to America sometime before 1897 and settled around Yoakum, Texas.

Sometime in 1871 Gerhard married his first wife Lina Johanne Antionette Duhm. He was married only a year when he had a son, Martin born December 24, 1872. His wife died at childbirth so Martin was raised by his grandparents though no one really knows which grandparents.

On November 9, 1880 Gerhard, age 29, married Rebecka Christine Friederike Pargmann, age 16, who was a cousin to Gerhard and also a niece to his first wife. Rebecka was born in Oldenburg Schweiburg, Germany to Hinrich Pargmann and Anna Katarina Duhm on July 4, 1864. She was also baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and attended school in Oldenburg. From my research it has been learned the church in which both Gerhard and Rebecka Pargmann, 60th Wedding Anniversary at their home in Nordheim, TX on November 9, 1940.

Gerhard and Rebecka were baptized and confirmed still stands and services are still held in it today. Rebecka came from a family of eight children. One brother Diedrich came to America sometime before 1897 and settled somewhere in Texas.

Gerhard and Rebecka's home in Germany was a two story house with a thatched roof. Farming was their chief occupation, raising rye and oats. They raised their own vegetables and fruits. The food was preserved and stored and lasted the entire year. Rebecka made soap and did her washing under their home. They also had some livestock and chickens. Gerhard did his butchering under their house and cured it in another room. He owned his own blacksmith shop not too far away. Their fields had no fences only drainage ditches which separated their property from their neighbors.

Twelve children were born to Gerhard and Rebecka. Their first was a daughter Anna Margarete Katarina (Meta) born February 17, 1881. Others were: Gesine Katarina (Gesina) born June 7, 1882, Johann Gerhard born May 19, 1884, Johanna Gerhardine born November 13, 1885, Dora Wilhelmine born March 23, 1887, Friedrich Hinrich (Fritz) born December 11, 1888, Hinrich Gerhard (Henry) born January 8, 1890, Sophie Friederike born April 11, 1891, Emil Gerhard born November 2, 1892, Berta Gerhardine born December 15, 1893, Elizabeth Hermina (Lizzie) born February 14, 1895, and Emma Elisa born August 6, 1896.

In August of 1897 Gerhard, age 45, and Rebecka, age 33, and their eleven children left Oldenburg Schweiburg, Germany for their new home in America. One daughter Berta Gerhardine had died March 23, 1897. Gerhard's son Martin from his first marriage stayed in Germany. He was already married at that time. They sailed on the Crefeld owned by the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. The Crefeld carried 162 passengers, of which. thirteen were Pargmanns. They were referred to as the German couple with the large group of children. The children ranged from 16 years to 1 year and the mother Rebecka was in a very delicate condition. The father Gerhard was a handsome looking man and had the sum of $400. The first ten days out of Bremen were the worst of the passage, strong winds prevailed. After that the passengers were all well and the passage was a fair one. They were at sea two weeks. Besides passengers, the Crefeld carried 800 tons of freight. On September 9, 1897 they landed in Galveston with eleven children. The history says there was another child born that same day, but did not survive. No one knows if the baby was given a name, most likely not, since there is no record of it to be found anywhere. On September 23, 1897 only fourteen days after they landed, a daughter Emma Elisa died. She was only 1 year and 7 days old. She is buried in the Hocheim cemetery. Maybe the trip was too much for her, or she came down with some sickness.

On September 10, 1897 Gerhard first took his family to Yoakum, Texas. His brother Friedrich was already living in Yoakum. We believe he had a place for Gerhard and Rebecka. They lived there for one year, then in 1899 they moved to Shiner, Texas. Their chief occupation in America was farming. While in Shiner another son, Willie, was born, September 23, 1899. After Willie there were four more children born, but they died in their infancy. In all, seventeen children were born to Gerhard and Rebecka, eleven lived and six died. While in Shiner, three daughters were married. Meta married Henry Janssen on January 6, 1899 in Cuero, Texas. Gasena married Joe Schaefer on December 29, 1901 in Shiner. Johanna married John Pieper on January 19, 1904 in

In 1907 Gerhard and Rebecka and their other eight children moved near Nordheim on a farm south of town where Emil Schaefer now lives. They lived here for twelve years. On December 17, 1907 Gerhard, Jr. married Martha Witting. Dora married Willie Buesing January 4, 1908. This was the first wedding of the family to take place in Nordheim. Henry married Agnes Huck on December 13, 1911. Sophie married Henry Steinert January 17, 1912.

In 1919 Gerhard and Rebecka and the three remaining children moved into the town of Nordheim where they lived until their deaths. The three remaining children married here. Elizabeth married Emil Boehl November 22, 1919. Willie married Mary Leister November 16, 1920. Emil married Minnie Koehler November 16, 1921. Emil was their only child to marry twice. His first wife, Minnie, passed away August 17, 1953. In 1956 he married Etta Hansman Rahe. Emil also was the only son to have to go to the service. He served in World War I. He was sent to France. He only served one year when he was discharged because the war had ended.

There were three special events which took place in the lives of Gerhard and Rebecka. On November 9, 1905 they celebrated their 25th anniversary with all their children present. On November 9, 1930, they celebrated their Golden Anniversary, and their 60th anniversary on November 9, 1940.

Gerhard died on March 12, 1944 at the age of 92. He is buried in the Nordheim cemetery. Three years later Rebecka died on April 3, 1947 at the age of 82. She is buried beside her husband in the Nordheim cemetery.

Through my research I have found that Gerhard's son Martin who stayed in Germany married Anna Marie Kruse May 1, 1896. They had five children, 2 daughters and three sons. A son and daughter are still alive today. Martin himself died July 28, 1944. Martin's grandson lives in the ancestrial home (Rebecka's birthplace). Only Pargmanns have ever occupied this home.

Of the eleven children of Gerhard and Rebecka, four preceded them in death. Meta died July 12, 1926, age 45. Henry died February 26, 1932, age 42. Johann Gerhard, Jr. died November 7, 1936, age 52. Willie died November 7, 1945, age 46.

After Gerhard and Rebecka passed away, the remaining seven children died in this order. Gesina died December 1, 1959, age 77; Elizabeth died March 22, 1960, age 65; Johanna died March 27, 1960, age 75; Fritz died October 8, 1963, age 75; Dora died January 3, 1970, age 83; Sophie died October 7, 1979, age 88. My own father, Emil, was the last child of the family to die. He died on February 2, 1985, age 92, reaching an older age than any of the other children. In fact, he reached the same age as his father. He died at the home of his two daughters Hilda Pargmann Dickey and Lillian Pargmann Rosenthal, son-in-law Nathan Dickey and granddaughter Rebecca Rosenthal in New Braunfels, Texas. He is buried in the Comal cemetery, New Braunfels, Texas beside his first wife Minnie. My father Emil was the last of his generation and as we said good-bye to him, we also said good-bye to his generation.

The history of my grandparents has been so meaningful to me. They were so very special to me and I spent so much of my time with them. In 1946, age 13, my family and I moved to New Braunfels, Texas. Grandfather had died. A year after I left Nordheim, grandmother died, too. I feel so blessed to have had so many good years with them.

There are two unusual items about this family which may make it difficult for anyone trying to trace the family history: (1) There were at least four people named Cyrus Park: Cyrus, Sr. (K.C.A.), married Mahala; Cyrus, Jr. (K.C.A.), married Mary Alcesta Darst; Cyrus (K.C.), William J.'s son; and Cyrus Elmer (K.C.A., Jr.'s son). There may have been more in later generations. (2) There were at least three people named Samuel L. Park: K.C.A. Park, Sr. had a son, Samuel L. born about 1824 in Arkansas; William J. Park had a son, Samuel L., born about 1856 in Texas; and K.C.A. Park, Jr. had a son Samuel Lewis, born 1889 in Texas.

PARKER, WILLIAM JAMES AND MARY CLAY (JEFFERY)

F694

Bill and Molly Parker

William James (Bill) Parker was born November 7, 1849, in Macon, Georgia. He died in 1933. He came to Texas with his mother, Dicy Parker, sister Sara, and twin brother, Henry. They owned a plantation and slaves. After the Civil War, they decided to leave Georgia, as their slaves were freed and their possessions destroyed. They left everything and came to Texas.

They came to Texas for Bill's health. He had studied medicine to become a doctor, but due to his health he never finished his studies. He went on the Chisholm trail cattle drive to Kansas.

Mary Clay Jeffery (1852-1938) came to Texas with her mother, Mary Jeffery and brother, Marion. They lived in Searsey, Arkansas. She was also in the Civil War. The Yankees took over their house and made her cook for them. When they left they took their barrels of flour and molasses and cut open their feather beds and let the feathers fly.

Bill Parker and Mary Clay Jeffery were married in November 1876. To this union seven children were born — Edward, Champion, Harriet, Anna, Dicy, Mary Agnes and a baby. Anna and the baby are buried at Burns Station; the others are buried at Alexander Cemetery, except Mary Agnes, who is buried in Houston.

After Bill and Mary were married they settled a homestead in the Chicolete community. They built a log cabin with a fireplace, where they cooked. Having no furniture they made beds with saplings, laced with rope. They had shuck and feather mattresses. They farmed, had cattle, raised a garden and always had plenty to eat.

They were members of the Primitive Baptist

PEARCE, MOSES SANDERS AND MARY EMMA ALFORD

F696

Moses Sanders Pearce and Mary Emma (Alford)

Moses Sanders Pearce, son of Sanders Tilden Pearce and Mary Ann Windham (Woodrum) Carter, was born near Jackson, Mississippi on February 23, 1844. Moses had two brothers, "Bug" and "Sug," and four sisters: Molly, Sally, Heneretta and Phoebe.

Molly married Peyton McNeil. The other girls were in a convent in Corpus Christi, Texas. Two of the girls took seriously ill and died in the convent from exposure and over-

In 1854, Sanders Tilden Pearce moved his family to Texas, settling in Gonzales. Two years later they moved to McMullen County, then a frontier of Texas. Later they moved to Live Oak County. Sanders Tilden was a teacher. After the Civil War, he returned to his profession and also, with his son Moses Sanders, established a mercantile store.

On January 28, 1862 Sanders Tilden Pearce and his three sons volunteered as Confederate privates in the cavalry in San Antonio, Texas.

Moses Sanders Pearce served under Capt. George S. Deats in Co. "C," 32nd Texas Cavalry Volunteers, then under Capt. J.K. Stevens of the 7th Texas Cavalry, Wood's Regiment and later requested transfer to the 36th Regiment of Texas Cavalry. After the recapture of Galveston, he transferred to Moody Co. "K" where he served in Steele's Regiment.

Moses Sanders Pearce, his father and two brothers were discharged in Gonzales (Houston) in the spring of 1865. The captain told them to go home, the war was over. At that time it was discovered that Moses had been too young when he volunteered and his father too old to have been accepted.

Moses Sanders and his father returned home, but "Bug" went toward Mexico and "Sug" toward Goliad. They both received DeWitt Land Grants. Moses, along with the partnership with his father in the mercantile business. became the Cattle Inspector. Bringing in supplies for their store was tedious and difficult. Some of the supplies came by boat to Galveston, while some came overland by wag-

Indian raids were prevalent during that time and Moses saw service in fighting the Indians in the spring of 1870 under Capt. I.B. Ammons. They operated in Live Oak, Frio, McMullen and other counties in that section of Texas. The county seat and courthouse was in an old barn belonging to Moses.

While the men were in the Confederate Army, Sanders Tilden Pearce's wife, Mary Ann, established a hotel and stagecoach business in Oakville. The stagecoach line ran from Oakville to San Antonio. She continued to operate this business long after her husband was deceased and until she became too aged to continue.

Oakville, at that time, was wild country and it became necessary for her to be brave and to defend herself and her property from desperate characters with revolvers and rifles.

In Tilden, Texas, Moses Sanders Pearce, met and married his dream girl, Mary Emma Alford on August 26, 1868. She remained his dream girl until the day he died. He would often say to those who visited with them, "Children, isn't Mother the sweetest and prettiest girl!" He was so devoted to her.

Mary Emma Alford was the daughter of L.B. Alford and Mary Alexander. She was educated in San Antonio schools. Mary Emma had one brother, Len (Lyn) Alford, who first married a Miss Young. They had two daughters, Ethel and Iva, and one son. After the death of his first wife he married Lida Hildebrand.

Mary Emma had one sister, Ada, who married a Mr. Snowden. To them, two sons and three daughters were born.

Moses moved his family to Clinton, DeWitt Co., Texas where he was engaged in farming and ranching. Moses and Mary Emma had four daughters and two sons. The two sons, Albert Sedley, born March 3, 1874 and William Tilden, born October 9, 1876, were shot and killed January 19, 1897 in Cuero. Sedley was seated in the barber chair and William was standing in the back doorway. The killer walked in and shot both the boys. There were several witnesses, but the witnesses were afraid to testify on behalf of the boys. The killer was known, but the Peace family was unable to have him convicted. However, when he was dying, in June of 1920 or 1921, it was told to the Pearce family that it took four men to hold him down in bed. He kept repeating "Mr. Pearce was going to kill me." What price justice! What price cowardice! The two boys were buried in Clinton Cemetery.

The daughters of Moses and Mary Emma Pearce were:

- Phoebie Elizabeth, born November 11, 1869, died December 28, 1911. She married Charles Lytton on July 2, 1891. Their children were Leves Mardellus, born May 16, 1892; Ethel Estella, born October 24, 1895; Lemuel L. born September 25, 1897; Alfred and Gaynell, twins, born April 6, 1901; Pauline born August 27, 1910 and Alvin, born March 12, 1908.
- 2. Adelia Mydora, born November 28, 1871, died November 10, 1933, married to Fred C. Schrade on January 26, 1898. To their union were born Carrie, who married E.E. Shirar; Albert who married Gladys Gallaway; and
- 3. Estella, born January 28, 1879, died July 16, 1971, married Alfred Randolph House on June 17, 1906. Their children were Alfred Estella, who died at birth, and Willie Lucille. who married Harry H. Meyer.
- Mary Zulma born January 24, 1881, died May 22, 1974. She married A.F. (Allie) Byram on November 28, 1906. Their children were Jack Pearce, who married Annabelle Johnson; Temple Earle, who married Helen Alex; and Zella Mae, who married Felton C. Warnken.

Later the Pearce family moved to Yorktown and resided there until Moses Pearce died, January 12, 1929. He is buried in Westside Cemetery.

During their life in Yorktown, Moses and his wife reared the children of their daughter, Phoebie and her husband Charles Lytton.

In December of 1912, "Dad" Pearce, as he was affectionately called, became a night watchman and served until March of 1921 when he retired. Each morning he would take his milk cows down to the Yorktown Creek and bring them home in the evening. The gentle people of Yorktown, who lived along his route. watched for him each morning and evening, to be sure he was able to make it home. When he died, he still had his membership in the Emmet Lynch Camp No. 242 of Cuero.

His wife, Mary Emma, died June 3, 1943 and was buried beside her husband in Westside Cemetery. She was a much loved wife, mother and grandmother.

PEAVY, DANIEL BRINKLEY

F697

Daniel Brinkley Peavy

Charles Drury Peavy

1822-1897

From the Cuero Record, January 13, 1897: Surrounded by his children and friends, D.B. Peavy gave up the ghost last night at 7:30 o'clock. Today Cuero is bemourning the loss of her oldest and most respected citizen. D.B. Peavy passed over the river and entered upon the shores of the way-beyond. His death occurred at 7:30 last night, and it has cast a gloom over the entire community. Coming to Texas in his early manhood, he has lived nigh on to half a century in this, his adopted place, where he has raised a family of children, all of whom are now grown-up citizens, and where he has accumulated an independent fortune.

Cornelia (Shults) Peavy

D.B. Peavy was a native Alabamian. He was born in Butler County in that state, March 10, 1822, and therefore was in his seventy-fifth year. Reared to manhood in Alabama, he married Mary Wallace of that state, to whom one child was born before coming to Texas. The fever to come to Texas overcame the young couple in 1850 and the young man, with his wife and one child, Abbie, came to Texas to seek their fortune. Their first year they lived in Goliad County, but in 1851 they located in DeWitt County near Clinton. A family of six children blessed this union, when the wife died, Mr. Peavy, afterwards in 1871, married Maggie Brooks (Margaret) to whom one child was born. This marriage was on September 1871 in his 49th year. A few years later our subject was again a widower, in which state he has since remained. His chosen vocation was that of stock raising which proved lucrative to him as is shown by his estate which today amounts to something over a hundred thousand dollars. His first cattle brand was registered in 1853: 3P. For years he served as County Commissioner and has been identified with the county's interest for years since taking up his citizenship here, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. Five children survive him to whom the sympathy of the community goes out. The funeral services will be from the home of his son, W.W. Peavy, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Daniel C. Peavy, D.D.S.

Margaret (Peavy) Heisig

Daniel Brinkley Peavy, age 39 years, enlisted August 18, 1863 in DeWitt County for six months in Captain Stapleton's Company A Cavalry, 24th Brigade, Texas State Troops, transferred to the Confederate States Army. He furnished his own horse, value $225.00; equipment, value $60.00; arms, value $25.00. Two muster rolls are on file at the Texas State Archives. (Mrs.) B. Brandt, Ass't Archivist.

After the war was over, he walked back to his home and family. The horrors of the war were never allowed to be discussed.

Later members of D.B. Peavy's first wife, Mary, came on to Texas to live near them: her father, Dr. Elias Alexander Wallace, and a brother, Dr. William Reese Wallace. After the Civil War, the brother returned to practice medicine with Dr. Fechner in Yorktown. A sister, Mrs. D. Brooks and her daughter, Margaret (Maggie), came after she was widowed by the Civil War. Now a widower, D.B. Peavy on September 13, 1871, in his 49th year, married Margaret (Maggie). A brand was registered for cattle for her in 1873: X4.

On August 7, 1876, a baby boy was born and named Charles Drury Peavy. The family lived on a ranch some distance from Clinton. The frail young mother was unable to breast-feed the baby but on the ranch was a loyal black family, the Harmons, who had stayed during and after the war. "Aunt" Nannie Harmon became the baby's wet nurse and kept him in good health. "Aunt" Nannie lived to be in her late nineties and to know that her grandson, Leonard Leroy Harmon, received the highest honor of the U.S. Naval Service when a destroyer was christened U.S.S. Harmon for his gallant service on board the U.S.S. San Francisco in World War II; the first time that such an honor had been given a black man. A visit with her shortly before her death was an emotional one for both of us.

Charles Drury Peavy was still very small when his mother died. His father registered a brand in his name when he was six years old: PV, that he used until his death in 1939. As time passed the father knew he must move into Cuero for schooling for Charles. He bought land on the corner of McLeod and Courthouse Streets, across from the First Presbyterian Church, to build a house for a widowed daughter, Ms. Abbie York, and a young child, Lou, to make a home for all of them. Charles was sent to Texas A&M and Southwestern in Georgetown, Texas. The house sold several times and was finally bought by the Presbyterian Church and a brick manse built.

On the 23rd of March, 1900, Charles Drury Peavy and Cornelia Shults (1829-1972) were married in Cuero, Texas. He followed the buying and selling of cattle throughout his lifetime. For some thirty years he operated the Peavy Gravel Pit where now the lake is in the Cuero City Park. The last several years of his life he was a DeWitt County Commissioner. He died in a hospital in Austin, Texas in 1939.

Charles and Cornelia had three children: Charles, Jr. born in 1901; Daniel Cornelius, born in 1903; and Margaret (Doll), born in 1905. Charles was graduated from Tulane School of Medicine in New Orleans, Louisiana and married a Sophie Newcomb, college student from Monroe, Louisiana. They moved to Cuero, Texas where Charles practiced medicine until he moved to Austin, Texas to be Administrator and Chief Surgeon of Brackenridge Hospital. They had one child, Charles Drury Peavy, III, who was sixth generation on his grandmother Peavy's line to live in Cuero. Later Charles married Mary Ideus and there were no heirs. Charles III was graduated from L.S.U., Baton Rouge, Louisiana and was called to serve his stint in the U.S. Army. Before leaving for his station in Germany, Charles married Elysee Hamlett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Hamlett of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. On their return from Germany, they both entered Tulane University in New Orleans, La., where Charles received a PhD in English literature and Elysee, a Masters in the same subject. Charles was invited to be a Professor in English Literature at the University of Houston, and Elysee received a PhD from Rice and is now Chairman of the English Department of the Houston Baptist College. After thirty years at the University of Houston, Charles retired and is now a certified Appraiser of Fine Art.

They have two children, Valerie and Pamela. Valerie is married to Bill Meek and they have one child, Alexander Buckley. Pamela received a Phi Beta Award from pre-law school at S.M.U. in Dallas, Texas. In 1988 she was graduated from law school at S.M.U. and is now with a law firm in Dallas.

Daniel Cornelius Peavy went to Texas A&M, and from there went to dental school at Tulane. From there he went to Baylor University College of Dentistry in Dallas, Texas where he was graduated Summa Cum Laude. He practiced general dentistry in Cuero, Texas before leaving for the International School of Orthodontics in San Antonio, Texas where he practiced orthodontia until his untimely death in 1962. He married Mary Terrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Terrell of San Antonio, Texas and had two children, Daniel Jr. and Robert Marshall. Daniel, Jr. was graduated from Baylor University College of Dentistry in Orthodontia and practices in San Antonio. He married Harriet Williams, daughter of Daniel W. and Caroline Carpenter Williams of Dallas, Texas. They left for Dan to serve his "stint" in the U.S. Army Dental Corps on a base in Japan. After two years they returned to San Antonio to open his orthodontia office where he still practices.

They have two teenage Eagle Scouts, Daniel and Gardner.

Robert Marshall was graduated from Sam Houston University in Huntsville, Texas where he was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. He owns and operates Engraved Stationers, Ltd., in San Antonio, Texas. Robert married Anna Rainey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rainey, San Antonio. Anna is an interior decorator on a limited time basis because their two pre-teenage daughters, Mary Stephanie and Margaret Anna, absorb most of her time.

Margaret (Doll) Peavy married Paul A. Heisig, Jr. in Alamagordo, New Mexico on October 15, 1941. Paul was originally from Beaumont, Texas but lived in El Paso, Texas since he retired from the U.S. Cavalry at Fort Bliss, going there from the University of Virginia where he was a Sigma Chi. Margaret (always known as Doll) continued to live on in El Paso after Paul's death in 1957. Her mother, Cornelia Peavy, then made her home in El Paso with her. She was very happy and active there until her death in 1972 at 93 years of age.

Paul Heisig had two daughters, Shirley and Barbara. Shirley married W.R. Weaver who designed and made the Weaver Gun Scopes, and the U.S. bomber sights during World War II. He is now deceased. Barbara married Ferd Baltz and had one child, Alice Lee.

The last will and testament of Mr. Squire Reid of the County of DeWitt, State of Texas. 1st; I direct that all my just debts be paid as early a time as practicable.

2nd; I will and bequeath to my daughter, Elizabeth, and her bodily heirs, the Negro woman Rachel, aged about fifteen years and her child, Jim, aged about six weeks. Also fifty acres of land including the dwelling and other improvements. This bequeath is made as an entailment and I further Will and Order that in the event my said daughter, Elizabeth, died without issue all the above mentioned property I Will and bequeath to my two sons Samuel and Henry Reid III. I Will and bequeath to my two sons, Samuel and Henry Reid, all the balance of my real and personal Estate that I now own or may be possessed of at my death; including Negroes, Lands, Tenements, stocks, money notes or anything else of any value. I desire now to State my reasons for bequeathing to my three youngest children all the property I possess. When I came to Texas, I was with no property but through the aid and assistance of my three youngest children I have been able to accumulate the little I now possess, and besides my two older children are well able to take care of themselves. Signed in presence of the two subscribing witnesses this the 9th of January, 1861. Signed: J.K. White and W.H. Kirkland.

Squire Reid, widowed, came out to Texas with daughter, Elizabeth and several sons. They followed daughter, Mary, and her husband, Mr. Allen, and their slaves. They had no children, and chose to settle in DeWitt County on the Guadalupe River bottom land some three miles from what is now Cuero. Mr. Allen died and Mary married William Thomas on February 15, 1856. William (1828-1905) was a very hard worker and, with the land Mary already had, they accumulated considerable acreage, some of which is now in the Dudley Bennet Estate, and Ed De Leon Estate. William and Mary gave Cornelius Shults and Alice Thomas (1857-1911) Shults, their daughter, when they married on October 28, 1879, 300 acres of land for a homestead. The land was three miles from Cuero on what is now Victoria Highway and joining the Sid Friar home place. This tract of land was kept in the family until the twenties when it was sold to Ed DeLeon. Cornelius and Alice had five children: Cornelia, Jessie, Ivy, Robert and Thomas. Cornelius died young and Alice reared the children alone. Cornelia born 1879, married Charles Drury Peavy on March 23, 1900; Jessie married Elias Nichols and had no children; Ivy married J.N. Beasley of Amarillo, Texas and they had one daughter, Mary, who married Lang Reid and they had two children; Robert married Ollie Stell, and they had one child, Robert Stell Shults, who married and had no children; Thomas married Libby Friar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Friar. Thomas and Libby had four children: Thomas Shults, Robert Stuart, Bess and Alice Ruth. Cornelia and Charles Peavy had three children: Charles Jr., Daniel Cornelius and Margaret (Doll). These three children are listed under Daniel Brinkley Peavy data.

Mary Thomas, wife of William, died and he married several times after being widowed. His last wife was Mrs. Hubby. He bought property in town that was undeveloped. It was bounded by Reuss Blvd. at Esplanade; on Esplanade to Bailey, to Clinton, and back to Reuss Blvd. corner. They built their home on the corner of Reuss Blvd. and Clinton St. at 210 E. Reuss Blvd. It is now in 1989 the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Tarkington. The house has sold several times and numerous changes were made. In 1911 William sold the land bounded by First Street, N. Esplanade, Bailey and Gonzales to Dr. John Burns for the very modern three story brick, Burns Hospital. The life of this hospital has been recorded elsewhere by members of the Burns family.

PEEBLES FAMILY F698

Dr. Robert Peebles

Dr. Robert Peebles came to Texas in 1828. Born in South Carolina in 1798, he was the grandson of Lewis Peebles of Cheraw District, S.C., who furnished supplies to the Continental troops during the American Revolution. These Peebles were descended from Captain David Peebles, who came to Virginia from Scotland in 1649, which was the year in which the Parliamentary forces beheaded King Charles I of England. As an officer in the King's Royal Army, which had been defeated, David sought a safer climate in the New World.

In Texas Dr. Peebles was associated with Stephen F. Austin's colony and received a grant of land in Ft. Bend Co. In 1831 he served on the first Board of Health in San Felipe. In 1835 he was one of the witnesses to a codicil to Austin's Will.

In 1849 Robert Peebles and his wife, Mary Trigg Peebles, bought land from Churchill Fulcher in DeWitt Co., and built a home on this land across the Guadalupe River from Concrete. It was under the large old live oak trees near their house that friends and neighbors gathered on July 8, 1849, and organized the first Presbyterian church in the county.

Having served in 1842 as Representative from Ft. Bend Co. to the Seventh Congress of the Republic of Texas, Dr. Robert was elected in 1851 to serve as Representative to the State Legislature from DeWitt and Gonzales Counties

Mary Peebles died in July of 1853, and in 1856 Dr. Peebles married Lucy Ann Trigg, a niece of Mary's. Born in Jackson, Tenn., Lucy was a daughter of William and Elisa Rawlings Trigg, both of whom were deceased, so Lucy was living in New Orleans, La., with her sister and brother-in-law, Rachel and John O. McGehee. Lucy and Robert had two children, John O. McGehee Peebles (born Jan. 21, 1859 in New Orleans) and Katherine Earl (Kate or Katie).

Dr. Robert Peebles died "of apoplexy" at his home on July 12, 1871, and was buried on his property beside Mary. He had lived through trying and exciting times, and was even accused, in 1832, of "land grabbing" 400 leagues. Later he and his partner, F.W. Johnson, surrendered that land. Nevertheless, he still owned wast properties, buying thousands of acres from the Mexican government. Most of this land was sold for taxes by his widow.

The Peebles' son, Johnny, was sent back to Jackson, Tenn., for his education. Slight of build, he suffered with asthma and was never very strong. In 1885 he married Miss Marion Blake, who was from South Carolina. (See Blake Family.) They first lived in rented rooms in Concrete, but Johnny built a house on his land across the river, and in the fall of 1886 they were living there when their son, Robert, was born. Marion did not long survive, John Peebles was in need of help in raising his infant son, and Marion's mother, Fanny Bigelow Blake (Mrs. Joshua Blake), being then a widow and all her children except the youngest being grown and gone from home, came from South Carolina to care for the baby. With her came her daughter, Warrenetta.

In 1888, John and Warrenetta were married. To them were born four sons, John O. McGehee, Jr., William Trigg, Clarence (called Tom), and David Earl (Pat), and one daughter, Fannie. When Pat, the youngest, was but four years old and "Warnie" only thirty-five, Johnny died on August 27, 1904. Mrs. Blake continued to make her home on the ranch, and she and Warnie raised the Peebles children.

Robert married Ione Clark and lived in Lufkin, raising a family of four, Mary Elizabeth, Robert Blake, Jr., Lois, and Lucille. John McGehee lived in Bryan and had a son, John Siddell. Trigg, who farmed in DeWitt County, married Ona Nichols and had twins, Dorothy and Donald. Tom lived in Nixon, no children; and Pat married Dora Alexander of Jackson Co. and lived on a ranch in that area. They had a baby girl who died soon after her birth.

Fannie married Blake Alexander who was from Cuero and whom Warnie had hired to manage the ranch for her. They had a daughter, Elizabeth Blake Alexander.

Of Warrenetta's children, only Tom is alive today (1989). Of her grandchildren: Donald Peebles lives in Victoria; John is deceased (two daughters in Houston); Dorothy Peebles Allen lives in Cuero, as does her son, Tony, who is Cuero's Chief of Police. Elizabeth Alexander Muir (now Taylor) lives on a part of the old ranch.

PENNER, EMIL E.

F699

Emil and Bernice Penner called Cuero their home though neither were born or raised in DeWitt County.

Emil was born in Newton, Kansas Jan. 2, 1911, and he died as a resident of Cuero, July 10, 1998. His father, Peter Penner was born in 1870 in Russia, and immigrated to America in his youth from Germany in 1887. Anna Epp, born April 14, 1877 married Peter Penner in Newton on March 25, 1897. In the 1920's they moved to Wasco, Kern County, California where they bought farm land, built a frame house, and raised eight children. Anna died Sept. 19, 1933, and Peter died Aug. 4, 1957. After attending school in that area, Emil was keen on flying, using his instructor's Biplane, however his prime interest was to farm. Therefore, he and his brother, Otto, entered into a partnership and they successfully developed irrigated farm crops. Emil was instrumental in organizing a youth softball league while a member of the Wasco 20/30 Club, serving as president in 1939. He had a lifelong interest in sports and helping young people to play them. He was a member of the Wasco Masonic Lodge No. 583 AF&AM.

Emil and Bernice Ellen Permenter married July 30, 1939 in the Union Congregational Church in Arvin, California. They resided in a cottage on his Wasco farm the early years of their marriage. During football season, they drove 100 miles over the Ridge to the Coliseum in Los Angeles for college games. They had one daughter, Jacqueline, born July 17, 1940 in Bakersfield. That year they moved to Arvin where he began his development of the farming region south of Arvin. Good times were had even with all the hard work, like the trip that he and Bernice took on the Lurline with Corinee and Arnold Cattani to Hawaii in 1951, or the salmon fishing tips to Alaska, and the hunting trips in Nevada.

He was regarded as one of the finest growers in Arvin, a distinction made more meaningful by the fact that he started farming potatoes long before the vast knowledge and technology we now take for granted were even available. He had the courage to learn it by doing it, and then wisely learning from his mistakes. Then he shared his hard-won knowledge generously with others.

In 1941 they built their manor house, a California ranch architecture of wood and brick construction with heavy shake roof, located in the foothills of Bear Mountain near Comanche Point. There was a family orchard and gardens. They enjoyed horseback riding in the cool of the evening on their pair of matched black Morgans and early morning bird hunting in the foothills, or around the perimeter of the grain fields. On special occasions children were entertained with home movies, reels of film projected on a large screen. The Penner's were involved in civic duties, church, school, and community activities.

In 1941-42 Emil built and organized his Gold Ribbon Potato Packing and Shipping Warehouse. In December 1942 the Dept of Agriculture negotiated a contract with Emil and Bernice and the United States of America to lease certain acreage for the production of guayule shrubs or plants, known as the Guayule Emergency Rubber Project, a World War II effort. Over the ensuing years he invested in fertile farm land, growing diversified crops, and expanding his farming operations to include the Flying Lazy E Ranch, a cattle-growing, feeding, and marketing operation.

The 1952 Earthquake ravaged home and land in mid-summer, everything literally ceased. Electric power down, water wells damaged, and in the fields land shifted making straight rows of crop rows irregular. Emergency power crews from other counties came in, service was restored within two weeks, water wells were reworked as possible.

In the house everything was turned upside down, all cupboards emptied, windows broken, hugh cracks in the swimming pool. Clean-up crews shovelled debris, windows were boarded, and house movers were brought in to relevel the buildings. It was a devastating experience with the house totally vacated for several months; the damage was overwhelming.

In those years professional entertainers made appearances at the Harvey Auditorium in Bakersfield. Bernice recalls some of those they particularly enjoyed were Opera stars, Lily Pons, Liberace, Singer, Nat King Cole, and the great jazz singer, Louis Armstrong. Big name Bands travelled through the land, and they danced to Harry James, Phil Harris, and Les Brown, to name a few. Later these became Big name entertainers in Las Vegas, on Broadway, and Hollywood.

Emil served on the board of directors of the Montecito School for Girls in Santa Barbara, was a member of the Al Malaikah Shrine in Los Angeles, and he and Bernice were charter members of the Bakersfield Country Club, he was an avid golfer.

Bernice Ellen was born April 18, 1919 in Bakersfield, the eldest of six children. She graduated from Kern County Union High School in 1937, has a business degree from Lufkin's Business College and attended the University of California in Los Angeles.

Her parents, Millard Finis "Buck" Permenter, born Jan. 12, 1897 in Floydada, Floyd County, Texas and Millie Elizabeth Jenkins, born in Santa Maria, California, March 1, 1895, married June 23, 1918 in Bakersfield. Their ancestors were early American settlers from England: John J. Issue Nancy Melvina Heath born July 26, 1867 in Benton County, and Joseph Edward Jenkins born 1861 in West Virginia, married 1886 in Benton County, issue Millie Elizabeth. Her father moved his family to Kern County where he established a prosperous dairy farm in Rosedale, and later Standard Oil Co. leased and developed oil production on his land.

The Permenter's were listed in England 1500-1600, Issue 271, July 1914 of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register. The Permenter's came from Normandy, (Vikings), the Northern coast of France to England through William the Conqueror. Later the lure of the West brought them to America in search of prosperity and a new life. They probably landed in the Isle of Wight County, Virginia about 1610. Here they learned to cope with difficult work, strange languages, and foreign culture, as the New Americans came from all over the world. From Virginia they went through South Carolina to Edgecome and Anson counties in North Carolina. Here the early settlers were called Caviliers and Pioneers. The West still lured and the Permenter's moved to Mississippi and later to Texas, New Mexico, and California. They were all land owners, having started in North Carolina. As they moved west they bought and sold land in Mississippi and in Texas.

During World War II they were also involved in the Guayule Emergency Rubber Project with the Agriculture Dept. of the United States of America. During World War I. Millard was leaving Bakersfield on the train going to war", enroute to camp, nevertheless. The train had travelled a very short distance, near the old brick yards, when news was received that the war was over, the train backed into Southern Pacific Station before the tears were dried and the crowd had returned home. Millie was a staunch supporter of the family, church, and the community. Both parents have died and are buried in Greenlawn Cemetery in Bakersfield, Millard, July 26, 1966, and Millie, Jan. 19, 1985. Their country home has been maintained by their granddaughter, Millie P. Blackburn Cadmus and family.

Emil and Bernice have two grandsons, Jacqueline married Jack Garner Smith, January 18, 1957 in Yuma, Arizona. Issue, Scott Edward Garner Smith, born Oct. 9, 1957 in Bakersfield. Jacqueline's second marriage to Ronald Beaton in Nov. 1960 in Santa Barbara. Issue, Craig P. Beaton, born Oct. 10, 1961. Jacqueline married Lt. Paul Elliott from Middletown, Kentucky in the Chapel at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, October 30, 1964.

In the 1960's Emil moved to Cuero with a second family, having married a Cuero native, Thrula Mae Lane. She had two sons, Walter C. Sager and Frederick L. Zentner. Emil established Penner Cattle Co., a cattle order buying business for his California and Arizona customers. Order buyers, Dutton Lane, Gene Finney, Elmer Krueger and Emil attended separate cattle auctions in south Texas on regularly scheduled sale days each week. During the '70's fuel prices soared, and freight costs as well, causing that business to eventually close its doors. Emil built a contemporary white brick house in town in a beautiful setting surrounded by spreading live oaks.

Thrula Mae died Feb. 11, 1969.

Having attended the Lumbleau School of Real Estate in Los Angeles, Bernice became active in that field in Kern County, serving as a director of the Bakersfield Board of Realtors, a Representative on the California State Board of Realtors, and President of the Women's Division in 1963-64. She married William H. Williamson of Cody, Wyoming April 5, 1963. He was Vice- President and Manager of Security Title and Trust in Bakersfield, and they were partners in the real estate firm known as Charles B. Webster of that City. William died July 26, 1969.

Emil and Bernice were reunited July 30, 1970 in the country home of her parents. They brought grandson, Scott with them to Cuero, where he had visited many times. With the consent of Jacqueline, Emil was granted legal custody and changed his name to Scott Emil Penner on Oct. 26, 1970. The following year they sold the Terrell Street house to Charles and Adelle DeBose Lucas, and built another white brick ranch style house on acreage located about two miles east of Cuero on the Victoria highway. Emil became active with the Boys Scouts of America and received the distinctive Order of the Arrow award for his years of participation and service in the 1970's. He was a member of the Lions Club, and served as deacon, Class of '77, and elder, Class of '82 of the First Presbyterian Church. Emil's generosity, which is still so well remembered, was but one of the ways he gave of himself. Bernice was active in the Community Hospital Auxiliary and served as President 1975-76. She was a deacon, Class of '81, and an elder, Class of '87 of the First Presbyterian Church. She maintains membership in the Native Daughters of the Golden West of Bakersfield. Wasco Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, life member of the Federated Women's Club of Arvin, and DeWitt County Republican Women.

Lynne Ann Dlouhy, born July 15, 1959 in Shiner, Texas and Scott Penner were married May 26, 1979, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Moulton. Their daughter, Natalie Ellen, was born March 22, 1988 in Victoria. They live in Coltoville near Victoria, Texas. Joel Spencer, born May 6, 1966 in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Craig Beaton were married in the Mormon Temple, Salt Lake City on April 12, 1985. They have two daughters, Allegra, born January 17, 1987 in Salt Lake City, and Mariah, born September 27, 1989 in Santa Barbara California, they reside in Carpinteria.

Entertainment for the family has changed from projector shown home films, and movies at the cinema to video tape shown on the television screen. Jacqueline P. Elliott completed the Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree, 1987 CCSU, Corpus Christi, Texas and will complete the Master of Fine Arts Degree in 1991 at the Braniff Graduate School of the University of Dallas. In recent years, having completed their Real Estate Licensing requirements Emil became associated with Bob G. Caskey in real estate, and also a partner with his grandson in the DeWitt County Paint and Surface Co. Scott who was with Emil in his last years, remembers that even while coping with his lengthy battle with emphysema, he always had time and concern for others. Bernice, meantime spent seven and one-half years as Office Manager for the Cuero Medical Clinic.

In 1987 Emil received the 50 years award from the Grand Lodge AF&AM of the State of California. The presentation was made in Cuero by W.H. McGill, district deputy grand master of the 34th Masonic District of Grand Lodge of Texas.

To sum up our story, at the Memorial Service and Masonic rites conducted for Emil in Bakersfield on July 14, 1988 the family clergy, John Martin of Arvin, had this to say about his life: "I would imagine that just about everyone here has a favorite Emil Penner story, and I would be willing to bet that each story would touch on his generosity or his intelligence, his competence as a farmer, rancher, business man, or his ability to have a good time, some of those times being more appropriately remembered in contexts different from this one. You put them together and you have the portrait of a complex man who lived life very fully, who gave a lot more than he got, where character never lost its integrity through good times or bad, and who, win, lose, or draw, lived life on his own terms. It has been 50 years since Bernice and Emil first met in 1938. They were married in 1939, and as the next 49 years verified, they were destined for one another." On July 29, 1988 another Memorial service for Emil was conducted by Harvey Friedel, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Cuero.

Following early family tradition Bernice is a landowner in California and Texas, and in April 1989 she became associated with Margaret A. Thomas in the real estate business in Cuero, known as Eling Corporation.

PETERS, GEORGE AND ALWINE (SINAST)

F702

George and Alwine (Sinast) Peters

George and Alwine (Sinast) Peters spent their childhood and the first 17 years of their married life in the Yorktown and Garfield communities (DeWitt County), and thereafter their life was spent in the Nordheim community (DeWitt County).

George Peters and Alwine Sinast were married on December 15, 1896 in Yorktown, Texas in the Evangl. St. Paul Lutheran Church by Pastor J.K. Poch. They were both members of leading families of the Yorktown area. After their marriage, George and Alwine Peters moved to a farm in the Garfield Community and bought 200 acres in December 1905. Five children were born to George and Alwine Peters: Waldin Carl, on December 18, 1897; Frieda Caroline Sophia, on March 19, 1899; Leona, on January 27, 1901; Malinda, on April 23, 1903; and Caroline Louise, on September 2, 1908. In September, 1913, the George Peters family moved to their new home of 160 acres two miles north from Nordheim, Texas.

George Peters was born on October 26, 1870, one of four children of Charles (Karl) and Sophie (Kirgeleis) Peters in the Province of Hannover, Germany. In May 1872, the family came to America settling first in the Ander Community (Goliad County) where they lived for four years, and later moved to the Yorktown Community. George received his schooling in Yorktown, was confirmed in the Evangl. St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown, Texas on March 29, 1885, and grew to young manhood in Yorktown. He received his U.S. Certificate of Naturalization on November 2, 1891, in DeWitt Co., Texas. On December 15, 1896 George married Alwine Sinast in the Evangl. Lutheran St. Paul Church in Yorktown, Texas. Throughout George's life he was known as a very hard working and prosperous man who always provided well for his family. He walked tall, had a strong firm hand, yet he had a gentle style, and was well respected by all who knew him. He was a splendid type of citizen, a thrifty and successful farmer, prudent and considerate as a landlord to his farm workers, obliging and generous as a neighbor, loyal and true as a friend, and a model husband and father. He lived a devout and consistent Christian life and was a pillar of strength in the local Lutheran Church. Religion with George was an everyday affair, and not for Sunday display only. Besides being active in the church, he was very active in all community affairs. In the relatively short life of 53 years, George acquired approximately 1,200 acres of property in the DeWitt County Alwine (Sinast) Peters (born as Caroline Amalia Alwine Sinast), one of six children of Frederich and Caroline (Gerhardt) Sinast, was born on September 15, 1876 in Yorktown, Texas. Alwine was baptized on May 21, 1877 and was confirmed on March 22, 1891 in the Evangl. St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown, Texas. She grew to young womanhood in the Yorktown community. Alwine was a devout Christian who practiced her Christian religion in everyday life, and was a very devoted mother and charitable friend and neighbor. She was an active member of the Lutheran Ladies Aid, as well as being active in all community functions.

On December 15, 1921, George and Alwine observed their silver wedding anniversary, which was one of the largest celebrations witnessed in the Nordheim community at that time. It was celebrated at their pleasant country home. Everybody in the area was welcomed to the celebration, and it was estimated conservatively that at least 800 people were present. A good many people journeyed to the celebration in buggies and even on horseback and on foot. The celebration began mid-afternoon. There was plenty of food to eat and to spare for all who attended. A diversification of food was served including barbecued meat, turkey, pork, sausage, all sorts of vegetables, fruits, etc., which were furnished right from the Peters farm. And, at midnight, coffee cake and sandwiches were served to the same crowd no one had gone home.

A large open-air dance platform had been erected especially for the occasion and it was filled with merry dancers for many hours. Music was provided by Alfred and Ben Zedler, Gus Grosse and Fred Brunkenhoefer. In this connection it may be stated that Gus Grosse and his father had played at the original Peters-Sinast wedding celebration 25 years before. In fact there were numbers of people present who attended the original wedding 25 years ago. Old-time squares were danced — the celebration was a delightful one — and one that was enjoyed and long remembered by all who attended.

While working on a windmill on the farm, George suddenly was stricken with a heart attack, which abruptly took his life on February 10, 1924. His death was quite a shock to the Nordheim community. Only that morning, George had been in town taking out some parts for the repair of his windmill. His son, Waldin, was helping him repair the mill. Though of robust appearance, George had occasional heart attacks for some time, and had suffered an unusually severe one only about two weeks before. George was buried at the St. Paul Lutheran Cemetery in Nordheim on February 12, 1924. George was preceded in death by his parents, Charles (Karl) and Sophie Peters; and one brother, Frederick (Fritz) Peters. Those surviving him at the time of his death were his wife, Alwine; five children: Waldin, Frieda, Leona, Malinda and Caroline; a brother, Heinrich (Henry) Peters; and a sister, Mrs. Friedrich H. (Sophie) Heldt.

Alwine took over the task of running the farm after George's death. She was in delicate health for many years with diabetes. About 10 weeks before her death while returning from a visit to her physician, she suffered a broken leg in an automobile accident. This together with other injuries, her long suffering and her weakened condition was too much for her. She died on August 30, 1947 at a Cuero hospital. Throughout her illness, she always maintained a cheerful outlook and never gave up hope that she might soon be able to be up and about again.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Frederich and Caroline Sinast; husband, George; and a brother, Emil Sinast. Surviving her at the time of her death were her five children: Waldin Peters, Miss Frieda Peters, Mrs. Willie (Leona) Gaedke, Miss Malinda Peters, and Mrs. Edwin (Caroline) Klaevemann; four grandchildren; one brother, Max Sinast; and three sisters, Mrs. Gus (Mary) Henze, Mrs. Herman (Theresa) Gips, and Miss Louise Sinast.

Waldin Peters married Ruth Harper of San Antonio on May 2, 1933. They had two children: Robert Carl, and a daughter died in infancy. Leona Peters married Willie Gaedke of Nordheim on January 18, 1923. They had no children. Frieda and Malinda Peters never married. Caroline Peters married Edwin C. Klaevemann of Nordheim on September 7, 1933. They had four children: Carlos, Lloyd Neil, William George, and Kay Carol.

She worked for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Nordheim as a telephone operator for many years. She purchased a home in the city of Nordheim, was engaged in farming and ranching, and had acquired property in the Nordheim and Garfield areas. Malinda was always a fun loving person. She was a jovial person who enjoyed her life to the fullest. Often times her home served as a gathering place for her niece and nephews, and their friends. Malinda enjoyed company as much as people enjoyed being at her home. Her niece remembers that at family gatherings, Aunt Malinda always had candy in her pockets to give the children, and it was a great delight to her to give it to the children. She was active in community functions and was a member of the St. Paul Lutheran Church of Nordheim.

Malinda was stricken by Parkinsons disease early in mid-life. The last couple of years of her life she lived at the Yorktown Nursing Home. Miss Malinda died on October 26, 1982 in the Yorktown Hospital. Waldin and his wife were active members of the Highland Park Lutheran Church of San Antonio, and were active in community functions. Waldin and his family traveled extensively throughout their married lives. Each vacation was spent in a different part of the country and they traveled to nearly every state in the U.S.

Waldin suffered a heart attack about six years before his death, but was able to continue his vocation as shipping clerk for a few years until about a year before his death, when he suffered another heart attack. Two months before his death he suffered another heart attack from which he never recovered. He passed away at his home in San Antonio on April 11, 1958. Preceding him in death were his parents, George and Alwine (Sinast) Peters, and an infant daughter. PEYTON, JAMES J., JR. FAMILY

James J. Peyton Jr. (Jim), son of the late Capt. J.J. Peyton and Hannah O'Connor Peyton, was born in Ft. Riley, Kansas in 1917. When his second sister was born, his mother died in childbirth. The three children were adopted and reared by a maternal aunt and her husband, Katherine O'Connor and Harrison F. Pierce of Garden City, Long Island, N.Y.

Back: James J. Peyton, III, Vincent H. Peyton. Front: May Frances Peyton, James Peyton, Jr., Patrick Peyton and Frances (Lempa) Peyton.

After graduating from high school, Jim enrolled in Columbia University in New York City. He was active in sports, particularly boxing. In 1936 he received the New York Daily News Golden Gloves Award.

On one visit to Texas to see his father, he met his wife-to-be, Frances Ruth Lempa. She was teaching at Medina Lake. Captain Peyton lived in Mico (Medina Irrigation Co.) and commuted daily to Ft. Sam Houston.

Frances was the daughter of Vincent Lempa and the late Mary Hadamek Lempa. Born in the Five Mile Community in DeWitt Co., she attended school in Clinton, Ratcliffe, and graduated from Cuero High in 1931. She enrolled at South West Texas Teacher's College (known then as SWTTC) in San Marcos. A scholarship from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs financed her through the freshman year. She taught in the Maverick School in Medina County for a number of years before returning to Cuero and accepting a position at Clinton the school that she attended her first year of school. She began her second year at Clinton but resigned in November to marry. Ninety applied for her job.

James J. Peyton Jr. and Frances Ruth Lempa were married in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Cuero by Rev. Wm. Jansen on Nov. 23, 1939. The newlyweds returned to New York where Jim was employed with the Garden City Village Water Department. One highlight of the trip was a stopover in Niagara Falls, N.Y. with a visit across the border into Canada.

At the beginning of WW II, Jim went to work at Grumman's Aircraft Corp. in Farmingdale, N.Y. until he was drafted in 1945. Frances and their small sons headed for Texas to live in Cuero with her father and stepmother.

After Jim's return from service in Germany, the Peytons decided to sell their home in N.Y. and move to Texas. Their young sons, James J. III and Vincent H. were very happy with life in the country. Both boys enrolled at the Ratcliffe School where their mother resumed her teaching career. In 1951, son, Patrick joined the Peyton family. His mom again taught and 1951-52 was the last year Ratcliffe school was in session because the Gilmer-Aiken Bill required an ADA of 15 and the school came up with only 14.6 students present each day. In 1952-53 the Ratcliffe students began attending the Cuero Schools.

For the next four years or so, Frances was a mother and homemaker. A daughter, Mary Frances, arrived in 1953. The Peytons finally had a daughter! All four children had been born prematurely. Jimmy, the oldest, had to spend 42 days in the incubator. Patrick stayed only two weeks and Vince and Mary F. weighed five pounds at birth so they could come home with Mom.

When Patrick and Mary F. became of school age, Frances again began teaching. She taught in the Meyersville School at Meyersville in the elementary grades. During those years she worked toward her college degree and received a BS in 1963 and an ME in 1967 from Southwest Texas Teachers College in San Marcos.

James III (or Jimmy) graduated from high school at St. John's Seminary in San Antonio. Later he attended Victoria College until he enlisted in the U.S. Navy. He is a consultant in the Navy's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Program. Jimmy and his wife, the former Beatrice Midkiff of W. Virginia, are stationed in Bermuda, Br. Is. where the U.S. maintains a Naval Air Base. Their two children, James J. IV, and Jeanette, reside in Texas and Florida respectively.

Second son, Vince, attended St. Michael's School, (beside the year at Ratcliffe) St. John's Seminary, and graduated from Cuero High in 1960. He attended Victoria College, U of T, and received his degree from St. Thomas U. in Houston after his service in Vietnam. He is employed by a major construction company in Houston that builds petrochemical plants and is assigned jobs (as cost analyst) anywhere on the globe. His latest assignment was in West Australia that lasted three years. He, his wife, the former Mae Michalic of Moulton, and daughters, Ann and Laura, reside in Stafford, Texas.

Patrick (Paddy) graduated from Cuero High School. He was a member and officer of the F.F.A., and band president during his senior year. He also attended STSU in San Marcos. He married Linda Machost from Yorktown where the couple resides with their two children, Tracy Ann and Travis. Patrick is employed by Marine Drilling Co.

Mary graduated from Cuero High in 1970 and from the South Texas State University in 1973. She was one of a group of ten students who graduated from the South Texas State University with highest honor. There were over three hundred graduates. That same year she became the bride of Robert W. (Bob) McCurdy. The McCurdys have a son Mathew Pierce and daughter Mary Katherine. Mary is a teacher in the Cuero ISD.

When the Peyton family moved from New York to Cuero, Jim began working at Dewitt Co. Producers Assn. He was manager for the feed co-op for thirteen years before a job was available at the Cuero Post Office. He had worked at the Garden City, N.Y. office after returning from service in WW II. He retired from Cuero Post Office in 1979. Frances retired from teaching in 1980 after eleven years in Cuero ISD.

The Peytons had purchased a tract of land from her father's neighbor, Fritz Rabke. They built a home and moved in just a week prior to Patrick's arrival. The home is located on Highway 183 South, seven miles from Cuero.

PHILLIPS, JOSEPH L. F707

Joseph and Martha had five children while living in Alabama — Clement Reymonds (1866-1958), Jessie Hatchet (1872-1959), Mary Alma (1875) William Newton (1872-1959), and Lida Jane (1869-1880). After the death of their daughter Lida Jane, Joseph and Martha decided to move to Texas with their remaining children.

Joseph, Martha and their children moved from Eutaw, Greene County, Alabama to Texas with several other families in 1881. The trip had been organized by Thomas Henry Eatman who eventually married Jessie Hatchet Phillips in 1889 (See Eatman history).

The families first traveled by train to New Orleans where they then boarded a steamship (Morgan Boat Line) which landed in Indianola, Texas. The Eatman and Phillips families settled near Cuero, Dewitt County, Texas.

Joseph and Martha were farmers in Texas just as they had been in Alabama.

They had two more children — Sarah Emma (1884) and Hattie Covey (1887).

Martha died March 24, 1887, only four days after Hattie Covey was born. Hattie died a week later. Both are buried on private property in Nursery, Texas.

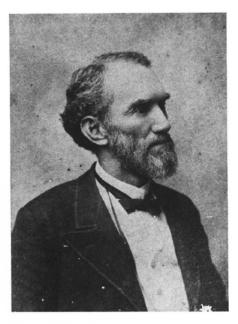

After Martha's death, the family remained in Cuero for a while but eventually went their separate ways to other parts of Texas.

The Atkinsons came to Texas in 1856. They owned a cotton plantation in Gonzales near the town of Mansfield. Four children were born to the Pleasants in Clinton, Texas: Mary Pleasants who married J.J. Cocke of Brownsville, Robert Atkinson Pleasants who was born in 1860 and married Julia White of Cuero, Harriet Margaret Pleasants, June 2, 1863, who married Walter Kibbe Breeden of Cuero and John Pleasants, 1866, who never married.

The J.J. Cockes had four children, all born in Brownsville: Anita, Bessie, Virginia and Joe. (No other information available.)

Harriet Margaret Pleasants and Walter Kibbe Breeden were married in Cuero on March 2, 1882, in Grace Episcopal Church with a reception in the home of her parents. John Pleasants, the youngest child of the Henry Clay Pleasants died in Galveston in 1933. He had been a clerk in the Court of Civil Appeals and he is buried in Hillside Cemetery.

Henry Clay Pleasants began his career at a time when his characteristics of courage and integrity suited him for his task. The Congress of 1876 had passed a document formally marking the end of the Carpet Bag Regime in Texas and the close of the Reconstruction Era. Often the courts and the strong arm of the law were the only bulwarks of the people of DeWitt County. It was at this time that Henry Clay Pleasants was elected Judge of the 23rd District. Those who were familiar with his service, credited him with above the ordinary judicial performance. He served during the period of the Sutton-Taylor Feud. He appealed for the help of the Texas Rangers under Captain Lee Hall when he insisted on bringing criminals to trial in the Brassel murder case. Although his life was threatened many times, he promised to bring peace and order to DeWitt County and to make it "as law abiding as any in the State of the Union." He often held court with a shotgun across his knees.

He was a friendly man — his greeting was kindly and attractive — he knew everyone.

Most of the time he wore immaculate white linen suits and always carried a golden headed, monogrammed, ebony walking stick. He was a tall, handsome man, strong and fearless. His wife, Eliza Ann, a petite, gentle lady, could stand under her husband's outstretched arm. She was beloved by all and known as "Danny" to the children.

Judge Pleasants was identified with the life and work of the Episcopal Church and taught a class in Sunday School for over twenty-five years. A stained glass window was given Grace Episcopal Church in his memory by his Sunday School class. He was a charter member of the church and the first Senior Warden in which capacity he served many years.

Judge Pleasants died unexpectedly in his office in Galveston on November 17, 1899. Out of respect to him the whole town of Cuero closed for his funeral which was one of the largest ever. He was buried in Hillside Cemetery. Mrs. Pleasants moved into her daughter's home and lived with the Walter Kibbe Breedens until her death on September 17, 1918. She was buried beside her husband in Hillside Cemetery.

PLEASANTS, ROBERT ATKINSON

Judge R.A. Pleasants

Associate Justice R.A. Pleasants was born at Clinton, the former county seat of DeWitt County, in 1860. Was educated in the local schools, afterwards taking a two years' course in Greek and Latin under Prof. D.W. Nash of this city. For some years he taught school in DeWitt county and afterwards attended the State University in Austin, from which he graduated in 1885 with the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He at once on entering upon the practice of his profession took rank with the strong and resourceful members of the bar and his professional career was ever pitched upon a high ethical plane. He is the eldest son of the late Judge H. Clay Pleasants, one of the most courageous and valuable men who ever occupied public position in Texas. These qualities of courage and fidelity were markedly transferred to the son. Upon the demise of his lamented father, Judge Robert Pleasants was promptly selected from all of the great legal minds of South Texas by Governor Sayers as his most fitting successor, and the several years of his encumbency have met every expectation of the governor and the most ardent hopes of his friends. He is naturally of a judicial bent and he is never so thoroughly engrossed as when searching out and unraveling some abstruse question of law. Judge Pleasants affiliates with the Masonic fraternity, in which he has attained the exalted rank of Knight Templar. He may be said to be just fairly entering upon a career of conspicuous ability and the highest usefulness. In December, 1886, he was married to Miss Mary White, the accomplished daughter of Dr. Aaron White of Clinton and Cuero, one of the most successful and highly respected physicians of the county. Since his appointment he has been several times elected to the office which he holds without opposition.

The Robert Atkinsons had five children. Three of the children died in infancy of diphtheria. The two surviving were: Aaron White Pleasants, October 9, 1887. He married Margaret Hamifen in 1918 in California where he was stationed after serving in World War I. The Aaron Pleasants had two children: Margaret and Mary Ann Pleasants. Aaron died July 17, 1974. Julia Atkinson Pleasants, the sister of Aaron, was born September 13, 1901. For many years she lived and taught school in Houston, Texas. She is now living in Cuero, her birth place.

In 1889 Robert Atkinson was elected Chief Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals where he served with distinction for thirty-nine years until his death in Houston, in 1948, Mrs. Julia White Pleasants died in 1959. Both are buried in Hillside Cemetery, Cuero, Texas.

POWELL, SAMUEL S. AND AGNES STONE

The Powell family were pioneers in each generation, beginning with their leaving Wales and settling at Jamestown, Virginia (and later other places in VA). Leven Powell was at Boonesborough, Kentucky with Daniel Boone as they blazed the trails for other settlers into the wilderness of Kentucky. Among one of the earliest settlers, William Powell, Sr. was granted land in what is now Madison Co., Kentucky and he settled there before 1789. Before his death in 1821, William Powell, Sr. had amassed vast acreage in the blue grass hills of Kentucky which was divided amongst his seven children: Edmund, William, Jr., Littleberry, Jeremiah, Mary (Polly), Obadiah and Joel Pace Powell. Littleberry Powell continued his forefather's planter traditions and built an extensive plantation near Richmond, Madison Co., Kentucky which was known for its hospitality. On 16 December 1807, Littleberry Powell married Sarah "Sally" Kerr, daughter of Samuel Kerr (a planter in Madison Co., KY) near Richmond, Madison Co., KY. Their children: Mary (Polly), Joel P., Samuel S., Benjamin R., Permelia, William, Jr., and Clarissa Ann were all born at the Powell plantation house (which was classical revival styled) and most of them married and died in Madison Co., KY. Samuel S. Powell was the exception as he died in DeWitt Co., Texas.

After completion of his formal education in the classics, Samuel S. Powell married Agnes Stone at White Hall, Madison Co., KY and their marriage bond was signed by Agnes' guardian, Benjamin Howard. Despite the lures of raising a family in the traditional planter's manner in Madison Co., KY (where the Powell, Stone and Kerr families had lived for over 150 years), Samuel S. Powell dreamed of the unspoiled wilderness. Encouraged by the reports from his Uncle James Kerr (early surveyor for Green DeWitt), Samuel and Agnes moved their family to DeWitt Co., TX but retained some of their property and business interests in KY, as well. This liaison between the Powell ranch venture in DeWitt Co., TX and the interests in Madison Co., KY continued well after Littleberry Powell's death in 1864. Some of the Powell children were taken back to Kentucky to be educated on one of the many trips to bring the highly prized Kentucky raised horses and other goods back to Texas.

It is thought that the Powell family stayed at the ranch in DeWitt Co., TX when Samuel S. returned to KY where he enlisted in the Confederate Army of Kentucky Volunteers and later fought in the Battle of Richmond, KY.

Samuel S. and Agnes Stone Powell raised a large family of twelve children: Sarah Elizabeth (born 30 December 1838, Henry Co., KY), married Fred House in Texas (probably in DeWitt Co., TX) in January, 1855, and died 10 January 1897, House Ranch, Davy, buried at House Cemetery, Davy, DeWitt Co., TX;

Harriet (born 1839 near Richmond, Madisor Co., KY); Mary (born 1840); Agnes (born 1841) Delila (born 1841); Houston Babbitt (born 1844-5), married Serena Elizabeth Burt, had Robert (born 1889), Mary (born 1891), Jim, and Henry Houston (born 19 March 1886, DeWitt Co., TX), married Evie Lena Cowey (8 children), died 23 March 1962, DeWitt Co., TX; William (born 1847); Benjamin (born August, 1850); Offa P. "Orphie" (born November 1852); Frances "Fannie" (born January, 1855); James A. (born 1859); and Elvira "Elveree" (born 1863). Offa P. "Orphie," Frances "Fannie" and Elvira "Elveree" never married and later inherited the Powell ranch after the death of their parents.

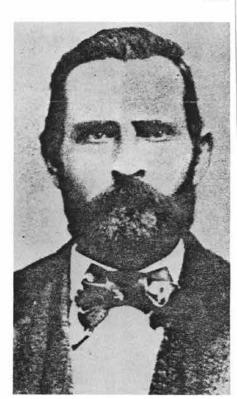

Samuel S. Powell died at the Powell ranch on 7 December 1890 and was buried at Salt Creek Cemetery, Davy, DeWitt County, Texas.

Agnes Stone Powell died on 17 December 1903 at the Powell ranch in DeWitt County, Texas and was buried beside her husband in Salt Creek Cemetery, Davy, DeWitt County, Texas.

PRIESTLY JAMES FAMILY

F721

James Priestly of Scotch-Irish descent was born April 10, 1817 in York District, South Carolina. Not much is known of his childhood, but Sept. 25, 1838, he married Elizabeth (Eliza) Ann Ragsdale in Rutherford Co., Tn. Their first child was born there. In 1840 they moved to Sabine Co., near Milam, Tx., where James and Eliza's kin had preceded them. They were there during the troublesome times with the Regulators and Moderators. James joined the militia to suppress the Regulators. Three more children were born there. Being of adventurous nature, he and other families moved by oxwagons to DeWitt Co., Tx. in 1845. Their journey was attended with many hardships, but there was an abundance of wild game. They ground their corn at night on a steel mill to supply themselves with bread the next day. After reaching their destination, they camped on the Guadalupe River. Indians were making frequent raids, stealing horses and murdering settlers. The nearest trading point was Port Lavaca. James thought this country was a paradise in the spring when the prairies were covered with buffalo clover (Blue Bonnets). He bought 115 acres of land and added to it through the years. He had a ranch where he raised four to five hundred head of cattle and horses. His cattle were marked with a split in the left ear and a small "3" on the hip. Seven more children were born here which gave them eleven. They are: John Nimrod b. 11-7-1839; William Phylandes b. 27-2-1841, d. 1873, m. Mary Jane Clayton 15-8-1861; Edwin Leonidus b. 26-1-1843, d. 1861; James Polk b. 1-12-1844, d. 13-6-1926, m. Catherine Davis 5-2-1874; Samuel Baxter b. 11-9-1848, m. Molly Goodson 23-12-1869; Ann Isabella b. 11-11-1848, m. Jim Goodson 20-12-1869; Mary Eliza b. 10-2-1852 m. Hardie White 1874; Martha Elizabeth b. 10-1-1854 m. Jim Scurlock 8-3-1874; Harriet Chappell b. 2-2-1856 d. 1875, m. Dave Winters 1874; Francis Montgomery b. 17-5-1858 m. Julie Cole; Louisa Josephine b. 25-4-1860 m. Sandy Matkin 1875. James was Justice of Peace for several years. He and Eliza were charter members of the Concrete Church organized Sept. 16, 1855. Eliza died June 4, 1860 of a fever just one and a half months after her last child was born.

James and four of his sons served under the Confederate flag during the Civil War. His eldest son was unable to serve due to a fall from his high chair into the fireplace. He was severely hurt and though he lived into his 30's, he needed constant care. A younger son enlisted late in the war because of his young age, but served six months. James enlisted in Co. I, 2nd Regiment, Tx. Infantry on Oct. 8, 1862 in Gonzales Co., Tx. He fought along the Yazoo River and was captured at Vicksburg July 4, 1863 and paroled July 7th, according to the terms of capitulation entered into by the Commanding Gen. of the U.S. and Confederate forces. He had to sign an oath of allegiance saying he would not take up arms against the U.S. again, but in a month he was back in the Confederate Army. He was transferred to Quarter Master Service as wagon and forage master because he was shot in the eye during the Vicksburg siege and unfit for field service. He was promoted to Q.M. Sgt. in 1864. On Dec. 15, 1864 he was again captured near Nashville, Tn. and was sent to military prison, Louisville, Ky. From there he was sent to Camp Chase, Ohio and discharged on Jan. 4, 1865. One son, Leonidus, lost his life with Gen. Sibley's Brigade in that ill-fated expedition into New Mexico and Arizona. He was 18 years old. The older daughters had cared for the younger children and kept the family together during the war years.

When the war closed James moved his family to Cherokee Co. near Jacksonville, Tx. There he met Sarah Ann Jones, a school teacher. They were married Jan. 3, 1867 and to this union were born five children: Austin b. 1868, m. Olivia Dial 1901; Laurah B. b. 1870, m. Thomas W. Cole 17-7-1887; David A. b. 1873 m. Bonnie; Finis C. b. 1876 m. Virginia Pearl Campbell; Irene Belle b. 1879, m. Elijah Bib Whitner 1897. James died April 30, 1884 and is buried in Meador Cemetery near his home. His descendants are still living on his land.

PRIESTLY, WILLIAM PHYLANDES

F722

William (Bill) Phylandes Priestly was born Feb. 27, 1841 to James and Eliza Ann (Ragsdale) Priestly in Sabine Co., near Milam, Tx. He moved with his family to DeWitt Co. in 1845, then a frontier region. He helped his father on their ranch. Rev. J. Connelly married him and Mary Jane Clayton Aug. 15, 1861 in Clinton, Tx. During the Civil War he enlisted in Co. H. Rangers under Col. J.M. Norris on Mar. 8, 1862 in DeWitt Co. He was discharged at Camp Dix on Feb. 14, 1863 at expiration of term of service. During this time his first child, Mary Lee, was born June 9, 1862. His wife died in 1865 and he married her sister, Nancy Elizabeth (Lizzie) Clayton on June 18, 1865. Rev. Connelly performed these marriage rites also. To make a new start he moved his family to Cherokee Co., Tx. where his father had moved earlier. In Mar. of 1873 while in Jacksonville to make purchases, a Mr. Dobson tried to pick a fight with William and when he wouldn't fight, the man picked up a burning stick and set fire to his mustache. A fight pursued and William thought he killed the man. He rode to his father's place and was given a fresh horse, saddle, boots and money. He rode to his home,

William Phylandes Priestly told his wife goodbye and pulled his little girl. Mary Lee, up on his saddle and said "Daddy has to leave, I don't know when I'll see you again." He kissed her and rode away and she never saw him again. His brother rode with him to the Nueces River, then bid him farewell. The family received a letter from Rev. Connelly saying he talked with William in Corpus Christi and he was heading for Tuxpan, Mexico. William's brother went to Tuxpan, but never found him. No one knows what happened, but his 2nd wife, Lizzie, has his death listed in her bible as Aug. 30, 1873. No one knows how she got that date. When William didn't return home, Lizzie moved to Concrete to live with her parents John and Mary Ann (Crawford) Clayton. Two months after William left, Lizzie gave birth to Bonnie Ada born May 23, 1873. Lizzie later moved to Yoakum to live with her daughter, where she spent the rest of her life. Both daughters married DeWitt Co. men. Mary Lee married Thomas Jackson Kennedy and Bonnie Ada married Cyrus W. Richmond.

RAAK, ANDREAS AND REGINA MARIE (MOELLER)

Andreas Raak came to America in 1856. Andreas was born February 12, 1827 in Dessau, Prussia and died May 27, 1916. Andreas was 29 years when he landed in Indianola. He made his way to Yorktown and hauled freight by wagon and mules to San Antonio. Andreas saved enough money to buy a farm in Meyersville. There he met and married Regina Marie Moeller. Regina landed at the Port of Galveston December 15, 1869. She was born in Alsace Lorraine, France on August 1, 1842. Regina's family of two sisters and one brother also came and they were: Marie who married Karl Meissner, Ursula who married Gideon Dreyer, and George who married Molly Deckert and later he married Ruth Arnold. Andreas and Regina farmed and ranched in Meyersville until December 1884. Andreas and Regina's children were all born in Meyersville. To this union eight children were born. Andreas, Jr. was born October 10, 1861, never married and is buried in La Grange; Marianne was born December 12, 1863 and married Henry Schneider; Caroline was born September 12, 1866, died October 14, 1962 and married Ferdinand Mueller - both buried in Hillside Cemetery, Cuero; Elizabeth was born May 11, 1869, died March 1, 1946, married Frederick Mueller both buried in Mission Valley Cemetery; Louisa was born September 11, 1872, died November 26, 1901, married Frederick Bergmann – she is buried in Hillside Cemetery and he, in Houston; Josephine was born April 7, 1874, died July 9, 1935, married Paul Grifno both buried in Houston; George August was born July 18, 1876, died November 24, 1916, married Annie Pauline Meissner October 19, 1904 - George buried in Raak Cemetery on South River Road and Annie, in Memory Gardens, Cuero; Ferdinand Henry was born January 27, 1878, died April 10, 1932, never married - buried in Raak Cemetery. Andreas and Regina decided to sell their place in Meyersville and move to the Green DeWitt community. Regina died February 9, 1885 and is buried in the Raak family cemetery beside her husband and two sons, George and Ferdinand. Regina's death left Andreas with the eight children to bring up by himself. Most of the children married and left home, but George, Ferdinand and Josephine remained. Then Josephine married Paul Grifno and moved to Houston and George married Annie Pauline Meissner. She was born November 30, 1882 and died February 23, 1957. She was from Victoria County and George brought her home to live.

George and Annie had the following children: Emilie Karoline born November 7, 1905; Walter Karl born February 3, 1907 and died November 2, 1975; Georgia Ann Pauline born February 23, 1910; and Erna Regina born September 7, 1914. The family lived peacefully but tragedy struck after nine years. George became ill and was referred to a doctor in Houston. Due to bad weather conditions in Houston, George contracted pneumonia. Josephine called by telephone to report his serious condition. Annie and Ferdinand left immediately for Houston and arrived in time to see George. George asked Ferdinand if he did not recover would he take care of his wife and children; Ferdinand said he would. George died at his sister Josephine's home on November 24, 1916. Ferdinand came home on the first train to make funeral arrangements and receive the body. Annie came home on the train with the body to Cuero. Ferdinand and Walter met Annie in Cuero in a spring wagon and Ferdinand Mueller brought the body home in a wagon drawn by a team of horses. The body lay in state at home until the next day, to be buried by Pastor William Utesch of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. He was buried in the Raak family cemetery.

Ferdinand now had the responsibility of caring for George's family, which he did until his death in 1932. Ferdinand was loved by his nieces and nephews as he was an important part of their lives.

Emilie, Walter, Georgia and Erna all attended Green DeWitt school. Emilie and Walter started school and they could only speak German, but their teacher spoke both English and German and translated for them. They soon learned to speak English. The children's spiritual life was met by attending Zion Evangelical Church in Arneckeville. Later they transferred to St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Cuero. Recreation for the Raak children was reading books, the Rialto picture show, home dances and swimming in the Guadalupe River. Walter, February 3, 1907 - November 2, 1975, never married and lived at the Raak home until his mother, Annie, died February 23, 1957. Walter worked his portion of the estate by farming and ranching and moved to his own land, dug a well, built a house, garage and cattle pens. He was a very kind, good neighbor who helped people in the community and fed many families in need. He died November 2, 1975. He is buried in Memory Gardens Cemetery in Cuero.

RABENALDT FAMILY

Karl and Amelia Auguste (Schmidt) Rabenaldt who raised their children in the Province of Saxony, near the town of Eisleben, Germany probably never dreamed that six of their children would leave their native land and go to the United States.

Four of the children (Therese, Bertha, Anna and Hugo) had married in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the small town of Voigtstedt before they emigrated. Two other sons, Wilhelm and Edmund married in the United States.

Karl, age 59, occupation, laborer, and Amelia, age 56, left the port of Hamburg on the ship, California, and landed at the port of New York on 16 Nov. 1885. They were accompanied by their youngest son, Edmund and their daughter, Therese and her husband, Ernst Kimmell and their two children, Otto and Paul. Their destination was Schulenberg, Texas.

Karl and Amelia's place of residence is unknown but they probably came to DeWitt County in the late 1890's with their children. Family members have reported that Karl died about 1900 and is buried in the Kimmell family plot in Sandy Gate Cemetery near Nopal in DeWitt County. Amelia returned to Germany to join another son, Karl.

Their six children established homes in DeWitt County and many of their descendants still live in the area.

Mrs. Beutnagel's children from her first marriage were: Elise b. March 1881; Anna b. Aug. 1883; August b. June 1890 and Nellie b. May 1892. Little is known of these children. August Beutnagel died of disease somewhere in France in September 1917.

Hugo and Margarethe Rabenaldt's 25th Wedding Anniversary. Back Row: Herman, Martha and Otto. Seated: Hugo, William and Margarethe.

Hugo Rabenaldt (the fifth child of Karl and Amelia Rabenaldt to come to the United States) was born 31 May 1861 in the village of Monchpfiffel, Saxony, Germany. He trained as an apprentice to learn the trade of white and black bread baking. His bakers diploma was registered in Frankenhausen, Germany on 2 Feb. 1878.

He married Margarethe Goldmann on 17 Feb. 1884 in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the village of Voigtstedt, Saxony Province, Germany. Margarethe was born 21 Aug. 1863 in Kullstedt, Thuringia Province, Germany. Her parents were Johannes Goldmann and Therese Vogt.

Hugo and Margarethe were the parents of two boys and a girl before they left their native homeland to begin a new life in the United States. They landed at the port of New York on or about 10 Nov. 1888. On the voyage across the Atlantic Ocean, their young daughter died and was buried at sea. A son, Otto, just a few months old, was so frail his parents feared he would not live either. Otto did make the voyage as did an older brother, Hugo Jr.

After residing a few years in Lavaca County Texas, they moved to Nordheim, Texas where Hugo did some farming and also established a very enterprising retail business in the town. His inventory consisted of furniture, hardware, and undertaker supplies. He also had a saloon and restaurant. He installed the first water protection system for his business building and small out buildings, as well as his residence. By 1911 he had taken some of his sons into his business.

Two of his young sons met untimely deaths. Hugo Jr., who was engaged to marry a young lady named Frieda Tiewes, died on 19 May 1908. Family stories relate that Frieda, his fiancee, was so grieved by his death that she remained ummarried. Herman Charles died 10 March 1912. Both sons are buried in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery near Nordheim, Texas.

Hugo Rabenaldt and his family were members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Nordheim. Hugo was also a member of The Order of Hermann Sons, and a member of the Nordheim Brass Band.

Additional children of Hugo and Margarethe Rabenaldt were: Otto b. 18 April 1888 d. 1 May 1948 married Alwine Heinze; Paul Marcos b. 21 Aug. 1890 d. 21 Aug. 1957 married Agnes Lundschen; Martha Agnes b. 7 Aug. 1894 d. 2 July 1966 married Calvin C. After the death of Margarethe, Hugo married three more times . . . Mrs. Auguste Rabenaldt, Mrs. Kathrina Jacobson and Mrs. Anna Lemke.

In his retirement years, Hugo Rabenaldt resided at the Home for the Aged at Comfort, Texas. Hugo died 2 March 1942 and Margarethe died 24 Oct. 1914. They are buried in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery near Nordheim, Texas.

RABENALDT, WILHELM FAMILY

Wilhelm Rabenaldt, born 4 Nov. 1865 in the village of Monchpfiffel, Saxony, Germany was the second child of Karl and Amelia Rabenaldt to come to the United States. He left Bremen, Germany on the ship SS Salier and landed at the port of Baltimore, Maryland on 15 May 1884.

He carried a letter of reference from his former employer in Artern, Saxony Province, Germany, stating that he had apprenticed as a bookkeeper and secretary in the business of grains and fertilizer. The letter further stated that he was honest, hard working and very ambitious.

His place of residence fc⁻ the next five years is unknown. He probably came to Lavaca County where his sister, Bertha and husband Julius Hoffmann were living. He must have worked very hard to establish himself in this country for on 24 Feb. 1891 he married Amelia Dicke (b. 6 Jan. 1871) in Sweet Home, Texas.

In the early years of their marriage, they lived in Lavaca, Austin and Gonzales Counties. They moved to the Runge area, Karnes County where Wilhelm farmed and also was engaged in the saloon business. They moved to DeWitt County in the early 1920s where they lived the remainder of their lives. They were members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Yorktown.

RABKE, ADOLPH AND DOROTHEA BAKER

Adolph and Dorothea Rabke

Adolph Rabke was born sometime in 1832 in Hohenson, Hanover, Germany. Dorothea Baker was born in 1833. Probably soon after their marriage, they left for Texas. We cannot find immigration records, but it is believed their arrival was sometime in early 1856.

In 1845, Adolph's brother, August, came to Texas and settled in DeWitt County. He and his wife settled along the Coletto, near Meyersville. Through the years, he undoubtedly corresponded with his family in Germany and stirred the "wunderlust" in the younger brother, Adolph.

After Adolph and Dorothea's arrival in Texas, they joined August and his family, and on December 7, 1856, Adolph Jr. was born.

It is not known where they lived until 1858. In 1858, Adolph bought 98 acres of land on the north side of the Five Mile Coletto Creek in the G.W. Brooks Survey. His land joined land owned by Louis Reinhardt and Wilhelm Schorlemmer. Adolph and Dorothea lived on these acres for the next 25 years. All of their children were born here before they moved. On September 14, 1848, a son, Henry Gustav was born, but he died as a small boy and is buried near the homestead.

Adolph, approximately 29 years of age, and his brother August both served under Capt. Robert Kleberg in the Coletto Guards Reserve Company during the Civil War. Adolph went to Indianola with the group and later to Sabine Pass. Adolph, Jr., who was only 5 years at the time later related to his children that those were very hard years. He remembered there was little food. Women were left with only crude implements to work and plant gardens.

After the war, the community was filled with robbers or carpetbaggers. The story is told that a gang stopped in August Rabke's peach orchard to eat some peaches, and when he went out to ask them to go, they shot him. His widow, Henrietta Theime Rabke, later married J.P. (Peter) Imhoff of Gillespie County. She and her children moved to the Luckenbach with Mr. Imhoff.

Other children born to Adolph and Dorothea were: Bertha on January 28, 1860; on September 12, 1862, Johanna was born; Dorothea was born on January 19, 1866; Julia was born April 1, 1867; Henry on October 29, 1869; Otto on February 15, 1871; Edward on November 23, 1872; and Lydia, their last child, was born on November 26, 1878.

A month before their last child was born, Adolph and Dorothea's first child, Adolph, Jr. was married. He married Marie Gohlke on October 17 1878. Ten months later, sister, Bertha, married Charles Sasse. Johanna married William C. Gohlke (no relation to Marie) on December 20, 1880.

Adolph Rabke Sr. purchased 300 acres of land on November 9, 1883. This was in the Y. Carruthers Survey along the Twelve Mile Coletto. Four days later he sold the 98 acre homestead.

The purchase of this land was the beginning of the Rabke Community as we know it today. It is not known how soon the Rabkes moved there but their house was built under oak trees near the location of the Rabke Cemetery.

Dorothea was the first to marry after they moved to the new location. She married Wilhelm Bluhm on May 15, 1884, and on November 20, 1886, Julia married Herman Dornberg.

Sadness struck when Adolph Sr. died on August 23, 1889. He had lived only seven years in his new home. Since we have no dates other than on his tombstone (Born 1832 – Died 1889), his approximate age was 57 years. He had always said he wanted to be buried under the large oak tree near his home. His wish was granted. Later, an acre of land was donated for a cemetery. The oak tree still stands in the middle of the Rabke Cemetery.

Daughter Bertha Sasse was left a widow in 1889. She was left with five children: Ben, Ottilie, Henry, Eddie and Louis. She remarried on June 11, 1891 to Richard Schurich.

Otto Rabke married Helen Franke on October 29, 1891, and Henry married Meta Pieper on October 26, 1893. This now left Dorothea home with Edward and Lydia.

It was about this time that the trustees of the Cuero and Coletto Charge South (Methodist) were making plans for construction of a church. Rev. Fredrich Vordenbaum was brought to the community. He served as architect for the church building. On March 27, 1894, William C. and Johanna Rabke Gohlke donated the land for the Rabke German Methodist Church. It was completed in 1894.

On August 2, 1894, Dorothea Rabke married Rev. Vordenbaum (a widower). She sold the home place to her son, Edward, and in 1896, he erected the Rabke General Store and Post Office across the road from the church.

When Rev. Vordenbaum died in 1898 at the age of 74, he was buried in Cibalo next to his first wife. In later years after being confined to a wheel chair, Dorothea lived with her son, Edward. She helped at times in the store. Fritz Rabke, a grandson, recalled that in later years anytime a grandchild came into the store she would give them candy.

Lydia married David H. Murray on December 19, 1900. Dorothea continued to live with her unmarried son, Edward. It may have been around this time that they built a better house and used the old log cabin for a smoke house.

The Rabke Post Office was discontinued in 1908, then sometime in 1912, Dorothea was laid to rest beside her first husband, Adolph.

On April 24, 1913, Edward married Nannie Murray, sister of David Murray.

In 1916, the Rabke General Store was torn down. Today, all that remains of Rabke, Texas is the little white church under the stately oak trees.

Adolph and Marie Rabke

Adolph Rabke was born on December 7, 1856 to Adolph and Dorothea Baker Rabke. It is not known where as Adolph and Dorothea did not buy land until May 28, 1858 on Five Mile Coletto Creek in DeWitt County. Adolph and Dorothea arrived sometime in early 1856. They came from Germany.

At the age of 21 years, Adolph married Marie Gohlke, daughter of Johann F.R. and Augusta Sasse Gohlke. They were married on October 17, 1878.

Marie's parents came to Texas in 1855. He was from Gottshimbrush, Prussia and she was from Gurkow, Prussia. They came over on the same ship, and married in Yorktown on November 4, 1855.

Adolph and his new bride moved to Goliad County near Weser and Dobskyville. Here, their first child, August, was born on September 13, 1879. Helen was born June 5, 1881 and Mary was born on November 4, 1882. Adolph and Marie had another son on December 11, 1884, Adolph Jr. Then, on March 15, 1887, Gustav was born, and Fritz William was born on December 4, 1889. Dorothea (Dora) was born September 27, 1892.

Adolph went to the Rabke community in DeWitt County in 1894 to help build the Rabke German Methodist Church. On December 29, 1894, he bought 200 acres of land in the G.W. Brooks Survey near the Rabke community. Soon after purchasing this land, Adolph and Marie moved from Goliad County with August, Helen, Mary, Adolph, Gustav, Fritz and Dora. They were happy to be near family, a new church, and friends.

Augusta was the first to be born in DeWitt County. She was born on October 2, 1895. In 1896, Marie's sister, Ida, died. Adolph and Marie took her daughter, Bertha Schaper, to live with them. On November 20, 1896, Adolph and Marie had another daughter, Frieda. She died two months later on January 18, 1897. Another son, Erwin, was born December 4, 1897. It was his brother Fritz's eighth birthday. The last child born to Adolph and Marie was Hulda, born on January 4, 1900.

Adolph continued farming and carpentry. Gradually, the children began to marry and leave home. August married Emma Niemeir on October 15, 1902; Helen married Henry C. Reinhardt on October 11, 1903; Mary married Hugo Franke on November 22, 1900; Adolph F. married Martha Niemeir on October 15, 1905; Gustav married Natalie Wagner on November 28, 1909; Fritz W. married Charlotte "Lottie" Schorlemmer on November 9, 1910; Dorothea (Dora) married Otto Wagner on October 23, 1910; Augusta married George Gohmert on February 20, 1913; Erwin married Lena Hardt on September 27, 1917 and Hulda Rabke married M.A.H. Mueller on Sept. 26, 1922.

Adolph (called Vater by all of the children and grandchildren) died on August 27, 1916. Marie "Mutter" lived her later years with her daughter, Hulda, and her husband. She died on February 5, 1945.

RABKE, FRITZ WILLIAM AND CHARLOTTE "LOTTIE"

F730

Fritz and Lottie Rabke on 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Fritz William Otto, son of Adolph and Marie Gohlke Rabke, was born on December 4, 1889 in Goliad County. The home was near the 15 Mile Colette and Weser-Dobskyville community. He was the sixth child.

At the age of five years, the family moved to DeWitt County. Fritz attended Five Mile School. They were members of the Rabke German Methodist Church.

When Fritz and his brothers August, Adolph, and Gus were teenagers, they organized a band and played for dances held in homes and barns. The band continued to play until shortly after the marriage of Fritz. Fritz never took music lessons, but could play any instrument.

Charlotte Bertha Sophia was born on November 9, 1890 to William Carl and Auguste Schaefer Schorlemer in DeWitt County. She was their third child.

Lottie attended the Five Mile School, and was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church in Meversville.

On November 9, 1910, Fritz and his childhood sweetheart, Lottie Schorlemer, were married at St. John's Lutheran Church.

After their marriage, Lottie and Fritz lived on the Valentine Koehler place near Arneckeville. Lottie had a cow and horse, and Fritz a horse and ten dollars. With this, they started their fifty-one and a half years of a happy, prosperous marriage.

The Rabke's lived on the Koehler place for five years. This is where their first child was born. Their daughter, Corrine Marie Augusta, was born on January 13, 1913.

Sometime during 1915 or 1916, they started building their home on land purchased from Lottie's father. Part of their land had been obtained in the 1850's by Lottie's great grandmother and grandparents.

A second child, Marvin Felix, was born on March 26, 1918.

Fritz, besides being a farmer/rancher also made molasses. He had purchased the press and cooking vats from his father-in-law. He was known all over the county for his good molasses. Sometimes they would cook day and night. Fritz had to hire extra men to help. Lanterns were hung all under the shed where the pans were. There was a circle of posts all around the press and people came with wagons full of cane and stacked the cane between the posts like wood. Each person's name was put on their cane. Most people brought their own barrels and buckets. Some paid on shares, they kept half and Fritz kept half. The part Fritz kept was sold to people who didn't have cane.

Lornette Faye, the youngest child, was born on September 30, 1930.

Corrine and Marvin first attended school at Ratcliffe County School at Rabke and then school in Cuero. Lornette attended Clinton County School and then Cuero High School.

Corrine married Ernest Charles Soehnge of Mathis, Texas, on June 12, 1935. Ernest was killed in a welding accident on May 17, 1946. She married S.A. Delbert Parker of Yoakum on August 21, 1952. Marvin married Bernice Thamm on February 5, 1937, and Lornette married John Dukes on March 2, 1956.

Fritz and Lottie lived on the farm until he retired. Lottie had many years of poor health. Her wish was to have a large celebration for their 50th anniversary. She lived to have her party, but died on April 7, 1962 and is buried in Cuero at Hillside Cemetery.

Fritz remained active until his death on August 1, 1968. He is buried beside Lottie.

RABKE, OTTO CARL AND MARIA AUGUSTA HELENE (FRANKE) FAMILY

Otto Rabke and Helen (Franke) Rabke

Helena Franke was born in Meyersville on 28 May 1873, the second daughter of Emil and Henrietta (Bluhm) Franke. In the old St. John Lutheran Church at Meyersville, on 29 October, 1891, she was married to Otto Carl Rabke. He was born in Rabke, Tex. on 16 Feb. 1871, the son of Adolph and Dorothea (Boeker) Rabke.

Otto and Helene spent their first years in Weser. Here were born their first five children: 1) Berthold (b) 12 Oct. 1893, (d) 20 June 1894; 2) Lillie (b) 4 Aug. 1895, (d) 14 Aug. 1975, (m) 2 Apr. 1930 to C.R.F. Randow (wid); 3) Lenore (b) 11 Feb. 1897, (d) 29 Nov. 1908; 4) Valeska (b) 20 Oct. 1898, (m) 3 Feb. 1921 to August Wittstock; and 5) Raymond (b) 26 Aug. 1900, (d) 8 June 1958 (m) 17 Nov. 1931 to Christina Heil.

In 1901, the family moved to a 148-acre farm between Yorktown and Meyersville. Later 25 acres more were added to the farm. Otto built a barn first and then the house. It consisted of two 14X14 rooms. On October 17, 1903, 6) Erna was born (m) 27 Feb. 1926 to Walter Woods; 7) Helen (b) 12 Oct. 1907, (d) 23 Apr. 1976, (m) 22 Nov. 1928 to Henry Weid; 8) Wesley (b) 19 Oct. 1909, (m) 27 Jan. 1932 to Olivia Arnecke; 9) and Otto Adolph (b) 6 Nov. 1912 (m) 16 June 1934 to Ira Jonischkies completed the family.

The chief crops from the fields were cotton and corn. Later there were plum and peach orchards and sugar cane. People from the area brought their sugar cane to the Rabkes to be made into home-made molasses, as they had a mill to do the job. Bees were also kept for honey.

All the members of the Rabke family belonged to St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville. The children attended the Oakdale and Meyersdale schools of which Otto was a trustee and later attended Yorktown High School. Eventually all the children married. The sons became farmers and the daughters, gifted seamstresses and homemakers. Lillie sewed from age 17 to 75, and Helen made many of the elaborate dresses for the San Antonio Fiesta celebrations.

Helene passed away on her way to Wesley's wedding on 27 Jan. 1932. She was laid to rest in the Meyersville Lutheran Cemetery.

On 16 June 1934, Otto married again to Mrs. Lavie Bradley Goehring (b) 28 Nov. 1898 (d) 19 Aug. 1981. They had one son, Jesse James (b) 10 Jan. 1941, (d) 21 Jan. 1941.

Otto sold the old homestead to Mr. Thad Brysch and moved to Yorktown in the fall of 1959. He died on 23 June 1961 at the age of 90. He is buried in Meyersville Lutheran Cemetery.

RANKIN, JOHN KIETH

Richard Robert Rankin, father of John Kieth Rankin, was born in Virginia in 1753, son of William R. Rankin and Margaret (Peggy) Marshall Rankin, also of Virginia. Robert Rankin grew up in the region famous in American History, for its native sons; the Washingtons, Jeffersons, Nurrocs, Madisons, Marshalls, Ishiams, Kieths, Rankins, and Randolphs. Out of these came our ancestors.

Robert Rankin, at the age of seventeen, began to learn surveying under his kinsmen, Thomas Marshall and George Washington. Tradition says he accompanied Marshall and Washington on surveying trips. At the age of twenty-three he enlisted in the Revolution Army on July 25, 1776, and served as a private and ensign in the 11th Virginia Troop. He was commissioned an officer on September 14, 1778. He took part in the battle of Brandywine, Germantown, Stony Point and the Seige of Charleston, where he and his Uncle Thomas Marshall were taken prisoners, but were soon exchanged.

Robert was married on October 1, 1781 to Margaret Berry of Fredrick County, Virginia. Margaret was the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Frances Kendell Berry. The silver buckles worn by Margaret on this occasion are now in the possession of their son John Kieth Rankin's, decendents in Texas. At the close of the war, on October 6, 1783, he with a large group of Virginia Line Officers met with General George Washington and formed The Society of Cincinnati in the state of Virginia. This society was formed to perpetuate the friendship of officers of the Continental Army and aid the wounded and widows of fellow officers. Robert Rankin gave one month military salary to become an original member of the Society of Cincinnati, signing his name as few did. George Washington was made the first President-General of the Society after this gathering.

Robert and Margaret immigrated to Kentucky with many relatives, all settling on land granted to them by the Government in 1784. From Kentucky he moved his family to Alabama, then to Texas.

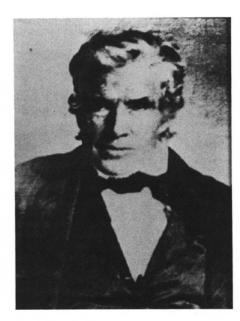

Robert Rankin had been a "pioneer" all of his life. He had carved out of forests, homes for his family. He was too old to join the Texas Army in 1835, under the direction of General Sam Houston, but his home was near "Council Hill" where Sam Houston met with men of mature minds and vast experience. Two of his sons served in the Texas Army, and David Rankin's name is inscribed on the San Jacinto Monument as being in Sam Houston's Army. Sam Houston helped Peggy Rankin get a widows pension after Robert's death. Robert Rankin died at Cold Springs, Texas at the age of 84 in 1837. The State erected a monument at his grave in the year of the Texas Centennial 1936. Robert Rankin was the only officer of the Continental Army who is buried in the State burial ground in Austin, Texas. He held the rank of lieutenant in the Continental Army but was generally known in Texas as Colonel Rankin.

Robert Rankin's grave had been at Cold Springs cemetery, San Jacinto County, until his body was re-interned at Austin, with his descendents participating, with direct descendents acting as pall bearers. Descendents now live all over the United States.

RANKIN, JOHN KIETH

John Keith Rankin.

John Kieth Rankin, son of the Colonial Soldier, Richard Robert Rankin, was an early settle in DeWitt County, and was known by the "Old Timers" as Uncle Jack Rankin.

John Kieth Rankin as born to Richard Robert Rankin and Margaret Berry, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Frances Kendell Berry, on January 5, 1791, on the Ohio River in the State of Kentucky. From this place the family immigrated to Tombrigby River in Alabama. When war was declared in 1812, John Kieth volunteered and served during the war, for which he was drawing a pension when he died. In the year of 1816 he married Elizabeth Butler, and moved to Wayne County, Mississippi, then in 1825 to that position of Hines County, which later, became Rankin County. After 25 years residence in Rankin County, immigrated to Texas, resided for a time in Polk County and finally in DeWitt County in 1850. In the 34 years he lived in DeWitt County his life was one of peace and good will to man. He never had a serious problem with anyone.

John Kieth and Elizabeth Butler Rankin had four sons and four daughters. Moses Berry married Christian Metcalf. Mary "Polly" married Sam Myers. James married Lucinda Callihan and was a Civil War veteran. Mesina married Gibb Neil. Mariana married Alvin Myers. Robert married Irene Ann Rhode. Sam married Eveline Cox, died in a Federal prison camp during the Civil War. Melinda married Valentine Cook.

Elizabeth Butler Rankin died May 1, 1867. John Keith later married Mrs. Martha Hamilton, who died November 1, 1878. John Kieth died November 17, 1884, at the age of 93 years, 10 months, and 12 days.

In his advance age he maintained his bodily powers to a remarkable degree. So perfect was the power of his mind and body that he continued the management of his house to the very last

All three are buried in the Burns Station Cemetery, DeWitt County, Texas.

Many Rankin descendents still reside in the DeWitt and surrounding counties.

Information for the Rankins' is from the papers of Mary Myers Callaway and Rosalie Myers.

RANKIN, MOSES AND CHRISTINA (METCALF) F735

Moses Berry Rankin was born in Washington County, Alabama in November 1817. He was the son of John Keith Rankin and Elizabeth Butler Rankin. His grandfather, Colonel Robert Rankin, served directly under General George Washington and was with General Washington at the surrender at Yorktown.

Moses Rankin was married to Christina Metcalf on November 22, 1843. Christina was the daughter of Colonel (War of 1812) Anthony M. Metcalf (born in Tennessee in 1782, died in Mississippi in 1854). Her mother was Matilda Brag Beasley (1798-1882).

In 1847 Moses and Christina moved with his father and family to San Jacinto County, Texas. They moved to DeWitt County in 1850 where he lived until his death in 1895 at the home of one of his daughters, Mrs. W.J. Simpson, in Terryville, Texas. He was buried in the Burns' Station Cemetery, which is located on Irish Creek, just off Highway 87.

Moses and Christina had four children: Louis Rankin, Minerva Rankin Rhodes, Margaret Rankin Calliham Wright, and Benjamin Rankin. After the death of his first wife, Moses married her sister, Sarah Metcalf, in 1856. To this union three children were born: Christina "Kitty" Rankin Killough, Elizabeth "Lizzie" Rankin Simpson, and Anthony Metcalf Rankin.

Moses Rankin operated a grist mill at Burns' Station (Verhelle) where he lived with his family. The mill was run by water power from the Guadalupe River. It was washed away in the flood of 1869. One report states that Moses donated the land for the Burns' Station Cemetery.

John Keith Rankin, the father of Moses, organized the first worshiping band west of the Guadalupe River. Moses and his family were faithful members of the Methodist Church. He was converted and joined the church at about fourteen years of age. In the 1870's he was one of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Cuero, Texas and was elected president of the trustees in 1876.

In an article written by the Reverend W.H. Killough and published in the Texas Christian Advocate, he had this to say about Moses Rankin: "Few men have bestowed so much direct personal care and attention and labor on so many individuals to help them on the way that leads to God and Heaven. I never saw a man more devoted to the church and serve it more faithfully and efficiently. Mr. Rankin was a profound theologian; any preacher could profit by talking to him. He was a scientific, though not a polished, mechanic. He is gone from the walks of mortal men; his walk was good; his end was peaceful; his eternal home in Heaven. We will try to follow him, in that he followed God."

Many of the descendants of Moses Rankin are gone, have moved away from DeWitt County or have died. Some of the descendants of his daughter, Margaret Calliham Wright, are living here at the present time (1989).

Not only did Olga Rath give birth to twins, but she herself was a triplet. Born on the same day as Olga Rath were her brother, Arthur Henry Koehler, and her sister, Flora Friedericke Boehl, nee Koehler. Triplets are an extremely rare occurrence and, in fact, records indicate that these were the only triplets ever born in DeWitt County.

RATH, JOHANN MARTIN FAMILY

Johann Martin Rath was born on 16 April 1810 in Dettingen/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany, where he was a weaver prior to his immigration to Texas. He was baptized in Dettingen on 18 April 1810. His baptismal sponsors were Christoph Rath, citizen and farmer from Dettingen, Maria Agnes Hiller, wife of Michael Hiller, and Helena Catharina Schurr, an unmarried woman from Kappishausern, Black Forest District.

Johann Martin Rath was the son of a vine dresser and farmer, Johann Peter Rath (b. 11 May 1782 Dettingen; d. 4 December 1850 Dettingen; m. 26 November 1805 Dettingen) and (Anna) Maria Magdalena Rath, nee Schurr (b. 26 September 1782 Glems bei Metzingen, Black Forest District; d. 18 March 1830 Dettingen). Johann Martin Rath and his family emigrated from Germany and landed at Indianola, Texas, on 2 June 1852. The Rath family, according to oral history, first settled in the Meyersville area of DeWitt County, Texas, before they relocated in Arneckeville in 1873. It is documented that in 1857 Johann Martin Rath purchased 134 acres of land on the 12mile Coleto Creek. Notes of a congregational meeting on 5 June 1860 denoted that Martin Rath was elected to the council of St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville. Johann Martin Rath died on 5 January 1896 in Arneckeville, DeWitt County, Texas, and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

In Dettingen on 19 January 1841, Johann Martin Rath married Rosina Catharina Linder, daughter of a weaver, Johannes Linder (b. 17 May 1779 probably in Trohweiler, Black Forest District; d. 14 February 1842 Dettingen; m. #1: unknown; m. #2: 30 April 1806 (Dettingen) and Heinricka Linder, nee Dieterle (b. 28 February 1777 Dettingen; d. 16 January 1847 Dettingen). Rosina Catharine Rath, nee Linder, was born in Dettingen on 6 October 1810. Records which would establish the death date of Rosina Catharina Rath have not been located. It has been ascertained.

however, that she was widowed twice prior to her marriage to Johann Martin Rath. Her first marriage (2 February 1832 Dettingen) was to Joh. Jacob Hermann, and her second marriage (12 May 1835 Dettingen) was to Johann Adam Hiller (b. 1 April 1795 Dettingen); d. 30 March 1839 Dettingen). Two children were born to the marriage of Johann Adam Hiller and Rosina Catharina Linder: George Friederich Hiller (b. 21 April 1836 Dettingen) and Joh. Michael Hiller (b. 18 April 1838 Dettingen).

Johann Martin Rath and Rosina Catharine Rath begat four children, all of whom were born in Dettingen: Heinricke Rath (b. 21 April 1842; d. 25 February 1928 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 7 January 1866 DeWitt County to Michael Sager); Christina Magdalena Rath (b. 10 September 1843); Johann Peter Rath (b. 18 January 1847; d. 10 April 1899 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 10 October 1867 Meyersville to Hulda Charlotte Thieme); Samuel Rath (b. 21 October 1848; d. 30 June 1849 Dettingen).

The DeWitt County federal census taken on 28 July 1860 enumerated the following persons in the Rath household; Johann Rath, farmer, age 50, value of real estate $1250, value of personal property $900; Johann Hermann, age 26, blind; Michael Hiller, age 22; Heinricke Rath, age 18; Johann P. Rath, age 13. While the records did not indicate the relationship of these persons to each other, it can be assumed that Johann Hermann was related to the first husband of Rosina Catharina Rath and Michael Hiller was the son of Rosina Catharina Rath and her second husband, Johann Adam Hiller. Heinricke and Johann P. Rath were children of the head of the household, Johann Martin Rath.

A man of the highest ideals of personal character, a respected leader of his church and community, a devoted family man, Johann Martin Rath braved the ocean, the elements, and the scorching Texas sun in order to begin a new life for himself and his family. We honor him for his faith, his devotion, and his perseverance.

RATH, JOHANN PETER AND HULDA CHARLOTTE THIEME FAMILY

Johann Peter Rath was born on 18 January 1847 in Dettingen/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany. He was the son of Johann Martin Rath (b. 16 April 1810 Dettingen; d. 5 January 1896 Arneckeville, DeWitt County, Texas; bur. Jacob Hermann; m. #2: 12 May 1835 Dettingen to Johann Adam Hiller). The Rath family emigrated from Germany; and, according to Johann Peter Rath's Declaration of Intent to become a naturalized United States citizen (dated 23 October 1874), they landed at Indianola, Texas, on 2 June 1852. Johann Peter Rath was granted citizenship in DeWitt County on 3 February 1880. He died on 10 April 1899 in DeWitt County and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

On 10 October 1867, in Meyersville, DeWitt County, Johann Peter Rath married (Johanna) Hulda Charlotte Thieme, daughter of a farmer, Johann Christoph Thieme (b. 4 April 1811 Teichroda, Principality of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, Germany; d. 12 April 1890 Arneckeville; bur. She died in Arneckeville on 14 April 1931 of bronchial asthma, palpitations of the heart, and heart failure and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

Eight children were born to Johann Peter Rath and Hulda Charlotte Rath: Friedrich "Fred" Henry Rath (b. 5 December 1868 Meyersville; d. 23 September 1947 DeWitt County; bur. Hillside Cemetery, Cuero, DeWitt County; m. #1: 8 March 1891 Arneckeville to Pauline Nagel; m. #2: 13 October 1896 Arneckeville to Annie Bade); Johanna Rath, twin, baptized Maria Augusta Johanna (b. 24 January 1871 Meyersville; d. 24 March 1955 Cuero; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 19 November 1891 Arneckeville, DeWitt County to William Frederick Boehl); Katharine Rath, twin (b. 24 January 1871 Meyersville; d. 20 May 1906 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 23 October 1890 Arneckeville to Edward Koenig); Mary Rath (b. 6 December 1872 Meyersville; d. 28 November 1951 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 30 December 1896 Arneckeville to Albert Koenig); Albert Rath, baptized Johann Albert (b. 12 January 1875 Arneckeville; d. 19 June 1951 Cuero; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. Bertha Koenig); Emma Rath, baptized Martha Sophie Emma (b. 28 September 1881 Arneckeville; d. 18 May 1969 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville); Annie Rath, baptized Anna Friedricke Pauline (b. 30 November 1888 Arneckeville; d. 11 June 1927 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 26 October 1910 to Alfred Koenig); John Rath, baptized Johann Friedrich Ferdinand (b. 10 March 1895 Arneckeville; d. 30 August 1954 Arneckeville; bur. Hillside Cemetery, Cuero; m. Elnora "Allie" Semmler).

Johann Peter Rath was an active Lutheran. He was confirmed in that faith at St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville in 1862. Oral history has informed us that the Rath family lived in Meyersville from the time of their immigration until 1873, at which time they moved to Arneckeville. While it cannot be determined exactly when the Rath family joined Zion Lutheran Church at Arneckeville. records do indicate that Johann Peter Rath was a member prior to 1875. He was elected trustee on 28 December 1879, and he was elected delegate to the Third District Conference at Yorktown, DeWitt County, on 14 August 1875. At the congregational meeting of 25 December 1893 he was elected treasurer, but the Chronicles reflect that he would not accept this position at that time.

It has been said that history is the recorded pilgrimage of the soul of man, as expressed by his words and deeds. The story of Johann Peter Rath revealed such a pilgrimage, across the deep and tumultuous waves of the Atlantic Ocean and into the unsettled, maiden lands of Texas, where he forged a new life by wresting a living from the soil while raising his family and serving his God.

REESE, GEORGE MONROE, JR. AND LUCY H.

F743

Mary Jane (Reese) Cox Morrison and Rachel Victoria Reese

George Monroe Reese, Jr., the first son of George Monroe Reese, Sr. and his wife, was born in Tennessee in 1811. The Reese family is thought to have been in Mississippi by 1837. when George Jr. married Lucy H. (born 1816, in Georgia). Their first child, Mary Jane Victoria, was born 9 February, 1838, probably in Natchez, Mississippi, as both George Sr. and George Jr. prepared to move their families to the newly independent Republic of Texas. General Land Office records indicate that they arrived in Texas by 24 October, 1838. The next child, Lucy C., was born in Polk County, Texas in 1843, followed by Thomas J.C. in 1844, George Monroe in 1845, Mary J. Nancy in 1848, Rachael Victoria in 1850, John J. in May,

Bud Wyatt and Lena (Reese) Wyatt ca. 1880

1860 and, finally, Lena in 1863.

On 1 August, 1839, George received a 640 acre land grant in Liberty County, Texas. When the first Texas Legislature created Polk County from Liberty County in March, 1845, George served as County Collector. Both George Sr. and George Jr. appear on the Polk County Republic of Texas Poll lists for 1846. Later in October, 1846, George M. Reese (probably Jr.), received a land grant on Turkey Creek, Milam District, Williamson County, Texas. Only George Sr. appears on the 1850 Census for Polk County, Texas.

The 1850's found George and family at Clinton, DeWitt County, Texas, where George served as a special judge. Mary Jane Victoria Reese married John R. Cox in 1857 and Lucy Anne Elizabeth was born 8 September, 1858. John Cox died shortly thereafter.

By 1860, George had moved his family to Helena, in Karnes County, Texas, and it seems that Mr. John R. Cox had died by July, as he does not appear on the census with George. However, Mary J.V. and Lucy appear on the Karnes County census with the Reese family. After Cox's death, George M. became Lucy's guardian. He also served as Chief Justice for Karnes County, Texas until after the end of the Civil War. While the family still lived at Helena, Mary J.V. Cox married second husband, Dr. Raymond R. Reese Family: Ray, Raymond, Rebecca and Kay (Holloway) Reese.

George Rhymes and her brother, Thomas J.C., married Elizabeth in 1868. On 11 June, 1869, at Helena, Mary J.V. married her third husband John Wingfield Morrison (son of John H., Sr. and Mary Overstreet Morrison). Lena Reese married John Wyatt "Bud" in Yorktown, Texas and had their wedding portrait taken in Yorktown, as well. Nancy Reese married Hugh McGuffin in 1864.

By the new decade of 1870, John Wingfield and his father, John H. Morrison, had built a mill on the Guadalupe River near Seguin, in Guadalupe County, Texas and moved there with their families and that of George and Lucy Reese. The Guadalupe County census in July 1870 indicates that Rachel (19), Lena (7), Hugh and Nancy Reese McGuffin and their three sons, Monroe (5), Thomas (3) and William (2 months), lived with George and Lucy Reese. Thomas J.C. Reese lived with his wife Elizabeth and Louisa (2) on one side of George and Lucy and John W. Morrison lived on the other side with his wife, Mary J.V., Lucy (12) and Clara (9).

Rachel V. (28) was still residing at home in Guadalupe County with her aging parents, George M. (69) and Lucy (65) in July 1880. John W. and Mary J.V. Morrison still lived on one side of George and Lucy with their growing family: Wellington Wingfield (8), Mattie V. (6), Mary L. (4), Stella F. (1) and John H. Morrison Sr. (82). Thomas and Elizabeth Reese's family had grown to include five children: Louisa (11), Caroline (10), George (8), Maggie (4) and Mary (1).

Sometime late in the year 1880, the Morrison mill blew up and they moved near San Antonio, where Lena Zenobia Morrison was born 21 February, 1881. It is thought that George M. and Lucy Reese went with them on their final move.

REICHERT, CHARLES AND MARY (KIELER)

1918, 5 Generations. Back: Theodor Reichert, Mrs. Dora (Conrad) Kieler. Front: Elvira (Reichert) Janssen, Mrs. Mary (Charles) Reichert, and Wilton Janssen (infant).

The story of the Reicherts in America in our family seems to start with Carl Gottlieb Reichert. According to his Declaration of Intention to become a naturalized citizen, dated fall, 1859, he was a native of Jagerndorf, Prussia; he was 48 years of age. He emigrated from the Port of Bremen in Germany on or about the first day of November, 1854, and arrived at the Port of Galveston in the United States on or about the 1st day of January, 1855. This was sworn to and subscribed on the 28 Nov. 1859 in District Court in Fayette County, Texas. (Vol. G-1, page 420). One son, Adolph, seems to have come to America with Carl. One daughter, Auguste, came from Gommern in Germany on the "Adolphine" in 1859. Her name appears in New Homes in a New Land by Ethel H. Geue. Carl, 50, Auguste, 22, and Adolph, 18, are shown together in the 1860 Texas Census as living in Rutersville, Fayette County.

Carl was born 2 March 1808 to Daniel and Marie Elisabeth Gabel Reichert. The story passed down to us states that he served in an unsuccessful revolution and that a price was put on his head. He could not go home. He was hidden in a load of hay and crossed the border into another German province. At the time of his marriage he was a Master Brewer, working at Kregschau, near Gommern, in Magdeburg, Germany. He continued in this work in Gommern after his marriage. He married Catherine Sophie Schroeder 22 October 1837 in Barby (Elbe), Magdeburg, Germany. Her parents were Johann Valentin Gottlob and Wilhelmine Sophie Franke Schroeder. Her father was a shepherd for the King of Prussia near Barby, Germany. Her grandparents were Andreas Stephan and Anna Dorothea Kleberg Schroeder. Catherine Sophie Schroeder was born in Barby (Elbe), Germany 4 February 1816. She died in La Grange, Fayette County, Texas 26 May 1888. Carl and Sophie Schroeder Reichert lived in Gommern and here their ten children were born. Two sons died in Germany. The surviving children all came to Texas. Their children were: Auguste (6 Aug. 1838-1876) married Henry Ruland; Charles (2 March 1840-29 Oct. 1915) married Mary Dorothea Kieler; Adolph (9 Sept. 1841-13 June 1909) married Anna Friemal; Rudolph (30 April 1843-?) married Clara Emma Huettel; Minna (7 June 1846-7 Aug. 1930) married August Gerstenberger and then John Koehn; Emma (21 Jan. 1848-31 Aug. 1928) married Edward Gerstenberger; Ida Louise (23 July 1849-20 June 1920) married Henry Harigel; Frank (1 April 1853-22 May 1934) married Bianca Willenberg and then Elenora Forsberg.

The story about Carl Reichert continues, stating that he left for South or Central America, probably Honduras, around 1860 to raise coffee. He was never heard from again. However, his wife and children all came to America. Charles came to Texas in 1856, Rudolph, in 1876. Sophie Reichert, Minna, Emma, Ida Louise, and Frank came to Galveston on 30 Sept. 1866 on the "Fortuna."

The oldest son, Charles Friedrich, served in the 5th U.S. Cavalry in the Civil War, from 8 October 1860 to 3 October 1865 when he was honorably discharged. He married Mary Dorothea Kieler at Miller's Creek, near Weimar, Texas 29 May 1871. She was born 18 July 1853 near Fayetteville, Fayette County, to Conrad and Mary Dorothea Kohleffel Kieler. She died in Nordheim 22 April 1939. Her mother was born in Germany to Carl Friedrich and Sophie Kohleffel. They came to Texas in 1852. She died in Nordheim 3 September 1920. Her father, Conrad Kieler, came to Texas from Varel, Oldenburg, in 1847. He was born there 13 Oct. 1818 to Hinrich Diedrich and Metje Margarthe Kieler. He died in the Weimar area 30 August 1888. Charles and Mary Kieler Reichert had the following children: Theodor, John, Charles (died young), Anna, Ottilie (died young), Gottlieb, Martha, and Conrad. See separate story for Theodor and Anna Koehn Reichert.

Mary Kieler Reichert came to Nordheim to live around 1914. Her mother, a brother, Carl Kieler, and two sisters, Augusta Kieler Helmers and Emilie Kieler Helmers, also lived in the Nordheim area. Children of another sister, Caroline Kieler Buelter Thormahlen, lived in the Yorktown area. Also, Mrs. Reichert's son, Theodor, lived in Nordheim and later her son, John, also lived there. Many of the descendants of these people — Reicherts, Helmers, Buelters, and Thormahlens — live in DeWitt County today.

Also, Mr. Koehn's sister, Sophie (Mrs. Wilhelm) Pevestorff, lived in Nordheim. Anna Koehn was born in Hamburg, Germany 15 November 1871 and died in Nordheim 4 November 1952. He served as Sunday School superintendent of St. Paul Lutheran Church for 18 years. Mr. Reichert continued his farming interests after his retirement. Emil Reiffert was the first of the family to come to Texas from Germany as a young boy of fifteen years. He was born at Hersfeld, Hesse, Germany Jan. 27, 1839 and died Jan. 10, 1910. He landed from an immigrant boat in Galveston and was befriended by Henry Runge and grew up under his tutelage. Emil was active in Mr. Runge's business in Indianola. He was a Confederate soldier in the Civil War and served under Capt. Joseph Reuss' company. After the war he came back to the Runge establishment. Mr. Runge sold his interests to his young partners, Emil Reiffert and William Frobese. In 1874 they took in Edward Mugge and established the Cuero branch of H.R. Runge & Company at the time of founding of the town. Mr. Reiffert looked after their interests in Indianola through and after the great storm of 1875 until 1886 when the firms interests were concentrated in Cuero. He was President of H.R. Runge & Company, known as the first real bank in Texas and was active in cotton manufacturing, ranching and the building of the towns of Runge and Nordheim. He was an important factor in affecting the construction of the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railroad Company in Cuero.

The Reiffert home in Indianola was built in 1868, anchored to seven foot pillars and during the 1886 hurricane housed 100 refugees upstairs. With windows and doors open, the house withstood the second hurricane. In 1886 it was dismantled, its plants numbered, and moved to Cuero. It was rebuilt in 1887. It had a front storm door, a hand-carved staircase and parquet floor. It is located at the corner of Prairie and Indianola Streets.

Emil Reiffert was married at New Braunfels, Feb. 20, 1869 to Helena Tips who died Sept. 22, 1930. Their children were Emil Reiffert, Jr. born Nov. 19, 1869 and died April 18,

REIFFERT, JAMES M. F748

James Marion Reiffert

This is the story and history of Jimmie Reiffert, as that is what everyone knows me by. I was born in Cuero, Texas on June 18, 1914 at 5 a.m. My parents were Walter and Anna Reiffert. I am the youngest of the four Walter Reiffert children. My life in Cuero has been a good one. From my childhood days I can remember going to Grossmama Reiffert's home for Christmas. She would give her grandchildren each ten silver dollars in a little box. There were all kinds of good things to eat and plenty of wine for the grownups. My dad and I would go see Grossmama Reiffert every Sunday morning. We also had a summer home at Magnolia Beach where we would spend a whole month and where I would fish, swim, and play in the sand. It was nothing to catch twenty trout in a day and my dad liked to have company. His friends from Cuero would come to fish. He always had a saying, FHB (family hold back) or MIK (more in the kitchen). This was at meal time, of course, and the family knew what it meant.

I married Kathryn Casal in Cuero, on Oct. 15, 1938 and we were blessed with two children: 1. James Marion Reiffert, Jr., born Jan. 30, 1944. Jim lives in San Antonio with his wife Evelyn Joyce Reiffert. They married in San Antonio on July 19, 1980. They have two children: Kathryn Lea Reiffert born May 23, 1984 and Robert James Reiffert born January 8, 1988. 2. My daughter, Ann Lynn Reiffert Fenner who lives in Houston, Texas with her husband Eddie Fenner. They were married in Cuero on April 1, 1972. Ann Lynn was born in Cuero on January 4, 1950. Ann and Eddie do not have any children. My wife, Kathryn Reiffert died in Victoria, Texas on April 15, 1974. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Cuero and served as president of the Women of the Church one year.

Other things that have happened in my life: I served in World War II for four years in the Air Corp. After the service I went into business with Ashton Hesse operating an Humble Service Station. Later, I went into business for myself operating a Phillips 66 Service Station for seventeen years until the Company closed it in 1974. Since then I have been employed by Freund Funeral Home on a part time basis. I am a member of the Cuero Chamber of Commerce and at one time was the Vice-President. I served on the Cuero City Council for eight years, also was a board member of the old Cuero Hospital Foundation for eleven years. I have served on the Vestry of the Grace Episcopal Church of which I am a member and also worked with the American Cancer Society, (Memorial Chairman). I am currently the treasurer of the DeWitt County Republican Party and serve on the Board of Directors of the DeWitt County Historical Museum. I enjoy working with and for people. My hobby is traveling and I have traveled in Europe extensively as well as in the United States. I also enjoy working in my own yard and don't mind keeping house, as I live alone. As I have said previously, I enjoy living in Cuero and it has been mighty good to me.

As children the family spent much of their time at their beach home at Magnolia Beach until it was destroyed in 1919. He remembers traveling in 1911 in a covered wagon and hack with his family, Uncle Henry Reiffert and Buck Schiwetz, his cousin. They drove to Kerrville sleeping and eating outdoors for good health advantages in hot August.

Walter went to A&M College in 1920 but because of contracting tuberculosis, left school and spent several years in sanitoriums in San Antonio and Kerrville. With a complete return of his health, he lived in Douglas, Arizona for a few years working for the Phelps - Dodge Mining and Smelting Company and then he returned to Kerrville and was in partnership in the dry cleaning and pressing business. Later he owned and operated a hardware and gift store in Kerrville. While living there, Walter became very active in civic, school and church affairs. He also visited his family in Cuero and especially enjoyed having a glass of wine with his Aunt Hilda Mugge in her parlor at the Reiffert home on Indianola Street. Walter was married to Nancy Autry who died in 1973 and later married Dorothy Ford July 6, 1974. After living in Kerrville for over fifty years and retiring in 1966, he moved back to Cuero in 1980 and became active in the Rotary Club. He received the first Paul Harris Fellow and was President 1983-1984. He is also active in Grace Episcopal Church, was on the Vestry and was Junior Warden. He is in the ranching business. His hobbies are fishing and hunting and he has several trophies.

REINECKE, CHRISTIAN AND MARY THURMANN

F753

Marie (Mary) Thurmann was born June 23, 1851 in the Province of Bradenburg, Germany. She was baptized and confirmed in the evangelical Lutheran faith. Her father died when she was ten months old and her mother when she was seven years old.

In 1869, Mary and her brother came to America. They disembarked in Galveston and made their way to Brenham, later moving to Schulenberg.

In 1872, Mary was given in marriage to Christian Reinecke (born August 20, 1852). They moved to a farm in Mission Valley near Victoria in 1882. This was located about two miles up the Guadalupe River from where they would later spend their remaining days.

In 1877 they bought the property in Mission Valley which was to become their homestead. A rock and cement house, already located on the property, became their home and is believed to have been built by slave labor. Fragments of walls and foundation still remain on the property today marking the site.

More than once, dark clouds of sickness and death were to visit the family. Of the twelve children that were to be born, three were to die as infants. Of the firstborn, Alvina and Emma, twins, only Alvina was to survive. The other named infant which died was Wilhelm Lorena. The surviving children were the following: Alvina (Gebhardt), 1874-1943; Otto Adolph, 1876-1929, Anna (Lassmann), 1878-1950, Pauline (Metze), 1881-1936; William Lawrence, 1883-1970; Adeline Wilhelmina Marie (Addicks), 1886-1956; Augusta Hulda (Dentler), 1888-1977 and Albert Friedrick, 1893-1982.

Tragedy struck this family once more on August 4, 1897 when Christian was killed by a stroke of lightening while on his way home from Cuero. He was in the company of his sonin-law, Earnest Gephardt, when they took cover under a large oak tree from a sudden thunderstorm near Captain Lloyds place. He died within minutes. Mary died January 15, 1936.

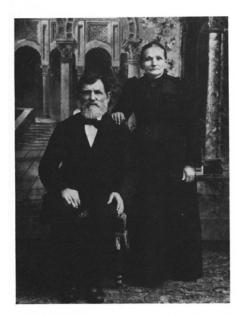

Our story now turns to the youngest of the Reinecke children, Albert Fred. Being the youngest, he remained in the family home to take care of his mother. He married Elsie Regina Angerstein on November 25, 1914 in Germantown (now Schroeder) Lutheran Church. Elsie was the daughter of Caroline and Albert C. Angerstein. They spent all their married life on the same farm raising cotton, corn, maize and cattle. Albert was a charter member of the Lutheran Church in Mission Valley and at the time of his death was the last charter member as well as the oldest member of the congregation. Elsie and Albert were blessed with four children: Ida Mary, Helen Selma, Elmer Christian and Albert William. Ida and Helen would marry brothers from the Green DeWitt Community. Ida was to marry Walter Richard Wolf on October 8, 1940. Helen would marry Armin Albert Wolf on April 10, 1940. Elmer Christian married Gladys Ester Johnson of Victoria on November 29, 1953. Albert remains on the family farm, the place of his birth. Ida preceded her parents in death on July 25, 1964.

REINHARDT, LOUIS J. FAMILY

Louis J. Reinhardt and Johana Dorodea (Thieme)

Louis J. Reinhardt arrived in America July 17, 1847, landing in Galveston. He sailed on the ship St. Pauli from Hamburg, Germany and was the youngest, age seventeen, of all the men in the company. He was to botanize in Texas. They were met by 24 ox-wagons and purchased supplies before starting their journey across Texas. In Indianola they were paid $10,000 in American gold for settling Fisher's grant near Fredericksburg. It was a real adventure for young Reinhardt. It took them four weeks to reach New Braunfels where he and one man fell sick with typhoid fever, another man broke his leg, so the company waited for them to recover. They continued their journey, staying several days in Fredericksburg before arriving at their tract of land on the LLano River. They built a structure 40' long by 22' wide and organized a communistic society that fell to pieces in less than a year. REMMERS, HENRY E. AND HEDWIG L. V. (OTTO)

Henry Remmers and M.G. Mueller operate platform trap door to drop caliche into dump truck below. Caliche was collected in fresnos drawn by mule teams, and moved over trap door.

Henry Remmers gives horses and mules a break under giant oaks near Cuero during move from Shiner to Nordheim.

Henry Ernst Remmers and his wife, Hedwig Louise Valeska (Otto), both children of German immigrants, purchased approximately 100 acres of land from the Osmar Neubert family, southwest of Nordheim and moved there from Shiner in January 1923. The move was to have been made in the fall of 1922 but heavy rains and poor roads made it impossible at that time. They followed his older brother Willie & family, and sister Emma (Mrs. Herman) Dahse who had also moved to Nordheim to live on land purchased earlier by their father Friedrich. Uncles August Remmers and Henry Remmers, Jr., as well as an aunt, Adelina (Mrs. Meinert G.) Mueller were also living at Nordheim. Cattle, and the mules and horses were moved prior to moving the family and the home furnishings. Fortunately, two Model T trucks were made available to Henry and Hedwig (better known as Hattye), for moving day, January 7th, which was also Hattye's birthday. The two sisters-in-law were on hand to help, and Hattye tried to convince them that house and furnishings did not have to be in perfect order the first day. But early in the evening, when neighbors began to arrive with surprise party food, to celebrate her birthday and welcome them, Hattye understood the need for hurrying all day. The tradition of birthday parties, and bunco and 42 parties, continued throughout the years. Farming was the chief endeavor. Cotton was the primary cash crop, but corn, hay and other grain products were raised to feed chickens and hogs, as well the cattle. Also each year, a large garden was planted, and Hattye spent countless hours canning fruits and vegetables which were stored in the cool "cistern house" for consumption throughout the year. In addition, every winter Henry & Hattye butchered five or more hogs. Bacon and ham were seasoned, and together with sausage was smoked, and placed in large stone crocks, immersed in melted lard, and covered, to be removed as needed throughout the following year. NEVER, even during the "Great Depression" was the family hungry. If there was an excess of pork products, it was sold to townspeople who inquired for it each year in advance of the season. One regular customer was Dr. Sam Osterloh, who on his trips home to visit his family, always came out to purchase country sausage before returning to California.

In the early years on the farm, Henry had a keen interest in the improvement of the public roads. He opened a caliche pit at one end of the farm and sold caliche to the county and state, much of it at five cents per cubic yard. Later he operated road-building equipment in Precinct 3, until he injured his back trying to crank a crawler-type tractor.

Henry and Hattye served the community in numerous ways - Henry, as Director or board member of such organizations as Hochheim Prairie Farm Mutual Insurance Assn., DeWitt County R.E.A., DeWitt County Tire Rationing Board (during World War II), Nordheim Farmers Co-op Whse. & Gin Co., Nordheim Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture, Nordheim School Board; and, as Council Member and Sunday School Superintendent of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Hattye, as an officer or member of DeWitt County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs; Nordheim Home Demonstration Club; Nordheim Home & School Club (now P.T.A.); Cemetery Association; Garden Club; and, St. Paul Lutheran Church Ladies Aid Society, and Sunday School Teacher. Today, at age 89, Hattye continues to live in the same home on the farm. Henry died August 6, 1971 and is buried in the Nordheim Cemetery. Henry and Hattye had two children -Marian and Harold. Marian is married to Alton Enke and they live at Bulverde, Texas. They have two children - Jeaneane lives in San Antonio - Curtis and his wife, Kathy live in Bulverde and have two children. Allison and Mark. Harold and his wife Marjorie live in San Antonio. Harold has two step-daughters. Carla lives in Austin with her husband, Lawrence Doxsey. Connie is married to Steve Jones. They live in San Antonio and have two sons, Evan and Mitchell.

REUSS, JOSEPH B. AND WANDA

Among the most pleasant childhood memories of Joe Reuss are going to Aunt Bertha Reuss' big house. Her niece, Pauline Reuss (Richardson), was still living there then. Too, across the street were all the children coming and going at the Froebese home. Joe is the youngest son of Theo and Ruth Reuss. He was born in Cuero on February 10, 1928, attended Cuero public schools and graduated from high school in 1945.

Joe got into the usual teenage pranks with his chums. He fondly remembers Mr. "Zim" (O.A. Zimmerman) telling him he would "never mount to a hill of beans". In those days, Mr. "Zim" was not only principal of Cuero Hill School, but a teacher and coach as well. Despite these predictions, Joe went to Texas A&M College and in 1949 graduated in engineering. He received his commission as a 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Army. He went to work for General Motors and in 1952 was called into service during the Korean conflict with the NATO forces in Europe.

It was during this time that he decided he would return to college and work toward a degree in pharmacy. He entered the University of Texas School of Pharmacy. This was a difficult decision for an Aggie but A&M did not offer this field of education. Football season was always interesting for Joe, not knowing whether to go to class on Monday after an A&M – TU game. He received his degree in pharmacy in 1957, graduating with high honors.

Joe returned to Cuero to become the fourth generation at Reuss Drug Store. Soon after Joe joined his father at the store, Theo had a severe heart attack. He was hospitalized for some time and although recovering fully, never returned to the drug store. It had been a wise decision Joe made when he changed the course of his career.

In January 1958, Wanda Proctor arrived in Cuero for a visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Mary and W.T. Smith. Wanda had been working for civil service at Hamilton AFB, California, and decided to return to Texas. While she was not planning on living in Cuero, Wanda worked at Foster Field in Victoria for awhile. The air force was deactivating the base and needed short-term employees with security clearances. Later she went to work for Wilcox-Trend in Cuero.

Gus Cage was the instigator of the meeting of Joe and Wanda and they were married on July 5, 1958, at the First Methodist Church. Wanda continued to work for Wilcox during the merger with Texas Eastern Transmission but later resigned to work in the drug store.

The youngest of three children, Wanda was born October 6, 1929, to Frank A. and Jewel Todd Proctor in Texon, Reagan County, Texas. On the way to the west coast on a vacation, Joe and Wanda decided to detour to Wanda's birthplace. It was strange to see what had once been a nice, small town with a hospital, theatre, schools, Olympic size pool and a large gas plant gone, with only a few buildings remaining. They had known this when they went there, but were curious. The land is owned by the University of Texas and this was a private town for employees of what is now Sohio Oil Company, located off the highway between Big Lake and McCamey in West Texas. After the oil decline in that area, the buildings were sold and moved off and all that remains are a few overseers of the working wells. Wanda lived in Texon until 1939 when the Proctor children moved to San Angelo with their mother. She graduated from high school in 1946 and entered San Angelo Jr. College. While working at Goodfellow Field, she and a friend decided to go to California and transferred to Hamilton AFB.

Joe and Wanda had been interested in family history, but very little had been known about the early years in Germany of Joe's great-grandfather, Dr. J.M. Reuss. In the spring of 1984, they traveled to Germany in pursuit of any information available. Among family papers was the death notice of Anna Reuss Sotier, the sister who had reared Dr. Reuss. The notice was from Bad Kissengen and that is where they began. They found the burial ground of Mrs. Sotier and her husband, Dr. George Anton Sotier. They learned Dr. Sotier had been personal physician to Kaiser Wilhelm. Looking for any information about Dr. Reuss' brother Simon, they went to the Post Office in Muennerstadt and were directed to a town nearby, Steinach. Arriving in Steinach, armed with only a small German dictionary, they located the Post Office and Gast Hous Reuss. Through an interpreter, they found George Reuss, a hotel keeper, and his father, Helmut, Postmaster. These are the descendants of Simon and virtually the whole town of Stinach are Reuss relations. They were very lucky and overwhelmed. Hopefully, they can return again and be just as lucky and surpri-

REUSS, DR. JOSEPH MARTIN AND ANNA GESINE

F757

Dr. Joseph Martin Reuss

Joseph Martin Reuss, born in Wurzburg, Bavaria on November 12, 1822, was the son of a hotelkeeper. His mother, Mary Muller Reuss, died in 1824 when he was but one year old and his father, Stephen, died in 1831. He was reared by his older sister, Anna. There were three other known boys in the family and they were: Adam, a postmaster named George, and a hat-maker named Simon. Joseph received his education in Muennerstadt, Bavaria, and was liberally educated in both literature and science. He studied medicine at the University of Wurzburg and graduated in 1845. Dr. Joseph Reuss began his practice in Bavaria, but soon found himself out of sympathy with the political and social rules of his native Germany. Seeing a better opening in America, he emigrated with Prince Braunfels and landed in Galveston in November 1845. There he met Anna Gesine Stubbemann who had also emigrated from Germany earlier the same year. She was born in Delmenhorst, Oldenburg, Germany, February 17, 1826. They were married December 2, 1845 in Galveston and left to make their home in Indianola. He immediately opened his medical practice there in a tent. He also established a stock of drugs, not primarily for the purpose of engaging in the drug business, but in order to have medicines needed in his practice. To accommodate the public he began Reuss Drug Store which was the first such store in Indianola.

Dr. and Mrs. Reuss had eight children, born in Indianola, but three died in infancy. Their other children were August Joseph, Oscar Joseph, Alfreda, Bertha Charlette and Joseph Henry. August was a student at Tulane University School of Medicine. Following this, he entered the Prussian Army in the war against France and after the war studied for two years in Wurzburg and Vienna. He never married. Oscar became a pharmacist and married Lillie Mugge. Alfreda married William Frobese and Bertha never married. Joseph Henry studied at the University of Texas and graduated from Columbia University in 1889. He was married to Meta Reiffert.

In the early days of Indianola there were many epidemics and Dr. Reuss helped in suppressing three of cholera and seven of yellow fever. He took an active part in the business and social life of the community. In July 1861, he was appointed a captain in the Indianola Artillery Guard and in that same year raised a company and served as a captain in the Confederate Army in Shea's Battalion. In addition to this service, J.M. Reuss had been appointed postmaster by the Confederate States of America, Post Office Department on November 11, 1864. Quote from the certificate "under authority of the second section of an act authorizing appointment of an agent of the Post Office Department, to carry on the postal service west of the Mississippi, approved February 10, 1864." Capt. Reuss participated in the engagement at Lavaca and was taken as a prisoner of war by the Union Army. He received his parole of honor in July 1865, to return as postmaster at Indianola and promised on honor not to bear arms against the Union Army. He returned to his practice in Indianola and was contract surgeon for the United States Custom House and also a contract surgeon for the Quartermaster Department. Dr. Reuss was a member of the Texas Medical Society and the State Pharmaceutical Society.

In 1872 he established a branch store in Cuero. This was operated by his son, Dr. A.J. Reuss and was located at 130 East Main. After the devastating storm of 1875, Dr. Reuss moved his family, home, medical practice and entire business to Cuero. The home is located at 315 Stockdale and is still a residence. August died in 1876 and after Oscar graduated from the St. Louis School of Pharmacy, he became associated with his father in the store and the name was changed to J.M. Reuss and Son. Dr. Reuss' son, Joseph H., opened practice with his father after graduation and they opened the first hospital in Cuero. The Salome Hospital opened in 1892 in the second story of the old St. Michael's Academy building. Recognizing the need for a larger institution, the civic leaders undertook to raise money for this project and a new hospital was erected on "Factory Hill." In 1895, Dr. Reuss celebrated fifty years in the medical profession and retired soon thereafter. On his 80th birthday in 1903, quite an impromptu party took place. Entertainment was provided by the Choral Club, Joe Frobese and Mrs. J.R. Whitaker, the Lienhard Band and other musicians. A quote from the newspaper stated "The happy feature of the evening was the ringing up of the nurses in quarantine at the Bennet Ranch and toasting them."

Dr. Reuss received his naturalization papers in 1854. He died in Dallas in March 1908, and was buried in Hillside Cemetery in Cuero. Mrs. Reuss preceded her husband in death on August 26, 1893, just after returning from Chicago World's Fair.

REUSS, OSCAR JOSEPH AND LILLY MUGGE

Oscar and Lilly Reuss

Oscar Joseph Reuss was born in Indianola, Texas March 7, 1861 to Dr. and Mrs. J.M. Reuss. He attended school in Indianola and after the family moved to Cuero in 1875, he attended the Cheapside Academy of Dr. J.V.E. Covey. Afterwards, he went to St. Louis School of Pharmacy and graduated in 1883. He returned to Cuero and became associated with his father in the family business of J.M. Reuss and Son Drug Store. He was a member of the Texas State Board of Pharmacy Examiners, the Oddfellows, Woodman Maccabees and Herman Sons.

Lilly Mugge was born in Indianola on July 4, 1870. She was one of six children of Edward and Pauline Blumenthal Mugge. Mr. Mugge had emigrated from Freye, Germany, and Mrs. Mugge from Schnackenburg, Germany. Mr. Mugge was associated with H. Runge and Co. After schooling in Cuero, Lilly received her higher education in Germany.

Lilly and Oscar were married in Cuero on March 4, 1889, in Grace Church. They had six children. Edward, like his father a pharmacist, was born in 1889 and never married. Joseph M., born in 1891, married Elsie Teller. Theodore August, born 1892, married Ruth Sigler. John (Hans) was born in 1894. Pauline, born 1897, married A. Lea Richardson. Bertha, born 1899, married Albert Leuders. Theo was the last survivor of the children dying in 1980.

The Oscar Reuss family resided at 610 North Esplanade. This home is now owned by Karnack Cable Co. and is occupied by them. Oscar died in March 1908 and Lilly shortly after in 1909 after several years of illness. After Oscar's death, his sister Bertha took on the responsibility of raising this family, the youngest of whom was only 9 years old. She cared for these children in the home she had shared with her parents at 315 Stockdale. A much loved Aunt Bertha, whose passion was music and poetry, died November 16, 1937, at the age of 67.

REUSS, THEODORE AUGUST AND FRANCES RUTH SIGLER

F759

Ruth and Theo Reuss

Following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather, Theo became the third generation to be associated with Reuss Drug Store.

Theodore August Reuss was born to Oscar and Lilly Reuss on May 13, 1892. He was one of six surviving children. He went to school in Cuero and always said he cut his teeth at the drug store since he worked there as a child. Theo did not go to pharmacy school as it was not a requirement then. He became druggistowner in 1912.

Frances Ruth Sigler was born in Sealy, Texas, on January 12, 1901, to Dr. Innis Burford Sigler and Pattie Marion Sullivan Sigler and was one of three children. After graduation from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, Texas, she moved to Cuero to become a grade school teacher.

Theo and Ruth were married in Bellville, Texas, September 20, 1922, and made their home in Cuero. In 1928, the home and property occupied by them was sold to the school board. This was the location of the soon-to-be built high school on Hunt and Depot Streets and located directly south of the high school that was converted to a junior high school. Theo purchased the home by bid from the board and it was relocated to the 500 block of East Sarah. They resided there until 1938 when they moved into their new two-story home at 502 East Reuss Blvd. The Reusses spent their lives working for the drug store and were closely associated with the Methodist Church.

During World War II, Mrs. Reuss was instrumental in establishing the USO for those stationed at Brayton Field. Their home was always open to the "boys" and, many times, their wives. More than one wedding and/or reception was held there. As long as either Theo or Ruth lived, they were still receiving messages from those who had been stationed in Cuero.

The Reusses were parents of two boys, Theodore and Joseph. Even though he was T.A., Jr., only the initial "A" appeared on his birth certificate. Joe, referred to as Joe Burford, only had an initial "B" on his certificate. Ted attended Texas A&M University and enlisted in the Army Air Corps in WW II. After discharge, he returned to college and graduated from medical school in 1955. Ted had his practice in Cuero and Houston. He has four children and he and wife, Joan, are retired in Cuero and live in his parents home. Joe is a graduate of Texas A&M University and served in the army during the Korean Conflict. He graduated from University of Texas School of Pharmacy in 1957. He is now owner of Reuss Pharmacy and he and wife, Wanda, live in Cuero.

Ruth Reuss died in April 1970, having suffered a stroke several years earlier. Theo died in December 1980, at age 88.

In the 1860's Oliver and his son went to cut a tree down in the pasture. It fell the wrong way and he was killed. He was buried in either Alexander Cemetery or Hollan Cemetery in an unmarked grave.

RICE, THOMAS McCLURE

F761

Thomas McClure Rice was born 1801 in Poultney, Rutland County, Vermont. He was the only son of five children born to Nathan and Jemima (McClure) Rice. Nathaniel (Nathan) was a descendant of Edmund Rice who settled Sudbury, Massachusetts about 1639. Thomas moved with his parents to Washington County, Ohio in 1803 where they farmed in the Rainbow Settlement a few miles up the Muskingham River from Marietta.

Thomas married Elizabeth Wilson of Salem Township (now Lower Salem) in Washington County September 28, 1824. Elizabeth was born in Ireland ca 1805. Thomas and Elizabeth helped his father farm until after the birth of James in 1828. They then moved to Steubenville, Ohio where Mary was born 1829, Oliver 1830, and William Wilson in 1835.

Thomas probably read of the need for settlers in Texas and the promise of free land for he applied for land from the Republic of Texas in 1838. They were in Fort Bend County in 1840 as records show that they owned a saddle horse. Thomas moved his family to Clinton, which was a few miles south of the present Cuero, where his last son Thomas Richard was born February 11, 1842.

In February of that same year 1842, General Vasquez led 700 Mexican troops into Texas to attack San Antonio, They entered San Antonio on March 5, 1842 and then after looting the town they retreated March 7. Once again on September 10, 1842, Texian spies reported that a Mexican force under General Wall was approaching. By the 11th San Antonio was captured by 950 men. On September 14, 1842 the news reached La Grange where a group of fifteen men rallied. This group under the leadership of Nicholas Mosby Dawson rode toward San Antonio to aid another group under Mather Caldwell. On the way they were joined by others, including Thomas McClure Rice, until their number increased to 54.

Arriving to within two miles of Caldwell's position on Salado Creek near the present site of Fort Sam Houston on September 18, 1842, Dawson and his men were intercepted by 400 Mexican troops. Dawson's men realized that they were outnumbered and tried to surrender but the Mexican forces ignored their white flags. After an hour 36 Texians had been killed, 15 taken prisoners and three managed to escape. Thomas Rice was among the dead. The following morning Caldwell's men came to the battlefield and buried the bodies in shallow graves.

In 1848, the bones of the dead patriots were removed and taken to Fayette County. On September 18, 1848 the remains were given a military burial in a tomb on the bluff overlooking the Colorado River just outside the town of La Grange. Sam Houston and a large contingent were in attendance. The burial site has become a state park and is well tended.

On April 12, 1847 Elizabeth was granted an unconditional certificate for 640 acres of land in DeWitt County as she had satisfied the three year residency.

On November 18, 1854 Elizabeth was awarded $80.75 from the State of Texas for her husband's horse, saddle and three weeks of military service to the State of Texas.

Elizabeth died in 1859, as her will was read that year, and is probably buried in the ceme tery in Clinton.

The children grew up in DeWitt County and records show that Mary had a son Asa then married Joseph Newman. Oliver married Adalino Courtney. William Wilson married Mary Ann —. Thomas Richard, my ancestor, married Martha Ann Alexander, the daughter of James Sidney Alexander and Anna S. Allison. Thomas Richard and Martha lived in the Stratton Community and are supposedly buried in the Alexander Cemetery but the sites have been lost.

RIEBSCHLAEGER, CHARLES JOSEPH, JR. AND EVELYN KLECKA FAMILY

Charles Joseph Riebschlaeger, Jr., was born the youngest of 11 children (8 of whom lived) in Lavaca County, near Moulton, Texas, in 1907. All of his older brothers and sisters were baptized in Moulton, according to church records. However, "Charley," as he was known to his brothers and sisters, was baptized in Ss. Cyril and Methodius Church in Shiner, nearby. At an early age, the family moved to the Runge-Nordheim area. Carl Josef Riebschlaeger, Sr., had emigrated from Germany during a draft by the Kaiser prior to World War I. Although it was against the Kaiser's law for any unmarried man his age to leave his homeland, then preparing to strengthen their military forces, Carl and his sister chose to risk a move to the New World of opportunity by posing as man and wife. They succeeded in this plan, and as a result, he and his offspring would experience the horrors of World Wars I and II as observers on this side of the Atlantic, with grateful hearts.

After arriving in the United States, Carl, now known as Charles, began work as a share-cropper farmer, and married Selma Rabe, born in Blackjack in Fayette County. All children born to this marriage, with the exception of three, would become farmers, or marry farmers. Helen would marry a carpenter, Herman Garbe, and Herman would eventually work for Gulf Coast Industries in Cuero, although all of their married life, they lived in Nordheim. Charles, Jr., as a young man worked as an apprentice to Mr. John Mosel in his drugstore in Runge, then studied pharmacy at Danforth Pharmacy School in Ft. Worth, Texas.

In 1933, he accepted a position as pharmacist at Klecka Drug Co. with a salary of $80 per month. "Rip," as he became known to friends, worked hard to help make the business a success. He had already been acquainted with Louis Klecka's daughter, Evelyn, having met her at a summer dance at Kenedy. His job at her father's store gave them the opportunity to know one another well, and they were engaged to be married within a few months. On March 19, 1934, Louis Klecka underwent exploratory surgery in Scott and White Hospital in Temple, Texas. That evening, he died of internal hemorrhaging due to cancer of the liver. His death came as a shock to the family and dampened the mood of the pending wedding of Evelyn and Rip. Out of respect for Louis, they chose to be married in a quiet ceremony on May 22, 1934 at 6:00 a.m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church, before Reverend Leo Goertz, Pastor. After a brief honeymoon at the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio, Texas, they returned to Cuero to manage Klecka Drug Company together for a total of 37 years. Rip and Evelyn had two daughters: Elizabeth Josephine (Bette Jo), born September 9, 1936 (at 9:09 a.m.), and Mary Katherine (Kaye), born September 28, 1939.

During their life together in Cuero, Rip and Evelyn were actively involved in the life and development of their church and civic communities. As members of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Rip served as Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus several times and was made a Knight of St. Gregory, an honor bestowed by the Pope upon outstanding church leaders among the laity. This honor was bestowed on May 15, 1977. Just three days later, Rip died after suffering an abdominal aneurism on May 18, 1977, in Cuero Hospital. Celebrant of the funeral Mass was then Monsignor Charles Grahmann, Chaplain of the Knights of St. Gregory, now Bishop of Victoria in Texas.

At the same ceremony for Rip's investiture in Bloomington, Evelyn also received the Archbishop Francis J. Fuery Award for outstanding service of her own to the church. She had served as president of the Mother's Club of St. Michael's School, as Grand Regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court St. Michael, several times, and had worked several years as sponsor of the Junior Catholic Daughters troop at St. Michael's. At this time, she is a member of the Outreach Group of St. Michael's and visits hospital patients regularly.

their family, was Fr. William Jansen, diocesan priest who was a native of Nijmigen, Holland, and who served as pastor in Cuero for over 25 years. Rip also served on the Parish Building

Board and helped to negotiate the construction of the St. Michael's School building and the new rectory, still in use today.

In the civic community, Rip was elected to the City Commission in 1950 and served three terms as Fire, Police, then Streets and Parks Commissioner positions. In 1960, he served as General Chairman of the traditional Turkey Trot. He was made an Honorary Member of the 4-H and FFA organizations, honors which he treasured particularly because they were awar ded by youth organizations, whom he consider ed vitally important to the future of the commu nity and the nation. He was also president of the Cuero Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture for several terms and co-founder of the Cuero Industrial Foundation, serving as its president from its incorporation in 1957 until his retirement in 1975. On April 13, 1973, the Board of Directors passed a resolution honoring Rip for his years of service stating that "during a period of some eighteen years, he furnished the initiative, leadership, and inspiration which caused the Foundation to develop from a mere aspiration into the vital and effective force for the assistance and development of industry which it is today, having a net worth of approximately $75,000 and a broad community membership," expressing appreciation "for the unselfish leadership and service which he has supplied the Foundation since its inception." It also noted that "although newly elected to an additional term on the Board of Directors, Mr. Riebschlaeger declined to be nominated for an additional term in the presidency of the Foundation." A plaque of appreciation was also presented to Rip at that time. During his term as Park Commissioner, the municipal park underwent several improvements, including the development of the municipal airport and the lake. During his term as Commissioner of Streets, an extensive paving program was accomplished. In 1970, he was named Citizen of the Year. "Rip" was also an avid hunter of deer, dove, quail and pheasant.

Evelyn was also a leader in her civic involvement. She served as president of the Cuero Gobbler Band Parents Club for two terms. She is a charter member of the Pilot Club of Cuero and served as vice president, declining succession to the office of president only when her husband, Rip, suffered his first heart attack in September of 1971. She is still a current member. She is also currently a member of the DeWitt County Republican Women's Organization and served as president for three years. Under her leadership, the organization received the PAT Award from the Texas Federation of Republican Women and she was named one of the Ten Outstanding Republican Women of Texas at their State Convention in Austin in 1977. She was also an invaluable partner to Rip in his role as Chairman of the Turkey Trot Parade in 1960. The event was "immortalized" in family history when their daughter Kaye presented them with their first grandchild, Mary Elizabeth, in Austin on the very day of the Coronation Ball on November 10.

On the Riebschlaeger mausoleum in the Cuero Hillside Cemetery, where Rip is buried is engraved the emblem of the Knights of St. Gregory. (After his name are the initials, K.S.G., which stand, of course, for "Knights of St. Gregory," contrary to information recently published which erroneously assumed the initials to mean that he was a Mason.) Above the emblem is inscribed in Latin the motto of the Knights, "Pro Deo et Patria" (For God and Country). This phrase sums up the dedicated love of Evelyn and Rip as they lived their lives in service of one another, of their family, and of their fellow members in the Cuero community. Their lives stand as an inspiration to their family members as they seek to be faithful to that faith, that hope, and that love. (See also the Business Section for more on the development of Klecka Drug Co., the Cozy Nook, and Center Pharmacy.)

RIEBSCHLAEGER, SR. ELIZABETH, CCVI

Bette Jo Riebschlaeger as "Miss Cuero."

Sister Elizabeth Riebschlaeger, Sister of Charity of Incarnate Word, 1958.

Bette Jo Riebschlaeger

Sister Elizabeth Riebschlaeger, born Elizabeth Josephine Riebschlaeger on September 9, 1936, in the Lutheran Hospital in Cuero, Texas, was the first child of Evelyn Marie Klecka Riebschlaeger and Charles Joseph (Rip) Riebschlaeger. The first years of her life were spent in the family home on East Broadway, directly across from the John C. French Elementary School. She began the study of piano at age 4, from Mrs. Ruth Eberhart, wife of the Lutheran minister at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. The study of music would run as an unbroken thread throughout her life, and be the key to many hours of joy for herself, but also be the key to years of service to others in their search for the Lord and His people. Bette Jo was blessed with the company of a little sister on September 28, 1939, when Mary Katherine was born. (See Mary Katherine "Kaye" Riebschlaeger Dunn.) In 1941, the family purchased a home at 402 Second St.

Just a few days before her fifth birthday, Bette Jo was permitted to begin school at St. Michael's Catholic School on McLeod Street. She spent eight years there under instruction from the Sisters of the Incarnate Word and Blessed Sacrament from Incarnate Word Convent in Victoria. One of the highlights of these school years was the opportunity to play the lead in the operetta "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." In 1949, she graduated and entered Cuero High School, along with her friends from St. Michael's. She had begun study of the clarinet under the direction of "Pop" Krause while still attending St. Michael's, in hopes of joining the band in high school. (Her inspiration for this attempt was her acquaintance with band activities through her cousin, Ray Katzmark, who played the same instrument with the Breckenridge High School Band in San Antonio, and served as Drum Major there.) Her hopes were realized when the band director, Mr. George Bodenmiller, admitted her into the Senior High Band as a freshman.

She was a member for four years, and during her senior year was First Chair Clarinet. She was also a member of the stage band, playing alto saxophone and serving as vocalist. During the last three years of high school, the band director was Dr. William Wendland. During all four years, the band developed into a first-rate band, bringing home many First Division and Sweepstakes Awards for marching, concert, and sight-reading. Bette Jo was also a member of the Home Economics Club, and during her senior year, the choir, under the direction of Mr. Oscar Miles. She was elected "Gobbler Queen," and in her senior year, "Miss Cuero." As Miss Cuero, she represented the city in several civic functions in other towns and cities.

After graduation in June of 1953, plans were laid to attend Incarnate Word College in the fall. She majored in Music Education and was a member of the College Chorale and the smaller ensemble, the Cecilian Choristers. She was elected president of the Freshman Class and that same year was selected to play the lead role in the Genesius Players Drama Club production of Franz Werfl's "Bernadette of Lourdes." In her sophomore year she was elected secretary of the Student Council.

On September 11, 1955, Bette Jo entered the Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word as a postulant at the Motherhouse on the campus of Incarnate Word College. On August 15, 1963, she pronounced her Final Vows and has taught in various parochial and Catholic high schools in San Antonio, Eagle Pass, San Angelo, and New Orleans, Louisiana. She also served as Instructor of Music in the Department of Music at Incarnate Word College for three years. She served as All-level Music Director for Sacred Heart Cathedral School in San Angelo for 4 years and Cathedral Choir Director for one year. In August of 1977, she received her Masters Degree in Religious Studies from the Pastoral Institute at Incarnate Word College. Since January of 1976, Sister Elizabeth, as she is known, has worked in pastoral and parish ministry positions, working primarily in adult religious education areas in Ft. Stockton, Corpus Christi, and El Campo, Texas. She also served for approximately two years as Director of the Music Ministry for the retreat program at the Pecos Benedictine Monastery in Pecos, New Mexico. In that capacity, she served as Assistant Director to Fr. Carey Landry in preparation for the annual Southwest Regional Catholic Charismatic Conference, and the following year as Director for the same conference in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Sister has been a member of various organizations during her professional service: the National Music Educators Association, the National Catholic Music Educators Association, the Southwest Liturgical Conference (for which she served as a member of the Board representing the diocese of San Angelo), the National Liturgical Conference, and the National Association of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions (in her capacity of the Secretary to the Diocesan Liturgical Commission in San Angelo, from 1970-1974). Sister has also been a member of the Ministerial Alliances in Ft. Stockton and also El Campo, Texas. In El Campo, she served as president of the Alliance for one year. She is currently a member of the Diocesan Sisters Council for the Diocese of Victoria, having served as vice-president of that organization for two years. She is currently a member of the Diocesan Vocation Council. She has also served in several civic capacities, including board member for the Ft. Stockton Housing Authority and of the Common Justice Committee, also of Ft. Stockton. She was cofounder and is current president of the Blessing Cup Storehouse, Inc., in El Campo, an ecumenical social service organization sponsored by the El Campo Ministerial Association. For the past year, Sister has also served as a member of the Design Team for a course in Rural Sociology being developed as a continuing education course for ministers and other professionals by the Rural Sociology Department at Texas A&M University and has served as a facilitator for the first round of groups. At the time of publication of this book, she is currently Pastoral Associate at St. Robert's Catholic Church in El Campo.

Sister has also traveled extensively, having served as a counselor for the Foreign Study League Comparative Studies tour to Europe in 1970, and with her mother, Evelyn, on a tour to Fatima, Lourdes, and Rome with the Knights of St. Gregory, during which they attended Mass celebrated by His Holiness Pope John Paul II in St. Peter's Basilica, in thanksgiving for his recently completed missionary journey to the United States and Canada. More recently, Sister traveled with her mother to Medjugorje, Yugoslavia, for the opening of the Marian year in 1987, and then both joined her sister, Kaye Riebschlaeger Dunn, in Ireland, where they toured that country, Wales, and England, then traveled on to Czechoslovakia, where, with the assistance of Mr. Rudy Klecka, of Klub Kontinental Tours of East Bernard, they succeeded in locating the home of Evelyn's grandfather, Frantisek Jan Spacek, still in use in their native village of Bordovice in Moravia. Sister has since returned to Czechoslovakia as an assistant to Rudy and Henrietta Klecka, and in that capacity, was hosted by the Slusovice Cooperative Farm officials in southern Moravia and Prague. They also visited Hungary and Austria, and traveled extensively in Yugoslavia. In November of 1989, she will travel with the Klecka's tour to Rome for the canonization of Blessed Agnes of Bohemia, and dinner with the Cardinal Archbishop Tomasek of Prague, Czechoslovakia, who will journey to Rome for the occasion.

Sister's personal video-history of the family's travels to the homestead in Czechoslovakia was shared with Evelyn's cousin, Edwin Spacek, of Quitman, Texas, and with his daughter, Sissy Spacek, also a descendant of Frantisek Jan Spacek.

RIEDEL, ADOLPH FRIEDERICK ERNST F765

Adolph Friederick Ernst Riedel was born in Kahla, Saxon, Germany on November 19, 1837, the fourth child of Moritz, Sr. and Johanne Heinrich Riedel. At the age of 12 he journeyed to America with his family on the "Hamburn-Knollen" sailing ship, landing in Indianola, TX on December 15, 1849. The family moved on to Yorktown, where his father built DeWitt County's first grist and saw mill. As a young man it is very likely that he helped his father and brothers operate the grist mill and the farming operations that the family was conducting in the Yorktown community.

In August 1862, at the height of the Civil War, Adolph's father was ambushed and murdered by thieves, who stole his team of horses. He was enroute from Clinton to Yorktown with supplies. Family tradition has it that Adolph accompanied his father on this ill fated trip and was severely wounded in the mouth and left for dead. Adolph recovered, but was left with a speech impediment.

Adolph apparently believed that his father's murder and the theft of the team of horses, was connected with Confederate sympathizers, because after he had fully recovered from his facial wounds, he journeyed to Brownsville, TX where on January 20, 1864 he enlisted in the Union Army for a period of three years. With the Civil War ended, Adolph was mustered out of the army on October 31, 1865.

On July 6, 1871, Adolph was united in marriage to Miss Wilhelmina Goetz at the Lutheran Church in Meyersville, TX. Following their marriage, they farmed and raised hogs near Weesatche. To this union seven children were born: Julius, Louis, Ernst F., twins Adolph Joseph and Minnie, Fredrich, and Robert. Julius married Mary Alex and they had eight children: Julia (Brown), Rudolph, Lillie (Kampfhenkle), Edwin, Frieda (Milburn), Walter, Viola, and Elmer. This family lived and farmed in the Alice-Robstown, TX area. Louis married Minna Alex and also farmed near Alice. They had seven children: Louise (Marthiljohni), Elsa (Pastilla), Alfred, Willie, Herman, Louis, Jr., Alma (Worden). Ernst married Louise Alex Burrow. He was a watchmaker, then a bridge builder and later was a railroad engineer in Colorado. They had no children. Adolph Joseph married Theresa Esch and they operated a cafe and grocery store in Weesatche, TX. Their only child, Leslie (Buster), still lives in Weesatche. Minnie married Wilhelm Esch and they also farmed near Alice. Their children were: Wilhelm Esch. Jr., Albert Esch, and Nollie Esch (Hoffman). Fred married Rosie Duderstadt, and for a time owned a grocery store in Nordheim. They later owned and operated a grocery and mercantile store in Alice, TX. Five children were born to them: Una (Puckett), Clifford (died in infancy), Pricilla (Garner), Roxie (Smith), and Roleen "Billie" (Diamond). When Fred died, his family returned to Nordheim to live. Robert married Minnie Duderstadt and they farmed and ranched near Nordheim. They had two sons: Clarence, who lives in Runge, and Vincent, who died in infancy.

Adolph died March 13, 1913 and Wilhelmina died October 25, 1925, and they are buried in the Lutheran Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

As youth he helped his father in farming operations near Yorktown, and as a young man learned the trade of wheelwright. He operated a wheel-wright shop until about 1887 when he joined his father and brother Richard in the firm of M. Riedel and Sons. He continued to be active in the firm until his retirement in the mid 1920's, at which time he sold his interest to Wilfred H. Riedel, son of Otto H. Riedel.

On November 4, 1882 August Riedel was united in marriage with Ida M. Heissig, sister to Henriette Heissig, wife of Otto Riedel. To this union four children were born. Elsie and Hilda died in infancy. Alfred H. Riedel was born March 22, 1885 and was married to Tempest Kingston. They lived in Dallas, TX, where he was in the banking business until his death in 1933. Henrietta S. Riedel was born October 31, 1889, and was married to Fritz Adix. They made their home in Kansas until her death in 1918.

August Riedel was active in the civic affairs of Yorktown. He served many years as city tax assessor and collector for the city of Yorktown, as well as trustee of the school board, and was a very active member of St. Paul Lutheran Church. After his retirement, August Riedel devoted his time to his home and church until his death on June 7, 1940. Ida Riedel died February 10, 1946. RIEDEL, (CONSTANTINE THEODORE) FRIEDRICH "FRITZ"

(Constantine Theodore) Friedrich "Fritz" Riedel was Moritz F., Sr., and Johanne Heinrich Riedel's sixth child. He was born in Kahla, Germany on March 8, 1841, and came to America with his family at the age of eight. The family landed at Indianola in December of 1849 and in early 1850 settled in the Yorktown area. "Fritz" was reared with his brothers and sister in the Yorktown community and worked with his father and brothers in the operation of the grist mill and farming operations.

Records of Confederate soldiers show an F. Riedel as a member of Co. I of the 6th Infantry Regt. along with Moritz and Ernst Riedel, but it is uncertain if this is Fritz or his younger brother Franz.

On October 7, 1866, Friedrich "Fritz" Riedel and Johanna D. Duderstadt were married and made their home in Yorktown. Fritz Riedel was the owner and operator of Yorktown's Opera House and an adjoining Saloon. He also owned Yorktown's first brewery, as well as a mortuary and furniture story. Fritz and Johanne had seven children: Berthold, Mathilda, Johanne (Grun), Fritz, Herman, Joseph and Francis. Berthold was a photographer with Fey & Braunig in Halletsville. He was not married. Mathilda and Francis were the owners of a flower shop which they operated next to the Riedel home, on Main Street in Yorktown. Johanne married Louis Grun, who was the depot agent in Yorktown. They were later owners of a rooming house in Beeville. Johanne had one son Fritz William Grun. Fritz (Jr.) died at age 19 from lockjaw (tetanus). Herman married Caroline Menn and was associated with his father in the mortuary and furniture business. Herman had one son Harlan. Joseph married Josephine Wanier Weid and was affiliated for a time with his father in the saloon and later owned a grocery and service station in Yorktown. Joseph had three children, Doreen (Hoff), Joseph M., who lives in Florida, and Luahna (Burnett, Gould) who lives in California.

RIEDEL, (FRIEDERICH) ERNST

(Friedrich) Ernst Riedel was born in Kahla, Germany on June 4, 1842, the seventh child of Moritz F., Sr. and Johanne Heinrich Riedel. At the age of seven he imigrated to America with his family, landing at Indianola in December 1849, and settling in the Yorktown area. In 1862 he joined the Confederate forces during the Civil War and according to army records, was a member of Company I of the 6th Infantry. The 6th Confederate Infantry Regiment participated in the battle at Port Arkansas, AR in early 1863; it is presumed, but not certain, that Ernst took part in this battle.

Upon returning to Yorktown after the Civil War, he owned and operated a hotel in Yorktown. On May 6, 1867, he was united in marriage with Miss Louise Jacob and they continued to live in the Yorktown area, where he continued to operate the hotel, bar and later he also farmed in this area. Ernst and Louise were the parents of six daughters: Anna, Ida Mary, Otillia, twins Louisa and Alma, and Rosalia. Anna married Charles Grosse and they farmed near Runge, TX. Their two children were Ernst Grosse and Amanda Grosse. Ernst was married to Lillie Dahlman and farmed near Runge. Amanda owned and operated a cafe in Runge. After Caleb's death, Otillia moved with her daughters to Woodland Mills, TN, the home of Caleb Burrus. In Woodland Mills, Otillia met and married Oscar Kennedy, the owner and operator of a grocery store. He later became a building contractor. Otillia and Oscar had one daughter Mary Alma Kennedy (Blackburn). One of Otillia's grandsons, Dr. Wm. T. Fitts, Jr. was head of the Dept. of Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania for many years. Rosalia's children are John, an engineer and businessman in Austin, TX and Dr. Georgia Felter Leggett, an OB/GYN in Austin, TX.

RIEDEL, FRANZ AUGUST JULIUS

F770

Franz August Julius Riedel was the fifth child of Moritz F., Sr. and Johanne Heinrich Riedel. He was born September 3, 1839 in Kahla, Germany, and came to America with his family when he was ten years of age. Franz worked with his father and brothers in the grist and saw mill, farmed, and in the 1860 census is listed as a Teamster. It was in this connection that on July 13, 1865, while he and one of his brothers, possibly Fritz, were hauling a load of cotton to Mexico, they were ambushed by renegades and Franz was killed. The ambushers stole their cotton, wagon and horses.

Franz's body was returned to Yorktown and laid to rest, in what was later to become the

RIEDEL, MORITZ FERDINAND, JR. AND SOPHIE AFFLERBACH SCHEFFEE

Moritz F. Riedel, Jr. came to America with his family on December 15, 1849, when he was 17 years of age. The family, of seven boys and one girl arrived at Indianola, TX on the sailing ship "Hamburg-Knollen". Moritz, Jr. was the oldest son of Moritz F., Sr. & Johanne Heinrich Riedel. He was born in Kahla, Saxony, Germany on December 4, 1832.

In early 1850, Moritz Riedel, Jr. accompanied his parents, brothers and sister, to the Yorktown community, which was in the early stages of development. Moritz Riedel, Sr. and Jr's. names appear on the early documents and land transactions during the formative years of development of the Yorktown area. On July 30, 1854, an agreement was drawn up by 18 land owners authorizing Franz Hoppe to buy certain lands from the York estate, for the streets and public square of Yorktown. Moritz Riedel, Jr. as well as his father were signers of this document.

On April 15, 1854, Moritz F. Riedel, Jr. was united in marriage with Sophie (Afflerbach) Scheffee, a widow with one daughter, Caroline Scheffee, who had immigrated to Texas from Erntebruct, Westphalia, Germany. During the early years of his marriage, Moritz Jr. was engaged in farming and helping his father with his grist mill operations in the area around Yorktown. The 1860 DeWitt county census lists Moritz, Jr. with his wife, Sophie, his step daughter, Caroline, and his children, Emma, age five and Herman, age one. Moritz Jr.'s occupation is listed as farmer.

Moritz F. Riedel, Jr. was apparently a gifted musician, who in addition to his instrumental skills, was also a composer and band director. By virtue of these abilities, when the Civil War broke out, he entered the military service with the Confederate forces as a musician. He was a member of Co. I, 6th Inf. Regiment, CSA and when this unit participated in the battle of Port Arkansas, which occurred in January 1863 on the Arkansas River southeast of Pine Bluff, AR, Moritz, Jr. was taken prisoner. He spent the remainder of the war in Northern territory.

During this war time period, his father, Moritz Riedel, Sr. was brutally murdered on Aug. 29, 1862, leaving his widowed mother Johanna to look after the family land holdings. During this same period, his brother Adolph was wounded and his brother Franz was killed in a similar ambush.

In 1865, Carl W. Nau, the husband of Caroline Riedel Braunig Nau, and a Mr. Bauer operated a general merchandise business on the lower floor of the home of Johanna Riedel. widow of Moritz Riedel, Sr. A short time after returning from the Civil War, Moritz Riedel, Jr. bought out the interest of Mr. Bauer, joining his sister Caroline and Carl Nau in the business. In 1872, the business moved into new quarters, located in Yorktown where the present M. Riedel & Sons building presently stands. Mr. Nau was a chemist and pharmacist and it is assumed that it was from him that Moritz, Jr. learned the pharmacy business. Mr. Nau died in 1882 and for awhile Moritz Riedel, Jr. and his sister Caroline operated the business together. In 1887, Caroline sold her interest to two of Moritz, Jr.'s sons, August and Richard and the pharmacy, M. Riedel and Sons was formed. Richard passed away in 1888 and the firm was joined by another son, Otto H. Riedel.

Moritz F. Riedel, Jr. was very active in the civic affairs of Yorktown. In 1869, he together with Mr. Gips organized one of the early brass bands; he served as Postmaster from 1883 until 1910 and as Mayor and Justice of the Peace. Mr. Riedel was an active churchman, and was one of the founders of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown.

Moritz F. Riedel, Jr., passed away on June 30, 1912 and as laid to rest near his father and mother in the Lutheran Cemetery on land given for this purpose by his family.

Caroline Scheffee married Henry A. Jacob, Jr. and had eleven children. (See Jacob.) The marriage of Moritz F. Riedel, Jr. & Sophie Scheffee Riedel was blessed with six children: Emma (married Louis Riedesel), lived in Nordheim. Their children were: Helen (Poetter), Frank, Henry, Richard, Oscar, Herbert, Leona (Weischwill), & Josephine (Pieper); Herman (married Auguste Mueller), was Corporate Secretary for Anhueser-Busch in St. Louis, MO. Their children were: Herman, Jr. & Lillian, who died as infants, Elorine (Kerwin), Lucile, & Theodore; August (married Ida Heissig), was part owner of M. Riedel & Sons. Their children were: Elsie & Hilda who died as infants, and Alfred and Hendie (Adix); Richard, who was a pharmacist, died at the age of 22: Bertha, a musician and church organist; and Otto (married Henrietta Heissig), was part owner of M. Riedel & Sons. Their children were: Wilfred and Lelia (Luddeke).

RIEDEL, MORITZ FERDINAND, SR. AND JOHANNE CAROLINE AUGUSTE HENRICH

Moritz F. Riedel, Sr. was born in Munchenbernsdorf, Saxony, Germany on August 29, 1809, the son of Johann Andreas Riedel and Christina Friederika Metzner. Moritz F. Riedel, Sr. and Johanne Caroline Auguste Heinrich were married at Kahla, Saxony, Germany about 1831. Moritz was a baker and after their marriage, he and Johanne lived in Kahla, where he applied his trade, just as his father did before him. There were eight children born to this union, while living in Kahla, seven sons and one daughter.

With a large family and limited opportunities for a baker in Germany, plus the threat of war being present at this time, Moritz and Johanne decided to seek new opportunities in America. In late 1849, with Johanne expecting their ninth child, the family boarded the "Hamburg-Knollen" and sailed for a new life in Texas. The vessel arrived at the port of Indianola, Texas on December 15, 1849. The family remained there for a short time to get outfitted for the trip inland. On January 13, 1850, Moritz and Johanne welcomed Gustav, their ninth and only child born in America.

The Riedel family journeyed inland to the new settlement of Yorkland (later Yorktown) which was being developed by the late Captain John York, who was killed by Indians in 1846, Charles Eckhardt, C.G. Hartmann and a few other families. Upon their arrival in Yorktown, it is believed that they rented a room from Andreas Strieber, Sr. until they could build their own home. In early 1850 the Riedels bought their first 127 acres of land in the center of what is now Yorktown. This location is approximately one mile south of what was then the center of Yorktown, called Upper Town. Soon after purchase of their first tract of land, the family built a single story house constructed of logs, stone and moss. Later a second story was added. Their home is believed to have been located where the present Methodist Church stands.

In August of 1855 Moritz Riedel Sr. purchased at public auction, part of the estate of Captain York, a tract of 1806 acres of land in the Headright League and Labor of Stephen Best. This tract is approximately one half of the Stephen Best Survey and is where much of Yorktown is located today.

Moritz Riedel and his sons built the first grist mill and saw mill in the county, on Coletto creek, in the H.C. Kitchen Sur. two miles south of Yorktown. This mill was intended to operate on water power, but due to the unreliable water supply was soon converted to steam power. This mill was later moved to Yorktown and operated by his sons, along with their substantial farming operations.

During the Civil War, on August 29, 1862, while hauling a load of supplies from Clinton to Yorktown, Moritz Riedel, Sr. was murdered, by hoodlums and his team of horses stolen. Some believed his murder was because he was supposedly outspoken in his opposition to slavery, or it may have been that his horses were stolen solely for sale to the Confederate army. This was a lawless area and time and incidents of this kind were common.

Moritz Riedel, Sr. and his family suffered much during the Civil War period, in addition to his death, his son Franz was similarly murdered while hauling cotton to Mexico. It is believed that his son Adolph was wounded at the time his father was murdered and after his recovery, Adolph joined the Union army, while his brothers Moritz, Jr. and Ernst were serving in the Confederate army.

Moritz F. Riedel, Sr. was laid to rest in a grove of Oak trees on a hill, located not farm south of his home. This land was later deeded to the Lutheran church of Yorktown and today is the location of the church cemetery. Moritz F. Riedel, Sr., his wife Johanne, who died April 15, 1874, and their son Franz, are buried together inside an iron fence overlooking the present city of Yorktown.

To the union of Moritz F. Riedel and his wife Johanne Caroline Auguste Heinrich, nine children were born: Moritz Ferdinand Riedel, Jr. born December 4, 1832. Carl Edward Riedel, born April 28, 1834. Johanne Caroline Ernestine Riedel, born January 24, 1836. Adolph Friederick Ernst Riedel, born November 19, 1837. Franz August Julius Riedel, born September 3, 1839. Constantine Theodore Friedrich "Fritz" Riedel, born March 8, 1841. Friedrich Ernst Riedel, born January 4, 1842. (Ernst) Joseph Riedel, born November 26, 1847. Gustav Meeckru Riedel, born January 13, 1850.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War I and at its conclusion, joined his father Otto and Uncle August in the M. Riedel and Sons Drug Store. He later bought the interests of August Riedel and became a partner in the firm. On March 28, 1921 he married Martha Ann Taylor. There were two sons born to this union, Wilfred Taylor Riedel and Dr. Larry O. Riedel. RIEDESEL - KASTEN -COOK

I, Anita Riedesel Cook, only daughter of Frank and Meta Riedesel, went to the public school in Nordheim graduating from the tenth grade. Needing to finish the prescribed eleven years, I attended Yorktown High School, graduating in 1925.

In the fall of 1925, I, Anita Riedesel Cook, went to CIA, now Texas Women's College, for a year. The next three years were spent at the University of Texas in Austin from which I graduated in 1929 with a BA degree.

In the fall of 1929 I accepted a position as a teacher in the Seguin High School, remaining for five years.

On September 12, 1934, I was married to Marion A. Cook from Frankton, Texas. He was employed with Dean Word Construction Company, building highways. This caused us to live in many different towns and places in our early years. Becoming a partner in the business, we settled in New Braunfels, Texas in 1943 to rear our children. To our union were born six children; Meta Beth, deceased, Marion Anita, James Frank, Thomas Dean and Gerry Ann (twins) and John Daniel.

My daughter, Marion, married Fred R. Clark. To their union were born six children; Mark Adrian, Suzanne Marion, Heather Leigh, John Shay, Thomas Page, and James Chandler.

August 25, 1985, Suzanne married John York Bell, III originally from Cuero. John's great-great-great-great grandfather was Captain John York Bell III, co-founder of Yorktown.

DeWitt County, especially Yorktown and Nordheim, holds many fond memories for me, Anita Riedesel Cook. My forefathers, the Riedels, Naus, Kastens and Riedesels were early pioneers of Yorktown and Nordheim.

My maternal grandfather, August Kasten, bought the first residential lot in Nordheim. His first grandson, Arno Kasten was the first male child born in Nordheim. August helped his oldest son, William Kasten and Eddie Wied, establish the first Merchantile Store in Nordheim.

Arno Kasten, grandson of August, although living in Woodsboro, Texas with his parents in later years, finished high school education in Yorktown. After graduating there he attended Texas Military Academy in San Antonio, Texas. He graduated from that institution at the time World War I was declared. As a candidate for officers training, he was inducted into the Army, and was due to be sent overseas. This was also at the time of the influenza epidemic. Arno's father, William Kasten, stricken with the disease, was taken on a special train from Woodsboro to Yorktown for medical attention. He died, however, shortly after arriving in Yorktown. During the time of this epidemic in 1918 Arno was sent home to Woodsboro to run his father's business, The Kasten Merchantile except my grandfather, August Kasten. He was three years of age when he arrived in America with his father and two older brothers. His mother and a baby sister died enroute.

All my grandparents were born in America

My fraternal grandfather, Ludwig Riedesel, was born in Yorktown, as was my father, Frank Albert Riedesel. Frank's mother, Emma Riedel was also born in Yorktown, the daughter of Moretz Riedel. She was married to Ludwig Riedesel in Yorktown, and to their union were born eight children: Henry, Helen, Frank, Richard, Herbert, Oscar, Leona and Josephine.

My grandmother Emma Riedesel's father was a chemist and pharmacist as were two of her brothers, August and Otto Riedel. They practiced this profession for many years in Yorktown.

My father's grandfather and father were saddle makers. Later his grandfather farmed.

My father, Frank Riedesel, farmed, but after a while went to Draughan's Business College in San Antonio. He also worked as a clerk in the early Osterloh and Neulzter Merchantile store in Nordheim. Here he met my mother, Meta Kasten, daughter of August Kasten. They were married on March 28, 1906, and made their home in Yorktown, as my father had a position with the Westhoff Lumber Company. On November 17, 1909 I, Anita, was born to their union.

In 1912 my family moved to Nordheim where my father took over the management of a branch of the Norris Lumber Company. My parents lived in Nordheim over forty years.

WENDEL, JOHANN AND ELIZABETH (RIEMENSCHNEIDER)

The story of the Wendel family, as known today, seems to start in Heinebach, Circle of Cassel, Germany. According to research, Hans Heinrich Wendel was born in 1674 and died in 1741 at the age of 67 years. His son, Samuel, was born in October 1722 in Heinebach, Hessia, Germany and died there in March 1782 at the age of 60. Johann Heinrich Wendel, son of Samuel, was born there in February of 1749. He died in 1786 at the age of 27 years. His son, Oswald Wendel, was born in Heinebach on 23 January 1786 and died in 1863 at the age of 78 years. Oswald married Elizabeth Kroning, and one of their sons was Johann who was born in

The story of the Wendel Family in Meyersville seems to start with Johann and Elizabeth Riemenschneider Wendel. On 14 October 1859 they and their children – George, Oswald, Mary and Elizabeth – left Germany. They arrived at Old Indianola on 26 December and came to Meyersville on 3 January 1860. Another son, Henry, was born in Meyersville, Texas.

Johann Wendel was the son of Oswald and Elizabeth Kroning Wendel. They lived in Heinebach, Hessia, Germany. Johann, their seventh child, was born there in 1819 and died in Meyersville on 3 October 1898. He is buried in the St. John Lutheran Cemetery. He married Elizabeth Riemenschneider, who was born on 27 February 1819 in Altmorschen, Hessia, Germany. Her parents were Justus Riemenschneider who was born on 20 February 1781 in Almorschen, Hessia, Germany, and was married on 14 February 1813 to Anna Catharina Schlagel who was born on 10 July 1785. Elizabeth died on 12 April 1864 at the age of 53 years. Her burial place is unknown.

Johann and Elizabeth Wendel had five children: Oswald, Marie, George, Elizabeth, and Henry. Oswald married Emilie Kaiser and they had two daughters. Marie married Valentine Staedtler and they had five children. George married Auguste Albertine Emilie Boldt, and they had 16 children. The 4th child of Johann and Elizabeth Wendel was Elizabeth, who married Frederick Diebel. They had nine children. The fifth child was Henry Wendel who died at an early age.

George Wendel, son of Johann and Elizabeth, was born on 14 September 1842 in Altmorschen, Amt Spangenberg, Kreis Melsungen, Kurhessen, Germany. He died on 28 June 1924. He married Auguste Albertine Emilie Boldt, daughter of Christian and Christian Wilhelmene Kannewischer Boldt. She was born on 14 August 1843 in Friedeberg, Alt Haferwiese, Brandenberg, Germany. Her family came to Texas in the 1850's. They remained at Clinton, DeWitt County, for a while and then moved to the Kalekann (Callihan?) Settlement where they settled permanently and where she spent her younger years until she married.

George Wendel wrote the following: "In the year 1859 on October 14 we left our old home in which my parents lived, and emigrated when I was 17 years old. On the second day of Christmas we landed in Galveston and on New Years Eve we came to Powder Horn (Now Indianola). On January 3, 1860 we arrived in Meyersville where my parents were renters. I stayed with them until in June 1862 because the war (Civil War) started then when I was only 19 years old. I was put in the artillery Co. of Captain Reuss. I served in the Company for 3 years until June 18, 1865 when the war ended. Then I went back to Meversville where I worked on a farm as a day laborer until I, on December 31, 1865, married Auguste Albertina Emielie Boldt. We were married by Pastor Adam Sager and were blessed with 16 children."

George was a farmer and a teamster, hauling freight using horse and wagon. The children of George and Albertine Boldt Wendel were: Gustav (married Marie Hausman), Bertha (married Fred Albrecht), Marie (married Fritz Dreier), Wilhelm (married Lulu Franke), Hulda (married Willie Schlein), Anna (died in infancy), Elizabeth (married Fred Ruschhaupt), Emil (married Martha Ruschhaupt), Henry (married Alma Dreier), Henry (died in infancy), Edward (married Mathilda Schwitz), Anna (married Richard Schaefer), Alfred (married Ida Mueller), Fred (married Amalie Diebel), Paul (married Elfie Diebel), and Emilie (married Alois Duderstadt).

My roots go deep into the soil of De Witt Co., although most of my relatives have moved to other parts of Texas except for distant cousins.

James W. Robinson, my great grandfather, was born in South Carolina on February 16, 1818. He died March 4, 1906 in Fishoe County, Texas. We do not know when or how he made the long journey from South Carolina to De Witt County. A land deed shows he purchased land from Sam W. and Annie M. Lane on June 16, 1858. The property line on one side of the land was the county line of Gonzales County.

He was united in marriage to Pauline Almyra Teas on August 11, 1859 in De Witt County. Perhaps he may have known her for some time, because she too was born in South Carolina. He brought his young bride to live in a two story house that was already on his property. I have often thought that if this old house could have talked, it could have told us the many joys and sorrows of the Robinson families it sheltered.

Franklin Robinson, their firstborn child, arrived in July of 1861. The Civil War started that same year. James W. had to go, as did all the other men. He must have been stationed close to home, and must have spent time with his young wife Pauline Almyra, because another son was added to this family, John Hugh Robinson, born January 9, 1863. For only twenty-four days, he knew the love of a mother. As he lay nestled against Almyra's breast the arms that had held him so tenderly went limp. Almyra was at peace.

James W. came home from war to give his wife proper burial. I suppose the only future James W. could see was war. He knew he was left in this big world with two small babies to raise. Franklin was left with some of his slaves. John Hugh being so tiny and helpless was given to a cousin, Mary A. Gilbert Carson and husband Robert Hartwell Carson of Gonzales to raise.

Franklin died when he was only a young man. The 1870 census shows that he, too, was living with the Carsons. I believe after the war was over and the slaves were freed, James W. found Franklin a bit much to raise alone. Perhaps someday all of the pieces of the puzzle will come together and we will know all the answers.

John Hugh and his son Patrick Hugh (my father) shared the same farm together in Walker County, Texas all of their working lives. My grandfather's house was only a short distance from our home. We four girls took turns cleaning grandfather's house. I remember times when he would be reminiscing and would turn back the years. He would pull out a long box he kept stored under his bed. These were his treasures. He would ask me if I would like to look at "Grandfather's Pretties?" Among these treasures there was one I will never forget an old gold pocket watch case, the works having been removed, and curled in the circle of the case was a lock of beautiful black hair. Grandfather would not say anything, he didn't have to. He would sit and think, with that far away look in his eyes. Yes, it was the hair of his mother, Pauline Almyra Teas Robinson. John Hugh Robinson died July 14, 1950 in Harris County, Texas.

ROBINSON, JOHN HUGH AND CARRIE MAE DARDEN

F780

John Hugh Robinson was the son of James W. Robinson and Pauline Almyra Teas. He was born 9 Jan. 1863, in De Witt Co., TX. He married a pretty young schoolteacher, Carrie Mae Darden of Gonzales Co., 15 Nov. 1882. Soon after their marriage James W. Robinson, his father, asked them to live with him on his farm in De Witt Co. After much thought, they decided this would give John Hugh an opportunity to spend some time with his father which he had been denied until now. (See Robinson, James W.) The house they would live in was two-storied and would be large enough for the family they planned to raise.

John Hugh Robinson

Carrie Mae (Darden) Robinson

Grandfather James was not so enthusiastic about small feet running up and down the stairway. He soon built a small house nearby for his use.

Carrie Mae was the daughter of George Patrick Darden and Elizabeth Jane Dickinson. (See: Darden, Washington Lee and Darden, George Patrick.) There were five children born to John Hugh and Carrie Mae, all born in De Witt Co., TX.

- 1. Patrick Hugh b. 12 Sept. 1885. Married Hattie Viola Arnold 21 Sept. 1913, Walker Co., TX. Died 9 April 1966, Harris Co., TX.
- 2. Mary Mae, born 23 Dec. 1886, m. Mack Amos Hollis 13 Jan. 1910, Tom Green Co., TX. Died 23 Nov. 1917, Coleman Co., Texas. Three children.
- 3. Ellie Almyra, b. 21 April 1889. Married Joseph Edward Smith, 1909, Tom Green Co., TX. Died 23 Jan. 1963 Tom Green Co., TX. Three children. They also raised Carl Lee, Mary Mae's oldest son.
- 4. Frank Marion, b. 31 July 1891. Married Daisy Jeffrey Todd 16 July 1942 in Houston, TX. Died 16 Jan 1987, Harris Co., TX. He served in World War I - Navy.
- 5. John Samuel, b. August 1892, d. 15 April 1974 in Tom Green Co., TX.

The John Hugh Robinson family lived in De Witt Co. over 22 years. All of his children spent their teenage years there.

Grandmother Carrie believed God and an education were the most important things in a child's life. When they were unable to attend a formal school, she taught them. She would gather them around her chair to hear God's Word, the Blue Back Speller, reading, writing and arithmetic. For her guidance I am so grateful. Grandfather thought honesty and love were enough. Take care of one another. Be there! Anytime you were needed. This carried down through the family. They were always close throughout their lives.

Grandfather John Hugh was 74 years old before he found out that to be a moral man was not enough, that one must know Christ, to help you through life.

Around the year 1906 or 07, it rained so much that the Guadalupe River got out of its banks. It caused all creeks and waterways to flood and the crops failed. Patrick Hugh, the eldest, and a cousin, Powell Burwell, went to West Texas to work on a ranch. When they arrived in Tom Green Co., they saw cotton higher than the head. The land was high, and would never flood. He wrote this news to his parents who had been dissatisfied for some time.

James W. was getting up in age, and did not stay at home much anymore. He visited around among relations. Carrie and John moved from De Witt Co. to Tom Green Co. around 1908. However, it took only a few years living there for them to see they had made a mistake. It was as dry as De Witt was wet, and the sandstorms were unbearable.

Once again they packed for travel. This time they left behind two daughters. In the few short years they had been there, Mary and Ellie had found husbands. This time they set out across Texas going east. They arrived in Walker Co. and settled around 1912, west of Huntsville. It was in this community that Patrick Hugh met and married our mother, Hattie Viola Arnold.

Patrick and his father bought a farm in 1916, three miles north of town. This is where they settled for life. During their entire lives they were never separated except for short periods of time. It was a union only God could have built and I am sure they are sharing it together

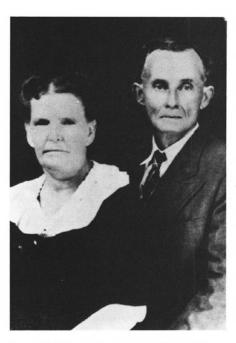

John Hugh was loved by all in Huntsville. He was not often addressed by his formal name, everyone called him 'Grandpa Robinson.' When he died an article in the local paper stated: "Grandpa Robinson died today. Huntsville has lost a grand old citizen.'

ROBINSON, PATRICK HUGH AND HATTIE VIOLA ARNOLD

Hattie Viola (Arnold) and Patrick Hugh Robinson

Patrick Hugh Robinson was raised in De Witt Co., twelve miles from Cuero, TX. The oldest son of John Hugh and Carrie Mae Darden Robinson, he was born 12 September 1885. He married Hattie Viola Arnold, 21 September 1913, Huntsville, Texas. He died 9 April 1967, Harris Co., TX.

Hattie Viola Arnold was born 17 June 1891, Dade Co., FL and died 5 August 1956 Liberty Co., TX. Both Patrick Hugh and Hattie Viola are buried in Pine Prairie Cemetery. She was a daughter of George Edward Arnold of Georgia and Virginia Agnes Arnold of Florida.

My parents lived in Huntsville all of their lives, except for the later years of Daddy's life. These years were spent with his oldest daughter, Florence Williams, in Harris Co.

Our farm was one of the few farms in the county devoted to vegetable farming. We grew, packed and shipped to Harris Co. what we did not sell locally. We had orchards of peaches, pears, plums, blackberries and strawberries. Our livestock were cows, hogs and chickens.

Daddy's sister, Mary Mae, died 23 November 1917. Her husband, Mack Amos Hollis, died 20 January 1918, leaving three little tots as orphans. Grandpa took Mack Julius (M.J.) to raise. He grew up and was considered one of us, as they lived only a short distance away from our home, and took most of their meals with us. There was only one boy in our family of five and he made two.

Daddy was proud of our farm. The location was ideal for what he chose to grow. Three miles from Huntsville gave us quick access to good churches and schools. He had a dream that all of his children would get a degree at the local Sam Houston State College. He pushed us in education just as his mother had pushed him. We grew up in the depression years and we may have thought we had it hard but it taught us to love and share. My mother was a good provider. She stood for long hours over a wood stove canning fruit jelly and vegetables. I can almost hear her now, singing old gospel hymns, as she sat at a treadle sewing machine sewing dresses, shirts and underwear.

Our barns were well stocked with winter supplies. I guess I remember most the peanuts and a large red barrel filled with sugar cane syrup. We were allowed to eat all we wanted.

Cool winter Sunday afternoons were spent with our friends, brought home after church, making taffy. In the summer we had the best swimming hole in the community. We also made ice cream often when peaches and strawberries were in season. I don't remember visiting other friends much, but our house was always full.

Each night, after lessons were over, Daddy would gather us together around the large fireplace for a quiet time. He would read to us from the Bible. Each night we heard a different story. I am very grateful for this childhood.

To this family five children were added. All were born and raised in Walker Co.

1. Ruby Florence, b. 17 Sept. 1914, m. Ernest Vernon Williams, 25 Sept. 1931 in Lake Charles, LA. She is retired from the Galena Park Police Department, and he from the Ideal Cement Company. Ernest d. 31 Oct. 1980. She resides in Houston, TX, and their four children all live near.

2. Frank John Robinson, b. 22 Aug. 1916, m. Virginia Louise Langley 8 May 1940. He retired after 47 years with Gulf States Utility as District Superintendent and is presently Walker County Judge. Three children.

3. Oda Pearl, b. 27 May 1918, m. 1st Elmer Lee Sartin 20 April 1935, one adopted child; Elmer deceased; married 2nd Luther Hollis Sandlin 14 Jan. 1950. Luther retired from the Carnation Company, d. 15 Feb. 1980. Three adopted children.

4. Ellie Margaret, b. 18 Oct. 1920, m. Horace William Deason, 25 Dec. 1937, Montgomery Co. Horace served in the U.S. Air Force World War II (48 mo.) Asiatic Pacific Campaign.

- Letha Mae, b. 17 July 1925, m. James Small 26 July 1945. James served U.S. Army, World War II, Atlantic Theater, Germany Campaign. He was gravely wounded and received the Purple Heart. James d. 10 August 1983. Two children.
- 6. Eatha Rae, twin, b. 17 July 1925. Still-
- 7. Mack Julius Hollis (foster child) b. 18 November 1914, m. 1st Sammy Lee Smith, m. 2nd Norcell (?), d. February 1956, Harris Co.,

I suppose we were a small disappointment to Daddy. Frank was the only one to pursue a higher education. He received a degree in education. However we all had good husbands and families that our parents loved as their own. We do "follow in their footsteps."

ROEDER, J. von

1836-1925

Joachim von Roeder was born in Cat Spring, Texas, Nov. 9, 1836, to Rudolph von Roeder and wife, Antonietta von Donop, both descendants of Prussian nobility, where the von Roeders were members of the celebrated and feared Teutonic Knights. It was in battle that Lt. Ludwig von Roeder won the title of Baron and became a member of nobility.

Von Roeders started immigrating to the U.S.

in 1832 and settled at Cat Spring, near Bellville. Others came later. Albrecht and Louis fought with Sam Houston.

Young J. von Roeder was left an orphan as a baby, but his Aunt Rosalie had promised his father she would rear him. He moved to DeWitt County at 9 years of age, where he lived with his aunt and her husband, Robert Kleberg, working to raise food and fibre and attending to livestock. At maturity, he began stock farming north of Meyersville.

At the onset of the Civil War, J. von Roeder joined the Southern forces and fought in several campaigns in the South. He never liked a "Yankee," as a grandson feels today. J. von Roeder married Louise Eckhardt in 1858. He lished his ranch on Salt Creek, some of which is still owned by his descendants. Their children were: 1. Antoinette, who married Herman Dahlman, and whose grandchildren, W.C. has a home in DeWitt Co. and also Beeville, and his sister, Joyce, wife of F.R. Feeney, Col. Ret., reside in DeWitt Co. Their father was Ludwig (Lud) Dahlman and his wife Alice Terell. 2. Jane von Roeder, never married, took care of her parents and was a motivation in her church, First Presbyterian with her cousin, Marcellus Eckhardt, a legend to many too. 3. Mary Caroline married F.K. (Kirk) Lynch, a Civil War veteran and later a druggist and postmaster at Westhoff. They had no children. 4. Herman von Roeder, a tall handsome friendly man who married Ida Korth and whose children, Robert H. von Roeder, a proud World War I veteran, was engaged in farming and ranching. He married Edith Laird, who as a nurse, administered to many and whose son, George, he adopted and who served gallantly under Gen. Patton in World War II. Frances von Roeder, never married, devoting her time and energies to her family. She lives today on her ranch and is a greatly loved and highly respected lady in Yorktown, 5, Mathilda (Aunt Tildie), married Robert Thorogood, a native of England and a self made man, who served in the Spanish American War. He was a merchant in Runge. Their only child, Anita, graduated from the University of Texas, married Thos. A. Graves, Attorney and County Judge of Cuero. Anita still resides in Cuero leading an active life. 6. William von Roeder (Bill), a rancher married Louise Menn and had 4 children. J.J. von Roeder spent his life in Yorktown, married Elmina Pacenka, who survives him in Yorktown. They had 2 sons, Bobby of Yorktown and Milam of Victoria. Louise married Claude Went and resides in Yorktown. 7. Ludwig von Roeder, Dr. of Medicine, lived in New York City, attended University of Texas, Cornell and a medical school in Austria. His children, Alice and Louise died in New Jersey, and son Robert survives, presumably in Bermuda. 8. Louise von Roeder, married Chas. Flato, who was active in business in Kingsville. Her children, Chas. III, Harry and Billy are all deceased. 9. Rudolph, better known as "King," was a highly respected rancher and Hereford cattle breeder in Yorktown. RUSCHAUPT, WILHELM FAMILY

(The information for this sketch was furnished by Minnie (Kitty) Kothmann Ruschaupt.) As already indicated in another sketch, Bertha Schorlemmer was a daughter of Henry and Emmalina Franke Shorlemmer b. 19 December 1873. Wilhelm Ruschaupt b. 23 Dec. 1869, married her 19 Nov. 1896. As they began their life together, they made their home five miles east of Meyersville, Texas on a farm adjoining that of her parents. Their first home had only two rooms and a hall downstairs with two rooms upstairs. The house grew with the family with rooms and porches being added as needed. The children now marvel at the fact that their parents reared 9 children on about 250 acres with most of it in pastureland. They raised cattle, hogs, poultry, corn, hay and cotton the main money crop. The whole family worked together to earn a livelihood. They also celebrated together when Willie hitched the horses to the wagon and took the first bale of cotton five miles to the Meyersville gin and returned with ice to make a big freezerful of ice cream! Sugarcane was grown and taken to nearby Uncle Oscar Schorlemmer who owned and operated a press to extract the juice and then boiled it in huge vats until it became molasses. From their big garden and fruit orchard, surplus vegetables and fruits were canned and cooked into jellies and jam. Baking and cooking were done on wood stoves and flatirons for ironing clothes were heated on these same stoves. The wood for fuel was sawed and cut in the pastures. The "scrub-board" was their washer.

Before the 1920's when the incubators became available, chickens and turkeys had to be hatched by the hens having to "set" on the eggs 3 or 4 weeks. Usually the older children were went into the pasture to find the well-hidden turkey nest with its eggs. In the wintertime, several hogs (and sometimes a cow or a calf) were butchered to provide sausage, ham and bacon.

By 1920, cars were owned by most families. A creamery was established in Cuero which furnished pick-up service to the farms each day. The Rushaupts had a hand-operated cream separator and sold cream for extra cash income.

The Ruschaupt children still recall their long 5-mile buggy rides to and from the Meyersville School. After the New County Line School was established, the children had only two miles to go. For entertainment before the age of radio, TV etc., many of the families had organs around which they and their relatives and friends would sing, especially on Sunday afternoons. There were also game parties weddings, birthday anniversaries and programs and plays at school. Willie entertained his family with his harmonica playing. The Ruschaupts were members of St. John Lutheran Church where Willie served on the council for many years and the children were active in Sunday School and Luther League. When their home burned in 1948, the family lost many cherished possessions. They bought a small house and had it moved to a site near their daughter, Elfrieda Goebel and her husband, Rudolph. They lived here until their deaths: Bertha died 26 August, 1949 and Willie 13 November, 1956.

The children of Willie and Bertha Schorlemmer Ruschaupt were:

 Elsie born 28 Aug., 1897; died 3 June, 1956;; married 1925 to James Craig, born 1879 died 18 Nov., 1934.

Rosalie born 23 February, 1899; died 8 July, 1979.

3) Elfrieda born 26 June 1900; died 9 April, 1981; married 15 October to Rudulph Goebel; born November, 1904; died 27 Aug., 1970. Baby girl born and died 17 November 1901.

4) William born 8 Nov., 1903; married 19 April 1928 to Minnie (Kitty) Kothmann born 3 Mar., 1905.

Richard Thomas Ryan Sr. was born December 4, 1881, the seventh of ten children of Patrick Ryan and Mary Doran Ryan. His parents were both natives of Ireland. Patrick came to America at age sixteen and soon after his arrival went to work in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. There he met Mary Doran who came to this country at age 18. They were married in 1869. Six children were born to them while they lived in Pennsylvania.

In 1877 they immigrated to Texas after

Patrick developed lung fever from working in the mines. They settled on a farm near Ottine, in Gonzales County, and four more children were born there including Richard Thomas. Patrick died of flu complications in 1892. Mary stayed on the farm until the children were grown and then moved to the village of Ottine. Mary died in 1925 and is buried in the Ottine Cemetery. (See Patrick Ryan, Gonzales Co. History).

Richard worked in the oil fields of South Texas especially around Luling which was a hot bed of drilling activity. A great degree of credit goes to him for the formation of Warm Springs Foundation at Ottine. Richard was the driller in charge of bringing in an oil well on the site when the hot water strata was encountered. Backers of the well ordered the pipe pulled and the well sealed. Ryan talked his superiors into bringing in the well, and, as a result some 30 years later at this site, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for crippled children was built. It is now known as Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Hospital.

Richard met Mary Virginia Blakeslee, a Cuero native, while she was a teacher in the Ottine School District. They were married on September 20, 1920 in Cuero with Vera Blakeslee serving as maid of honor and Captain William Ryan of the Texas Rangers serving as best man. The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. I. Blakeslee.

After their marriage they called Cuero home even though they moved around Texas as Richard continued following the oil play.

Five children were born to them: Richard Thomas Jr. born July 3, 1921 in Cuero (see Richard Ryan Jr.); Rosemary born November 17, 1922 in Cuero; Frances Aileen born in San Antonio January 17, 1927; Bernard Patrick born February 22, 1929 in Cuero; and Vincent William (Bill) born October 6, 1933 in Cuero.

Rosemary attended St. Michael's School and graduated from Cuero High in 1940. She went to work for Trans World Airlines in Kansas City, Missouri and was later transferred to New York. There she met Richard Neal Carbonara. They were married on December 28, 1946 at St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church in Jackson Heights, L.I., N.Y. (See Neal Carbonara)

Frances Aileen attended St. Michael's School, Gonzales Grade School and Cuero High. She met Robert D. (Bob) McMahon who was a flight instructor at Brayton Flying School in Cuero. They were married at St. Michael's in Cuero on September 5, 1942. Bob had a degree in Pharmacy from U.T. so after the war they returned to Cleveland, Texas where he joined his father in the operation of Cleveland Pharmacy. They have five children and still reside in Cleveland.

Bernard (Pat) attended elementary school in Gonzales and graduated from Cuero High School where he was active in athletics. After graduation he began a career with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Bernard (Pat) married Shirley Scott on June 6, 1957 at St. Michael's in Cuero. They have three children and reside in Victoria. He retired from Southwestern Bell in 1988 after 40 years of service.

Vincent William (Bill) attended elementary school in Gonzales and graduated from Cuero High. He served in Korea with the U.S. Army. After his discharge he enrolled in Texas A&M and graduated with a degree in Agriculture. He married Barbara Powell at St. Michael's in Cuero in September '56. They have three children and now reside in The Woodlands, Texas.

Richard Sr. had worked hard all his life and developed problems with his heart. He retired to Cuero and died on November 4, 1949 at the age of 67. He is buried in Hillside Cemetery.

After her husband's death Virginia and her son Richard Jr. were looking for something for her to do to keep active and that she would enjoy. Mr. Julius Haak of Haak Florist was wanting to retire and the thought of working with flowers interested Virginia so the shop was purchased. The name was changed to Ryan's Flower Shop. Virginia proved to be a great florist who did beautiful work and was loved by her many customers. Her name was synonymous with flowers. She and Richard operated the shop until 1973 when it was sold to Rosemary, Virginia's daughter. (See Ryan's Flower Shop)

Virginia continued to work with Rosemary and her daughters to make a smooth transition of the business. She retired again in 1979 but kept in touch until a short time before her death on September 23, 1987, two days after her ninety-third birthday. Funeral services were from St. Michael's Church and she was laid to rest beside her husband in Hillside Cemetery.

Virginia was a loving and much loved person. She was very much involved with her family and with church work, especially St. Michael's Altar Society and the Catholic Daughters.

SAGER, C. A. H.

C.A.H. (Henry) Sager was born in Arneckeville, DeWitt Co. TX February 22, 1870. He was christened Christoph Adam Henry Sager, but was known as Henry. His parents were Michael and Heinricke Rath Sager, both immigrants from Germany. Henry grew up on his parents' farm, helping his father operate the farm, a cotton gin and a grist mill. He attended the church school at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church in Arneckeville, where the pastor was also the teacher. Henry loved music, and at the age of twelve he became the organist for the church, a duty that he performed for about twenty-two years. For many years he sang in the church choir, and when the pastor organized the church band, Henry played the fluegel-horn. He also played the violin, having taught himself to play on an instrument that he had made out of a cigar box. When he was about fourteen years old, and his parents saw that he had the desire and the talent to play the violin, they bought one for him. This violin is still in the family and is in good playing condition.

On February 4, 1903 Henry Sager married Mary Sophie Schorlemmer in Arneckeville, TX. She, too, was born in Arneckeville. Her parents were Carl and Caroline Hartman Schorlemmer. Carl came to America at the age of three. Caroline was born in DeWitt Co. TX. Mary was born August 1, 1880. She grew up in her parents' home and attended school at Zion Lutheran Church until the state (public) school was opened, and she finished her education there. She, too, loved music, and she played the organ and sang in the church choir.

When the couple married, they rented a small farm located near the Yorktown-Arneckeville Road, about three miles from Arneckeville. In November, 1906 they bought 163 acres of land for $3,000.00. At this time they had two sons, Edwin and Paul, and a third child was on the way. The next year, they built a new home with two bedrooms, a kitchen-dining room, a hall and a front porch. On May 3, 1907 their first daughter, Lina, was born.

Seven more children were born in the next eleven years: Leona, Lenard, Ellen, Welma, Ruth, Oscar and Frieda. All grew up to adulthood. Welma died in 1982, Edwin was killed in a farm accident in 1987, and Leona died in 1988. All lived in DeWitt Co. except Lenard, whose home is in Bellville, TX.

As the family grew, so did their house and the farm. By 1922 the farm acreage was about 400 acres, and to their home they had added a second story and a large back porch, which brought the house to its present size, except for a garage which was added in 1986. Their daughter Ellen still lives in the beautiful old home, where, each Christmas, the family, now numbering about eighty members, gathers for a reunion with lots of food, singing and visiting.

Everyone in the Sager family learned to work at an early age. Even the little ones had chores to do, such as helping gather eggs or carry kindling and wood into the house for the wood-burning stoves. But after work, there was also time for play. Games were played, and often all would gather round the organ for singing after supper. The parents' love for books and music was passed on to their children. Most of the family learned to play an instrument, and at one time the family orchestra consisted of a piano, three violins, a xylophone, a trumpet, a baritone and a bass horn. They played mostly for their own pleasure, but also played for picnics and programs at school and at church.

When the children were old enough to take care of most of the farm work, Henry used his skill in carpentry to supplement the farm income. Besides building a number of homes in DeWitt Co., he helped build the old Meyersville schoolhouse, which now serves as the Parish House of St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville. When the present church was built in Arneckeville in 1938, Henry Sager was a member of the Building Committee and one of the carpenters, too.

Mary Sager was kept busy caring for her large family, cooking, sewing, canning, gardening and doing all the other tasks that come with being a mother and farmer's wife. She was a talented seamstress, and she sewed most of the clothes for her family. She also taught her daughters her skills.

Religion was important in the life of the Sager family. Church attendance and daily devotions were practiced regularly. All were involved in the work of their church. Three of the grandsons of Henry and Mary are now pastors in the Lutheran Church.

Henry Sager died July 31, 1953, at the age of 83 years. He was a hard-working man, honest and dedicated to his convictions, a leader in his church and respected in his community. Mary, a loving and patient mother, died November 17, 1964, at the age of 84 years. Both were buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville, TX.

SAGER, CHRISTOPH ADAM AND JUSTINE SOPHIE DREIER FAMILY

Christoph Adam Sager was born on 3 April 1826 in Dettingen/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany. His parents were Michael Sager (b. 6 September 1797 Dettingen; d. prior to 1860 Meyersville, DeWitt County, Texas; bur. with no tombstone in Meyersville; m. He died of typhoid fever on 27 August 1869 in Arneckeville and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

On 1 July 1853 in Meyersville, Christoph Adam Sager married Justine Sophie Dreier, daughter of Simon Heinrich Dreier (b. 22 September 1787 Bosingfeld bei Extertal, Principality of Lippe, Germany; d. 24 July 1869 Meyersville; bur. Oral history indicated that young Christoph Adam Sager was a creative child and that he wanted to become an artist. He was apprenticed to a cabinet maker; however, at a mission festival service, he received the call to serve his Lord in the foreign mission field.

St. Chrischona Pilgrim Mission, which bore the name of the old and canonized Christiana, was founded in Basel, Switzerland, in they year 1840 by Christian Friedrich Spittler (1782-1867). The missionaries from St. Chrischona were sent to the far nations of the world only after thorough theological instruction. In order to distinguish them, Spittler expected his missionaries to exhibit highly trained skills, both in their personal examples and in their living testimonies. Indeed Spittler found among the pupils many who surrendered themselves to the call and lasting engagement of entering the "ominous sites of Christendom" and awakening the "lapsed faith in Jesus Christ among the people."

One man who submitted to this call was Christoph Adam Sager. He entered St. Chrischona on 10 June 1848 and withdrew on 18 March 1850. His original desire and ambition had been to serve the Indians of the New World; however, his ministry led him to another direction. In a letter written to his parents from Pfingstwaide on 14 April 1850, Christoph Adam Sager stated, "The Lord told Abraham, 'Set out for a land which I will show you.' And still today it is, in this manner, commanded of the devout followers of Jesus . . . Each person who is patient and faithful can reach his goal if only his heart obtains contentment through grace."

Christoph Adam Sager arrived at the port of Galveston, Texas, in November of 1805. He began his ministry in 1851 when he organized St. John Lutheran Church at Meyersville, where he served as pastor until about 1854/55. At that time, he moved his family to Victoria, where he was employed as a cabinet maker and carpenter. The move was apparently necessitated by mounting familial expenses and a meager salary. For a number of years, he served as an itinerant pastor in the area near Victoria, Yorktown, and Goliad. He performed official ministerial duties in Victoria, and he also established two mission stations, one at Steiner Settlement and one at Spring Branch. Mention was made in the records of St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville that 15 May 1859 was an especially festive day; in the evening, "Pastor Sager from Victoria . . brought his organ along and that helped to make the singing much better."

Christoph Adam Sager, his wife, his twin brothers, Michael and Peter Sager, and his mother were among the first settlers at Arneckeville, which was founded in 1859 by Heinrich "Henry" Arnecke and his wife, Ursula Barbara Arnecke, nee Sager, sister of Christoph Adam Sager. Christoph Adam Sager purchased 150 acres for $1.50 per acre at Arneckeville. The 1870 census showed that the real estate of his widow, Justine Sophie Sager, nee Dreier, was valued at $750; the value of her personal property was estimated at $300. At that time, her property was situated between that of her son, Michael Sager, and that of Christoph Thieme.

While making his livelihood as a farmer at Arneckeville, Christoph Adam Sager provided spiritual guidance for members of his community. He also provided the needed leadership in establishing Zion Lutheran Church, which he reportedly designed and for which he served as chief carpenter and pastor from 1868 until his death in August of 1869. Making the trip on horseback, he also continued to serve the two settlements near Victoria throughout his years in Arneckeville. After preaching his last sermon at Steiner Settlement, upon his return home, he became ill with a high fever and died nine days later.

In summary, we can say of Christoph Adam Sager that God had won over his heart and deemed him worthy to serve His kingdom on earth in many different ways in the course of his pilgrimage. Christoph Adam Sager had fulfilled the desire of Christian Friedrich Spittler "that the true gospel of Jesus Christ, crucified and resurrected and now henceforth sitting at the right hand of God, be proclaimed on and on, in humility and simplicity, from the hearts of our pilgrim missionaries." When Christoph Adam Sager surrendered his life to Jesus Christ, he gained a source of strength which sustained him through all the times of difficulties, reverses, and assaults. He himself was prevented from continuing and expanding his work, but his untimely death at the age of forty-three did not prohibit the fruits of his labor from blooming and flourishing, even unto today.

Fred Milford (Sonny) Sager, twin to Mildred Marie, was born January 3, 1923. The story of his parents, John Christoph Sager and Estella Hans Sager, is told elsewhere. In high school Fred was the 1940 Star Lone Star Farmer of the Kingsville Region. Schooling at Texas A&M was interrupted by three years in the military. He was discharged as a Second Lieutenant in 1946 and graduated from Texas Agricultural & Mechanical College in 1948. He resigned as a zone manager for International Harvester Company and returned to the family farm upon the death of his father in 1950.

In 1951 he married Marjorie Wynn Vore, widow of U.S. Air Force Captain Clarence O. (Bud) Vore, of Maurice, Iowa, killed near Grenoble, France, in 1946. Cpt. Vore is buried in San Angelo, Texas, Marjorie's hometown. The Vores had twins, Janet Lynn and Linda Jane, born July 25, 1944. The Wynn family is traced back through Texas and Georgia to Virginia, to a Revolutionary War soldier, Thomas Wynn, on back to Colonel Robert Wynne, who came to Virginia in 1651 from Canterbury, Kent, England. Further family records are found there.

Fred and Marjorie built their home south of Cuero. Fred M., Jr. was born July 30, 1954, and Mark Sterling on August 27, 1956. Fred went to work in the Cuero office of Texas Eastern Gas Transmission Company in 1955, and continued raising laying hens and cattle. In 1969, TETCO moved its district office from Cuero to Baytown. Fred and many other sick cowboys followed their jobs. The new manager noted the mass exodus to Cuero every weekend and remarked, "What are all these pilgrimages to Cuero? It must be the Holy Land!"

Resuming her education, Marjorie graduated from the University of Houston and is a licensed Speech and Language Pathologist. She worked in the public schools for fourteen years. Fred suffered a heart attack in 1975, and had by-pass surgery in 1977. He has since maintained good health. He and Marjorie moved to Houston in 1977, where he worked at the downtown office as a pipeline design engineer. TETCO was recently sold and Fred took retirement after thirty-four years! The couple enjoys their Houston home, church, and nearby families and their camphouse in the "Holy Land".

All their children are married. Janet Lynne married Barry Copenhaver in 1962, and Leah Lynne was born April 23, 1963. After a divorce Janet later married Daniel Rowland Davis, Jr. in 1966, and Dana Troy was born May 22, 1967. After a second divorce she married Troy Dungan in 1972, and Wyn-Erin was born December 14, 1974. Residing in Dallas where Troy is the WFAA-TV weatherman, the family is active in church and various charities. Leah, a graduate of the University of North Texas, is at home there working for American Airlines. Wynn-Erin, an apprentice last year with the Dallas Metropolitan Ballet Company, begins high school this year. Dana, in the Air Force, is stationed in Denver, with orders for Korea in November, 1989.

Linda Jane, a University of Texas graduate, married Robert Tyack Price in 1969. Robby Bud was born March 10, 1972, and Anna Dawn on May 28, 1975. Linda works for an advertising agency and Bob had a computer software development and sales company. They were active in Campus Crusade for Christ many years. Both children compete in cross-country and track, as did Bob. The family resides in Irvine, California.

Fred M., Jr. married Linda Hardesty in 1983. Christopher John was born December 31, 1983, and loves to go to the country with his grandparents. Misty Lynn, born September 12, 1987, will soon accompany them. Fred M. works for a company that installs pneumatic controls, and Linda is a receptionist and computer programmer for a pipe fabricating company. The family resides in Pasadena and enjoys camping, fishing, and hunting.

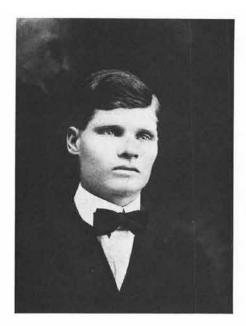

Mark Sterling is a certified instrument technician and works for Exxon Chemical in Baytown. His wife, Theresa Robertson Sager, is a registered nurse and is a charge nurse at San Jacinto Hospital in Baytown. Their children are Amber Lynn, born July 22, 1977, and David Michael, born May 3, 1987. Amber is active in sports, and Mark has managed or coached her basketball and baseball teams. David is active, period! The family resides in Barbers Hill.

SAGER, JOHN CHRISTOPH AND ESTELLA ELNORA HANS

F790

John Christoph Sager was born November 30, 1893, in Arneckeville, Texas, the sixth child of Christoph Friederich (Fred) Marcus Sager and Dorothea Wolf Sager, documented separately. He grew up on the farm, and as a young man fought in the trenches in France during World War I. He married Estella Elnora Hans on February 16, 1922.

Estella's paternal grandparents, Ambrose Hans and Agatha Hans Hans, came from Alsace Lorraine. Her maternal grandparents, George and Margaret Zimmerman Junker, came from Germany. Their story is related separately. Estella's father, August Hans, b. August 28, 1868, d. Dec. 14, 1920, married Mary Junker, b. Oct. 24, 1868, d. June 5, 1959. Their children were Felix August, b. July 26, 1896, d. March 25, 1937; Sophie Elnora Estella, twin, b. Nov. 30, 1898, who married John C. Sager; her twin, Sophie Marie Luella, b. Nov. 30, 1898, d. Feb. 15, 1945, who married William H. Goebel; Herbert, b. July 24, 1902, d. Aug. 25, 1927; Oscar John, b. Oct. 18, 1903, d. March 5, 1959, who married Virginia Jo Belknap; Merryan, b. Sept. 11, 1906, who married Martin Gilmer Black; and Leonel F., b. Dec. 13. 1909, d. Nov. 10, 1945, who married Bernice Johnson. The family farm, in the Arneckeville community, adjoined that of August's sister, Mary Hans Weber. Their children and the Weber children, Agatha and Clifton, enjoyed a close relationship. August was Catholic, and is buried in the Meyersville Catholic Cemetery, but Mary brought up the children in the Lutheran Church. After August's death she moved to Cuero and was a staunch member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. She is buried in Hillside Cemetery.

John and Estella's first home, on the farm near Arneckeville, was destroyed by fire in 1928. Estella was at the barn with her young son, Fred, when she saw the flames. She entered the burning building, damping out sparks as they ignited her clothing, and rescued her sleeping five-year-old daughter, Mildred. The Cuero Record hailed her as a heroine. Friends and family from the community, church, and American Legion promptly constructed a temporary dwelling that the family used until the present home was built on the former site.

The family engaged in farming, gardening, ranching, and dairying. They raised turkeys and chickens, Estella being one of the first in the community to raise hens for egg production. Her cultivated native pecans won several awards in the early county pecan shows before the more recent growth of the industry. The family was very active in organizations and auxiliaries of the church, American Legion, and R.E.A.

John, certainly industrious and service-oriented, was equally fun-loving. He delighted in roping competitions astride his valued Pony, and was an avid baseball fan and domino player. The family had an active social life and contributed much of themselves and their goods to others, especially to children of family and friends bereft of parents. This compassion and generosity of spirit is still manifest in Estella today, residing contentedly in a nursing home in Houston. John's early death from a heart attack in 1950 was mourned by many whose lives he had enriched.

John and Estella had five children, and Estella insisted that they speak English in the home. Twins, born Jan. 3, 1923, were Fred Milford, whose story is related separately, and Mildred Marie. Mildred lives in San Antonio and is active in church, family, and community-service affairs. John Clifford was born Nov. 20, 1929, and the family was saddened by his death on April 14, 1931. Dorothy Joline, born Sept. 26, 1932, married Alfred Lee Adams, Jr., and lives in Richmond, Virginia. They have three grown children; Tara Lee, Sarah Nan, and John Wall. Margaret Estell, born March 18, 1935, married Jim Conrad and lives in Cuero. Their story is separate.

And so Estella enjoys correspondence, visits, and holiday celebrations from her four children, ten grandchildren, and twelve greatgrandchildren.

SAGER, MICHAEL AND FRIDERICA ELISABETHA RATH FAMILY

F79

Michael Sager, who, before his immigration to Texas, was a vine dresser in Dettingen-/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany, was born in Dettingen on 6 September 1797. The village of Dettingen, where the land has surely, even up to the present time, been well utilized in viniculture. was first mentioned in a document dated 1092 and was one of the oldest sites of the Erms Valley (previously called the Swigger Valley). In fact, Dettingen was the principle site of this valley and served as the headquarters for the provincial counts of that period. On 21 May 1377, the citizens of Reutlingen, a neighboring town, attacked this stately village without warning and burned it. In the present unrest about 1500, a Dettingen citizen, "the Bantelhanns," exemplified distinguished leadership skills; his figure still adorns the town hall fountain. In addition, Dettingen suffered greatly during the Thirty Years' War (1618-1848). In the year 1635, as a result of war and plague, the total population declined from 2140 to 515 and only 108 out of 296 buildings remained standing. It took nearly two hundred years for the total population to again reach 2140.

The parents of Michael Sager were a shoe-maker, Christoph Adam Sager (b. 28 December 1767 Dettingen; d. 15 December 1840 Dettingen; m. 9 February 1790 Dettingen) and Anna Maria Sager, nee Trost (b. 10 August 1768 Dettingen; d. 6 November 1816 Dettingen). Michael Sager died prior to 1860 in Meyersville, DeWitt County, Texas, and was buried without a tombstone, in St. John Lutheran Cemetery in Meyersville.

In Dettingen on 3 May 1825, Michael Sager married Friderica Elisabatha Rath, daughter of a cooper and farmer, Christoph Rath (b. 17 November 1758 Dettingen; d. 16 October 1811 Dettingen; m. 21 November 1780 Dettingen) and Christina Eberhardina Rath, nee Weber (b. 24 July 1763 Dettingen; d. 23 February 1833 Dettingen). Friderica Elisabetha Sager, nee Rath, was born in Dettingen on 19 April 1801; she died on 29 May 1887 in Arneckeville, DeWitt County, and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

Michael Sager and Friderica Elisabetha Sager begat twelve children, all of whom were born in Dettingen: Christoph Adam Sager (b. 3 April 1826; d. 27 August 1869 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville; m. 1 July 1853 Meyersville to Justine Sophie Dreier); Christoph Sager (b. 1 June 1827; d. 16 January 1832 Dettingen); Christiana Eberhardina Sager (b. 4 March 1829 Dettingen; m. possibly in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to -Wuerster); Anna Maria Sager (b. 8 July 1830; d. 18 July 1830 Dettingen); Jacob Sager (b. 2 August 1831; d. 11 September 1831 Dettingen); Michael Sager (b. 30 May 1833; d. 7 August 1833 Dettingen); Christoph Fridrich Sager (b. 15 August 1834; d. 18 June 1838 Dettingen); Friderica Elisabetha Sager (b. 25 July 1836; d. 25 November 1862, Jacksonville, Morgan County, Illinois; bur. Illinois; m. 4 May 1856 Victoria County, Texas, to Jacob Wurster); Ursula Barbara Sager (b. 16 August 1839;

d. 24 May 1914; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. DeWitt County to Heinrich Arnecke); Anna Maria Sager (b. 22 April 1841; d. 1842 Dettingen); Peter Sager, twin (b. 13 June 1843; d. ca. 1863 in U.S. Civil War); Michael Sager, twin (b. 13 June 1843; d. 2 April 1915 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 7 January 1866 Meyersville to Heinricke Rath).

While the exact date of immigration for the Michael Sager family has not been ascertained, it most certainly was between 1850 and 1856 and was probably around 1852 or 1853. Friderica Elisabetha Sager, nee Rath, widow of Michael Sager, her sons Michael, Peter, and Christoph Adam Sager, and Justine Sophie Sager, nee Dreier, wife of Christoph Adam Sager, were among the first settlers at Arneckeville, which was founded in 1859 by Heinrich "Henry" Arnecke and his wife, Ursula Barbara Arnecke, nee Sager, daughter of Michael and Friderica Sager. The 1870 DeWitt County census revealed that Friderica Sager, nee Rath, was living with her son Michael; however, she evidently had separate property because the value of her own real estate ($250) and personal property ($350) was listed independently from that of her son's.

The descendants of Michael and Friderica Sager will forever be grateful that these early immigrants confronted, endured, and eventually conquered unknown seas and virgin lands so that their children and grandchildren could enjoy lives of freedom, fulfillment, and opportunity.

SAGER, MICHEAL AND HEINRICKE RATH

F79

Michael Sager, twin brother of Peter Sager, was born in Dettingen/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany,

Michael Sager (1843-1915)

Heinricke (Rath) Sager (1842-1928)

on 13 June 1843. These twins were the sons of Michael Sager (b. 6 September 1797 Dettingen; d. prior to 1860 Meyersville, DeWitt County, Texas; bur. with no tombstone in St. John Lutheran Cemetery, Meyersville; m. 3 May 1825 Dettingen) and Friderica Elisabetha Sager, nee Rath (b. 19 April 1801 Dettingen; d. 29 May 1887 Arneckeville, DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville.) Michael Sager died on 2 April 1915 in Arneckeville and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

On 7 January 1866 in Meyersville, Michael Sager wed Heinricke Rath, daughter of Johann Martin Rath (b. 16 April 1819 Dettingen; d. 5 January 1896 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 19 January 1841 Dettingen) and Rosina Catharina Rath, nee Linder (b. 6 October 1810 Dettingen; m. #1: 2 February 1832 Dettingen to Joh. Jacob Hermann; m. #2: Dettingen to Johann Adam Hiller). Heinricke Sager, nee Rath, was born in Dettingen on 21 April 1842. According to church records in Dettingen, she immigrated to Texas with her family in 1852. She died of intestinal paralysis on 25 February 1928 in Arneckeville and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville.

Michael and Heinricke Sager begat six children, all of whom were born in Arneckeville: Friedrich Johann Peter Sager (b. 19 March 1867; d. 18 November 1874 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville); Friedericke "Ricke" Sager, baptized Justine Hulda Fredericke (b. 29 December 1868; d. 17 May 1958 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 4 November 1915 Arneckeville to Frederick Christian Koehler): Christoph Adam Henry Sager (b. 22 February 1870; d. 31 July 1953 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 4 February 1903 Arneckeville to Mary Sophia Schorlemmer); Carl Sager (b. 3 June 1872; d. 12 June 1872 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville); Catherine Sager, baptized Catherine Fredericke Caroline (b. 9 August 1873; d. 25 October 1882 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville); Caroline Sager, baptized Dorethea Augusta Amilie Karoline (b. 29 September 1875; d. 16 October 1912 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 29 June 1904 DeWitt County to Frederick Christian Koehler).

While it has not been ascertained exactly when Michael Sager first came to Texas, the DeWitt County federal census on 22 June 1900 denoted that Michael Sager immigrated in 1852 and that he had been living in the United States for forty-seven years. Michael Sager, his twin brother, Peter Sager, his mother, Heinricke Sager, nee Rath, another brother, Christoph Adam Sager, and Justine Sophie Sager, nee Dreier, wife of Christoph Adam Sager, were among the first settlers at Arneckeville, which was founded in 1859 by Heinrich "Henry" Arnecke and his wife, Ursula Barbara Arnecke, nee Sager, sister of Michael Sager. Michael Sager became a naturalized citizen of the United States on 25 June 1866 in DeWitt County. The DeWitt County federal census revealed that, as of June 1870, the real estate of the Michael Sager family was valued at $600 and the personal property was valued at $380.

The early settlers of Arneckeville lived in houses made of logs. Heat for warmth and for cooking was provided by indoor fire places. The farmers worked the fields with oxen and used hand-made wooden tools. The fields were fenced with rails and brush; however, much of the pasture land was not enclosed, and the stock ran wild, as did the hogs, which fattened on acorns. The women spun cotton and wool thread and wove their own cloth. They utilized indigo weeds for blue dye and the fungus that formed on decayed blackjack for yellow dye.

Although the German immigrants of DeWitt County owned no slaves, Michael Sager decided nevertheless to support his adopted state in the Lost Cause. He enlisted in the army of the Confederate States of America at San Antonio, Bexar County, Texas, on 9 July 1862. He served as a private in Company D of the 5th Regiment, Texas Cavalry. This regiment was organized with ten companies, A to K, which had been mustered in from 4 September to 16 October 1861. It was also known as the 2nd Regiment, Sibley's Brigade, Texas Volunteers, and as the 5th Regiment, Texas Mounted Volunteers.

Michael Sager was captured at Fort Butler in Donaldsville, Louisiana, on 28 June 1863. He was on the roll of prisoners of war on hand at New Orleans, Louisiana, on 31 December 1863, on the roll of POW's at New Orleans "dated Office of Commissary of Prisons, Dept. of the Gulf, New Orleans, La., 7 July 1864", and on the roll of POW's transferred from New Orleans and exchanged at Red River Landing on 22 July 1864. An undated prisoner of war roll indicated that he was paroled upon the recommendation of Dr. Alexander, Medical Director, Department of the Gulf.

Michael Sager was a devoted and loyal member of the Lutheran church. He was confirmed at St. John Lutheran in Meyersville on Whitsunday of 1856. He was a charter member of Zion Lutheran in Arneckeville. In fact, he donated the land on which Zion was first built in 1868; and on 29 August 1886 he increased his offer to make his gift a total of five acres. At that time he sold the congregation an additional five acres for $5.00 per acre. (At the congregational meeting of 20 December 1896, he asked that four acres of land from the east side be exchanged for similar acreage on the west or southwest side as he wished to use the east side for cultivation.)

Michael Sager was elected treasurer of the Zion congregation in 1871. On 18 May 1884, he was elected delegate to the synod in Victoria, and on 2 August 1885 he was elected delegate to the district conference to be held in Arneckeville on 23 August of that year. He was elected secretary on 19 December 1886, and on 14 September 1890 he was elected delegate to the third district conference. At the congregational meeting of 24 April 1892, Michael Sager was elected as alternate delegate to the first German Evangelical Lutheran Synod in Yorktown. On 19 March 1893 and again on 21 April 1895, he was elected delegate to the synod at Brenham. On 25 April 1897 he was elected delegate to the Old German Evangelical Synod of Texas in Yoakum, DeWitt County, Mention was made in the notes of the congregational meeting of 3 October 1897 that he was serving as treasurer at that time.

Michael Sager was a workman for his God, tirelessly and faithfully serving his church, his community, and his family. His faith in his Lord gave him strength when he was exhausted and hope when he was discouraged. Indeed Michael Sager lived by the tenant proposed by Paul Gerhart: "The sunshine is my master Jesus Christ smiling upon me."

SAGER, PETER

Peter Sager, twin brother of Michael Sager, was born in Dettingen/Erms, Black Forest District, Kingdom of Wurttemberg, Germany, on 13 June 1843. Peter Sager was the son of Michael Sager (b. 6 September 1797 Dettingen; d. prior to 1860 Meyersville, DeWitt County, Texas; bur. in an unmarked grave in St. John Lutheran Cemetery in Meyersville; m. 3 May 1825 Dettingen) and Friderica Elisabetha Sager, nee Rath (b. 19 April 1801 Dettingen; d. 29 May 1887 Arneckeville, DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville). Peter Sager was confirmed at St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville on Whitsunday of 1856.

It has not been determined exactly when Peter Sager came to DeWitt County, although it was certainly between 1850 and 1856; and it was probably around 1852 or 1853. Peter Sager, his mother, his brothers, Michael and Christoph Adam Sager, and Justine Sophie Sager, nee Dreier, wife of Christoph Adam Sager, were among the first settlers at Arneckeville, which was founded in 1859 by Heinrich "Henry" Arnecke and his wife, Ursula Barbara Arnecke, nee Sager, sister of Peter Sager.

Records denoted that Peter Sager was on the muster rolls of Captain William R. Friend's company of volunteers called the DeWitt Rifles (C.S.A.), which was organized at Clinton, DeWitt County, on 24 April 1861. This company was organized in obedience to the 24 April 1861 proclamation of the governor of the State of Texas. This company, made up mostly of single men, was appropriately uniformed, but possessed no arms except a few six-shooters.

Although the German immigrants of DeWitt County owned no slaves, as the political winds blew Texas into the whirlwind of the Confederate cause, Peter Sager decided to cast his lot with the South. He joined the army of the Confederate States of America in Victoria, Victoria County, Texas, on 22 August 1861 and was mustered in on 11 September 1861 in San Antonio, Bexar County, Texas. Upon enlistment, his horse was valued at $75.00 and his equipment at $20.00. A notation was found in the records that his horse was killed on 21 February 1862.

Peter Sager thus served as a private in Captain James Hampton's Company, Texas Mounted Volunteers. This company subsequently became Company C, 4th Regiment, Texas Cavalry, which was organized about October, 1861, with ten companies, A to K. It was also known as the 1st Regiment, Sibley's Brigade, Texas Mounted Volunteers, and as the 4th Regiment, Texas Mounted Volunteers.

Peter Sager was listed as present on the muster-in rolls from 11 September 1861 to 30 April 1862 and for 30 June 1862 to 31 January 1863. There were no official records after that time; however, oral history indicated that Peter Sager died fighting for the Lost Cause. The exact date of his death and his final resting place are unknown.

Although his short life might otherwise be merely a footnote in most history books, we honor Peter Sager here today as a man who gave up his life for the honored glory of his adopted state and his new homeland. His death was sorely grieved by those he left behind, and we who follow will strive to keep alive in our hearts and souls the memory of his sacrifice.

SAUERMILCH, FRED AND CAROLINE

F797

Fred (Frederick) Sauermilch was born in Prussia on March 10, 1854, the son of Andreas and Sophie Sauermilch. Fred came to America as an infant with his parents, his 3-yr. old sister Maria, and two older half-brothers, Andreas and Christian. On October 6, 1856 Fred's father Andreas applied for citizenship at the DeWitt County Clerk's office. Two other children were born to Andreas and Sophie after their arrival in Yorktown. Willie was born in 1857 and Emma was born in 1864. In 1867 Andreas purchased a 276-acre tract of land outside of Yorktown on which he began farming cotton, corn, and grain; along with raising cattle, hogs, and chickens. Andreas was a skilled carpenter as well, and soon built a home for his family. He later was actively involved in the construction of the first Lutheran Church in Yorktown. Andreas was one of the charter members of St. Paul Lutheran Church when it was founded in 1872 and remained an active member all his life. Andreas died in 1891 and is buried in St. Paul Lutheran Cemetery along with his wife Sophie. Their oldest son Andreas went to Mississippi sometime in the 1860's; Christian married Henrietta Sinast in 1871; Maria married Philip Grun in 1868; Willie never married; Emma married Frank Grutzmacher in 1884; and Fred (the subject of our story) married Caroline Gerhardt on August 11, 1878.

Louise Caroline Gerhardt was born in Yorktown on August 13, 1855 the oldest of 11 children born to Karl (Charles) and his wife Elizabeth Gerhardt. Karl Gerhardt came to America in November 1852 and applied for citizenship at the DeWitt County Clerk's office on August 17, 1854. Three months earlier on May 16, 1854, he married Elizabeth Hardt in Yorktown and they made their home there. Karl Gerhardt was also a charter member of St. Paul Lutheran and perhaps this is how these two families became acquainted, resulting in the marriage of Fred and Caroline.

For a few years after their marriage, Fred and Caroline shared a household with his parents and brother Willie. In the 1880's they moved to a large farm in northwest DeWitt County around Nopal. Here Fred continued with his interest in growing crops and raising animals that he had learned from his father. Nine children were born to this couple, two of whom died as small infants. Their 1st child Arthur (1879-1943) married Jane Heinman; Marie (1880-1962) married Henry Wehe, Sr.; Herman (1881-1962) married Louise Stephan and later married Georgie Blaine; Helen (1882-1968) married Fritz Schultz; Louise married Ernst Haertig and moved to Woodsboro; Emil married and moved to San Antonio; and Ewald (1892-1938) married Isabella Metz.

As the children married and left home, Fred sold his farm and he and Caroline moved into Yorktown. They lived right in front of the city's water tower. Once a month when the city overflowed the tower to keep the water in it fresh; Fred would divert the overflow into his yard and garden for irrigation purposes. Their yard and garden were always showplaces of color and greenery. Fred was very methodical and diligent in his use of dead plants for his compost heap; and it was said that he was able to raise 5 crops of corn off the same row in one year. Caroline was kept busy with the canning and preserving of their crops and also baking cookies for her grandchildren. They both remained active, involved members of the church all their lives.

Fred and Caroline were fortunate to celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary on August 11, 1928 with a supper for family and friends in the yard of their home in Yorktown. Fred died on August 14, 1935 at the age of 81½ years. Caroline died 8½ months later on April 29, 1936. They are both buried in St. Paul Lutheran Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

Carl L. Schaefer

Carl Ludwig Schaefer was born in Muhlhausen, Principality of Waldeck on Sept. 30, 1833, to Johanna Waldeck and Freidrich Schaefer of Berndorf. At age eighteen, Carl arrived in Galveston on the Bremen brig Wanderer, on Nov. 8, 1851. While he was employed as a freighter from the Gulf ports to San Antonio. his route passed through DeWitt County. At the Schiwetz way-station, Carl met Amalia Christine Wurz, daughter of August and Elizabeth (Zwickel) Wurz, natives of the Grand Duchy of Baden. Amalia was born on Sept. 25, 1840 in Garnsbach and came to Texas in 1857. Their meeting led to marriage on Aug. 24, 1858, and becoming parents of fourteen children, eleven of whom lived to maturity.

Carl and Amalia owned several tracts of land on which there was farming and dairying. They attended the Lutheran Evangelical Church in Meyersville, although Amalia was raised a Catholic. He farmed, raised Mammouth Bronze turkeys, raised cattle, and other farm animals. He considered the earth a gift of God and continually tried to preserve and improve it in thanks to his Lord.

SCHAFFNER, ALVIN W. AND ISABELLA (KRUSE)

F800

Isabella (Kruse) and Alvin Wilford Schaffner

In 1934 Isabella Kruse began teaching in a two teacher school house in DeWitt County named Guilford. It was located about six miles or so from Westhoff. It is not there anymore. She lived with her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wehman, who had a farm in this community. Her salary was $75.00 a month for 8 months or $600.00. This was paid to her at $50.00 a month.

Soon after teaching at Guilford Isabella Kruse met Alvin Wilford Schaffner and a year later December 21, 1935 they married in the St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church at Westhoff. He was the son of Gustav and Ross Mueller Schaffner, born Nov. 9, 1911 and at that time always lived at Westhoff and graduated from Westhoff 10th grade. Isabella Kruse was born near Shiner, Texas, Lavaca County, August 13, 1913, daughter of George and Antonia Raaz Kruse. Later her family moved four miles North of Yoakum. She went to Beasley School. Later her family moved half way between Hochheim and Cheapside in the Ruppert Community. She finished 7th grade at Ruppert in Gonzales County. Then she went to Cheapside school 8, 9, 10th grades and graduated from Yoakum High School in 1932.

Al and Isabella farmed a few years, at Westhoff. In the fall of 1937 they bought 43.5 acres in the Buchel Community on the highway five miles North of Cuero. Until World War II they raised chickens, broilers laying hens and sold eggs for hatcheries. Al went to work for a feed concern in Houston. After serving in the Marines during World War II, the firm gave him back his job. In 1942 and 43 Isabella and Al built a comfortable home on their land. They called their home Small Acorns because of the many beautiful oak trees.

While Al was in the service, Isabella sold all the chicken houses so others could use them, as during the War, this material was scarce. Al was in the feed business about 30 years. He, his brother Pete (P.G.) and Isabella's brother Leon T. Kruse went into the feed business. At first it was a feed store, and Al kept on working for the Houston firm. Then they ventured into their own feed and started a feed mill and Al had to quit his job to help Pete and Leon.

Isabella continued to teach. After Guilford she taught at Buchel, Cuero Junior School, Green DeWitt-Arneckeville, all in DeWitt County, the last 18 years at Aloe School in Victoria. She taught 41 years in all and Summer School, including Head Start.

After Farmbuilt Mills was sold, Al had a firm called Schaffners'. He worked for the State Health Department at the time of his death. In December 1976 he suffered a massive heart attack from which he did not recover. He died Dec. 31, 1976. They were married 41 years. He is buried in Hillside Cemetery.

May 1976 Isabella retired from teaching. In the Spring of 1977 she became curator of DeWitt County Historical Museum, "All work and No Pay!"

Her education consisted of two summers at the National University of Mexico, Mexico City, 1943, 49; Victoria Junior College 1932-34; BA University of Texas 1949; M.A. University of Texas 1952. In 1988 she sold Small Acorns and built a comfortable small home in Cuero behind her brother Edgar. She calls this home "Four Magnolias" because of the beautiful Magnolias.

Isabella Schaffner and A.W. received many awards – 4-H and Veterans of Foreign Wars. In 1962 she received the Valley Forge Classroom Teachers Award from Freedoms Foundation -A Certificate and dogwood medal. In 1966-67-68-69 she was named to Who's Who of American Women. She has worked with 4-H over 50 years. Both have received the 4-H Alumni awards and Honorary 4-H Member. Some of the awards were District and Statewide. She was the first in DeWitt County to receive the Conservation Homemaker award presented by the Conservation Society. The Citizenship Club honored her with a plaque for her work with Youths. In 1974 the Cuero Chamber of Commerce honored her for Civic and Community Service. Her Eta Pi Chapter, sisters, Delta Kappa Gamma, named her their first member to receive the Chapter's Community Service Awards. She was a Junior Historian Sponsor for 26 years. In 1974 she was the teacher of the year for the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Texas. She was given a scholarship to Freedoms Foundation. Texas Legislature honored her with a Citation. She was a Member of the Governor's Committee that served for the Texas Medal of Honor Grove signed by Gov. Bill Clements. SCHAFFNER, GUS

Gus Schaffner, the son of Henry and Wileminia Fisher Schaffner was born at Muldoon, Texas, Fayette County, October 9, 1884. Later his family moved to Karnes County. There he grew up with four brothers and 3 sisters. At the age of 25 years, he left home to make his own life. In 1909, he bought 100 acres of raw land two miles south of Bello, known now as Westhoff. He built a three room house that year and began other improvements. As it was, he "batched". He loved to dance and went ladyfriend searching. He met the girl of his dreams as Rosa Mueller.

Rosa was the daughter of Jacob and Annie Seibert Mueller. She was born December 22, 1894, in the Meyersville Community, DeWitt

Gus married Rosa on October 20, 1910, in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Yorktown, Pastor J.F. Polk officiating. They had no honeymoon, but set up housekeeping immediately on his farm. A year later a son was born, then a daughter and another son. Now they faced educational problems and adding three more rooms to the house. Gus took active part as a school trustee at Wallis Ranch School. There their two oldest children rode to school on a red Spanish mare named "Nellie", rain or shine, for seven years. Now the third child must go to school, so Gus transferred the children to Westhoff School and they could walk the two miles each day.

Later two more sons and a daughter were born. Six children, all grew up at Westhoff and finished high school in Yorktown and Cuero.

For 32 years Gus and Rosa sent children to school. Gus always looked into the future. He was interested in politics and land improvement. Gus was the first to terrace land in DeWitt County. Gus and Rosa always managed in spite of such trials and tribulations as World War I, the gale of 1919, the hailstorm of 1923, the drought of 1925, the gale of 1928, the stock market crash of 1929, the panic of 1933, and World War II.

Rosa became ill after her last childbirth, but by the grace of God and radium she regained her health.

Then Gus's health began to fail. World War II took his four sons away. Alton, a ball turret gunner, served on a B-17 in Europe and paid the supreme sacrifice. Alvin, Piermont and Leslie served in the Pacific. Leslie also served in the Korean War.

Years pass quickly, and one thing that makes growing old complete is grandchildren – 14 in all.

Gus and Rosa left Westhoff and their farm and built a home in Cuero, 206 E. Thomas in 1960. They celebrated their 50th and 60th wedding anniversaries. Gus died on October 29, 1970.

Rosa still lives in Cuero, has sold her farm. She will soon be 95 years young. She enjoys company, her 14 grandchildren and 27 great grandchildren as well as her four living children.

After finding a home, he sent for his wife and five children to join him. After several years, Herman was asked to come to work in Cuero in the Buchel Milling Company. With a promise of increase in pay, he made the decision to move his family. After a time, he bought a home on West Morgan Ave. near the Cuero Water Works. SCHIWETZ, BERTHOLD FAMILY

Berthold Schiwetz, ca. 1898.

Seven generations ago in the year 1849, Jacob Schiwetz (Schiwitz) immigrated to Texas to join his son, Johann Jacob, who had arrived in 1846 with his wife, Elisabethe Ortlieb and son, Phillip Friedrich. German records state that Johann Jacob and Elisabethe departed Germany on November 1, 1845. It is believed that they sailed from Antwerp, Belgium, arrived at Galveston on March 15, 1846, and continued by ship to Indianola. They settled in Victoria for possibly three years and then located in a German settlement on the 12 mile Coleto Creek where they purchased a farm in the Meyersville area. The elder Jacob died in 1852 (DOB: October 18, 1792, Fuerfeld, Germany).

The German settlement was in an area known as lower Meyersville. In 1855, Jacob and Elisabethe wrote to family members in Germany, describing the settlement as a beautiful place with good water from the creek. They grew corn and potatoes and sold crops, butter, and eggs. Welshcorn sold for 75 cents a bushel. The main income was from stock; a cow cost $15 to $20. An acre of unimproved land sold for $2.00.

Philip Friedrich or Frederick Schiwetz, who would become the father of Berthold Schiwetz, was born July 19, 1843. Frederick was confirmed in 1857 in the original St. John Evangical Lutheran Church, Meyersville. His father. Jacob, was on a committee for the construction of a new church in 1866. Jacob died April 5, 1890; Elisabethe died April 9, 1895; burial was in Yorktown. Frederick married Wilhelmina Buergener, who was born in Waldeck, Germany in 1845. Her family immigrated in 1861 to Texas, where they settled on a farm near Yorktown. Frederick and Wilhelmina had twelve children, three of whom died in infancy. Frederick died December 2, 1897; Wilhelmina lived until January 11, 1928, and enjoyed visits from her grandchildren who happily recalled "Grandma Schiwetz' home in Upper Meyersville." The gravesites of Frederick and Wilhelmina are in the Meyersville cemetery adjacent to the historic St. John's church.

Berthold Schiwetz was born in Meyersville on August 28, 1868. On November 25, 1897, he married Anna Reiffert, born June 27, 1876 in Cuero. The Reifferts were early immigrants from Germany to Indianola. Anna's mother and father were Heinrich Christian and Dorothea Blumenthal Reiffert. Heinrich was born January 12, 1844, in Hersfeld, Germany. In Indianola he worked at Dr. J.M. Reuss' drug store and later for the H. Runge firm. He died in Cuero on June 23, 1900. "Thea" was born October 24, 1844, in Schackenburg, Germany and died May 29, 1896. Their gravesites are in the Cuero cemetery.

Anna and Berthold resided at 811 Terrell Street in Cuero and were blessed with five children. The home was Victorian style with a large porch and generous yard. It has been modernized and housed several families since Anna's death in 1952. The children were: Edward Muegge, born August 24, 1898; Elizabeth Reiffert, born November 16, 1899; David Proctor, born July 25, 1902; Theordore Frederick, born August 9, 1904; and Peter Berthold, born July 23, 1909.

Berthold was an active and civic minded member of the community as well as a devoted father and husband. He was a school board president, a grandmaster of his local Masonic lodge and a member of the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. He was an insurance man and banker with H. Runger & Co. Anna had artistic talent, but her main devotions were to her family and the development of incentive in her children to be self-sufficient and pursue their own talents. Berthold encouraged a good education for his children. Edward (Buck) and David received degrees from Texas A&M in 1921 and 1925, in architecture and engineering, respectively. Elizabeth attended Brennau College in Georgia and Southwestern State Teachers College. Theodore (Ted) became an accountant with a Houston advertising firm; Dave worked for York Refrigeration Corp. and lived in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Berthold (Pete) studied and produced art in Michigan, Sweden, and Italy. He was called to fight in World War II and was at the European front when the Germans surrendered. He was decorated with the Bronze Star. After the war he resumed his artwork and proceeded to leave a legacy of bronze sculptures and fountains in Europe and the USA. Buck became a renowned water color artist and pursued art full time after retirement from advertising in Houston. Ted produced beautiful ceramics; Dave became a skilled furniture craftsman.

Elizabeth taught school in Cuero. In 1928, she married O.A. Zimmerman. They had one son, John Arthur Zimmerman, who graduated from Cuero High School and Rice Institute. He played football for Cuero High School and was a state tennis champion. Sadly, Elizabeth died November, 1937, after a brief illness. Berthold died November 3, 1938. Pete died June, 1971, in Dexter, Michigan. He and Elizabeth and their parents are buried in the Cuero cemetery. "Zim" later married Cleo Moran. They had one daughter, Charlotte Busch, who lives in Corpus Christi with her husband, Paul, and two children. John Zimmerman married Joyce Towery of Cuero. John is employed as business manager of a Corpus Christi firm.

Ted married Lucy Holbert in Houston. They had a son, Theodore Frederick, Jr., who is an attorney in Kerrville. Ted died on January 1, 1984. Lucy later moved to Kerrville, where she continues as a talented china painter and stained glass artist. Buck married Ruby Lee Sanders, who was a recognized sculptor and fabric artist. Buck died February 4, 1984, in Cuero, Texas, where he spent time in partial retirement. Ruby Lee and Buck are buried in the state cemetery in Austin. They had one daughter, Patricia Ann, who married Frank Richard Nelson. Patricia recently retired from the San Antonio School District. David married Charlotte Diehl of York, Pennsylvania; she died in 1968. David now resides in Allentown, Pennsylvania and enjoys hobbies and world travel. He also makes at least an annual trek to Texas.

The current generations include the three daughters and three grandchildren of John and Joyce Zimmerman. Frank and Patricia Nelson have one daughter, Pamela, who lives in New York City. Ted, Jr. has a twelve year old son, Andrew. The members of the Schiwetz and Zimmerman family continue a close association with Cuero through family and friendship ties and also maintain a strong allegiance to Texas and their German heritage.

Gustav Schleicher

Elizabeth Tinsley (Howard) Schleicher

Johan Gustav Ferdinand Schleicher was born in Darmstadt, Germany on November 19, 1823, the fourth child, only son of Georg Friedrich Schleicher, a cabinet maker, and his wife, Marie Elenore Losch. Gustav was graduated from the University of Giessen in the Grand Duchy of Hesse-Darmstadt and worked as a civil engineer in railroad construction in Germany. He and Dr. Ferdinand Herff were the leaders of a group of intellectuals, the Colony of Forty, who immigrated to Texas in 1847 and founded a commune named Bettina on the banks of the Llano River.

The settlement failed, and Gustav began helping German settlers to locate land and to acquire land himself. He moved to San Antonio in 1850 and he and others initiated such ventures as the Guadalupe Bridge Company to build a toll bridge across the Guadalupe between San Antonio and New Braunfels, as well as the San Antonio and Mexican Gulf Railroad. His father and two younger sisters, Marie Wilhelmine and Henriette Louise Auguste, joined him in San Antonio and he was co-owner with his sisters of a dining establishment in San Antonio. His sister, Marie, married Huge Frederick Oswald on 27 April 1852. Gustav became a naturalized American citizen on December 8, 1852. In 1853-1854 he served in the House of the fifth Texas Legislature. From 1854 to 1861 he was a Surveyor of the Bexar Land District, which included mosts of the central portion of Texas from San Antonio west to El Paso, and during his tenure he acquired title to large tracts of land. In 1858, Scleicher and Rudolph Dresel, who had married his sister, Auguste, began publishing the Texas Staat-Zeitung in San Antonio.

On May 11, 1856 Gustav Schleicher married Elizabeth Tinsley Howard, daughter of Taliferro S. Howard and Elizabeth Garnett Tinsley. The Howards were originally from Caroline County, Virginia and had migrated to Noxubee County, Mississippi where their daughter Elizabeth was born on May 6, 1836. She came to the Republic of Texas as a child when her parents moved to Washington County in 1840, and later to Galveston.

Gustav Schleicher was a co-incorporator of the San Antonio Water Company in 1858 and of Alamo College in 1860. From 1859 to 1861 he served in the Senate of the Eighth Texas Legislature.

When Texas seceded from the Union Gustav volunteered and was commissioned Captain, Corp of Engineers, Trans-Mississippi Department, CSA on April 24, 1861 and served until the company was surrendered by General E. Kirby Smith on August 4, 1865. After the war he opened an engineering and real estate office in San Antonio and in 1866 was one of the incorporators of the Columbus, San Antonio and Rio Grande Railroad.

In 1870 the San Antonio and Mexican Gulf Railway was foreclosed and sold to Charles W. Morgan who owned the Morgan Steamship Line which operated between New Orleans and Indianola. Morgan changed the name of the railroad to Gulf, West Texas and Pacific and Gustav Schleicher was named chief engineer to supervise construction of the line from Victoria to Cuero.

Work on the road was begun in 1871 and the following year Gustave Schleicher purchased a league of land which had originally been owned by Father Jose Antonio Valdez y Gonzales and together with Fletcher S. Stockdale, John C. French and Col. Charles M. Terrell as partners, he formed the Cuero Land and Immigration Co. Schleicher designed the streets and drainage pattern of the town of Cuero and supervised the surveying of the townsite. In 1873 he erected the first bridge in DeWitt County across the Guadalupe River. It was known as Schleicher Bridge until it was replaced by a concrete structure a few years ago. That same year he built a home at 801 Morgan Avenue, one of the first houses to be built in Cuero, and brought his family from San Anto-

In 1874 Gustav Schleicher was elected from the Sixth District of Texas to the Forty-fourth United States Congress. He was reelected to the Forty-fifth and again to the Forty-sixth Congress but died in Washington on January 10, 1879 before the Forty-sixth Congress convened. Funeral services were held in the Capital House Chambers in Washington. His remains were brought to San Antonio where services were held in St. Mark's Episcopal Church and he was buried in the National Cemetery on Paso Hondo Street.

Schleicher County on the Edwards Plateau of southwestern Texas was created in 1887 and named for Gustav Schleicher.

Elizabeth Tinsley Howard Schleicher lived in Cuero for more than 54 years after her husbands death. She died on February 5, 1933 and was buried in San Antonio beside her

The Schleicher's had nine children, two of whom, Rudolph and Eleanor Herff I, died in infancy. All except their two youngest children were born in San Antonio.

Gustav H., born ca. 1857, was graduated from the University of Virginia and was at one time City Engineer and DeWitt County Surveyor. He married Gazzie Renee' Moore, daughter of Samuel Butler Moore and Lydia Crouch. They had four children, Samuel Moore, Lula Eleanor, Gustav Ferdinand, and Boon Franklin. Gustav H. died in Queretaro, Mexico 21 June, 1930.

Elizabeth Tinsley, born ca. 1859, married Fletcher Sommerfield Stockdale, and they had three children, Thomas, Nanette and Agnes Lee.

George Johnson, attorney, was born 16 Aug. 1863, married Lulu Lane, daughter of Sam W. Lane and Ann Mary Puckett, died Cuero, 27 Oct. 1936. They had no children. He was graduated from Columbia University and practiced law with Judge Robert A. Pleasants in Cuero for many years.

William Young, attorney, born 17 April 1867, was graduated from the University of Virginia, never married, died Cuero, 24 Nov. 1896 aged 29 years.

Eleanor Herff II (Lola), born 23 Jan. 1869, was graduated at Wellsley, taught school in Cuero for many years, died 15 Feb. 1958. She married and divorced Joel F. Edwards.

Mary Lee (Mamie), born Washington, DC 1872, died Cuero, 24 Nov. 1923.

Fletcher Stockdale, attorney, born 10 October 1874, married Angeline Genevive (viva) Crain, daughter of William Henry Crain and Angeline Genevieve Mitchell, died Cuero, 15 Mar. 1922. He had two children, Frank Crain, and Elizabeth Ann. (See separate article on this family.)

SCHLEICHER, LOU (LANE)

F807

Lou Lane was born May 22, 1860 to Samuel Winston Lane and Ann Mary Catherine Puckett. She was born in DeWitt County, Texas. She attended Stanford Female College in Kentucky and was valedictorian of her class. In 1896, she married George Johnston Schleicher, son of Gustave Schleicher.

Dr. W.A. McLeod, Presbyterian pastor wrote of Lou Lane Schleicher: "Mrs. Schleicher was a woman of unusual brilliancy of intellect. She attended school at Clinton in her childhood. Later she went to the Brooks school at Goliad and finally to college at Standford, Kentucky. Her record was always brilliant. Following this, she taught in a private school of her own here in Cuero for a time. Her financial position was such, however, that she did not need to work for a living, and yet we find her always doing private teaching. She had a passion to teach and was seldom or never without a list of private pupils. For this sort of work she never thought of making any charge.

Few of our citizens were as widely read as she. From childhood, she read everything she could lay hands on. Added to this, was the experience in travel. She and her husband travelled widely in Europe, particularly in Germany, homeland of his father and in England, homeland of hers."

Mrs. Schleicher was a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy and Colonial Dames. She died in Cuero at her residence at 402 Terrell St., on June 22, 1938. She is buried at Hillside Cemetery, in Cuero.

SCHLENNSTEDT, CHRISTOPHER FAMILY

F808

Christopher G. Schlennstedt was born in Halle, Germany, county of Saugerhausan, Kneis Voigtstedt. He was born on January 25. 1842. He was a military man under "Kaiser Reign". He married Marie Fredricka Schultz, who was born at Voigtstedt, on September 16, 1848. Her mother's maiden name was Fisher.

Christopher and Marie were married in Halle, Germany June 1, 1864. They had three sons: 1) Karl Schlennstedt was born August 21, 1870 and died May 26, 1953. He is buried at the Westhoff Cemetery; 2) Herman Schlennstedt was born May 10, 1871 and died August 17, 1975 in Nordheim, Texas; Fritz Schlennstedt was born February 10, 1872 and died July 1937 in Nordheim.

Karl married Mimmie Helbig on May 18, 1890 in Germany. They had five children, three born in Germany and two born in Westhoff, Texas. Their children were: 1) Anna Marie, born on February 8, 1894 in Voigtstedt, Sangerhausen, Germany; 2) Hermana was born October 3, 1896 in Germany; 3) Fritz was born May 3, 1898 in Germany; 4) Otto was born June 6, 1903 and died June 6, 1903 at Westhoff, Texas. He is buried by the family home; 5) Charlie was born January 1, 1905 at Wes-

Christopher Schlennstedt and his wife came to the Westhoff, Grunau, and Little Chicago area of Texas. Christopher bought land in the Nordheim area and the Wallis Ranch area of DeWitt County. About 400 acres were bought from the Wallis Ranch, land to be used to raise sheep. The Wallis Ranch land was part of a grant from the Mexican Government to Captain Wallis after the Siege of the Alamo. There were, at one time, a total of 150,000 acres of land in the Wallis Ranch. This land was not to be sold, only handed down to heirs. After the Civil War, some of this land began to be sold by the heirs.

Christopher bought 426 acres at 90¢ per acre, from Turners and Robeson. He built his home on this land. Two creeks ran through the land, the big and little Copper Creeks.

Christopher had been a shepherd in Germany and wanted to raise sheep on his land but most land owners were farmers and ranchers in this area. They did not like the idea of sheep on good grazing land.

Christopher always came down with a mysterious illness of fever and rashes. It made life miserable for him. (It turned out to be poison ivy and poison oak). He wrote to his son in Germany to come to America as the soil was good and would raise many crops: corn, hay, sugar cane, cotton, which they knew nothing about, and milo and other grains. It was ideal for cattle and hogs and chickens and turkeys.

After Karl and his wife and three children arrived on the boat "Garret", at Galveston, Texas, (they could not land in Indianola because of a hurricane) on May 3, 1903, they came first to Mustang Mott and to the old house that was Mustang Mott Store. They had come by wagon and had seen many Indians along the way. They could not speak English but soon learned. They built a two-story house about 1 mile South of the Westhoff Cemetery. They all attended Clear Creek School at the two-story school by the bridge near Lillie Stollis' house and Ed Buchhorn's place. Lillie could speak German and English so she taught Anna to speak English and they stayed friends all of their lives.

Kark bought more land from the Veit family across the road from their home but when times got bad during the depression, he sold that land.

Fritz Schlennstedt and Herman Schlennstedt moved to Nordheim, Texas and married sisters. Fritz married Theresa Marchshot and Hermam married Emilie Marchshot.

Fritz and Theresa had one daughter born in Berlin, Germany. Her name was Marie and she married Hugo Bachle, a professor from Swertz, Texas. They had three children: 1) Nelda married Moffett; 2) Mildred married Stinson; 3) Wilfred married Dashle. Marie died in 1984 and Hugo died in March of 1976.

Herman and Emilie had three daughters and two sons: 1) Fred died in 1985; 2) Martha married a Stinnert; 3) Elsie married a Janasack; 4) Erna married a Janson; and 5) Otto died about the age of 18 years.

Karl Schlennstedt's daughter, Anna Marie married Fred H. Harvey who was born January 20, 1892 in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. They married at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas on January 3, 1923. Fred was a military man having served with the English Army during World War I in France and Germany. After the War he came to the United States and served many years in the Navy and the Army. He was gassed in World War I and was in bad health for many years. However, he had several businesses, he was a cook, baker, butcher, restaurant owner. He bought the Stucco Hut from Berthold Zengerle in October 1942 and ran it until 1949. He and his wife also had the American Snack Bar at the American Legion Hall in Cuero where the Post Office is now. For a long time he worked for the Piggly Wiggly Store from 1937 to 1939. He also, helped in the Bohne Market, Ley Brothers Grocery, and McLarty's Grocery and Charley Koenig's Grocery.

While he was growing up, Fred wrestled in Canada and won many medals and titles. He wrestled under the name of "Freddie Welsh". He was a powerful man.

After Fred's retirement from the service, they moved to Westhoff and opened a bakery and meat market. They had a son, Alfred Sidney Harvey who was born December 15, 1924, in Westhoff and a daughter, Ethel Louise Harvey who was born Decemb er 5, 1925 upstairs in the old E.T. Teller home and Dr. Fry home. They moved to Cuero in 1941 due to rations and supplies being in short supply. Fred and Anna bought a home at 604 E. Courthouse where they lived until Mrs. Harvey's death in 1984 at the age of 90. Fred died with a heart attack in 1956. They are buried at the Westhoff Cemetery.

Karl's second son, Herman Schlennstedt married Leona Leonhart at Westhoff Texas and they had two daughters: 1) Edna was born August 31, 1923. She married J.D. "Red" Bowen and they had one son J.D. Bowen, Jr.; 2) Annie Louise was born June 19, 1924. She married Charles Ludwig and they had three children: Kenneth Ludwig, Charles Ludwig, Jr., and Annette Ludwig.

Karl Schlennstedt's third child, Fritz was born May 3, 1898 and married Tonie Bock, daughter of Julius and Katherine Bock of Westhoff. Tonie was the first girl born in Westhoff on January 2, 1902 when it was still called Bello. Mr. Julius Bock ran a lumber yard where the American Legion Hall is today. Tonie had a sister named Anna Smith and a brother named Otto Bock. Fritz died on November 22, 1937 from a ruptured appendix. Fritz and Tonie had three daughters: 1) Georgie Mae; 2) Jo Nell; and 3) Christie. Tonie died in 1972.

Karl's fifth child, Charlie Schlennstedt married Selma Wehman. They have no children. They lived in the Karl Schlennstedt home all of their married life. Charlie died in September 18, 1981 and Selma died on her 75th birthday, April 26, 1980. They are both buried in the Westhoff Cemetery.

After the death of Charlie, the farm was sold to Bill Leske and his wife. Mrs. Leske was kin to the Wallis family that originally owned the land. It was in the Schlennstedt family from 1890 until 1982. The land holds many memories for all of the Schlennstedt family.

Anna and Fred Harvey's children were: 1) Alfred S. Harvey who made the army his career. He joined the Army in San Antonio in 1941 and served in World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. He served 32 years and retired as a Major Sargent. He married Ann Else in 1942. She is from England. They retired to Marysville, California. Alfred and Ann have four children: a) Pamela; b) Katy Jo; c) Susan; and d) Bruce. 2) Ethel Louise Harvey married Cleo W. Marks, Jr. of Dixon, Kentucky. They met while he was training as a pilot at Brayton Flying Field in Cuero in 1942. Ethel Louise was working at the Doll House in Cuero at the time. They married September 6, 1942 at the Lutheran Church. Cleo Marks served at Foster Field, Matagorda Island, and overseas in Africa, and Italy. After his discharge in January of 1946, they moved to Dixon, Kentucky. They have eight children: a) Donna Ruth was born April 5, 1945 and married a Mr. Walker; b) Linda Marie was born March 2, 1947 and married a Mr. Worthington; c) Cleo W. SCHLINKE, CHARLES A.

Charles A. Schlinke was born in Germany on August 2, 1862, a son of John and Calina Schlinke who emigrated to the United States when Charles was four years old. The Schlinke first settled in Goliad County where elder Schlinke engaged in farming and accumulated considerable property during his lifetime and also operated extensively in the livestock business. Charles attended public schools and worked on a farm for his father until he was fourteen years of age and then started breaking wild horses and mules for ranchers of that area. He worked for various men until he was twenty-three when he was married to Miss Martha Clement at which time he started farming for himself, purchasing a tract of two hundred acres in DeWitt County. Ten children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Schlinke, eight of whom survived: 1) Oscar, 2) Martha, 3) Alma, 4) August, 5) Olga, 6) Fritz, 7) Rosa and 8) Ernest Schlinke.

Mr. Schlinke was a member of the Lutheran Church. He died July 7, 1940 and she died June 3, 1931. They are buried at St. John Lutheran Cemetery at Lindenau, DeWitt County, Texas.

SCHLITT, JOHANN FRIEDRICH

F810

Johann Friedrich Schlitt was born on 19 November 1807 in Leusel bei Alsfeld, Alsfeld District, Oberhessen, Grand Duchy of Hessen, Germany, and was baptized in Leusel on 22 November 1807. The baptismal sponsor was Johann Friedrich Schlitt, his grandfather. The parents of Johann Friedrich Schlitt were a farmer, Johannes Schlitt (b. 28 January 1777 Leusel; d. 6 April 1836 Leusel; m. 8 August 1805 Leusel), and Anna Catharina Schlitt, nee Decher (b. 3 April 1788 Liederbach bei Alsfeld, Alsfeld District; d. 6 October 1842 Leusel).

Johann Friedrich Schlitt never surrendered himself to the yokes of matrimony; he died in DeWitt County, Texas, on 20 September 1887 and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville, DeWitt County.

Johann Friedrich Schlitt sailed from Bremen, Germany, on board the Anton Gunther with his sister, Elisabetha Katharina Koehler, nee Schlitt, his brother-in-law, Johann Valentin Koehler, his nephew, Heinrich Koehler, and his nieces, Katharina Koehler, Anna Katharina Koehler, and Elisabeth Koehler. The family landed at Galveston on 2 January 1860 and further removed themselves to DeWitt County.

Of interest was the fact that Johann Friedrich Schlitt traveled to America under the surname of Schleid. Generally speaking, an emigrant did not receive approval for emigration from Hessen for one or more of the following reasons: if there were still a judgment proceeding in progress against the prospective emigrant, if punishment in a remand home or prison had not yet been served by the prospective emigrant, if the prospective emigrant had not yet completed his military service with the mustered-in youth, or if the prospective emigrant had not faithfully paid all his taxes and duties. Johann Friedrich Schlitt was not granted a release from the subject bond and consequently was not granted a passport and so he went to the United States under an assumed name. According to Helmuth Riffer, of Alsfeld (1989), Schlitt had probably entered into the transaction with the captain of the ship. However, he must have returned to Leusel at a later date because additional records in Germany revealed that a Friedrich Schlitt, as an American citizen, departed from Europe on 17 November 1869 aboard the Frankfort and landed in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Johann Friedrich Schlitt made his home with Elisabetha and Johann Valintin Koehler, his sister and brother-in-law. In fact, on the 1860 DeWitt County census, Friedrich Schlitt was listed as the head of the family. This same documentation revealed that the family's real estate was valued at $4000, not an inconsiderable sum for the times, and the personal property was valued at $200.

SCHLOSSER, HENRY FAMILY

According to the book, The History of the German Settlements in Texas, written by Rudolph Leopold Biesele, the Indians in 1855 to

Wilbert Schlosser

Henry Schlosser Family: Back: Ida, Henry and Olga. Middle: Sophie, Adela and Minnie. Front: Henry, Sr., with Leona, Hugo, Lillie and Hermina.

1859 became very active and committed many acts against the settlers. A Committee of 5 citizens of New Braunfels sent to Gov. Pease a report of a public meeting held in New Braunfels. This meeting adopted measures to cooperate with the citizens in raising volunteer assistance to protect the frontier settlements against the marauding incursions of Indians. Great Grandfather Schlosser was serving in this Ranger Service in 1858 when he was killed by the Indians somewhere west of San Antonio. His friend escaped and returned to the Schlosser farm to rescue Great Grandmother Sophia (Whithoef) Schlosser and her six months old son.

The young son was Henry Schlosser born at Fort Clark in Kinney County, Texas, May 21, 1858. His parents were Mr. Schlosser (first name unknown) and Sophia Whithoef Schlos-

As they rode on horseback to safety, Sophia looked back to see her home being burned by the Indians. She and little Henry took refuge in the Alamo.

Sophia and little Henry were moved to Seguin to a safer haven. Later, Sophia took a housekeeping job at the home of August Harborth, a widower with small children. Mr.

Harborth, a merchant, transported his goods by ox cart from Indianola. In 1886, Sophia Schlosser and August Harborth were married. August and Sophia had five children and Henry's step-father was well known around Seguin. Mr. Harborth died in 1910.

As Henry grew older, he drove ox teams through DeWitt and Goliad Counties along the route of his step-father.

On April 10, 1881, Henry Schlosser married Hermine Meyer, daughter of Christoph and Louise (Grote) Meyer of New Braunfels where their first child was born. They moved to Weesatche where he farmed and had a General Store that contained the Post Office. Six children were born in Goliad County.

The cattle shipping point, Welden Switch, was renamed Nordheim in about 1895 and became a predominately Germany speaking community of cotton farmers; the year Schlosser's arrived. Their daughter, Lillie was recorded as being the first child born in the town of Nordheim.

Henry was instrumental in establishing the Post Office, and was the first Postmaster of Nordheim. He established the first business in town in the Gohmert Building, a General Store, that the family operated for several years. He was affectionately known to many as being "The Father of Nordheim."

In 1896, Nordheim's St. Paul Lutheran Church was organized by Rev. J.K. Poch of Yorktown. The first Lutheran services were held in the Schlosser home.

In 1902, when "Cotton was King" the lure of farming prompted the family to move onto a 400 acre farm 3 miles south of Nordheim. The family was already large and several more children were born while they lived on this farm. A large water supply was needed for them and the other farm help. It became known as "The Twin Cistern Place" in the area, since the cypress tanks could be seen for miles around. A smaller farm was owned and operated close to Nixon. Opa and Oma lived on the Nordheim farm until Opa's death in 1911, but Oma continued to live on the farm and be active until her death on June 30, 1933. Sophia Schlosser Harborth died in 1913 and was buried near Geronimo, outliving her son Henry by two years.

Schlosser children included: Ida (Thormahlen), Olga (Brieger), Henry, Jr., Minnie (Riedesel), Sophie (Braune), Adele (Reinhart), Hugo, Lillie (Klaevemann), Leona (Stirl), and Wilbert. All of the above are deceased except Lena Stirl of Victoria and Wilbert and Wilmeth (Brown) Schlosser of Corpus Christi. They maintain a second home in Nordheim.

Grandfather Henry suffered from heart trouble but died from apoplexy in 1911. The Schlosser's were a very close family that took great pride in religious training. Their children, as most of the German descendants in that area, were confirmed members of the Lutheran Church. At least six families, descendants of this union, remain in DeWitt Co.

Tragedy struck the Schlosser's on two occasions. The first being when the oldest known relative was killed by the Indians in about 1858, and the second when the youngest male member, Lon Schlosser, was murdered close to Fort Hood, Texas in 1969. Lon would have been the only Schlosser to have had the opportunity to carry on the name of this large pioneer family had he lived, married and had at least one son.

When his remains were discovered after weeks of intense searching by his father, Wilbert, and post officials, he was buried in the Nordheim Cemetery with full military honors. It was a memorable occasion his relatives will never forget, was attended by many of his Army comrades, and marked the end of a local family name.

They lived in the Friedland School Community and had four children. They are Johnnie, Burgunde, Tony and Hella. Anton died February 15, 1976 at the age of 92 years.

Marie Pauline Schmidt was born on December 11, 1885 in Germany. She married Herman Riedesel on November 29, 1911 in Yorktown. They lived on a farm about four miles north of Yorktown. Their seven children are Pauline, John, Herman, Fritz, Olivia, Wilfred, and Roland.

Gesine and George Schmidt, twins were born April 6, 1888 in Germany. Gesine married Charles Riedesel, brother of Marie's husband, on October 3, 1911. They lived on a farm about four miles north of Yorktown. Twelve children were born to Gesine and Charles. They are Ewald, August, Valentine, Jane, Edna, George, Viola, Hugo, Edward, twins Lela Mae and Lee Roy, and Elton.

Anna Elise Schmidt was born October 30, 1889 in Germany. She married Fritz Schriefer on November 21, 1912. They lived near Weimar in Colorado County where two daughters were born to them. After the death of Fritz Schriefer she married Paul Wornot in 1934 in Weimar. They later moved to Beasley in Fort Bend County.

Lydia Schmidt was born on February 2, 1894 in Jackson County. She married William Meinke on August 1, 1927. They had two daughters, Evelyn and Leona, and lived most of their married life in Cuero.

Little is known about the Schmidt's life in Germany but coming over in a ship with a baby, two year old twins and four older children must have been a hardship. Hope for a better life in a new land must have out-weighed these hardships, and we, as descendants, need to be ever grateful to these brave ancestors.

In John's obituary are found these words "He fought for his faith, held his belief in God." This faith and love is made evident by the close family ties held by his descendants.

Parents John and Gesine along with children Anton and wife Sophie Schmidt, Mary and Herman Riedesel, Gesine and Charles Riedesel, and Lydia and William Meinke are buried in the Westside Cemetery in Yorktown. John and Helene Schmidt and George's wife Mayme are buried in the Nordheim Cemetery. George is the only survivor of the eight children and their spouses. He is 101 years old.

SCHORLEMMER, HENRY FAMILY

The genealogy of Heinrich (Henry) Carl Schorlemmer of Meyersville, TX, has been traced to his paternal great grandfather, Franz Nikolaus, born 12 May 1725 in Rosenthal, Germany. He and his wife, Elizabeth, nee Franken, had a son, Johann Christian Friedrich August, born 7 March 1763. Johann's son was Wilhelm Heinrich, born 8 April 1812, who was the father of Henry and brought the family to Texas. On 6 October 1844 Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer married Elizabeth Friederike Sperb, born 13 October 1825, daughter of Johann and Maria Spengler Sperb. Johann Carl was born to them on November 11, 1845 in Darmstadt. Elizabeth died on May 28, 1846. On 6 December 1846 Wilhelm married Eva Sophie Reinhardt b. 11 September 1829 at Darmstadt, a daughter of Karl Heinrich and Anna M. Armheim Reinhardt.

Since Germany was in turmoil and tales from Texas sounded inviting, Eva's 17-year-old brother, Louis, sailed for Texas in 1847. Eva's first child, Anna Margarethe Caroline, was born on 21 October 1847 and died 4 July 1863. In 1848 Wilhelm and Eva also emigrated, accompanied by her mother, Anna Margarethe Reinhardt, Eva's brother, Jacob and two sisters, Henrietta and Marie. In September they boarded the ship, "Louis", at Antwerp, Belgium, and sailed for Galveston, Texas. They arrived there on November 20, transferred to smaller boats to go to Indianola where they spent Christmas and where Eva's second daughter, Wilhelmina, was born, February 2, 1849. The families settled in the Five Mile Community where Wilhelm, a tinner, had a little shop to make gopher traps, weather vanes, cookie cutters, etc. He also helped in getting Pastor C.A. Sager to establish a Lutheran Church at Meyersville. The following additional children were born to the Schorlemmers: Heinrich (Henry) Carl born 24 December 1850; Theophil Carl born 20 June 1854; Sophie born 20 October 1857; Caroline born 7 April 1859 (died 26 December 1867); Maria born 4 August 1865 (died 11 August 1866). Wilhelm died 23 August 1898 and Eva on 4 September

Henry attended a German school near home. In 1870 (date unknown) Henry married Emmalina Franke, born 20 June 1846, daughter of Ludwig and Maria Moeller Franke. In 1871 Henry purchased land one mile east of Meyersville, in 1884, 100 acres from Ludwig Franke and in 1899 100 acres from George Wendel. Some of Henry's grandchildren, Bill and Kitty Ruschaupt, now own and live in their modern home on the site of the Henry Schorlemmer homestead. She shares the following: The Schorlemmers raised livestock, hay and corn, but no cotton. He was a blacksmith and wheel-wright. They maintained a large garden, grew many fruit trees and beautiful flowers including a green rose. Recently "volunteer" phlox, long dormant, bloomed so profusely that Kitty placed a phlox arrangement in church in memory of the Henry Schorlemmers. Henry brought his cattle home each evening to the crack of his large cattle whip. In later years when his grandchildren helped gather the Irish potatoes, he rewarded them with a swig of his homemade grape wine.

After Emmalina died on 28 December 1914, Henry had several young families live with him. In the mid-20's he went to live with his daughter, Alma, and her husband, Willie Diebel in Meyersville. Even in his 80's he remained an alert domino player and took long rides by horse and buggy to visit relatives and friends. In St. John Lutheran church Henry served on the new parsonage committee in 1884; was treasurer and elected an elder in 1895 while Emmalina, as vice-president of the Ladies Aid received a gift of silver from them for her silver wedding anniversary. Henry died 12 August 1939.

The children of Henry Carl and Emmalina Franke Schorlemmer were: Rudolph, born 21 January 1871; died 7 April 1873. Gustav, born 28 March 1872; died 20 May 1886. Bertha, born 19 December 1873; died 26 Aug. 1949; married 19 Nov. 1896 to Wilhelm Ruschaupt. Oscar, born 8 October 1875; died 9 Jan. 1953; married 26 Dec. 1906 to Meta Jacob. Alma, born 13 May 1877; died 29 May 1949; married 30 October 1901 to Wilhelm Diebel Heinrich, born 1 February 1879; died 1 February 1884.

Louis Charles Schorlemmer was a man dedicated to his God, his family, his fellow man, and his church. He was born on 21 April 1910 in Cuero, DeWitt County, Texas. He was the son of Louis F. Schorlemmer, baptized Ludwig Friedrich (b. 20 November 1878 Arneckeville; d. 5 November 1961 Port Lavaca, Calhoun County, Texas; bur. Tivoli Cemetery, Tivoli, Refugio County, Texas; m. 1 June 1904 Arneckeville) and Caroline "Lena" Justine Elizabeth Schorlemmer, nee Koehler (b. 15 May 1883 Arneckeville; d. 16 September 1946 San Antonio, Bexar County, Texas; bur. On 17 January 1937 in Edna, Jackson County, Texas, Louis Schorlemmer married Laverne Caroline Spree (b. 5 April 1912 Jackson County). After their marriage, Louis and Laverne Schorlemmer moved to Dallas, Dallas County, Texas, where they were members of the Trinity Lutheran Church. They then moved to Corsicana, Texas, where their only child was born: Ronald Louis Schorlemmer (b. 11 September 1938; m. 11 September 1960 Alice, Texas, to Janet Estelle Richter). In 1940 the family moved to Refugio, where Louis Schorlemmer worked as chief clerk for the Selective Service Board from 1941 until he joined the United States Navy in May of 1944. While residing in Baytown, Louis and Laverne Schorlemmer were members of Redeemer Lutheran church, where Louis helped found a scholarship fund for persons who wanted to serve in the Missouri Lutheran Church Synod. Also while in Baytown, the Schorlemmers were among several families who sponsored a Vietnamese family of six. The Vietnamese family members were so grateful for the help which they had received that they bought tombstones for the Schorlemmers' graves.

Today we honor Louis Charles Schorlemmer, a native son of DeWitt County, as a man who cared deeply for his fellow man, as a man who loyally served his church and his God, and as a man who was lovingly devoted to his wife, his son, and his grandchildren. SCHORLEMMER, VALTIN CHARLES, SR.

Seldom in the course of human events does one find embodied in one many the qualities of dedication to God and Church, devotion to family, intellectual brilliance, and professional success and respect. Yet DeWitt County begat such a son in the person of Valtin Charles Schorlemmer.

Valtin Charles Schorlemmer was born on 11 March 1905 in Arneckeville, DeWitt County, Texas. He was the son of Louis F. Schorlemmer, baptized Ludwig Friedrich (b. 20 November 1878 Arneckeville; d. 5 November 1961 Port Lavaca, Calhoun County, Texas; bur. Tivoli Cemetery, Tivoli, Refugio County, Texas; m. 1 June 1904 Arneckeville) and Caroline "Lena" Justine Elizabeth Schorlemmer, nee Koehler (b. 15 May 1883 Arneckeville; d. 16 September 1946 San Antonio, Bexar County, Texas; bur. Tivoli Cemetery, Tivoli, Valtin Charles Schorlemmer died on 3 June 1988 in Terrell, Kaufman County, Texas, and was buried in Oakland Cemetery in Terrell.

On 7 May 1905 Valtin Charles Schorlemmer was baptized in Zion Lutheran Church in Arneckeville and was given the baptismal name Valentin Carl. His baptismal sponsors were Friedrich Koehler, Valentin Koehler, and Carl Schorlemmer. At the time that the Schorlemmer family moved to Tivoli, there was no Lutheran Church there, and the family thus attended the Presbyterian Church. Valtin Charles Schorlemmer began attending the Christian Disciples churches with his wife, and he was baptized, by immersion, in the Christian Church in Long Beach, California, on 12 April 1942.

On 28 June 1929 in Waxahachie, Ellis County, Texas, Valtin Charles Schorlemmer married Roma Elisabeth Dobson, daughter of Hugh H. Dobson and Bettie Pearl Dobson, nee Moore. Elisabeth Schorlemmer was born on 5 August 1907 in Waxahachie. One child was born to the marriage of Valtin Charles and Elisabeth Schorlemmer: Valtin Charles Schorlemmer, Jr. (b. 30 March 1932 Waxahachie; m. 2 May 1969 Dallas, Dallas County, Texas, to Pattye Sue Lawrence).

Valtin Charles Schorlemmer graduated from Cuero High School, Cuero, DeWitt County, in 1922. After his graduation from the University of Texas in 1926 with a B.B.A. in accounting, he worked first as a junior accountant and then as a senior accountant for Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company, a public accounting firm in Dallas, where he remained for about three years.

Valtin Charles Schorlemmer entered the aviation industry in 1929 when he joined Southern Air Transport, Inc., a company which operated flying schools and several airlines throughout Texas and the southwestern states. He first served this company in the position of assistant treasurer. Southern Air Transport was subsequently bought by American Airways (now American Airlines), then a subsidiary of Aviation Manufacturing Corporation. In 1934, when the air mail contracts were cancelled, he left American Airways to become assistant treasurer of Aviation Manufacturing Corporation and was later made treasurer of that organization.

From September 1938 until November 1939, Valtin Charles Schorlemmer was comptroller of Vultee Aircraft Division of Aviation Manufacturing Corporation. When the new Vultee Aircraft, Inc. was organized, he became vicepresident in charge of finance. After the merger of Vultee and Consolidated in 1943, he became comptroller and director for Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation from 1943 until December of 1945, at which time he was named vice-president in charge of finance. In 1946, when Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation acquired Hall-Scott Motor Car Company, he was also named vice president of Hall-Scott. He resigned from Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation in May of 1948 for health reasons, but remained with the company as a consultant until his appointment as assistant to the president. Valtin Charles Schorlemmer was elected secretary and treasurer of this company effective 1 August 1949, at which time he was assigned responsibility for coordination of corporation activities relating to contracts, as well as functional authority over the Fort Worth and San Diego contracts departments. In addition, the Washington office and the Dayton office reported to him. In 1950 he returned to work for a while in Fort Worth; he then farmed and made some renegotiations for the Air Force. In August of 1955 he was employed by American Bosch ARMA in Long Island, New York. He remained there as vicepresident in charge of finance until 1964, at which time he retired. In retirement, he and his wife lived first in Denton, Denton County, Texas, and then in Terrell.

SCHORLEMMER, WILHELM HEINRICH

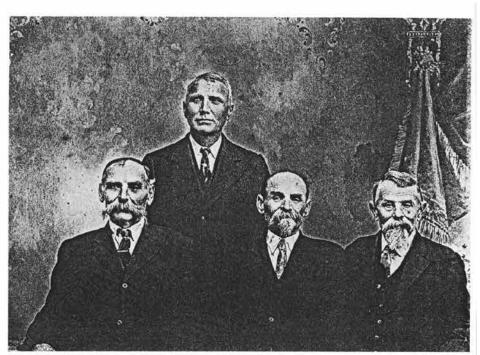

Wilhelm Schorlemer

Eva Schorlemer

The Hessian carriers of the name Schorlemmer are traceable to the belt and buckle maker. Franz Nikolaus Schorlemmer (born ca. May 14, 1725; died April 14, 1874 at Rosenthal bei Peine in Niederschsen, Germany; married #1 June 3, 1762 in Rosenthal to Elisabeth Fran(c)ken; married second, July 3, 1766 in Rosenthal to Anna Elisabeth Ludgerdings). His only son, Johann Christian Friedrich August Schorlemmer came to Darmstadt, Darmstadt District, Province of Starkenburg, Grand Duchy of Hessen, Germany, in 1785 and there practiced his father's calling. From the latter's two marriages came thirteen children; the youngest son, Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer, established the Schorlemmer line in Texas.

Theophil, Wilhelm Carl, Heinrich Carl, and Johann Charles "Carl", Schorlemmer Brothers.

Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer was born on April 8, 1812 in Darmstadt. He was the son of Johann Christian Friedrich August Schorlemmer, (born March 7, 1763 in Rosenthal beine; died March 31, 1825 in Darmstadt; married #1 March 11, 1790 in Darmstadt to Johannette Elisabethe Roth; married #2 August 25, 1799 in Darmstadt) and Anna Margarethe Elisabethe Schorlemmer, nee Roth (born March 19, 1772 in Darmstadt; died February 4, 1849 in Darmstadt). Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer died on August 23, 1898 in Meyersville, DeWitt County, Texas and was buried in St. John Lutheran Cemetery in Meyersville.

On October 6, 1844, in Darmstadt, Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer married Elisabeth Friederike Sperb, daughter of the master locksmith, Johann Georg Sperb and Maria Margarethe Sperb, nee Spengler. Elisabeth Friederike Schorlemmer was born on October 13, 1825 in Darmstadt and died there on May 28, 1846. In Darmstadt, on December 6, 1846, Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer then married Eva Sophie Reinhardt (born September 11, 1827 in Darmstadt; died October 4, 1900 in Meyersville, Texas; buried at St. John Lutheran Church in Meyersville) daughter of the master roofer, Karl Heinrich Reinhardt and Anna Margarethe Reinhardt, nee Armheim.

The marriage of Wilhelm and Elisabeth Schorlemmer produced one child; Johann Carl "Charles" Schorlemmer who was born November 11, 1845 in Darmstadt and died February 26, 1935 in Arneckeville, Texas. He is buried at Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville. He married Caroline Hartmann on August 17, 1871 in Meyersville.

A few months after Wilhelm and Eva married, her brother, Louis Reinhardt, went to Texas in April of 1847. That same year on October 21, 1847, their first child was born, Anna Margarethe Caroline Schorlemmer.

The stories of Texas must have interested Wilhalm because in the summer of 1848, Wilhelm, Eva, Johann, Anna, Eva's mother, Anna Margarethe Reinhardt, Eva's brother Jacob and two sisters Henrietta and Marie left for Texas.

They landed in Galveston, from Antwerp, on the Louis on November 20, 1848. In Galveston they transferred to smaller boats for the trip to Indianola, Texas. Their daughter, Wilhelmina, was born in Indianola on January 14, 1849. In February, it is recorded that Margarethe Reinhardt purchased land. (All creeks from Clinton in DeWitt County, to Goliad were named by the distance they were from Clinton). Her land was along the Five Mile Coletto Creek. Wilhelm's land was to the east of it. This area is made up of the G.W. Brooks Survey, G.W. Brooks sold land to the first settlers of the area. Families who settled were: Gustav Schrade, Charles Lang, August Holzapfel, Louis Reinhardt, Adolph Rabke, Julius Schorre, Robert Kleberg, Margaret Reinhardt and Wilhelm Schorlemmer. The Community was first known as the Latin Settlement because these early settlers had studied Latin in their native country. Later, this area became the Five Mile Commu-

Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer filed his Declaration of Intent to become a United States citizen in DeWitt County on October 25, 1852. He was later granted citizenship.

Wilhelm was a farmer and a tinner. He made such things as animal traps, weather vanes, cookie cutters and anything that could be made from tin.

On December 24, 1850, Heinrich Carl was born to the Schorlemmers. He married Emmalina Franke in Meyersville in 1870. Heinrich C. died August 12, 1939 in Meyersville. The Schorlemmer's fourth child was Theophil Carl who was born June 20, 1854 in Meyersville. In May 1883 he married Maria Caroline Dreier in Meyersville. Then he married a second time to Dorothea Augusta Schuessler in July 1895 in Mason, Texas. He died December 28, 1928 in Llano, Texas. The fifth Schorlemmer child was Sophia Schorlemmer who was born October 20, 1857 at Meyersville. She married first, Johann Valentin Koehler in DeWitt County in 1895. She married second October 20, 1907, Carl A. Leuschner in DeWitt County. Sophia died August 21, 1922 in Victoria, Texas. She is buried at Zion Lutheran Cemetery at Arneckeville, Texas. Child number six was Caroline Schorlemmer who was born April 7, 1859 in Meyersville and died December 26, 1867 in Meyersville. The seventh child of the Schorlemmers was Wilhelm Carl born November 25, 1861 in Meyersville and married Auguste Schaefer on October 6, 1887 also, in Meyersville. He died April 23, 1946 in Yorktown, Texas. The last child was Maria Schorlemmer born August 4, 1865 in Meyersville and died August 11, 1866.

Wilhelm was 49 years old when he joined the Coletto Guards Reserve Co. as a private. The Company was organized by Captain Robert Kleberg. Johann wanted to join the army but his parents said no, so eager to help, he started to haul freight from Mexico. Six months before the war ended, he joined the 32nd Cavalry, Co. G and served under Captain Blair.

Caroline and Anna Schorlemmer died before they reached adulthood and are buried with Maria in the St. John Lutheran Cemetery in Meyersville.

A family tradition was begun many years ago by Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer. The story goes that he gave a ring to his first wife when they married. His wish was that the ring be given to the first male child of each generation with a male heir so that the ring would stay with an heir having the name Schorlemmer. As a result, the ring went from Wilhelm Heinrich to his son, Johann Carl, to Louis F., to Valtin Charles, Sr., to Valtin Charles, Jr. It is now in the possession of Lester Charles Schorlemmer who was born December 7, 1970 in Dallas, Texas. He is a great-great-grand-son of Wilhelm Heinrich Schorlemmer.

This story was combined from research done by Valtin Charles Schorlemmer and Lornette Dukes. Written by Beverly Boehl and Joyce Manning.

SCHORRE, ALBERT JULIUS

Albert Schorre House built 1893

Albert Julius Schorre (1860-1900), son of Julius August Christian and Sophia Catherine Wilhemenia Baldewin Schorre stayed on the Five Mile Coleto farm after the death of his parents. He married Amelia Schrade (1864-1938) from the Arneckeville area. They had three children: William Gus Schorre (1887-1972) who married Gertrude Pauline Schendel (1885 – living at this time); Carl Albert Schorre (1897-1979) married Lillian Semmler; and Lulu Schorre (1884-1960) who married Edward Sasse.

Albert Julius was a very ambitious man who provided well for his family. He had beautiful orchards and kept his land and cattle in top condition. He built a two story house for his wife and three children.

Unfortunately, he fell off his horse and, with other complications, died at a young age of forty. Amelia was left with three young children and managed as best as she knew how for some years. Molly, as she was known by friends and relatives, was a stubborn and proud person, but her grandchildren remember her kindness.

SCHORRE, JULIUS AUGUST CHRISTIAN

Remains of Log Cabin built Julius August Schorre in 1886-87.

In 1846 Julius August Christian Schorre (1825-1880), son of August Christian Schorre of Dusseldorf left Kassel, Germany to board the ship Fredich at Bremen. He was a part of the "Verein zum Schutze deutscher Einwanderer in Texas" known to Germans in Europe and Texas by its shorter name "Verein." After arriving in Galveston, Texas, he proceeded to DeWitt County where he purchased land over a period of years from the John York estate, Ottovon Roeder survey, and the John Brook league. This land was located north of the Five Mile Coleto Creek.

In 1849, after building a log cabin and accumulating some hand made furniture, he returned to Germany to marry Sophia Catherine Wilhemenia Baldewin (1826-1892). Since Sophia came from a family of some means, it is suspected that her parents provided a great deal of the money for the land in Texas. When they returned to Texas, they were quite successful in farming and ranching. By 1872, they had accumulated 670 acres of land. They also had eight children: 1) Carolina Elenore (1852-1930's) married Fritz Grothaus; 2) Fritz August (1854-1927) married Emma Augusta Kleinecke; 3) Herman C. (1853-1870) died at 17 of a snake bite; 4) Otto and 5) William (twins) died as infants (1857-1857); 6) Albert Julius (1860-1900) married Amelia Schrade; 7) Julia Sophia (1862-1882) married William Wagner.

In June 1861, Julius enlisted in the Texas militia as a private in the Coleta Guards Reserve Company DeWitt County under the command of Captain Robert Kleberg.

Julius and Sophia are buried in the Schorre cemetery. Two more generations of Schorres lived on the land they developed.

SCHORRE, WILLIAM GUSTAV

Schorre, William and Gertrude (Schendel)

William Gustave (1887-1972), oldest son of Albert Julius and Amelia Schrade Schorre, was born and lived on the Five Mile Coleto farm most of his life. He attended the Five Mile School, Nash's Academy in Cuero, and one year at St. Edward's College in Austin. As his father died at an early age, he returned to the farm to help his mother. He was a kind hearted, cheerful man who had many friends. In 1908 he married Gertrude Pauline Schendel, (1885 almost 104 at this date) who was born in Posen, Germany and came to America with her family in 1892. After living in San Antonio a short time, the family moved to Cuero. She graduated from the nursing school at Salome Hospital. After marriage to William Schorre, she came to live on a farm for her first time. They weathered some hard times during their 64 years of marriage. There were some crop failures, droughts and the 1930's depression years. They also reared six children: 1)Albert Wilford (1909-1985) married Mabel Flournoy; 2) Hilton Elmore (1911-1970) married Marion Price; 3) Fermor August (1913-) married Lois Caddeus; 4)Arlene Ruth (1916-) married John Herman Corner; 5) William Louis (1921-) married Thelma Swift; 6) Elywin Ferris (1926-—) married Anne Pearson and Ann Stevens Stubbs.

In spite of set backs, this family enjoyed simple things in life at the W.O.W. Hall community get-togethers, such as picnics, parties and dances. The Ratcliffe School was also an activity center and not to be forgotten, the Saturdays when they drove to Cuero in the Mode T to get a few needed supplies.

In 1970, William and Gertrude retired to live in Cuero. In 1971 they sold the farm, which ended 125 years of Schorres living on the Coleto Creek farm.

Of interest for the modern generation is an April 5, 1900 article in the Cuero Star describing the ceremony of unveiling the gray, granite in the Cuero Star describing the ceremony of unveiling the gray, granite monument erected to the memory of the late Sovereign Gustav Schrade. Sovereign Thomas M. Stell Woodmen of the World orator eulogized the unveiling in nearly 900 words. The following condensation is an attempt to capture the ambience of the solemn occasion.

"Today we pay the last sad tribute . . .The rearing of this marble shaft redeems the pledge made by us to this brother . . . From the earliest dawn of history . . . there is implanted in the breast of every human creature a desire to defend its offspring . . . History teems with battles fought in defense of home . . . On the roll of fame are the names of thousands of heroes who were bourne to death on the red tide of War . . . where ever the Woodmen's monument stands, it marks the spot where reposes one of life's heroes, one of those heroes sleeps here. He struggled with misfortunes and affliction and fought hard with the grim monster death for the sake of his wife and children . . . It has been the custom of all people, of all ages to memorialize their dead . . . by erecting monuments of stone, that material being more nearly indestructible . . . We know from history that immense mausoleums and stupendous monuments erected by the ancients, have disappeared from the earth forever. The location of the Tower of Babel . . . is marked only by tradition. Even the Pillar of Salt . . . is purely legendary. The pyramids of Egypt . . . so marred and scarred by wearing hands of time . . . will in the coming ages topple into the Black Sea of Oblivion. Oh, who should the spirit of mortals be proud? It is written all over this terrestrial ball . . Passing away. And, the work of living and dying and writing epitaphs goes on "till man at last like his fathers gray writes in his own dust, passing away."

SCHROEDER, ADOLPH AND ANNA FAMILY

Adolph Carl Schroeder was born Feb. 16, 1898 in Wied, Texas, to Heinrich Friederich Adolph and Emma Wunderlich Schroeder. Adolph was one of nine children. The Schroeder family later moved to the Gruenau Community, near Yorktown, Texas. After he finished public school, Adolph attended a business college in San Antonio, Texas.

On Sept. 28, 1921, Adolph married Anna Ella Kimmel, known as Annie, in Yorktown. Annie was born to Paul and Olga Ladewig Kimmel on June 17, 1903 on a farm near Yorktown. Annie tells a family anecdote about a run-in her father had with John Wesley Hardin, the famous outlaw known as Wes to the folks in DeWitt County at that time. As the story goes, Paul Kimmel was in charge of closing the Gruenau Dance Hall at night. He customarily took the proceeds from the dance home with him in a wagon. Wes Hardin apparently knew this, and waited to ambush Paul on his usual route home. However, Paul took a different route home that night because it had rained recently, and the normal road was too muddy. When Wes realized his mistake, he hurried to the Kimmel's house. Paul arrived there first, however, and shouted to his wife Olga to bring the gun. Wes then left hurriedly without the hoped-for booty.

Adolph and Annie lived at Gruenau during the first year of their marriage. After that, they moved to Yorktown where they stayed for the rest of their lives. Adolph worked for many years as cashier of the First State Bank. He founded the Yorktown Tractor Company and was president of the Yorktown Warehouse Company.

Adolph was always active in community and civic affairs. In the 1950's he served as alderman, and later as mayor, of Yorktown. He was director, and later president, of the Yorktown Chamber of Commerce. He contributed to the running of the Little World's Fair and was a long-time member of the Yorktown Fire Department. Adolph was also deeply interested in the welfare of rural areas, and was active with several farm organizations. He served for several years as the president of the local Hermann Sons Lodge. Adolph also served as a council member of the St. Paul Lutheran Church of Yorktown, where he and Annie were long-time members. For more than fifty years, Adolph was a member of the Gruenau T.&S. Verein, a German club devoted to shooting and other athletic and sporting events. He served as the club's secretary for many years. He was also a member of the Garfield Shooting Club.

One of Adolph's favorite pastimes was the playing of Skat, a German card game. He was also interested in inventions. In the 1930's he invented a concrete culvert, the construction of which he supervised. He donated the use of these culverts to the city of Yorktown, and several are still in use at various intersections around the town. Adolph died on July 1, 1976.

Adolph and Annie had three children, all sons. Adolph III was born on June 25, 1922, but died the following day. Annie herself almost died at this time from blood poisoning. She recovered, however, and on Jan. 7, 1926, James Elliot was born in Yorktown. Annie still lives in Yorktown.

Jimmy, as he is called, married Jo Ann Schlinke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Schlinke of Weesatche, on Jan. 25, 1958 in Yorktown. The couple later divorced, and Jimmy married Freddie Mann on June 27, 1968 in Richmond, Texas. Freddie was born in Little Rock, Arkansas, on Oct. 8, 1925. She had one son, Jay Mann, from a previous marriage. Jay was born July 15, 1959, and was subsequently adopted by Jimmy. The family lives in Houston, where Jimmy is employed as a service manager for an automobile dealership. Jay Adolph and Annie's last child, Arlon Clifford, called "Shrimp", was born on June 27, 1931, in Yorktown. He married Clydelle Jacob on Dec. 26, 1954 in San Antonio, Texas. Clydelle is the daughter of Robert and Clydelle Lantrip Jacob of Yorktown. Shrimp and Clydelle had three children — Stuart Lee, born Nov. 2, 1956; Arlene, born Sept. 29, 1959; and Norma, born Aug. 16, 1961. Shrimp died on June 12, 1982 in Yorktown. Further details of the Schroeder and Jacob family histories are told in separate stories.

SCHROETER, CHRISTIAN

In May 1858, a sailing vessel set forth from either Bremen or Hamburg, Germany, and on board was a family leaving the Deutschland, their home for generations. They were coming to America to make a new life for themselves. The family's name was Schroeter and consisted of the father and mother, Christian and Wilhelmine Henriette Mueller Schroeter, and the children: Johann Friederich, Friedrich Christian Aguste, Gottlieb, Wilhelmine, and Franz Albert. I have always understood there was a daughter Louisa, but I could not verify by records. All had been confirmed in the Lutheran faith in Germany.

In late May or early June of 1858, the vessel docked at Galveston, TX, and the immigrant family made their way to the Yorktown area where they established a home and engaged in farming. Within a few months the father died and was buried in Yorktown Lutheran ceme-

Coming over, there was a terrible storm and my grandfather Fred had been told that if one would lash himself to something on deck and ride out the storm he would not become seasick and that is what he did. At one time there was a period of calm weather with no wind blowing and the ship just sat on the sea during some very hot weather.

The family came to America to avoid compulsory military education that was in effect in Germany at the time. They left in May – Johann Friedrich would have been 21 on June

Wilhelmine Heinriette (Mueller) Schroeter -

13, and therefore ready for army training. The family sold their house and contents except their clothing and some bedding and walked out. They were living in or near Medewitz, Prussia, at this time. They traveled by night and stopped over at designated places during the day to avoid detection by the military forces as it was quite common for those eligible for military education to leave the country. Gottlieb had his 14th birthday on the ship.

When the Civil War began Fred and Gottlieb were drafted into the Confederate Army. They were captured by the Union and were freed. Gottlieb (later called John) became a member of the Union Army and was a Corporal in Co. D 16th IL Calvery and served from 1863-1865. After he was mustered out at Springfield, IL, he worked at a brewery at Jimtown (now Riverton), IL for awhile. He and Fred both worked in the Illiopolis, IL area. John later worked for a farmer named William Rae and later married the daughter, Malissa in 1872. They had eleven children, three dying in infancy.

John and Malissa lived in IL for awhile and then moved to Langdon, MO, where John died on Jan. 6, 1905. Later the rest of the family moved to Buffalo, Wyoming, and became ranchers. The spelling of Schroeter of this family was changed to Schrater. The other families kept the original spelling. Their children were: Fannie (1873-1967), Albert William (1874-1939), Mary (1876-1951), Francis (Frank) (1878-1968), Albert Rae (1880-1935), Baby Boy (1884-1884), Baby Girl (1885-1885), Fred (1880-1940). Malissa (1889-?), Johnnie (1892-1893), and another infant.

My grandfather Fred was married in Springfield, Illinois on September 14, 1865, to Mrs. Mary Dickerson Cooley, a widow with two children, James and Eliza Cooley. At the time of their marriage his mother Wilhelmine from Yorktown, Texas was in Springfield, and was a witness to the marriage. They came to Lewis County, Missouri where they bought land and established a home. Soon his mother came and lived with them for several years, but later returned to IL and lived with John and his family for about 16 years. She then returned to Texas and lived with a half-sister until her death in 1889. She, too, was buried in the Yorktown Lutheran Cemetery by her husband.

Fred and Mary Schroeter's children: Minnie Ellen (1867-1934), Frank Albert (1868-1961), Mary Katherine (1872-1946), Frederick William (1874-1944), John David (1877-1886), Johanna Fredericke (1884-1975).

Of the remaining children of Christian Auguste and Wilhelmine Mueller Schroeter: Franz Albert was killed when still a lad when he fell from a wagon load of cotton; Friedrich Christian married in Texas to (1) Henriette Krushel and they had six children: Minnie, Henry, Louise, Louis, Otto, and Herman. Henriette died in 1882 and Friedrich Christian married (2) Alvina Machost and had: Christian, Jr., Paul, Herbert, Amanda, Lillie, Ernest, and Anton.

Wilhelmine married a Mr. Stephen and had 2 children: Fred and Mary. One of John Schrater's daughters told me that Louisa, a daughter of Christian and Wilhelmine died in 1884 in Texas.

Neither John nor Fred attended school in America but both spoke English quite well and John was an excellent penman. Fred remained a Lutheran but John joined the Christian Church in Illiopolis, IL. The family seemed to keep in touch as I know John was at his brother's in MO when he became naturalized on June 22, 1886. Fred became an American citizen on May 7, 1873. My grandfather Fred and wife Mary made one trip to TX to see the family and some of Fred's family visited their Uncle John at Langdon, MO. My father Fred and my mother Ethel and I made trips in 1936 and 1937 to visit his cousins in Wyoming, and his brother Frank in Texas.

Fred and Mary's son Frank Albert (third generation) with his wife Rose and son Paulus moved to Washburn, Texas, around 1908, where he became a rancher. Sometime later he moved to near Dumas, Texas, in Moore County and still continued ranching. His son Paulus became a well-known wheat farmer and had oil and gas interest there.

This information was obtained from Luthern Church records in Germany, from family Bible records, from family stories told over the years and some from the descendants of Christian Schroeter who still lived in Texas. I had some communication with the wife of Harlan Schroeter of Victoria, Texas, and a George Schroeter of Goliad, Texas.

SCHUENEMANN, KARL FAMILY

Karl Schuenemann was born 7 Feb. 1836 in the province of Pomerania, Germany. He married Hermine Kluge in Germany sometime before 1861. Karl had always had a great desire to travel, so in the year of 1883, he decided to leave his native land and bring his family to America. They left the port of Bremen on the ship Weser and arrived at Galveston on 29 Sept., 1883. Four daughters and two sons made the voyage with their parents.

The Schuenemann family's first home was established in Goliad County, Texas. In a storm that struck the area in August 1886, a portion of their home, separated by a "dog run" was completely destroyed. The mother, Hermine, with her small baby, and a relative were killed in the destruction. Family members relate that all three are buried in a common grave in Weesatche Cemetery in Weesatche, Texas. One of the daughters, Martha, who was about 11 at the time of the tragedy, told a story to her children, of the family butter churn flying through the air and the rest of the family laughing about it, not knowing of the destruction and loss of family on the other side of the house.

Children of Karl and Hermine Schuenemann were:

Emma Emalie was born 4 May, 1861 in Germany. She married Robert Lundschen in DeWitt County on 22 Nov., 1885. (see George Lundschen related story).

Bertha was born 4 Dec., 1867 in Zydowa, Posen, Germany. She married Andreas Koenig in DeWitt County on 23 Dec., 1888. They lived on a farm near Weesatche, Texas. Thirteen children were born to this union and 12 lived to maturity. Bertha died 31 Aug., 1951 and Andreas died 13 Apr., 1950. They are buried in the Weesatche Cemetery, Weesatche, Texas.

Ernest Gustav born 11 Aug., 1869 in Posen, Germany. He married Mrs. Effie Wason in Galveston, Texas on 12 Nov., 1918. This couple obtained a divorce on 5 Apr., 1920 in Galveston. Ernest died 18 Jan. 1924 and is buried at Mustang Lutheran Cemetery, Brazoria Co., Texas.

Herman Gustav born 18 Sept., 1871 in Posen, Germany. He married Bertha Louise Radiche in Yorktown, Texas on 12 Dec., 1897. They were the parents of five children. Herman died 16 Feb., 1946 and Bertha died 30 May, 1956. They are buried in the Alvin Confederate Cemetery, Alvin, Texas.

Martha Ida born 30 Sept., 1875 in (obit. says Dresden, Germany). She married Otto F. Schroeter on 30 Mar., 1890 in Yorktown, Texas. This union was blessed with five children. Martha died 10 Mar., 1849 and Otto died 6 Mar., 1947. They are buried in St. Paul's Cemetery, Yorktown, Texas.

SCHWAB, CHARLES T. F829

Charles T. Schwab.

Assessor of DeWitt County, was a native of DeWitt County and a son of Mr. James H. Schwab, one of the county's old and most respected citizens. For some years Mr. Schwab was identified with mercantile and ginning pursuits in his native community of Hochheim and at Yoakum, being a prominent grocery man and cotton buyer of the latter point, when chosen by the people of this county to fill the position of Tax Assessor.

Mr. Schwab married Miss Mary Eberhardt, a member of an old and honored family of DeWitt County, daughter of Charles Theophilus Eberhardt and Carolina Reinhardt. Charles Schwab and Mary (Eberhardt) Schwab had six children: 1) Irma Schwab, 2) Leon Schwab, 3) Gladys Schwab, 4) Meta Schwab, 5) Edwin Schwab, and 6) Charles Schwab.

SCHWAB, JAMES AND MARTHA HOCH

James H. Schwab

Martha, the oldest daughter of Valentine Hoch and Elisabeth Pabst, was born March 3, 1838 in Obershonau, Germany. She had emigrated to Texas with her parents in 1845 and was eighteen years old when she met a young German immigrant wagonmaster who had come to Texas about five years earlier. James Hyacinthus Schwab was born in Marbach, near the town of Fulda, Kurhessen, August 17, 1833. He was reportedly enrolled in the Seminary studying for the priesthood when he decided to follow his older brother Eugene, to Texas. He arrived in Galveston in December 1851 and settled near Round Rock, Texas. Another brother, Theobald Schwab and several more family members emigrated to Texas a year or so later.

James Schwab was employed by a Stage and Freight line that ran between Indianola and Austin. One can only speculate that he met Martha Hoch on one of these regular trips. James Schwab, then 23 years old and 18 year old Martha Hoch were married in August, 1856. For a while, James and Martha lived in Round Rock, but soon moved to Dutchtown (Hochheim) where James operated a mill and cotton gin. Faint remnants of this gin can still be found in the small pasture in front of the James Schwab home. James also owned a general merchandise store which became a main stagecoach stop for stages between the port city of Indianola and Round Rock. Schwab was appointed postmaster of Hochheim in 1869 but had to postpone this duty several months until he obtained his citizenship. His younger brother, Theobald Schwab served as temporary postmaster. Catholic by birth, Schwab became a Mason and eventually a Knight Templar. He was an organizer of the Hochheim Prairie Mutual Fire and Storm Insurance Association and served as the first President.

James Schwab and Martha Hoch had twelve children. They were: John W. Schwab (1857) married Mollie Crawford; Martha (1859) married John Cunningham; Mary (1859) married E.W. Morris; James Schwab (1864) single; Joseph D. (1869) married Ida Jacobs; Edward H. (1871) married Haidee Eckhardt; Samuel V. (1873) married Vidalia McCullough; Emma (1874) married Brown; Cora (18?) married John Morgan; Lillie (1875) married Robert Steen and Henry Parks; Rosa (1866) married Oscar Bellamy; Charles, married Mary Eberhart. The first three children of James and Martha Schwab were born in the Valentine Hoch home. The last children were born in the fine home that Valentine Hoch, Martha's father, helped build for them.

The James Schwab home at Hochheim was begun in 1857 by Valentine Hoch and finished several years later. The large two story white house on a hill overlooking the Guadalupe River Valley from Hochheim, is now owned by a granddaughter of Emma Hoch and J.W. Boothe.

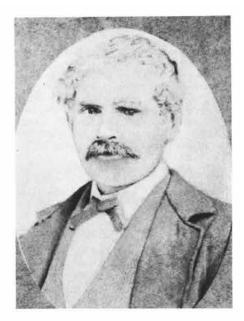

After the death of his wife, Martha Hoch Schwab, James married a second time to Mary Ann Jacobs, a widow who had six children. James eventually moved to Yoakum and died there in 1917. Martha Hoch Schwab died in 1884. They are buried in Yoakum, Texas.

SCHWAB, JAMES H.

F83

A prominent farmer of DeWitt County and one of the pioneers of Hochheim was born in Germany in 1833, and received a practical education there. He came to Texas and located in this county in 1849, and at once turned his attention to farming. He made his first purchase of land on the Guadalupe river in 1860. He continued the peaceful occupation of the agriculturist until 1862 when he enlisted in the Confederate cause, joining Waul's Legion and served in Mississippi. After the fall of Vicksburg he returned to Hochheim and in 1866 engaged in merchandising, being one of the founders of the village of Hochheim. In 1880 he purchased a cotton gin, which he operated successfully in Yoakum, but afterwards returned to Hochheim. Mr. Schwab was married to Miss Martha Hoch, who bore him twelve children. They were married in 1860. Martha died in 1883. Five years later he was married

SCULL, SARAH JANE "SAL" NEE (NEWMAN), F832

"Sarah Scull", called "Sal", was enumerated on the 1850 DeWitt County Census. She became a gun-toting, pants-wearing, horse-trading, swearing woman of the south Texas frontier. She was born in the North in 1817 to Rachel Rabb and Joseph Newman. Her grandfather, William Rabb, a miller, brought his children and grandchildren (and six-year-old Sal), to the present town of LaGrange in Austin's Colony, where he received the largest grant of land, on the promise to build a gristmill and sawmill on the Colorado. Two of the Rabb sons had come ahead of the family and built a large house for the group before their arrival in 1823. After the family came, they found that Indians prowled around at night and stole what they hadn't begged in the daytime.

In one early tale of the frontier, an enterprising Indian slipped his feet in the space under the Newman's cabin door, to lift it off its hinges; and Sal's smother chopped his toes off with an axe. The continued theft of corn and horses forced postponement of the building of the mill until the 1830's, as the family had to move further down on the Colorado to a more settled area. In the summer of 1824 Joseph Newman and two of the Rabb sons received titles to their grants at the Egypt settlement, upriver from Wharton.

Sal's father died when she was fourteen (1831). On September 25, 1833, she was living in DeWitt's Colony and registered her brand as her father's "JN", the brand on the cattle she had inherited; and she recorded it at Gonzales as "Sarah Newman, wife of Jesse Robinson' and signed "Sarah Newman, her X mark". They may have had a marriage bond to be formalized later (performed and recorded in Colorado County in 1838); but at this time Sal and Jesse were living on his land grant on the San Marcos River above Gonzales.

Jesse could be called a professional soldier. He served in the early Ranger company for Austin's Colony in 1823, fought heroically at San Jacinto (killing the cannoneer in the center of Santa Anna's line, it is said), was in a spy company of volunteers in 1841, and was in the Woll campaign in 1842. He is buried in Live Oak County.

Sal and Jesse had two children. While Jesse was fighting at San Jacinto, Sal fled with little Nancy in the Runaway Scrape. Three years later they had a son, Alfred. In 1843 Jesse sued for divorce and Sal made a cross complaint. All property was divided equally, but no decision was made about child custody. Both parents were independent, and both wanted the children. It is said that Sal placed the children in a convent school in New Orleans, Jesse moved them to another school, Sal moved them back; but eventually both children were living near their mother in south Texas. Eleven days after her divorce from Jesse, Sal married George C. Scull, a gunsmith, and they lived on her land near Egypt. In 1844 they sold her inherited land and all of his tools. In 1849 Sal declared she was a "single woman, husband deceased" (but he put his mark on a legal document in northeast Texas in 1853). Though she had three other husbands, she was known as Sal

In 1852 Sal settled on a dependable source of water at Banquette, about twenty miles west of Corpus Christi, a mid-point watering place on the old Camino Real from Matamorus to Goliad and beyond. "Beyond" became Alleyton, near present Columbus, where during the Civil War, the hug-the-coast-road or "Cotton Road" met the railroad from Houston. During the fifties, Sal roamed the Texas frontier, travelling alone, with only her Mexican vaqueros, driving herds of horses. She acquired herds of as many as one hundred fifty horses as far south as Mexico, and traded them all along the Gulf coast to New Orleans. She was a crack shot with the two pistols she wore holstered in a wide leather belt.

Sal married John Doyle in 1852. (It is rumored she killed one of her husbands, either Scull or Doyle, as both disappear from records.) On the Nueces County tax roll of 1854 she is Sarah Doyle with thirty-three horses, fourteen cattle, four yoke of oxen, and a wagon. Her brand, recorded there the previous year, was the Flying J. When Sal bought horses, she paid for them in gold, carried in a nosebag hanging from her saddle horn.

Isaiah Wadkins, Sal's four husband, was found guilty of adultery as charged, so she was granted a divorce after 2 years of marriage. In December 1860, she had at least a common-law marriage with a young, indolent man in his twenties, Christoph Horsdorff.

During the Civil War, Sally was an important transporter of Southern cotton into Mexico on the "Cotton Road", so-called because of the strands of cotton lining the old highway. With Southern ports blockaded, cotton could be shipped to England's textile mills on Mexican ships. On the backhaul came government stores and military supplies from Europe up to the railroad junction at Alleyton, by wagontrain.

Sal is believed to be buried near El Paso, dead at age ninety-one.

SEEKAMP, CRAIG MORGAN

F833

Craig Morgan Seekamp was born in Halletsville, Texas on October 12, 1953 to Charles and Joyce Seekamp of Yoakum. He attended Yoakum schools and graduated from Yoakum High School in 1971. He attended Victoria College. He performed in the Gaslight Theatre in Shiner playing dual parts in "Arsenic and old Lace" and the lead male role in "Wait Until Dark". He is a fireman for the cuero Volunteer Fire Department, and he owns and operates Trax Heavy Equipment.

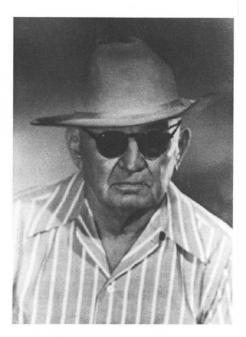

Craig married Helen John Buenger of Cuero on January 9, 1982. They are blessed with two sons: Craig Morgan Seekamp II (3-30-83) and Trevor John Seekamp (2-17-87). The family also includes a step-son, Shelton Buenger.

Craig's family was no stranger to early Texas history. His great-great grandmother was Sarah B. Dodson, the Betsy Ross of Texas. The first Constitutional Convention of Texas met at Washington on the Brazos, on March 1st, 1836. Two out of the three of the delegates were under 40 years old, and all had been elected for the express purpose of declaring the independence of Texas from Mexico and forming a government for the new republic. Mindful of the constant danger from the advancing Mexican army, no one knew when they all might have to leave to join the fight. On the opening day, a norther blew through and the temperature inside the meeting hall was thirty-three degrees. Historians record that the flag flying over the hall was designed and made by Sarah Dodson. Recognized as the first "Lone Star" flag, she had originally created it for husband, Archelaus, a member of the Robinson Company of Army Volunteers formed in September, 1835, at Harrisburg, Texas. After serving at Gonzales, this company marched under the Dodson flag to San Antonio to lay siege to the Alamo. Like practically all the Texas Volunteers, these men returned to their homes to prepare for the winter after San Antonio had been taken from the Mexicans, not realizing the strength of the Mexican reinforcements invading Texas. After the Mexicans crushed the remaining forces at the Alamo and massacred the Texans at Goliad, the Robinson Company was assigned to protect the retreating civilians. This exodus was known as the "Run-away Scrape". Plagued by measles, whooping cough and with practically no provisions, the Texans made their way through the swamps and marshes on foot and by ox cart. Nearly everything was soaked by the torrents of rain and flooded streams. On April 21st, the refugees could hear the cannon fire of the Battle of San Jacinto, and doubled their pace, fearing the worst. A courier on horseback from Sam Houston caught up with the convoy, and the families of Texans learned of the thrilling victory at San Jacinto.

SEEKAMP, HERMAN "SOOKY"

Herman "Sooky" Seekamp

Born on April 26, 1877 and reared on a farm near Flatonia, Herman "Sooky" Seekamp (he acquired the nickname "Sooky" from his sisters because when he went to milk the cows he would call Soo-Cow) had a good comprehension of the needs of the farmer and the psychology of a townsman. He went up the trail as a young fellow and the ideas of the old trail drivers colored his early thinking.

A veteran of the Spanish-American War, Troop H 1st Calvary, U.S. Vol., he mustered in April 28, 1898 and mustered out November 14, 1898. He came to Yoakum in 1907 as a brakeman on the SAAP Railroad. He married Miss Nell Craig Morgan. Being a brakeman for seven years gave him an idea as to the necessity for good roads throughout the county. He saw the size of the country and received another slant on the needs for roads as communication between areas.

His fifteen years as a horse trader with his own big horse and mule barn made him known far and wide to townsmen and country people alike for his reliability. (Old timers say he was one "honest horse-trader".) Thus he laid the foundations for his political career. Running against two opponents, he won his first election well in the lead.

The precinct was $8,000 in debt. Roads and bridges were in deplorable condition. In fact, there were little more than trails in part of his domain. Farms were eroded and the rights-of-way were worse. There were "dips" for culverts and ancient wooden or rusty steel bridges. Equipment was practically nothing, consisting of an old grader, and a couple of trucks which were sheltered in the horse and mule barn until a new county warehouse could be constructed.

Soon after he took office, a road district was formed and $75,000 in bonds were deposited in the bank. Then the bank failed and the money was gone. The depression was on, but "Sooky" stayed with the job.

Reading, studying, never hesitant to ask questions of others, always trying a better way of doing things, he pushed on at the problem of getting his county out of the mud.

Highway Division No. 13 Headquarters moved into his precinct. He had been somewhat influential in getting the move. Highway 77 crosses his precinct from North to South. Highway 111 (built through his influence) also cuts across his precinct. These and many other projects are the results of Seekamp's efforts. His precinct could boast of over 40 miles of hard-surfaced roads, with no wooden bridges. He and his crew devised a cattleguard that could have been patented, but he refused to do so preferring to see it popularly used rather than commercialized. They designed and built bridges using one row of central piers that avoided collection of debris at flood time and yet were strong. Many other innovations in construction, maintenance, and financing were introduced which others have copied. In the 24 years he served, he replaced old wooden bridges and culverts with concrete structures, rid the precinct of debt and left the office with a nice balance of $85,688.15 in the county treasury to the credit of his precinct. Also purchased and paid for was road building and other equipment valued at $19,500. This 24 year program was accomplished with only the aid of one small bond issue. This issue provided money for construction of 10 miles of paved road. All of it was paid off.

The new equipment consisted of a large tractor, a small tractor, two maintainers, 15 trucks and a complete "hot shot" outfit including a new warehouse.

Another accomplishment is the Yoakum underpass, which speeds traffic under the Southern Pacific tracks in Yoakum. The structure was formally designated the "Sooky" Seekamp Underpass in his honor. As De Witt County Road Commissioner, he was "the best county commissioner in Texas", who believes in the best roads and a balanced budget.

"Sooky" and Nell were blessed with a son, Charles Seekamp (10-21-10). Charles married Joyce Kopecky of Moulton. Charles was a contractor until his death. Their sons are: Charles Herman, John Frank, Joe Ray, and Craig Morgan.

SEEKAMP, JOHN H.

John H. Seekamp, prominent Cuero businessman and civic leader, was also the operator of the Muti Hotel and familiar in hotel circles throughout the state. He was born in the little city of Flatonia on January 2, 1881, the son of Mr. & Mrs. A.N. Seekamp. He received his preliminary education in the schools of that city and later attended business college in San Antonio.

He was for some time connected with the Santa Fe Railroad and in 1917 became associated with H.C. Zingleman in the operation of the Muti Hotel of Cuero. After several years of residence here he moved to Houston where for four years he operated the Tennyson Hotel. Returning to Cuero, he was once more affiliated with the Muti Hotel before moving to Austin where for five years he operated the Alamo Hotel. After his bout in Austin, he returned again to Cuero to take over the affairs of the Muti Hotel and remained here until his passing away.

It was in 1913 that he was married in Little Rock, Ark. to Miss Birdie Viereck of Sealy, and her devotion as well as assistance in his business affairs was an outstanding inspiration in his life.

John Seekamp was a man who served his community well, although few of his contributions to the welfare of those around him were known. He chose to remain in the background.

He was a man of kindly heart, so vividly revealed in his devotion to little children and his love of the unprotected Texas wildlife. His contribution toward the conservation of wildlife was recognized some years ago with his election as honorary member of the Austin Wildlife Society.

He was a man willing to sacrifice his own time and interests for the betterment of his community and in that capacity he served well. Seekamp was President of the Cuero Chamber of Commerce for four years, chairman of the "Texas Centennial" Turkey Trot, one of the most successful Trots ever staged, and a leader in every movement for the upbuilding and betterment of Cuero. He was also a 32nd degree Mason.

John was a man who boasted many friends high in executive circles of the state, his influence had been felt in many public moves. For these many contributions he sought no credit. The services he rendered his community and those around him however, will stand as a monument to his memory.

SEMPER, LUDWIG (LOUIS) FAMILY

Ludwig (Louis) Semper was born August 23, 1870 at Klein Schonau, Austria where he grew up, went to school, and learned his trade as a baker.

Louis' family lived in a little village in Austria called Klein Schonau. They were small farmers with one or two cows and had a few acres for planting potatoes, barley, etc. Also, they were weavers and did so to earn extra money.

Louis' father's name was Phillip and his mother's name was Thekla. They had three children: Ludwig (Louis), Ferdinand (Fred), and a daughter, Thekla. They all grew up and went to school in Klein Schonau. Louis and Fred each learned a trade. Louis was a baker and for Fred, a butcher. After their schooling, for their trades, it was required that they serve a three year apprenticeship. They then received a diploma which proved their trade.

Louis and Fred immigrated to the United States, arriving in New York in 1891. They both had aspirations for the opportunities in the United States. It seems that the Austrian government would not allow them to leave and if they stayed in Austria, they would surely have to serve in the military. The military in Austria was not as the military in the United States. So the two brothers, with the help of family, friends, and the underground, were smuggled out of the country. Louis told of the excitement and danger of their trip.

The two brothers settled in Chicago, Illinois. They had an uncle that was living in Spaulding, Nebraska who had broken his leg, so Fred decided he would go there to help him with his farm. Fred later married, opened a butcher shop, and spent the rest of his life there. As far as it is known the two brothers never saw each other again. Fred had four children, Cletus, Leo, Paul and Pauline.

Louis married Marie Schram in Chicago, Illinois. They had two children, Edwin born in 1898 and Adeline born in 1900. Marie developed a respiratory illness and was advised to move to a warmer climate. Shortly after 1900, Louis and Marie moved to Runge, Texas where Marie had relatives. They had to leave their children with friends in Chicago for a short period of time while they were getting settled. Marie died in 1904 and is buried in Runge.

Louis was married in 1906 to Mathilda Meyer. She was from the Weesatche area in Goliad County. They moved to Yorktown and had two children, Edna born in 1907 and Reall born in 1910. It might be mentioned at this time that Louis' four children and Fred's four children kept contact with their uncles. They also visited them several times which kept the family bond between the two brothers from Austria.

Louis set up a bakery shop called The Yorktown Bakery in 1906. The bakery was located near the railroad depot on the south side of Yorktown where most of the industries were established at that time. Louis built the oven for the bakery himself. It was made of fire brick and had to be made just right in order for it to draft properly. All of this was learned in Austria. Reall would talk about getting in from a dance at midnight and having to get up at 2:00 a.m. to start the fire in the oven. Louis operated the bakery until the early 1930's.

Louis and Mathilda's home was built at the same location as the bakery shop where they lived until their deaths. Louis died December 10, 1943 at the age of 73 and Mathilda died in 1968 at the age of 88.

Louis' four children all lived in Dewitt County. Adeline worked at the bakery in Yorktown until she retired. Edna graduated from Texas Lutheran College and received a B.A. degree in Elementary Education and taught school for about 45 years, most of which were in Nordheim. Adeline and Edna never married and they both lived at the family home until their deaths. Edna died in 1982 and Adeline died in 1985.

Edwin married Nona Osterloh whose family was from Nordheim. He owned and operated a service station in Nordheim until his death. Edwin died in 1955. His wife Nona is living in a rest home in Nixon. Edwin and Nona had one child, Travis, who lives in Portland, Texas. Travis married Ethel Cliffe who was from Warrington, England. They have two children, Jan and Cliffe. Jan is married to Jimmy Wagner and they have two children, Ashley and Kyle. Cliffe is married to the former Sherry Alex and they have one child, Aaron.

Reall married the former Robertha Gisler. Reall owned and operated a service station, cafe and package store. He operated the package store until his death. Reall died in 1972. Reall and Robertha have four children, Lois, Leo, Celina and Rayon (Ray). Lois (Lundschen) has three children. Joanna Lynn is married to John Lapidge; Leah is married to Jimmy Moy and they have two children, Jimmy and Angelica; Lloyd is married to the former Natalie Rayliey and they have three children, Wayne, Michael and Bryan. Leo is married to the former Carlyn Hoefling. They have two children, Christie and Paul. Christie is married to Ken Kahlich and they have one daughter, Loren; Paul is married to the former Lisa Adams. Celina is married to Oswald Kirchner. They have three children, Elizabeth (Beth), Donald and Mark. Beth is married to Kelly Tankersley and they have two children, Christopher and Amy; Donald is married to the former Sandy Sheffield and they have one son. Calvin; Mark is married to the former Donna Brents. Ray is married to the former Carol Rabke. They have four children, Ray, James, Wendy and Katy.

Robertha, Reall's wife, still resides at their home on Mehnert Street in Yorktown which is adjacent to the property where the three businesses once were located. The service station and cafe property was sold, but the package store building is now being leased and used as a barber shop.

Louis' business, The Yorktown Bakery, is still in existence today and is located on Main Street in Yorktown. Louis sold it in the early 1930's to Henry Schroeder. Mr. Schroeder operated the bakery until 1967 when he sold it to A.J. Mica. Mr. Mica owned the bakery until 1975 when it was purchased by Joseph Jendrzey. Mr. Jendrzey still owns the bakery which is a favorite daily stop for many of the Yorktown residents.

SHEPPARD, CAPTAIN HENRY

F843

Captain Henry Sheppard was born August 14, 1826. He went to sea early in life and was in command of a vessel plying between New York and Liverpool before he was twenty-one. He served for many years as a Captain of the Morgan Steamship Lines. He was in command of the S.S. Louisiana when it burned and sank off Galveston in 1857 with great loss of life. As a tribute to his conduct in that disaster, the Morgan Lines inscribed the following epitaph on his tombstone in Hillside Cemetery: "The last to leave his burning ship and in the sea gave up his supporting plank to save a drowning passenger." He had lost the S.S. Perseverance by fire in Matagorda Bay in 1856, while Mrs. Sheppard was entertaining a dinner party on board. That ship's bell now hangs in the belfry of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Cuero. Still in the employ of the Morgan Lines, Captain Sheppard settled at Indianola in 1857 where he served as wharf master of the Morgan wharves.

He was one of the spokesmen for the townspeople in negotiations with the invading Yankees in 1862. In 1872 the Morgan Lines extended their railroad (the Gulf Western Texas and Pacific Railway) to Cuero. The Cuero Land & Immigration Company gave 100 acres of land south of the railroad to the Morgan company as consideration for its bringing the railroad to Cuero and the company developed that land as "Morgantown, the Railway Addition to the City of Cuero." Captain Sheppard acted as Morgan's agent in many land transactions in Cuero and was serving as president of the Gulf Western Texas and Pacific Railway Company at the time of his death in 1879.

Elizabeth (McGrane) Sheppard

Henry D. Sheppard, survivor of Indianola storm of 1886.

Sheppard married Elizabeth McGrane (born in Virginia, August 1, 1834) at New Orleans in 1854. They had five children who survived infancy: Elizabeth, born at New Orleans, August 24, 1857, married Frank W. Bates at Indianola, January 23, 1880, died at Cuero January 24, 1904; Virginia (Jennie) Luther, born at Indianola, February 25, 1860, died at Cuero December 5, 1938; William, born Indianola July 14, 1862, died at Indianola October 11, 1884; Joseph Lawrence, born Indianola, October 21, 1867, died at Cuero, February 22, 1935; and Henry D., born at Indianola, August 5, 1870, died at Cuero, March 9, 1951.

In 1880 the recently widowed Mrs. Sheppard made an investment in the English-German School of Cuero, lending the Association $900.00 for 12 months at 8%. The loan was duly repaid. On August 19, 1886, she was living at Indianola with her youngest son, Henry; her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Luther, was visiting from Corpus Christi with her two infant boys. Mrs. Sheppard's older son, Joe, was away at school; her daughter, Elizabeth Bates, was living in Cuero. Mrs. Hodges of Cuero and Mrs. Crooker of Austin were also visitors in the Sheppard home. The fatal hurricane of 1886 struck Indianola on the evening of August 19. The wharves which extended a mile into Matagorda Bay were torn from their moorings and the storm used the timbers as battering rams against the frame buildings of Indianola. Before morning the Sheppard house collapsed. Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Luther's two boys, Mrs. Hodges, and Mrs. Crooker all lost their lives. Young Henry Sheppard clung to a piece of timber, and in the darkness, seized an inert body and supported it until they came to rest on the prairie the next morning. He then discovered that he had saved his sister, Jennie Luther. In October of that sad year F.W. Bates, J.L. Sheppard, and Henry Sheppard returned to Indianola, gathered up the remnants of the Sheppard home, loaded them on flat cars and shipped them to Cuero where they became the nucleus of the Bates-Sheppard house, now the DeWitt County Museum.

Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Bates, Mrs. Luther, and Henry Sheppard made their home in this house for the remainder of their lives. Bates, born at Matagorda, December 11, 1854, to Thomas F. and Elmira Stewart Bates, graduated from Concrete College in 1871. He was employed by his uncle, R.C. Warn, in the Warn hardware store in Indianola and moved to Cuero in 1884 to work in the Warn Hardware Store here. After Warn's death the store was operated by Bates and Frank Hutchings under the firm name of Hutchings & Bates. After Hutchings' death the store was operated by Bates alone under the name of Bates Hardware. Mr. Bates served for many years as an Alderman of the City of Cuero, overseeing the Fire Department, and serving as interim Mayor in 1905 and 1906.

Henry D. Sheppard graduated from Soule College in New Orleans. He was for many years the agent of the Southern Pacific in Cuero. Later he went into business as a partner of Berthold Schiwetz in the local insurance agency of Schiwetz & Sheppard; and after Schiwetz' death he was sole proprietor of H.D. Sheppard Insurance.

Mrs. Jennie Luther maintained the home for her brother and brother-in-law. All three of the occupants, being without children of their own, devoted themselves to Captain J.L. Sheppard's children and grandchildren, who spent much of their childhood in the care of these three.

In 1889 he was awarded the gold medal as the state's best captain of militia at drills in Galveston, celebrating that city's semi-centennial. He gave up active employment in 1917 to spend his full time as chairman of the DeWitt County Draft Board. He was an active cattleman all his adult life, operating his stock farm at Valley View and the Fassett Ranch near Nopal. SHIMER, DR. WILLIAM H. FAMILY

The first Shimer landed in Pennsylvania early in 1710, starting the long history of Shimers in the United States. Others followed as members of William Penn's colony in the 1750's, migrating from Austria via Germany and Belgium. Members of the family served under General George Washington during the American Revolution.

William Henry Shimer was born on May 8, 1861 in Shimerville, Pa., the son of James Oliver and Elmora Dubs Shimer. He was the youngest child with one older brother and three older sisters. Dr. Shimer graduated from medical school at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland, and chose an Army career. Poor health altered his plans, forcing him to resign from the Army and search for a more favorable climate in the South. This move brought him to Victoria, Texas where he eventually met C.L. Schaefer, an early resident of the Meyersville community who was seeking medical assistance for his son, R.V. Schaefer. So successful was Dr. Shimer's treatment of the patient that Mr. Schaefer urged the young doctor to move to Meyersville where a doctor sore sorely needed.

Dr. William H. Shimer home - L-R: Annie, Dr. Shimer, Jennie Shimer, Billy, Mary, and Chester Franklin

When his health improved, Dr. Shimer began practicing in the Meyersville area while living in the Isaac Egg, Sr. home. He ate meals across the road at Hausman's. They served meals and provided rooms to traveling salesmen. He made many visits to the Schaefer home, eventually marrying their daughter, Johanna (Jennie), on May 12, 1891 in Meyersville.

Johanna, born October 11, 1859, was the oldest of 14 children of Charles L. and Amalia Wurtz Schaefer. Her brothers and sisters were Amalia (Hartman), C.A. (Charlie), Sophie (Hartman), Fritz, Augusta (Schorlemer), Louise (Lulu Trautwein), Emma, Bertha (Betty Egg), Emmie (Beyerstedt), George, Mamie (Lang), Willie, and Richard, the young boy that Dr. Shimer was asked to treat.

At the beginning of his practice, Dr. Shimer traveled to his patients on horseback. After acquiring a horse and buggy with a driver, Chester Franklin, he was able to sleep between calls, allowing some relief from his long hours, day and night. A room in his home served for operations.

In 1900 a serious epidemic of red measles struck the Meyersville community, and Dr. Shimer was forced to unending work. Because his own family had not had the red measles, he changed his clothes at the barn and soaked them in tubs of disinfectant solution. After the strain of the epidemic, he began losing his eyesight. Dr. Shimer returned East for medical treatment, but the best of medical care could not restore his vision. For seven years, he continued practicing medicine in total blindness, delivering scores of youngsters that he never saw, including his own youngest daughter, Johanna (nicknamed Billy). In 1908 failing health finally forced Dr. Shimer to retire. Touch was the only form of communication he had left by the time of his death, March 6, 1913.

After the misfortune of having three stillborn daughters, W.H. and Jennie had 3 daughters who lived to maturity. Annie, born Sept. 1, 1896, attended school and church in Meyersville and remained at home with her mother after her father's death. The family home burned to the ground in 1922. They lived in the replacement home until Jennie's death, April 8, 1928, and Annie continued to live in the home for many years. She married William Schellpeppe in 1936 and helped care for his two motherless children, Carl and Emily Ann. Annie spent her last 18 years in a Cuero nursing home and died January 14, 1988.

Mary Katherine Shimer, born June 30, 1898, was baptized and confirmed in the historic old stone St. John's Lutheran Church in Meyersville. She attended schools in Meyersville and Cuero and studied education at Southwest Texas State Normal in San Marcos. By the age of 17, she was teaching school in Arneckeville and later in Cuero. After her marriage to Walter Charles Koenig on Nov. 24, 1920, Mary taught in the Green DeWitt school. They had four children, William Louis, who died at birth, September 16, 1923, Louis John, born October 6, 1924, Katherine Marie, born August 10, 1929, and Billie Waldyn, born November 27, 1937.

Johanna ("Billy Boy"), born October 27, 1900 spent the early years of her life as companion to her blind father, Dr. Shimer. She attended Meyersville and Cuero High School and the University of Texas in Austin. She taught school in Yorktown and Cuero before her marriage to William Otto Dreier on May 23, 1925, continuing to teach then at New County Line. Having no children of their own, Aunt "Bea" and Uncle Bill lavished their love and affection on their lucky nieces and nephews who enjoyed many memorable times with them.

Later Billy began teaching private piano and organ students and endeared herself to a generation of church organists, choral directors, composers, band directors, and professional musicians who began their early musical training under her loving tutelage. Although suffering with terminal cancer, she continued to teach and prepare her students for their yearend recital which was held, at her insistence, as she lay dying. Her courage and fortitude were an inspiration to all who knew and loved her. Billy Shimer Dreier died June 27, 1968 and was followed in death by her husband, Bill, on March 8, 1974. They are both buried in the Meyersville Lutheran Cemetery.

SHOWS (SCHAUSS) FAMILY

F851

The Lutheran Church had many records in Germany, hence most of the early information regarding the Schauss family came. The Schauss, as far as we know, originated in the area of Albisheim, Germany, which is now part of Rhineland Palatinate. From 1974 to 1816 Albisheim belonged to France and from 1816 to 1946 it belonged to Bavaria.

Adam Schauss was born in Albisheim in the year 1704 and died in Surry Co. North Carolina in 1770. He was the son of Johann Schauss and Anna Engle Conrad. Adam was a member of the Lutheran Church in Albisheim. His trade was a millwright, miller, and inn keeper. Adam arrived in Philadelphia in the year 1736. aboard the ship Harley, Ralph Harley master from Rotterdam. Adam married Maria Barbara Baum on Jan. 16, 1725. They had four children born in Albisheim. Maria Magdalena born 1726, Phillip born in 1728, Friedrich born 1727, Anna Maria born 1731. After arriving in America Conrad was born in 1740, Anna Margaret 1742, Heinrich in 1741, Benigna in 1742, Gottlieb in 1744, and Christian in 1748, all born in Pennsylvania. Adam moved from Pennsylvania to Rowan Co. North Carolina in the 1760's, and died at his son's house in 1770. He was buried in Easton Pa. At the time of death Adam was known as Adam Shouse, one of several ways the name Schauss was spelled. The others being Shous and Shows.

Johann Schauss was born in the Moselle River Valley of Germany. We have no proof of this, but Walter Shows in his book, The History of John Shows, says he was. We know in the year 1779 he was a private from Virginia in the Revolutionary War. John shows married Nancy Robertson in the year 1787 at Pocataligo S.C. John moved to Columbia Co. Georgia in 1790, and in 1808 moved to Twiggs Co. Georgia. John was given 287 acres of land as a result of the war. John and Nancy had eight children. Adam born 1788, John Jr. born 1791, Cornelius born 1795, Mary born 1798, Sarah born 1801, Hannah born 1803, Daniel born 1805. In 1818 John moved his entire family to Covington Co. Mississippi, changed later to Jones Co. Miss. He owned a total of 1000 acres of land in Jones Co. John was a farmer his entire life, and raised mostly cotton. He died in 1842 and is buried in Shows cemetery in Jones Co. Miss.

John Shows Jr. was born in Georgia and moved to Mississippi with his father in 1818. In the late 1850's he moved to Jackson Parish La. He died shortly after that. He was a farmer all his life. His children were William born 1818, Nancy born 1821, Adam born 1823, Elizabeth born 1828, Thomas born 1829, Vicki born 1832, Elenor born 1834, John born 1838, Vashita born 1841.

Adam Shows was born in Covington Co. Miss in 1823. He moved to Jackson Parish La. with his father John Shows Jr. He married Nancy Grandberry, daughter of Amos Grandbury. Children were Margret Edna, born 1849, Sarah born 1850, William Jackson born 1852, Nancy Malone born 1853, Adam Jasper born 1856, John Ryan born 1858, Amos Grandberry born 1861, Elizabeth born 1864. Adam's wife Nancy died in 1867 and is buried in Hebron Cemetery, DeWitt Co., Texas. She is said to be the first person buried there. There is a Texas Historical marker at the foot of her grave. In 1869 Adam married Christene Cleveland, in Clinton, Texas former DeWitt Co. seat. Children were T.T. Shows, born 1871, James Madison born 1873, Laura A. born 1875, Harriet M. born 1878. Adam lived in DeWitt Co. until his death in 1890. Adam settled on Hog Branch, now known as Bear Creek, amid oak trees. It is said that timber was available and grass was waist high. Adam was hired to build a church, and was called Hebron. It is the oldest Baptist Church in DeWitt Co. Adam was a farmer and stock raiser his entire life and raised mostly cotton. He operated a cotton gin which he moved from Louisiana. He was an active member of the Baptist Church. His son Tobias was the only son who spent his life in this community. Others moved to Cuero, Edna and Beeville. Adam is buried in Hebron Cemetery beside his first wife Nancy. It is a honor to put flowers on his grave on Decoration Day, the first Sunday in May.

Many thanks to my brothers Floyd, Donald and Roger for their many hours of searching for information concerning the Shows (Schauss) family. My name is Boyd Shows and I live in DeWitt Co.

SHOWS, ELLEN CHRISTIAN SMITH F853

"A Mother of Ten"

Ellen Christina Smith was born to Edward Vincent Smith and Mary Frances Tucker on January 23, 1903 in Senate Community, Jack County, Texas. She had one sister, Roxey, and three brothers, William Claude, John Barney and Edward Vincent, named after his father. It is of interest to note that Ellen Christina's mother, brother William Claude, and brother John Barney all died within two years of each other. Her brother Edward Vincent died as a young child, her father died in 1940 and it is not known when her sister Roxey died.

The Smith and Tucker families from which Ellen Christina Smith descended were Catholic. It appears they were closeknit and resided through the years in the same parts of the country. They came to DeWitt County from Perry County, Missouri. Prior to this they had lived in Maryland and Kentucky. Both families were originally from Ireland and much is written about the history of these two families as well as many other DeWitt County families in Maryland Catholics on the Frontier by Timothy J. O'Rourke.

Edward Vincent Smith, Ellen Christina's father, was the son of William Smith and Mary Elizabeth Tucker, the grandson of John Smith and Ann Tucker, and the great-grandson of Bernard Smith and Ann Drury, all of whom were from Perry County, Missouri. Edward Vincent's father, William, fought in the Union Army during the Civil War although many of his relatives fought for the Confederacy.

Mary Frances Tucker, Ellen Christina's mother, was the daughter of Michael Tucker and Mary Elizabeth Anderson, Ellen Christina's maternal grandmother, Mary Elizabeth, was Michael's first wife. She was the daughter of John Ransom Anderson, Sr. and Eleanor Shows. Eleanor Shows was the daughter of John Shows, Junior, also known as Jackson, and the granddaughter of John Shows, Senior of Jones County, Mississippi. She was the sister of Adam and John Shows of DeWitt County.

Eleanor's first husband was John Ransom Anderson, Sr. Their children were Mary Elizabeth and Sarah (both of whom married Michael Tucker), and John Ransom Anderson, Jr. who was born in 1861 and married Martha Ann Ryan, the daughter of Henry Ryan (Henry was the brother of Joseph Ryan of Lavaca County. Joseph was born in Ohio in 1823). John Ransom Anderson Jr. resided in Live Oak County, Texas and was the father of Archie Edward Anderson, Sr. and grandfather of Archie Edward Anderson, Jr. of San Antonio, Texas. John Ransom Anderson, Sr. died in the Civil War and after his death Eleanor married Joseph Ryan of Lavaca County.

Michael Tucker, Ellen Christina's maternal grandfather, was the son of John W. Tucker, and Christina Hagann, the grandson of William Tucker and Sarah Ann Hayden, and the great-grandson of Joseph Tucker and Frances Drury. One of his sisters, Sarah Agnes, married John Dunn of Yoakum, and another, Mary Ann, married Patrick May. The second wife of Michael Tucker was Sarah Anderson. His children were Ellen Christina, Mary Frances, Anthony, Lizzie, Boss, Jeff, Ollie, Agnes, and Ola. We are not sure which of these were Mary Frances' half brothers and sisters. Michael died on May 17, 1921 and is buried in St. Joseph Cemetery in Yoakum, Tex.

At what age Ellen Christina Smith came to DeWitt County is not known. It is probable that she was very young when she came because she was married to Grady Don Shows. August 25, 1920 at the age of 16, by the Reverend Peter J. Kieffer, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Yoakum. She and Grady raised a family of ten children, all of whom were born in DeWitt County or Lavaca County near the DeWitt County line, with the exception of their youngest child, Lawrence Edward who was born in Galveston County. Their children included, in order of birth, the following: Mildred Marie, Helen Christina. Grady Boyd, Dorothy Louise, Alta Fay, Floyd Irving, Raymond Lloyd, Donald Eugene, Roger Wayne and Lawrence Edward. Of these ten children all are still living, and currently reside in the Victoria-Yoakum, and GalvestonHouston areas.

Ellen Christina was a homemaker all the years of her life and Grady worked for the Railroad until the depression at which time he lost his job. He then worked at various jobs and farmed on the side until about 1943 when he went to Galveston to work as a pipefitter at Todd Shipyard. After getting established in Galveston he moved Ellen Christina and the children to Galveston where they remained until his retirement in 1964. They were in the process of moving back to Yoakum when she died of a heart attack, April 18, 1964. Grady completed the move and remained in Yoakum until his health necessitated his moving to Galveston again to live with his daughter Fay, and her husband E.M. Allison. He died of cancer in 1981. Both Ellen Christina and Grady Don are buried in Hebron Cemetery in DeWitt County.

In Honor of Our Loving Mother, on behalf of all her children.

SMITH, JAMES NORMAN

F854

In his handwritten, four-volume Personal Memoirs, written in 1860, James Norman Smith presents a vivid picture of his day. He wrote not only of his family, but also about the people he knew. All come to life as he traces the journey that led him to DeWitt County. His memories, beginning in early childhood, were still as sharp and clear as the day they happened.

The fascinating life of James Norman Smith began in Richmond County, North Carolina, in 1789. This story of his heritage goes back much further:

His father James Turner Smith volunteered at seventeen to fight in the Revolutionary War. He was critically wounded at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse in North Carolina and lay neglected for hours with his thigh completely shattered. Finally he was moved to a log home near the battlefield, where doctors planned to cut the leg off. But Smith would not consent to the amputation.

As word of the bloody battle spread to Maryland, his grandmother Kerenhappuch Norman Turner, 90, rode all the way on horseback to be with him, where she nursed him and others back to health. She bored holes in large tubs mounted to the rafters above him. The tubs were kept full of cool water and allowed to drip, continuously cleansing his wound. Today there is a monument at Guilford Battleground to the memory of Kerenhappuch Turner's spirit and courage.

It was a year before he could be moved, but James Turner Smith recovered and married Constantia Ann Ford. Of their five children, only James Norman and his twin Charles Allison survived to adulthood.

James Norman's account of his childhood in North Carolina provides a graphic picture of everyday life — the work, the songs, the poems, the games, the pranks, and even the tragedies. As a teenager Smith accompanied his father on a horseback trip into Kentucky and Tennessee. Soon after, the family moved to "The Cumberland." On the Tennessee frontier Smith began his lifelong career: teaching. One of his first pupils — James K. Polk — would grow up to be President, and their association would last until Smith's death.

Smith met and married Sarah Jenkins of Maury County, Tennessee. Through his wife's example Smith became a devout Christian, and he settled into earning a living and raising three children. The death of Sarah in 1820 left Smith devastated. In 1825, he married his cousin Elizabeth Hungerford Moorehead, who remained his faithful companion until her death in 1857. Together they had eight children, five of whom lived long, productive lives.

When the recession of the late 1830's hit Tennessee, Smith made the same decision as many other residents of the area: They headed for Texas. After an eventful trip down the Mississippi and across the gulf, they arrived at Matagorda. Smith found work immediately, only to be caught in the Great Comanche Raid of 1840. At age 51, James Norman Smith fought in his first battle at Plum Creek.

Later Smith brought his family back to the Guadalupe River Valley. In 1846, when DeWitt County was created, he was elected the first county clerk. He surveyed the original DeWitt County lines, using "the old stock lock compass" his father had made for him when he was a boy. His memoirs include a detailed description of the instrument, how it was made, and how it worked.

In his narrative style Smith provides insightful view of the county's earliest politics, as its citizens debated where to locate the county seat and struggled to establish organized religion.

James Norman Smith, affectionately known as "Uncle Jimmy," was loved and respected in DeWitt County until his death in 1875. He is buried beside his wife Elizabeth in Clinton Cemetery.

SMITH, JOHN LEWIS "BLACK JOHN" (III) AND AMERICA MACK TENNELL

F855

America McTennell

John Lewis Smith, Jr. was born 16 June 1796 in England and came to Virginia in 1802 with his parents and brothers and sisters. On 1 June 1820 in Wythe County, Virginia, John, Jr. married Hester Anne Warren (born 13 April 1796, Franklin Co., Virginia). Their first child, John Lewis Smith (III), was born on 28 July 1824 in Wythe Co., VA, shortly before the family moved to Tompkinsville, Monroe County, Kentucky. About 1835 John, Jr. moved his family to Dallas Co., Alabama and by December 1838, they had arrived at Mina, Bastrop Co., Republic of Texas.

On Sunday 11 September 1842, in a dense fog, General Woll and the Mexican Army invaded San Antonio, Bexar Co., and took 52 men as prisoners including John L. Smith (III). These men were cruelly marched away from their homes and loved ones to the greatly hated Perote Castle Prison near Mexico City and were joined there by the remaining Texan survivors of Dawson's Massacre and the Mier Expedition. John (III) and the other Bexar prisoners were finally released from Perote Prison and allowed to return to Texas on 23 March 1844 due to the efforts of General Waddy Thompson, US Minister to Mexico.

On 16 August 1844, John (III) received a single man's land grant of 320 acres and he transferred the unconditional certificate (Milam-3-184) to John Litten on 10 July 1845. Hostilities between the Republic of Texas and Mexico continued and on 1 October 1845, John (III) enlisted in Capt. David Cady's Company of Texas Mounted Rangers in Austin. He served two enlistments during the Mexican War and was mustered out on 4 July 1846 at San Antonio, Texas.

America Mack Tennell, daughter of Sampson Mack Tennell and his wife, Rebecca Ware (widow of Alton Ingram), was born in White Co., Illinois on 19 November 1826 and she came to Texas with her parents in March, 1833, when she was seven years old. Sampson settled his land grant of one league and one labor in Goliad Co. During the Texas struggle for independence from Mexico, Sampson MC Tennell proudly served in the Texas Army under the command of Col. Fannin. However he and a group of soldiers were on assignment to move the women and children of the area to safety as the Mexican Army approached Goliad from the south and therefore missed the battle and massacre in March, 1836. After the revolution, Sampson settled near Clinton, DeWitt Co. (and later moved to Leavenworth Co., Kansas). It was while the MC Tennell family lived at Clinton that America fell in love with the six foot tall, black haired, brown eyed, and handsome John Lewis "Black John" Smith (III). They were married in Bastrop Co., Texas by Rev. William Laramore on 20 March 1849. There were six children born to this union: Susanna America "Sadie" (1850), Charley Poger (1852), John Beverly (1855), Martha Jane "Mattie" (1857), Joanna "Sally" (1860), and Alexander Edward (1862).

An affidavit of settlement was filed by John (III) on 1 April 1853 and a preemption certificate (Milam-3-1205) was issued on 22 Oct. 1856 as John (III) and America had resided on the land in Bastrop Co. for three years. They transferred this 320 acres to James Davis on 23 Nov. 1856 and they moved to Goliad Co. where John (III) was a saddler, as well as a rancher and cattleman. In 1872, the family moved to Karnes Co. where John (III) had a saddle shop at Helena but moved to Bee Co. about a year later. John and America settled next at Lagarto, Live Oak Co., Texas. While at Lagarto, America patented an eye medication which she called "Old Texan Ointment" and several other medications which she used in her herbal medicine practice. Many women were forever blessed by her preparations to ease the pain of childbirth. She delivered babies of any woman regardless of race or color and treated each patient with dignity. Her "mad stone" was widely used to treat the bites of animals who possibly had rabies and its use was said to be 100% effective (at the time there was not a treatment to prevent the onset of rabies once someone was bitten by an animal with rabies).

After John Lewis Smith (III)'s death on 2 Jan. 1881 and burial at Lagarto, America continued to operate their hotel and other interests there for some time. She moved back to Bee Co. and then to Kenedy, Karnes Co. in the 1890's where she lived on a widow's pension from John's service during the Mexican War. She died on 4 Aug. 1911 in Kenedy and was buried the following day on the hill in Kenedy Cemetery, Karnes County, Texas. Her grandson, Warren W. Downing (whom she had raised after his mother, Sally, died) had a beautiful monument placed to mark her final resting place.

SPELLMANN, FRANZ HEINRICH

Franz Heinrich Spellmann was born in Backhorst, Westphalian Germany, on October 28, 1822. On September 15, 1850, he married Anna Margarethe Elizabeth Michel. A few weeks later they sailed from Bremerhaven, Germany, for Indianola, Texas. Their only luggage was a huge homemade chest, a trunk, and a feather bed. With other colonists they settled in New Braunfels, but after a year Anna's homesickness was unbearable and they started their journey back to the homeland. When they reached Victoria, however, Franz was seized with a sudden illness. By the time he was able to travel, Anna had found a new confidence, new friends, and a growing interest in her new life and surroundings. The journey home was postponed indefinitely.

By 1862 seven children had been born, but a tragic series of deaths took five of the children. Only Ernst Christian and Ernstine Christine

Franz was advised by his doctor to avoid heavy manual labor and to stay outdoors as much as possible, so he found employment as a shepherd with the Kleberg family at Meyersville in DeWitt County. Four more children were born there.

Outdoor life as a shepherd improved Franz's health, so in 1871, Franz decided to go out on his own. He filed on a homestead grant at the head of Clear Creek about ten miles north of Yorktown, and here he remained.

Franz always felt that he had been spared death in Victoria for a purpose. In his middle fifties, with the hard years behind him, his question was still, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me do?" In his search for an answer he made application to the American Tract Society for work as a colporteur and was accepted. So it was that he spent the remainder of his life using his knowledge of the bible, his sincerity, and his desire for the salvation of people, to place a bible or other religious literature in every "foreign" home in the Guadalupe Valley.

Franz Heinrich Spellmann died March 5, 1901, and his wife, Anna, died June 8, 1905. They are buried in the Spellman Cemetery near Noapal, Texas.

Ernst Christian Spellmann, third child and first son of Franz and Anna, married Sarah Jones Caroline Glimp who was born in DeWitt County but had moved to Burnet County. After the wedding in Burnet, June 30, 1878, they settled at Clear Creek, DeWitt County and moved to Gonzales County in 1896.

Ernest Christian Spellmann, Jr., third child and second son of Ernst and Caroline, was born January 9, 1883, in the Clear Creek community. He married Nora Lee Smith of Gonzales County October 9, 1909, and they made Gonzales County their permanent home.

Tommie Lee Spellmann, sixth child and fourth daughter of Ernest Christian Jr. and Nora, was born in Gonzales County, August 6, 1922, and married Joe Edward Nuinez on April 24, 1942.

The Nuinez family and the Spellmann family were neighbors on the headwaters of Clear Creek for many years before the turn of the century.

SPENCER, WILLIAM ADDISON AND CAROLINE HEPZIBETH TAYLOR F85

He was tall, stately and calmly assertive – she, tiny, outspoken and spunky; they were William Addison Spencer and Caroline Hepzibeth Taylor.

Born in Tennessee September 7, 1840 W.A. Spencer moved to Texas with his parents and siblings around 1845 – the exact date of their arrival has not yet been determined nor has the name of his mother. His father's name was Elijah and the 1850 Texas census indicates W.A. Spencer as being nine years old and a younger brother, Theodore, age 5, born in Texas.

Elijah was already a land owner in 1852 when Lewis S. Owings and Judge Thomas

William Addison Spencer and Caroline Hepzibeth (Taylor) Spencer

Ruckman hired a land surveyor, Charley Russell, to lay out a new town site which would later be named Helena after Mrs. Helen (Swisher) Owings, Doc's wife. Mr. Charley Russell was employed by Elijah Spencer to survey an addition to his property on the northeast side. Miss Lucy Russell, sister of Charley Russell, said that they lived in a log cabin on the Elijah Spencer addition for a brief time. The Spencers home and farm was 1½ miles up the river from Helena.

Elijah's brother was named Carroll Spencer and upon Elijah's death in May, 1854, he was executor of his estate which was valued at $20,000, considered to be a large estate in those days and times. Carroll died shortly afterwards and Elijah's brother-in-law took over management and administration. His name was G.W. Brown; he was known as "Wash" Brown. He was County Clerk in 1858 and continued to hold the position until 1866 when W.A. Spencer assumed the office.

From all accounts, Helen was a rip-roaring town in it's heyday and when visiting it now, one can almost hear the hoofbeat of horses, the bustle of ladies long skirts and the rinckey dink of an old upright piano.

In 1866, W.A. married Caroline Hepzibeth Taylor, daughter of Creed Taylor and his first wife, Nancy Goodbread Taylor. These were perilous times in Texas and both told of Indian encounters.

W.A. Spencer, often called Will, volunteered for Frontier Ranger Service, joined the Federal Army and on February 10, 1861, enlisted in the Confederate Army. He participated in many battles and attained the rank of Major prior to his discharge on June 1, 1865. He is said to have achieved brilliant successes as a Confederate Soldier.

Caroline told of her fear, along with many Texans, of the Regulators and State Police activated following the Civil War. She always spoke lovingly of her brothers, Hays and Doboy, who died in the Civil War aftermath and the Taylor-Sutton Feud. My mother, Delvia Nell Spencer Tschirhart said that Grandma Spencer (as we lovingly referred to her) never spoke of her brother's deaths without tears in her eyes. Her father, Creed, later manifested his ongoing love and grief over the loss of his sons by naming a son from his second marriage after both of them – James Phillip Hays (Do-boy's real first name was Phillip). He would also request that a great grandson of Buck Taylor, his nephew killed in the feud, be named Doboy. Because of the fact that Creed had cared for Buck's wife and infant son after his death, his request was honored and the infant's legal name was Doboy. . . but was spelled Doeboy.

When Creed first brought the southern gentleman and Civil War comrade, Will, home to meet his pretty daughter, Caroline, she took him aside after dinner and said, "Daddy, that's the ugliest man I ever saw!". But love crept in and W.A. Spencer soon stepped into place as my great grandfather to be. They resided in the Taylor homestead on the Ecleto, which was deeded to them by Caroline's father following the death of her mother in 1867, when Creed moved to Kimble County, Noxville, Texas.

In 1878 they followed Creed to Kimble County and built a home on their ranch in Segovia. They later erected a home adjacent to the county courthouse in Junction, Texas.

W.A. Spencer was elected County Clerk in 1878 and served as same until 1884 when he became Sheriff. A new County jail was erected under his term as Sheriff and a Texas Historical Marker on the jail proudly attests to this fact. He was elected County Judge in 1890. His political service spanned almost thirty-five years in Kimble County in addition to his public service in Helena in Old Karnes County. He was a charter member of the Junction City Masonic Lodge and was very active in its functions. Known as one of the great peace officers of the era, he was widely respected for fair, but firm law application.

Caroline was loving and kind, always worrying over and wanting to help others. She called everyone "little darlin". Mother said she used to "scare everyone to death" during the night prowling around to be sure they were still breathing as they slept. Mother reflected that, like Creed she was fiesty and stubborn—all wrapped up in less than 100 pounds. She was said to have had the tiniest quilt stitch in the county.

Seven children were born to this marriage: Elfie, Minnie, Willie, Bessie, James Josiah (Kince), Bud who died as a young adult in a gun accident, and Lennie who died as a small child.

Retirement years found this special couple splitting their time between the homes of their son, James Josiah and his wife, Mineola Northcutt Spencer and their daughter, Bessie McDonough. Mother said she always knew the sound of their hack coming up that meant lots of hugs, late night talks of old times and some of Grandma Spencer's "Butter Rolls", a cobbler like dish.

Kimble County Historical Marker Commission is proceeding with my request that a Texas Historical Marker be placed in well-earned tribute to W.A. Spencer as one of the great peace officers. Robert I. Wilson said in the book, Landmarks of Kimble County, "He held almost every office in the county. He deserves an historical marker because he taught the pioneers how to administer a county government and his mark remains on us". It certainly does.

We are indebted to the "Caroline Hepzibeth Taylor Spencers" of the day who were inspirational apron-clad wives, mothers, and community assets during the most trying of times and circumstances.

Grandma Spencer was granted heavenly rest on October 14, 1920 and Grandpa Spencer on August 22, 1922. They are both buried in the Junction Cemetery. A monument for his service in the Confederate Army proudly graces his grave. He was buried with full Masonic honors.

SPINKS, HERBERT

Herbert Spinks, the youngest son of Raphael and Mabel McMickens Spinks, was born on October 7, 1917, in Cuero, Texas. He spent his childhood in DeWitt County, attending schools in Clinton and in Cuero.

Times were hard during the Depression, and jobs were scarce. Herbert, along with his cousin Fletcher and Tommy Lucas, decided to get a job and see the world at the same time. On October 25, 1935, they joined the Civilian Conservation Corps (Tree Army). In anticipation of going to California, they journeyed to Schulenburg where they were inducted. They were promptly sent to a CCC camp at Kenedy, Texas, where they remained. At camp they terraced land and planted trees, but both Fletcher and Herbert preferred nightwatching duties. They traveled on alternate weekends to Cuero, either hitchhiking or riding on the Dinky, a railroad which ran between Cuero and Kenedy.

While at Kenedy, Herbert remembers having a case of the mumps. He was very ill and remained in the infirmary for thirteen days. He served under Barracks Leader J.W. Turnipseed, Lt. Frank Daughtery, and Capt. Simon. When Herbert was hired by Cage and Turner Construction Company (they were building a highway between Cuero and Concrete), he was discharged on April 6, 1936, to accept the employment.

On November 4, 1936, Herbert married Martha Jane Dees from Corpus Christi. They tried their hand at farming tomatoes, feed, and turkeys, but a late freeze in May, 1937, discouraged farming as a lifestyle. They moved to Corpus Christi where Herbert worked on a dairy, in Biel's Grocery Store, and finally as a painter.

On February 12, 1943, Herbert was inducted into the U.S. Army at Ft. Sam Houston. He received basic training at Camp Robinson, Arkansas, and then was sent to North Carolina. From North Carolina he was sent to Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, where he embarked for the European Theater of Operation on the Empress of Russia. He served at the 303rd Station Hospital in England for a time. After the invasion of Europe, he was attached to the 38th Field Hospital which moved through France and Belgium. He ended the war at the 91st General Hospital in Liege, Belgium. After the war in Europe was over, Herbert was sent to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, where he was discharged on February 19, 1945.

After World War II, Herbert and Martha lived in Cuero and in Corpus Christi, moving to Cuero permanently in early 1949. Their first child, Mary Lee, was born on December 17, 1947, but died the same day. On May 26, 1949, another child, Dianna Sue, was born. Twins, Linda Kay and Billy Ray, were born on August 19, 1951. Finally, Glenda Lou was born January 24, 1955. These children were all raised in Cuero. Mary Lee was buried at Hillside Cemetery in Cuero. Billy was killed in an automobile accident on July 25, 1969. He is buried on the family plot at the Clinton Cemetery. Dianna (married Bartosh) and Linda (married Ruschhaupt) live in the Cuero area. Glenda (married Heinold) lives in Victoria.

Herbert worked as a painter and paint contractor in the DeWitt-Victoria County area. Now he is retired and lives a few miles south of Cuero with Martha. They celebrated their fiftieth anniversary in November, 1986, with many family members and friends attending a reception in their honor. Herbert and Martha attend St. John's Lutheran Church in Meyersville. Herbert enjoys raising a small herd of goats as a hobby while Martha spends her time doing handwork.

SPINKS, JAMES JOSEPH

James Joseph Spinks was born November 11, 1847, near Raleigh, Mississippi, where his father farmed land that had once been Indian land. He was the son of John Spinks, an Irish immigrant. As a child, he could remember being taught by a live-in teacher of Irish descent. It was said that James was a well-educated man for his time, and this could account for his schooling. As a child, he migrated to Texas with his family. They settled in DeWitt County.

James Joseph enlisted in the Confederate Army during the War Between the States. He served in the Thirty-fifth (Brown's) Cavalry. His son Bob said that at one time during his army service, he came home to help his father hunt for hogs for meat in the winter. While hunting the hogs, he accidentally shot himself through the leg. That was the only injury he suffered during the war. He received the Oath of Amnesty in Victoria, Texas, on August 14, 1865.

He married Charlotte (Lottie) Brooks, daughter of G.W. Brooks, on January 11, 1872, in DeWitt County. They lived in DeWitt County, Gonzales County, and in Caldwell County. Much of his life was spent around the town of Harwood. Charlotte and James had eight children: Ida, Lou, Rilla, Bonnie, Bob, Willie, Clarence, and Clara.

James's legacy includes several stories which relate to DeWitt County. His father ran a saloon in Clinton. He said that John Wesley Hardin, the outlaw, would ride his horse to the front of the saloon every so often and order a dozen eggs brought out to him. He would then throw the eggs into the air, one at a time, and proceed to shoot them with a forty-five caliber pistol. He also said that Hardin once had trouble with a black man, and the black man escaped him. Hardin traced the man to a lake. The black man was in the lake, but he would only stick his nose up to breathe. Hardin spent most of the day circling the lake trying to get a glimpse of the man. It is assumed that he did not catch him.

James Joseph Spinks also related that he made one trip up the Chisholm Trail from Cuero to Kansas City. They left with 1900 cows and arrived in Kansas City with more because they picked up more along the way. From time to time, they furnished a few beeves to Indians while going through Oklahoma Territory.

James Joseph died on November 14, 1905, at Harwood, Texas. (From records of Earl B. Spinks, grandson of James Joseph Spinks)

SPINKS, JOHN

F866

John Spinks was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1803. The home where he lived as a child is located several miles southeast of Cavan City at Toher, Crosskeys. He had two brothers, Nugent and Tomas. As young men, John and Tomas came to America to live. They apparently became separated, and their descendants did not keep in touch with each other.

In 1830 John Spinks was living in Vicksburg (Warren County), Mississippi. A wife in the same age group (20 to 30 years) resided with him as did one slave, age twenty-four.

By 1840 John was living in Smith County, Mississippi. He owned land twelve miles north of Raleigh, the county seat. The land had been Choctaw Indian land, the last land being ceded to the U.S. by the Treaty of Pontotoc in 1832. Besides his wife, there were four children and three slaves, engaged in agriculture, living in the household.

By 1850 there were six children in the household. There was also an Irish school teacher and his wife residing with the family. The teacher had been engaged to teach the children because there were no schools near their settlement of Lorena in Smith County.

Around 1853 the Spinks family moved to DeWitt County, Texas. John Spinks' name appeared in the ledger of Crockett Cardwell about this time. William Alexander Spinks, his son, registered a brand in DeWitt County on November 6, 1854. Two more children were born to John and Elizabeth Spinks in DeWitt County. In 1860, besides the parents, there were Robert (age 21), John (age 17), James Joseph (age 13), Elizabeth (age 11), Angeline (age 9), Emeline (age 7), Cyrus (age 2, born in Texas), and Ray (age 4 months, also born in Texas). It is believed that Ray died as a young child. John's wife died before 1870. Cyrus, the youngest living child remembered a former slave named Uncle Aus who cared for him as a child.

John acquired several plots of land in and around DeWitt County. There are records that he sold 135 acres on the Sandies Creek to Silas McCabe on July 12, 1855 for $1200. Another plot of 640 acres near Clear Creek was apparently used as collateral for a loan from Brownson and Stanley (in Clinton) during the early years of the Civil War. The original debt of $383 with ten per cent per annum financing was incurred at Clinton on January 6, 1862. By 1866 the debt had grown to $546. Post Civil War times were hard in DeWitt County as they were in other areas of the South. The land was sold to pay this debt. On April 17, 1877, John purchased lots in Morgantown (Cuero). These lots were later traded for lots in Clinton. On the Clinton lots, John established a saloon. On February 10, 1877, John and his children. "heirs at law of Elizabeth Spinks, now deceased" sold 640 acres of land to R.B. Wofford.

Some of John's descendants remained in DeWitt County. Angeline, who married James R. Dubose, reared a family in the area. Robert, who married Eliza Brown, moved to Terryville where many of their descendants live today. Among those who remain in the Terryville-Yoakum area are Mary Alice Adams, Helen Foxell, and Robert Earl (Bobby) Manning. James, Eliza, and many of their descendants are buried at the Countyline Cemetery near Terryville. Cyrus Spinks's youngest child, Daisy Day, could remember not being allowed to go visit "Uncle Bob" at Terryville because she was too young to travel with her older siblings who visited more frequently with Robert Spinks's family.

Two of John Spinks's sons, Cyrus and James Joseph, married sisters who were daughters of George W. Brooks. Cyrus married Annie (Antheria) Brooks, and James Joseph married Charlotte Brooks. Cyrus and Annie Spinks lived their lives in DeWitt County.

Bill was educated at and graduated from Palestine High School where he played 1st trumpet in the Palestine High School Band. After high school graduation in May, 1940, Bill attended the Arlington, Texas branch of A&M University for two years where he was a lieutenant Colonel in the ROTC. In the heyday of radio, Shirley Rae Voelkel had her own radio show at the age of ten which was broadcast from the "Muti Hotel" weekly. Her accompanist was her mother. Semmler's Texaco Station was one of the sponsors and Shirley received her pay from their snack shop in the very best way, "hamburgers with everything on them." From ten years of age to 15, Shirley sang for many Rotary, Lion, and other Cuero functions. She often sang for the Music Lovers Club in Mr. Otto Buchel's lovely home. During this time she was a dance student of Allen Connor Sale and Shirley and Jane Moore, another student, performed as a dance team. At 15, Shirley began to sing for weddings and functions in St. Mark's Lutheran Church of which she was a member. After marriage in 1952, Bill and Shirley lived in Houston at 2205 Birdwood, near Sharpstown. Bill was employed by Lumus Construction Co. (built oil refineries) in Houston. Bill and Shirley lived in Houston for 8 years and then moved to Rockport-Fulton area where they owned and operated "Oak Shore Motel" for 11 years with Bill's mother. They were members of First Methodist Church of Rockport where Shirley directed the church choir and the Community Children's Choir for 11 years. This choir had a membership of 50 children of all denominations.

In 1973, the Bill Sprigg family with Bill's mother moved to Victoria and Bill became Chief Accountant for Victoria Iron & Metal Company and Shirley became Food Service Director and Registered Dietitian for Citizens Medical Center in Victoria. In October of 1982, they moved into their ranch home on Stratton FM Road 1447 with their son W. John Sprigg, IV. They built this home and accompanying buildings with their own ingenuity and labor in a country style and now call their place, "Sandy Fork Ranch." Here on 400 acres they raise cattle.

Bill Sprigg is now a retired rancher. He is active treasurer for the Cuero Rotary Club and is also treasurer for the newly organized Independent Cattlemen's Association of Cuero. Photography and building are his hobbies. Shirley is Clinical Dietitian, Registered and Licensed, for Citizens Medical Center where she teaches cardiac and diabetic patients. Lewis Leroy Squyres and his family came from Louisiana to DeWitt County about 1853. Lewis was the son of William P. Squyres and his wife Annie. William P. Squyres was born in Edgefield County South Carolina between 1755 and 1774. William and Annie settled in Catahoula Parish, Louisiana about 1810-1812. Lewis was born there in 1814.

On December 23, 1832 in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana, Lewis L. Squyres married Horatio Newman, the daughter of Samuel Newman and Mary Ann Lovett Newman. Horatio was born about 1814 in Georgia.

Lewis and Horatio lived in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana and then moved for a short time to Sabine County, Texas. Lewis obtained a Conditional Land Grant Certificate #54 showing that he settled in Sabine County November 1, 1838. He was issued 640 acres on September 5, 1839. Tax records show that Lewis Squyres paid tax in Sabine County in 1840. The Sabine County Courthouse burned so there is no other record of his early land transactions in Sabine County.

Lewis and Horatio were apparently back in Louisiana by 1841. By this time Lewis was a preacher as well as a farmer. He was listed, along with Jonathan Newman, in 1847, as a Representative to the Concord Association. The 1850 Census has the L.L. Squyres family listed in Union Parish, Louisiana.

Lewis and Horatio came to DeWitt County, Texas about 1853 along with other early pioneers such as the Hollans, Hargroves, Shows and Granberrys. These families settled in what is now the Hebron Section of DeWitt County.

Lewis L. Squyres preached for the next twelve or fourteen years. He held meetings and performed many marriages. Horatio died sometimes in the mid-1860's. There is no record as to where she is buried. Lewis married Mrs. Martha Ann Presnal Hobbs in 1867 in Lavaca County. He died sometime before 1880 in Lavaca County and is buried in the Salem Cemetery.

The children of Lewis and Horatio Squyres were (1) Sarah Squyres, born about 1834 in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana. (2) Russell Moody Squyres, born May 18, 1838 in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana. STANCHOS, DAVID AND DORA

The earliest written records indicate that David and Dora Stanchos (other spellings include Stancyus and Stanzaus) arrived in DeWitt County around 1860. Although very little is known about the original immigrants prior to their arrival in DeWitt County, bits and pieces of their early lives have been preserved through oral history within the family. The following information is based on those family stories and research conducted by one of their descendants, Caroline Wischkaemper Schorlemer.

David Stanchos was born on November 1, 1822 in Osznuggarren, Niederungs Kreis, Germany to David Stancyus and Euricke Girgyd. Family tradition relates that David was the only member of his large family to survive a terrible plague that swept Europe in the mid-1800's. Dora was born on February 28, 1824 in Laben Gembiennen, East Prussia, Germany. Her father's name was Carl Sohloze; her mother's name is unknown. It is likely she was an orphan since a family document states that she was a ward of Thomas Zimmerman. In 1852 David and Dora immigrated to America from Germany. They were Lutherans and brought with them a spinning wheel and other household goods. They apparently settled briefly in Louisiana where David worked as a fisherman. At some point during their early years together in Germany or perhaps in Louisiana, they had twins who died.

Eventually, David and Dora moved on to DeWitt County. Texas. David made a living hauling freight from Indianola. The 1860 census of DeWitt County shows that David and Dorothea Stanzaus were residents of Clinton (the county seat at that time). Their occupation was farming. Their real estate was valued at $300, and their personal property was valued at $200.

On August 2, 1860 Friedrich (Fred) August Rudolph Stanchos was born; he was baptized by a Methodist circuit rider minister on December 25, 1860. Mary Friedericke Stanchos was born on February 12, 1863 and was baptized on February 23 of the same year, probably by a circuit rider minister. St. Paul's Lutheran Church was founded in Yorktown in 1872 and, there, on March 29, 1874, Fred was confirmed.

The David Stanchos family was the first to settle on the Gruenau prairie in 1872. They owned 1720 acres of land. The original Stanchos home was built in 1877 and still stands today. The Stanchos farm and ranch was on the Indianola-El Paso Road and many wagon trains passed by the Stanchos home. The old well at which the wagon trains stopped is also still standing in the front yard. On one occasion when a wagon train stopped to water the mules at the Stanchos well, young Fred's pet sheep got away. The wagon train was on its way to Indianola to unload its goods onto ships and reload the wagons with supplies for inland settlers. When the caravan returned to Gruenau eight days later, the pet sheep was with the mules. The sheep had made a round trip of two hundred miles.

David Stanchos died on January 7, 1903 in Yorktown. Dora preceded him in death. She died on February 19, 1899 in Yorktown.

Fred married Emilie Karoline (Lena) Sasse on February 19, 1886. They had six sons and seven daughters. Mary Stanchos married William F. Kerlick on October 19, 1881. They had nine sons and three daughters. The descendants of David and Dora now number in the hundreds.

STARK, MICHAEL

Michael Stark was the first white male child born in Yorktown, arriving on November 6, 1852. His parents, William Stark and Henriette Gluth Stark had arrived in Yorktown via Indianola earlier in 1852.

Michael and his two older sisters, Emily and Ida Luisa born in Germany, and the younger children Emma and Paul Carl all attended the Yorktown school which first opened its doors in 1855 with one teacher, Herr Fuchs.

According to one newspaper account, the leading young men of Yorktown in 1877 were Mike Stark, Fritz Kraege, Albert Meyer, Julius Hoff, and Robert Zuch. Four popular young ladies were the Misses Anna Meyer, Malvina Heissig, Emma Stark, and Agnes Range. Thus it seems only natural that on May 21, 1877, at three o'clock Michael Stark and Anna Justine Meyer were united in marriage at the home of her parents. The handwritten invitations, signed by both Michael and Anna, were sent to family and friends.

Michael worked as a wheelwright and saddle maker in the early years of his marriage. The young couple moved from Yorktown to Helena to Pearsall and then returned to Yorktown.

Michael Stark and Anna Meyer Stark were parents of six children. Eleanora Marie was born on March 11, 1878. The following year on December 16 William Julius joined the family in Helena. Letter which flowed between Anna and her mother show how greatly Anna was missed. Edgar Adolph was born on July 18, 1883, but his brief life ended on October 24, 1884.

In a letter to Anna dated January 1884, Michael wrote that everything in Pearsall was sad. There were ten hotels, four stores, four saloons, and one other saddle shop. Houses with no water rented for $15 a month. Two years later in 1886 Michael had opened his new saddlery shop and was selling saddles for $15 each. Soon after his family joined him in Pearsall. At that time Eleanor remembered hearing a cry that wild boars were coming, so she and her younger brother William ran for the pens and escaped the javelinas.

The family stayed together in Pearsall for several years, but Anna became homesick for her family and friends in Yorktown. The four Starks returned to Yorktown where Michael worked with Fritz Kraege who sold dry goods, groceries, and hardware. The Starks set up housekeeping in a home Michael built just a block from Main Street and not far from the depot. A vegetable garden, fig trees, a grape arbor, and wild plum trees added much to the beauty of the home.

On March 15, 1893 Dorothy Cecilia was born to Michael and Anna Stark. By this time Michael had acquired several hundred acres of land near Davy. On weekends he travelled to Davy in the buggy to care for the land and cattle which he was accumulating. July 1, 1897 cattle which he was accumulating. July 1, 1897 was an especially exciting day in the Stark household with the birth of twins Albert Adolph and Helen Virginia. A year later, the oldest daughter Eleanora was married from the family home.

German plays were frequently performed in Yorktown. Michael and his sister Emma were often performers, but Anna was never permitted to participate as an actress. Even in the early years of hard work and difficult times, Anna always took a nap in the early afternoon, usually lying on the floor. Then she had a bath, put on a freshly starched frock which she had somehow found time to launder, starch, and iron and went calling on her friends and neighbors. Sometimes she attended the Leseverein to increase her knowledge and to share her talents.

Each of the Stark children was given all the advantages available, including music and elocution lessons plus opportunities to study in New York or at the San Marcos Normal School. Both parents were active in community efforts from the laying out of public roads to presiding over the local Mothers' Club and serving on the Executive Board of the Civic Club.

In 1913 the second Stark daughter was married in the family home. Shortly thereafter Anna and the twins moved to San Antonio where the family resided until Michael passed away on July 2, 1933. His death was followed by that of Anna on February 28, 1941. Frequent trips to Yorktown and a continued interest in the land accumulated at Davy kept Yorktown ties alive though the Stark family no longer maintained a home in Yorktown.

Granddaughter Dorothy Strieber fondly remembers her grandmother Anna Stark as a completely bilingual individual. She spoke English and German with equal facility and instilled a love of Germany in her grandchildren, though she never had the opportunity to travel there. She encouraged the children and grandchildren to learn German by bribing them to learn ten new German words weekly. Not only were the words committed to memory, but they had to be correctly spelled and used in a sentence. Remuneration for this memory feat was ten cents. Though Anna's education was limited to the public school in Yorktown, she was completely familiar with the original German works of Goethe and Schiller. Dorothy remembers Michael Stark as a tall man with a beautiful shock of silver hair, wonderfully patient, kind and diligent. He often placed children and grandchildren in his Model T Ford touring car for the trip to the farm in Davy. This pioneer family added much to the history of early Yorktown.

STARK, WILHELM EDWARD

Wilhelm Stark was born on January 22, 1822 in East Brandenburg Province in Prussia. On November 10, 1843 at the church at Schokuhren in Lozelton in Gumbinnen, he was joined in marriage to Henriette Gluth, who was born on August 18, 1816 in Lozelton, Prussia.

The ensuing few years were spent in Germany, and the marriage was blessed with three children born there: Wilhelm Edward born August 3, 1844 in SPUKHAN; Emilie born October 10, 1847 in Spukhan; and Ida Luisa born February 6, 1850. The following two years saw great changes in their lives — they emigrated to Yorktown, Texas via Indianola.

The first child, Wilhelm Edward, died on March 21, 1852, probably in Germany since no grave for him exists in Yorktown. Their fourth child, Michael, was born on November 6, 1852 in Yorktown, the first white male child born there. Emma Henriette joined the family on September 11, 1855; and the last child, Paul Carl, was born January 7, 1861.

William Stark was one of the original seventeen signers of the contract engineered by Franz Hoppe by which they purchased the Yorktown tract of 1050 acres and several other tracts placed on auction at the court house in Clinton after a dispute with the York estate. Streets, public squares and a cemetery were included in the plans.

By 1855 the first school house had been constructed at a cost of $324 with O. Fuchs as the first teacher. The building had only two sides, being open at both ends. Children from a surrounding area of thirty miles attended. The Stark children surely were among this

William Stark was a freighter, transporting goods from Indianola to San Antonio, Austin, Houston or Matamoras. The journey round trip to San Antonio from Coleto required a full week and the same time to go Indianola. Freighters cooperated with each other for protection and companionship, camping at night near a convenient stream. During the night the horses were hobbled and turned loose to graze. Bells were attached to facilitate roundup. Rates for freighting services earned from $4 to $5 a hundred pounds. Goods consisted generally of dry goods, groceries, hardware, and whiskey. Bacon and potatoes were shipped from Coleto to San Antonio; cotton and cowhides went to Indianola.

Leaving for San Antonio with four to six horses to a heavy wagon, freighters would usually travel thirty miles to camp the first night at Ecleto Creek. The second night they camped at Cibolo Creek near Southerland Springs, and on the third night at the Salado within sight of San Antonio. On the fourth day they would drive into San Antonio on East Commerce Street and load the wagons for the return trip, starting back immediately. Three days later they were back in Yorktown preparing to go to Indianola.

On July 15, 1861 at the beginning of the Civil War records of the Yorktown Hulen Reserve Company, list W. Starke a member. During this same time period, Wilhelm also served as one of the early postmasters of Yorktown.

According to an account written by Anna Meyer Stark, Henriette Gluth Stark was "short, chubby, and had dark hair and brown eyes. Her education was good. Wilhelm Stark was six feet tall, had a good education, and was postmaster of Yorktown."

On May 24, 1862, William wrote his will, naming as his sole heir his wife Henriette Stark. The will was written and witnessed in Matamora, Republic of Mexico by two fellow Yorktown citizens. On January 24, 1864 William Stark succumbed to smallpox and is supposedly buried in Brownsville or Matamoras.

His wife Henriette with two children, Emily and Michael, travelled to Brownsville to retrieve what they could of his possessions. An inventory of his assets listed part of block #50 (2640 square varas) worth $125; 126 dry beef hides worth $100; and notes of money owed totalling $459.47, leaving his widow and five children a total of $600.82 after all his bills were paid.

When Michael and Paul were older, they built a home for their mother adjacent to her daughter's home in Yorktown where she lived until June 7, 1903. Henriette Gluth Stark is buried at Westside Cemetery in Yorktown.

STEINERT, MAX

The "Max Steinert" family in Germany, New York, and Texas

The "Steinert" family line can be traced back to the late 1700's in a small village area in Chemitz, Saxony, now part of East Germany, Hermann "Max" Steinert's parents, lived in this southeasterly part of the Republic of Germany around the 1830's or 1840's. They were both born in Germany. Max's father was Carl F. Steinert and his mother was Theresa Boettner.

Carl and Theresa had at least one other child, a daughter, they name Bertha Steinert, born in December of 1868 in Burjersdorf, Saxony, Germany. They could have had other children, however, I do not know if they or any of their other children ever came to America.

Bertha married Herman Irmscher in December 1888, in Germany and they immigrated to New York in 1891. Early in their married life Bertha and her husband were employed in the textile industry, where they became specialized knitters. Later in Yorktown, Texas they farmed, and Mr. Irmacher was also a stone mason.

Max Steinert came to New York in 1887. There he married his long time sweetheart Hedwig A. Henschel. He was a 22 year old tradesman, having listed his occupation as that of a silk weaver and lace maker.

On February 29, 1888, their first child, Max "Henry" Steinert was born in New York City. (Henry married Sophie Pargmann on January 17, 1912. He passed away June 8, 1965 at their home in Ft. Worth, Texas.)

The second child of Max and Hedwig, Elsie Steinert, was born in January 1890, in New York City. (Elsie Steinert Buchanan died May 13, 1978 in Raytown, Missouri, and is buried there at Forest Hills Cemetery.)

Their third child, Amy Steinert was born November 26, 1894 in Yorktown, DeWitt County, Texas. (Amy married Hugo Voelkel, in August of 1914. Amy and Hugo raised nine children. She passed away February 19, 1988.)

Tildie Steinert was born in December 1898, in Yorktown, DeWitt County, Texas. (She married Alvin Huck. She currently resides in Tumwater, Washington.)

Max Steinert, Jr. was born February 28, 1901. (He married Henryetta Hauser in 1924. He died September 3, 1977, in Richmondville, New York.) In their younger years, they were musicians and performed in New York.

Another son, Alfred Hermann Steinert was born in Runge, Texas, August 22, 1904. (He married Martha Schlenstedt, April 12, 1926. He died November 13, 1967.)

Edna Diane Steinert, born March 22, 1906, married Albert P. Schirm. She lived in San Antonio, Texas for many years. (She died February 21, 1985 in Newark, Delaware.)

It's recorded that Hermann "Max" Steinert died on April 7th, 1909, having been drowned in Cabeza Creek, on the road leading from Nordheim, to his home.

Hedwig returned to Brooklyn in 1920 with her younger children. She returned to South Texas in June of 1935 in failing health. Hedwig Steinert died November 14, 1935, and is buried beside her husband in the Nordheim Cemetery, in Nordheim, Texas. On the headstone is a German poem.

The "Henry Steinert" Family in New York and Texas

Max "Henry" Steinert was the oldest son of seven children born to German immigrants, Hermann "Max" Steinert and Hedwig A. Henschel. Henry's birthday was February 29th, 1888, a Leap year! He told a story about having to wait eight years once between birthdays, when in 1900 there was no leap year.

After living five years in the New York area, and after the birth of Henry's sister Elsie, on January 6, 1890, this young family moved to South Texas. There Henry's five other sisters and brothers were born. At first they lived in Yorktown and later they settled on their own farm just south of Nordheim.

When Henry got word of his father's fatal drowning accident, an article printed in the "Nordheim View", Nordheim, Texas, April 15, 1909, stated, "Henry Steinert arrived from Washington where he was employed in the government hospital."

Henry stayed on in Nordheim, Texas after his father's funeral, to help his mother with the family farm. There he met Sophie Pargmann. They were married in Yorktown, Texas on January 17, 1912. Six children were born to this couple.

Harry Gerhard Herman Steinert, was born in Runge, Tx, September 25, 1912. Harry married Dorothy Schwarzkopf, August 3, 1940 and had three daughters, Diane, Pam and Cathy. Harry and Dottie have lived, raised their children, and still reside, at their home on Wayside Drive in Ft. Worth, Texas. They hope to plan their Golden Anniversary celebration on the same date as the annual family reunion in late July 1990, at the Nordheim Shooting Club Recreation Hall.

Sadie Steinert, was born in Nordheim, Tx, August 2, 1917. She married Nathan Thomas Coffey, November 10, 1937. They had three daughters; Noretta, Barbara, and Carolyn. She is now married to Roy Lee Fielder, June 16, 1971 is their wedding anniversary. They live in Ft. Worth, Texas.

Leroy Steinert, was born in Burkburnett, Tx, November 29, 1920. Leroy married Neva Klinkerman, of Clara, Texas, April 4, 1943, and had a daughter, Frances Darlene, a son, Philip, and another daughter, Sheila. Leroy passed away January 19, 1987.

Billie Marie Steinert, was born in Burkburnett, Tx, July 8, 1925. Billie married Gerhard Nieman, December 17, 1949, and had a son, Max Carl, a daughter Krista Ruth, and another son, Kurt Arthur. Billie and Jerry live in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Betty Leigh Steinert, was born in Burkburnett, Tx, September 22, 1928. Betty married Lynn Brandon, and had a son, Douglas. She is now married to Jack Morgan. They and their children live in Burleson, and Ft. Worth, Texas

Joy Steinert, was born in Burkburnett, Tx,

August 31, 1930. Joy married Bobby McLeod and had two children Gena Kay and Gary Wayne McLeod. They and their families live and work close by in Euless, Texas.

All together there are fifteen grandchildren, seventeen great grandchildren, and six greatgreat-grandchildren of Sophie and Henry at this writing.

Henry and Sophie with their first two children had moved to Burkburnett, Texas by 1920. There they owned and operated a grocery across the street from the school. Their other four children were born there, and all six of them graduated from Burkburnett High School.

Henry and Sophie celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on January 17, 1962. Three years later, Henry passed away June 8, 1965, at the age of 77, at his home in Ft. Worth, Texas. Sophie followed, at the age of 88, on October 7, 1979. Henry and Sophie rest in peace at Moore Memorial Gardens, Arlington, Texas.

STEVENS, JOSEPH AND SARAH ANN STEEN

F884

Joseph Stevens (1810-1861) and Sarah Ann Steen Stevens (1820-1861) came to Texas in 1846. They came from a place called Steen's Creek in Rankin County, Mississippi.

William Steen (1783-1846) was the father of Sarah Ann Steen Stevens. Her mother was Mary R. Enochs Steen, who was born in 1792 and died August 19, 1846.

According to a book published in 1900 and entitled "The Steen Family," by Moses Steen: "After the death of his wife, William Steen and all his children then living, married and unmarried, nine in number, started October 30, 1846 to remove to DeWitt County, Texas. He was taken sick on the way and died soon after reaching Texas at the home of his brother-inlaw, Levi Noble in Nacogdoches. He was buried in the old North Churchyard about four miles from Nacogdoches."

Two of William Steen's sons afterward returned to Mississippi but the rest of the party continued their journey. They had all their belongings and livestock with them. There were about 100 slaves in the party. Elisha Stevens (1776-1851), the father of Joseph, was with them. Joseph and Sarah Ann Stevens had their two children, Mary and Josephine Stevens, with them. There were three sisters and four brothers of Sarah Ann in the party. One of the brothers was John Rumley Steen, the ancestor of the Hochheim Steens.

When the party reached Gonzales and were staying on the Mitchell ranch, Sarah Ann Stevens gave birth to a third child, Margaret Mitchell.

Joseph and Sarah Ann Stevens came on to DeWitt County where they purchased land lying along the Guadalupe River from two of Green DeWitt's original colonists. The land was in the vicinity of the Concrete Community. Sometime circa 1850 they built a large two-storied house which stood till the 1930's when it burned. It was located about a mile from Concrete where the Horace Parks house now stands (1990).

The cemetery was located a short distance behind and to the right of the house. Family tradition has it that Joseph Stevens chose that location because he knew that it would never be cultivated. The cemetery was soon needed because burials began in the 1850's and continued until the latest in 1988.

Joseph and Sarah Ann Stevens had eleven children, only four of whom survived to adulthood and marriage. The four were:

I. Mary Stevens (1842-1902) married Dr. O.D. Coppedge (1835-1906). They had four children. (See Dr. O.D. Coppedge entry) There are many of their descendants living in the county.

II. Josephine Stevens (1844-1935) married John Tylor Wofford (1844-1910). They had eleven children. There are many of their descendants living in the county.

III. Margaret Mitchell Stevens (1846-1924) married Spearman Hudson (1836-1920). They had four children, two of whom survived to adulthood. None of their descendants live in the county.

IV. Elisha Stevens (1848-1943) married Blanche King (1853-1915). They had 8 children. Six of their descendants still live in DeWitt County.

Don and Nita call Cuero, Texas, their home even though they came from different areas in the state. Don, Sr., was born in Raymondville, Texas, October 29, 1925, to Roger Baines and Loreta Maddy Stiles. They met in Poteet, Texas, during their senior year in high school and after graduation were married, December 14, 1942. Don, Sr., spent two years during World War II in the infantry in Germany. While he was away, Nita stayed with his grandmother in Cuero. After his discharge from the service he joined her there. They liked the town and decided to make it their home. All three of their sons were born in Cuero. Donald Maddy Stiles, Jr., May 12, 1946, Clinton Roger Stiles, January 1, 1949, and Harvey Lee Stiles, August 23, 1951.

Don, Jr., and his wife Paula have three daughters. Leigh Ann Stiles was born September 26, 1970, and is a freshman at Texas A&M University. Paula Susanne Stiles was born November 19, 1973, and Mary Elizabeth Stiles was born July 10, 1979. After Don, Sr., returned from the military service, he started working at several area cattle auctions and shortly after decided to start his own business of raising, buying and selling cattle. In 1955, Stiles Cattle Company, Inc., came into being. As the three sons finished school and military service, each came back to be a part of the enterprise.

It takes 2000 acres of land of their own and many acres of leased land to carry on the varied operations. The Stiles Cattle Company, Inc., policy was and still is one of honesty and integrity, and their word is like an old fashioned hand shake.

Today Stiles Cattle Company, Inc., includes Don and Nita, their three sons and wives, and ten grandchildren, and is truly a family affair.

STRIEBER, CHARLES

Charles Strieber was born July 21, 1843, in Hanover, Germany but was brought to America by his parents when a mere child. They landed at Indianola in 1846 then came to Yorktown, Texas two years later. His father was a contractor and builder and also owned a farm and raised cattle. Charles assisted his father on the ranch, taking care of the cattle from the time he was able to sit in a saddle until 1862, when he entered the Confederate service, enlisting in the Eighth Texas Infantry with which he served during the war. When he returned home he entered the employ of Louis Prager, working in his tin shop for one year. In 1867 he formed a company and built a mill and gin and also established a blacksmithing and wheelwright business. Two years later he removed the mill to Rancho, Gonzales County, where he lived for eighteen years. In 1887 he returned to Yorktown and purchased the Riedel mill and gin and conducted it successfully until October 20, 1893, when it was destroyed by fire. In the spring of 1893 Mr. Strieber erected a new gin. The main building is a two-story structure and there are also two seed houses, a hull house, grist mill, and a one-story office building.

On June 21, 1867, Charles Strieber married Miss Mary Zedler in Yorktown. They have seven children.

Charles Strieber died March of 1896. Mary Strieber died July of 1938.

STRIEBER, LOUIS

F888

Because Louis Strieber spent most of his life in Yorktown, this town became a much better place. Louis was born January 26, 1874 to Adolph Strieber and Marie Wagenschine Strieber, both members of pioneer families. When Louis was only ten, his father passed away, leaving Marie to care for his four children and his businesses.

On January 26, 1895 Louis celebrated his twenty-first birthday with a calico ball at Riedel's Hall. Girls wore calico dresses and boys wore calico shirts and danced without their coats. It was one of the most pleasurable and unusual events of the year.

Shortly after his twenty-ninth birthday, on February 7, 1903, he married Mamie Crawford in San Antonio. Mamie was born September 28, 1877 to John Crawford and Mary Esther Miles Crawford, daughter of one of the defenders of Texas at the battles of Anahuac and San Jacinto. When the Striebers returned to Yorktown, they were honored together with their friends Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Dunn with a large reception on March 1.

Louis Strieber

Mamie (Crawford) Strieber

In August 1904, Louis attended the World's Fair in St. Louis and also bought materials for the M. Strieber and Sons Dry Goods Store which had been opened in 1893.

On April 4, 1905, Louis and Mamie welcomed the first of their eight children, Mary Esther. Karleman followed on January 28, 1906, missing his father's thirty-second birthday by only two days. The growing family was joined by Louis Whitley on October 5, 1908 and by Gwendolyn Ursula on April 28, 1910. Edward Miles, named for his famous grandfather, was born on his father's thirty-eighth birthday — January 26, 1912. Three daughters completed the family: Madeleine born April 11, 1914; Mamie Erna born on December 30, 1918; and Margaret Loretta on January 21, 1922.

In October 1905, Marie Strieber returned to Yorktown to make her home in an apartment above the dry goods store that she and her sons owned. That same year blue ribbons from the Yorktown Street Fair and Carnival to Mamie Strieber for her pickles, tomato catsup, peaches and peach preserves.

Louis Strieber was truly an entrepreneur, trying different means of helping his fellow Yorktowners. In 1907 he invested in a cement block building machine. He displayed the first products while he familiarized himself with the process so that he could provide the building materials for a store building which he erected for himself.

The ensuing years found Louis buying imported coach stallions, gently buggy horses, residences, acreage on Coleto Creek, and the materials which had been used in the old City Hall. Louis and Mamie Strieber erected a new building to house The Yorktown News in 1913. Together with two other men, Louis purchased an 8000 acre ranch near Alice. Though Louis saw several deer, he failed to bring a gun with him. The secretary of the newly organized DeWitt Land and Cattle Company was Louis Strieber. Oil wells were being drilled near Cost, and Louis and several other businessmen invested in land nearby and barely escaped injury when the car they were driving had three blowouts which were repaired by using "bottled air." Four gallons of gasoline at this time cost fifty cents. Locally, Louis Strieber served on the committee to investigate methods of placing gravel on the main streets of

A memorable night in the lives of the Strieber family was April 7, 1915 when Mamie, Louis, and five of their children remember being awakened late at night when the Catholic church was completely destroyed by fire. Miles recalls seeing the fire when he was three years old. Louis' World War I patriotic efforts included being appointed by Mr. McAdoo, U.S. Treasurer, as a government agent for the sale of war savings and thrift stamps. He also raised funds for the Red Cross drive. He and other businessmen agreed to use the English language exclusively in transacting business and in general conversation as far as possible, excluding the German language.

Oil continued to interest Louis through 1920, but his civic interests proliferated as well. He bought a fine Jersey toro in order to give owners of Jersey cows a chance to breed them. He served on the Chamber of Commerce. He was appointed to the Board of Equalization for the school district and served on the following city committees: finance; sanitation and health; electric light and telephone; ordinance; public parks, cemeteries, streets and bridges. He was also elected as an alderman for many years. He assisted in planning the Yorktown World's Fair.

Louis, ever ready to experiment, ordered goods for his dry goods store from Rice-Stex in St. Louis and A.B. Frank Company in San Antonio by a radiogram sent by his son, Louis Whitley, who had designed and built his own radio station. This was truly a step into the future. He called neighboring farmers together to interest them in producing onions, pledging to plant ten acres in yellow Bermudas himself. He was instrumental in the organization of the DeWitt County Taxpayers' League and gave freely of his time to present speeches in neighboring areas.

Louis Strieber was also involved in obtaining pavement along Main Street and around the traffic poles. With other interested people, he established a creamery in Yorktown. He was a representative to the Rural Resettlement Administration to seek aid for distressed farmers in DeWitt County. He also attended section-wide Democratic rallies and entertained prospective candidates for governor of Texas in his home and at the country club.

Mamie and Louis Strieber celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with a trip to San Antonio, Kerrivlle, and New Braunfels in February, 1928. Meanwhile the eight Strieber children were growing up and going away to college. During the thirties the University of Texas at Austin was home to almost all of the children. Louis Whitley and Miles both followed their interest in flying by joining the Air Force as well.

Whitley and Karl Strieber assisted their father with his store. To aid local people with their livelihood, Louis extended credit to them during times of poor cotton, corn, and other crops so that they could survive over a year or two until crops improved. The people repaid their debts during prosperous times. Miles also assisted in the operation of the store after obtaining his B.S. in Electrical Engineering and finding no job during the depression of the 1930's. The dry goods store proved to be such a success that it made the listings of Dunn and Bradstreet.

Mary Esther received her Master's Degree in teaching. After attending Washington and Lee, Karl received his law degree from the University of Texas and practiced law in many small towns and in San Antonio. Whitley went to Tulane in Louisiana. He was a radio operator on boats and traveled world wide before he obtained his commission in the Army Air Corps. Whitley is well-remembered in a poem written by Clifford Gessler, a fellow officer after Whitley lost his life in an airplane crash in Hawaii:

O wings against the sky! O flower of dawn! And over the mountains flowing like waves to the sea

Wedges of wings and the rise and dip and the long curve of flight

Wings, and he not with them.

And he was happy always, but happiest there, circling across the meadows of the sky.

The flash of his eyes and the cadence of his laughter, they will go down with us in aeon years.

This is the death he would have chosen, he who loved life but loved better the roar of the motors, the plunge and soaring of wings, the rush of wind in the skyways

O flower of dawn! O wings against the sky! Gwendolyn obtained her degree in journalism from the University of Texas. Madeline earned her degree in teaching at the University of Texas and taught school for several years. Mamie received a degree from the University of Texas, and Margaret Loretta (Peggy) completed her education at Our Lady of the Lake with a specialty in speech therapy.

In July 1940 Alderman Louis Strieber became the acting mayor of Yorktown after the death of William Westhoff. Louis was re-elected until he decided to retire in 1945.

Johann Joseph Andreas Struber (Strieber) was born on 24 December 1801 in Gieboldshausen, Kingdom of Hanover, in what is now called West Germany. He was the son of Christoph Struber, a soapmaker in Gieboldshausen, and Catharine Nissel Struber. His parents moved to Zellerfeld, Kingdom of Hanover, where his father died on 29 April 1811 and his mother died on 12 October 1827. It was in Zellerfeld that Andreas completed his formal education and apprenticed as a cabinetmaker.

On 7 June 1831, Andreas married Johanne Henrietta Amalie Louisa Schrader at St. Salvatorius Catholic Church in Clausthal-Zellerfeld im Oberharz, Kingdom of Hanover.

Johanne Henrietta Amalie Louisa Schrader was born on 16 January 1801 in Clausthal, Kingdom of Hanover. Her father, Georg Christoph Schrader, was a master baker in Zellerfeld. Her mother, Johanne Ernestine Eleanore Thielen Schrader, died in Zellerfeld on 23 November 1823 and is buried in the cemetery at St. Salvatoriuskirche (Catholic Church) in Clausthal. Both of her parents had died by the time Amalie married Andreas on 7 June 1831 in St. Salvatoriuskirche in Clausthal-Zellerfeld. Andreas and Amalie became the proud parents of Georg Friedrich August on 19 November 1832. The next son, Carl Adolph was born 15 July 1839 and a daughter, Sophia Theresa was born on 22 November 1833. Two other daughters were born, Caroline and Louise, and a final son named Wilhelm. Each child was baptized in St. Salvatoriuskirche in Clausthal-Zellerfeld.

Part of the Verein immigrants to Texas, Andreas, Amalie, and their family departed Bremen on the Friedrich on 13 August 1846, and arrived in Galveston, Texas on 24 October 1846. While they were still living at Indianola, Calhoun County, Texas, their daughter, Sophia Theresa married Clemens Georg Ludwig Gottlieb Hartmann on 2 July 1847. Both Andreas Struber and his new son in law, C.G. Hartmann were among the first landed proprietors of the City of Yorktown, DeWitt County, Texas. Andreas Struber signed the contract to buy the land for the City of Yorktown on 30 July 1854. (Volume 66, page 73, Deed Records, DeWitt County, Texas.) Andreas was granted land in DeWitt County as part of the Fisher-Miller Colony.

Amalie Louisa Schrader Struber (Strieber) passed away on 21 December 1881 and was buried in Westside Cemetery, Yorktown, Texas. When Andreas died on 6 July 1885, they buried him next to his wife in their family plot in Westside Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

The Stubbs family history is believed to have originated with John Stubbs of Cappahosic, Gloucester Co., Virginia, about 1652, who is believed to be the ancestor of all the southern Stubbs. The origin of the family is thought to be in the Forest of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, England.

STUBBS, WALTER BERT AND JANINE

DeWitt County has been a significant place for Bert and Janine's family. Bert, as his Cuero friends and family call him, was born and reared in DeWitt County. In later years after he graduated from highschool, he was stationed in San Antonio during the Korean conflict. His friends teasingly said he fought the Battle at the Alamo because he fortunately was able to spend his four years of military service in the area close to DeWitt County. Seldom did he miss the opportunity to come home at least weekly to Cuero to see his mother, Mary and brother Bryan and his Cuero buddies.

Bert's father, Bryan Stubbs Sr. was also born and reared in DeWitt County. Born in 1897, he died in 1937 when Bert and Bryan Jr. were still young boys. Bryan Stubbs' parents, Green Berry Stubbs and Harriet Kelley migrated to Texas from Georgia and Alabama in the second half of the 1800s.

Bert's mother, Mary (Skrehot) was born in 1898. She was also reared and educated in DeWitt County. As a young woman in her twenties, she studied nursing at the old Burns Hospital. Her studies were interrupted by marriage and raising her two sons. However, in the late 1950s, she returned to her nursing studies and later after being certified, she nursed again in the old Burns Hospital. Appropriately, she retired from medicine about the same time the old hospital did. Mary's parents were Clement and Rosina (Orsak) Skrehot, who also spent many years in DeWitt County.

DeWitt County has been home to Janine's original family in Yoakum for over forty years. In 1949, Janine's mother, Charlotte (Ellsworth) Huebel moved to Yoakum with daughters, Janine and Karen to live with Charlotte's parents, Robert and Nell Haynes. The Haynes owned and operated a flower shop in Yoakum after Bob Haynes had retired from the Internal Revenue. The Haynes other daughter, Betty

Sue, was educated and married in Yoakum, to Robert Mann. If you go to Yoakum today you will more than likely see Charlotte, Betty Sue and their mother Nell at Haynes' Fabric Shop because Nell is still in the retail business six days a week and her daughters, who have been retired numerous years, occasionally help their mother, who has yet to retire and stays very busy. In 1951, Janine's mother Charlotte married Reuben H. Koether, who was city manager of Yoakum for over twenty-two years. They increased the DeWitt County population by two more when they gave birth to Laurel Lee in 1952, and Joseph Wayne in 1956.

Bert and Janine (Huebel) Stubbs were married in 1956. After living in Cuero for several months, they moved to Austin where Bert was graduated from the University of Texas. Bert was employed in several cities as their children were growing up. Suzanne was born in Austin in 1957. Kevin Kelly was born in Sinton in 1960. Walter Bryan, however, was fortunate to be born in DeWitt County, at the old Burns Hospital where Janine chose to return when Bert began a new job with Texaco in Houston. So it was during the Cuban Missile Crisis in October 1962 that Janine and her new baby, Walter Bryan, were tucked away safely on the top floor of Burns Hospital receiving much care and attention since they were the only patients for three days in the OB ward. They profited greatly, but the hospital did not.

In 1964, Bert and Janine bought forty-four acres, six miles from Cuero, off the Yoakum highway. While Bert and his family had to move to different cities as the children were growing up they always had their country cabin in DeWitt County to give their family a sense of security and roots. This is where the family has celebrated holidays, anniversaries, reunions, and weddings. The "Ponderosa", as the kids affectionately called it, has been also used to raise cattle, horses, train dogs for hunting, and to learn to drive cars, tractors, motor bikes and which consequently led to broken arms and legs.

Over the past few years, Bert and Janine have especially enjoyed their DeWitt County home as a get away from the city. Janine has retreated to the cabin to write her masters thesis while she attended the University of Texas. Bert loves to play golf with his friends in Cuero. Most of all the two of them have enjoyed getting reacquainted with old friends and meeting new ones in DeWitt County.

Today Bert and Janine are employed in Austin. Janine teaches at St. Michael's Academy. Bert manages an independent oil company. However, they still rush back to the country in DeWitt County on weekends to relax and be with family and friends. Its a great privilege to have a home in DeWitt County thirty-three years after they first left it. Having roots and being near friends that date back to one's youth in today's mobile society gives the Stubbs family a warm comfortable feeling. Hopefully, Bert and Janine will retire in DeWitt County and it will be home again in the true sense.

STURM, ERNEST JOSEPH AND META DIERINGER

F894

Ernest and Meta (Dieringer) Strum

On September 19, 1923 Ernest Sturm and Meta Dieringer began a romance that would span sixty-two years and produce 50 beloved children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren.

Ernest Joseph Sturm was born on October 16, 1902 the oldest son of John and Elizabeth Demmer Sturm in the Cabeza Community near Yorktown. He grew-up knowing only hard work and speaking only the German language, a custom that his father believed to be very important. In order to attend Catholic school he had to live in Yorktown with his grandmother, Isabella Hohn Sturm. He was later forced to leave school and help on the farm. This setback did not dampen his insatiable desire to read and educated himself. He will always be remembered by his family and peers as a student, a disciplinarian, and a leader; and of course a storyteller.

On a warm September night in 1923 he met Meta Marie Dieringer at a dance at the old school building in Clinton. Out of respect for her father, it was her first dance since his death the year before. Meta was almost 21; she was quiet and she was the most beautiful thing Ernest had ever seen. Out of courtesy to the other girls he arrived with, he did not dance with Meta until the very end. During their courtship, Ernest couldn't always get to Ratcliffe to see his sweetheart, so she had her brother take her to Cuero and put her on the train bound for Yorktown. Their courtship lasted just over a year and on November 25, 1924 they were married in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Cuero by Fr. Francis Palanche.

Meta Marie Dieringer was born in Lindenau on October 28, 1902 the oldest child of Severin A. Dieringer and Emilia Fuessel Dieringer. They moved to the Lost Creek area in 1907 where she attended her first school. In 1913 her family bought 450 acres in the Ratcliffe area on the Chisholm Creek.

After their marriage the moved into a house built by Meta's uncles on her family's farm. Ernest helped cultivate the land and tend the stock. It was in this home that their first four children were born. Ann Louise Sturm Neslony (Feb. 22, 1926), Emily Isabella Sturm Todd (Dec. 21, 1927), Norma Katherine Sturm Zengerle (Mar. 27, 1930), and William John Sturm (Nov. 13, 1931). In November of 1932 they moved to Nordheim where they had five more children. Mary Frances Sturm Kunschik (Mar. 5, 1933), Michael Joseph Sturm (May 29, 1934), James Alfred Sturm (Jan. 12, 1938), Eugene Paul Sturm (Feb. 21, 1941), and Marjorie Ruth Sturm Thedin (Jun. 23, 1943). During their time in the Nordheim area Ernest kept busy providing for his wife and family by farming, working as a supervisor in the WPA project for $1 per day, and later working at the Dewitt County courthouse on the Lot and Block Survey.

In November of 1943 they moved back to their original home on the family farm. On a cold and windy morning on January 29, 1945 their home caught fire and burned to the ground. With the help of family and friends they survived by living in the out buildings on the farm until their new home was completed in July. They bought a house from Hugo Zengerle in Meyersville, which they took down and rebuilt near the previous home site. Ernest and Meta also purchased 158 acres from Meta's mother and family in Oct. of 1943. Ernest farmed until the late 1950's and later raised cattle and hogs. He also began a successful painting business in the early 1960's. He became one of the most respected painting contractors in the Cuero area until 1976 when he was forced to retire after pacemaker surgery. He remained active on the farm until his death on September 16, 1985. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and Past Grand Knight, and for many years served as their recording secretary. He and Meta were faithful members and contributors of St. Michael's Church in Cuero. He is buried in Hillside Cemetery next to his son James Alfred Sturm who preceded him in death in 1966. Meta has remained on the farm and enjoys seeing her children, 20 grandchildren, and 21 greatgrandchildren.

Once a handsome young cabinetmaker named Ernst Sturm and a beautiful young fraulein named Isabella Hohn pledged their love to each other, perhaps on the banks of the beautiful Rhine River.

Ernst Sturm was born on December 5, 1854 in Braubach, Germany and died at a very young age on January 27, 1884. He is buried in Germany. He married Isabella Hohn in Germany in late 1877. Isabella was born on November 10, 1854 in Buir, in the Rhine Valley of Germany. Isabella (Hohn) Sturm ine Elise Sturm Demmer (Oct. 27, 1881) she was also known as Elizabeth.

After Ernst's death Isabella emigrated to the United States in June of 1892 with her three children and her brother, Arnold Hohn, posing as her husband. They settled in Yorktown and began their new life together. She raised them as any mother would, with love, a determination for improvement, and pride for their culture and heritage. She was also a midwife and an accomplished seamstress of wedding dresses. Isabella died in Yorktown on August 9, 1915 and is buried in Westside Cemetery.

The oldest child, John Sturm, married Elizabeth Dmmer on November 5, 1901. (Elizabeth Demmer Sturm is not to be confused with John's sister, Katherine Elizabeth Sturm Demmer who married Julius Demmer.) Elizabeth was born on March 10, 1883 in St. Hedwig, Texas, the daughter of Joseph Demmer and Louisa Schroeders Demmer and granddaughter of Polish pioneer and settler John Demmer. Demmer settled the St. Hedwig area with sixteen other families in the early 1850's.

Ernest Joseph Sturm, Philomena Sturm, Herman Julius Sturm, Arnold August Sturm, Mary Magdalena Sturm Moy, Matthew Joseph Sturm, Johnny Hubert Sturm, Clara Catherine Sturm DeReese, Leo F. sturm, and Hedwig Sturm; 59 grandchildren and 118 great-grandchildren. The second child, Emma Sturm Gips, born in Braubach, Germany, married Herman Gustav Gips in Yorktown on July 25, 1900. Herman was born on March 15, 1877. STURM, HERMAN J. AND ELEANORA WARZECHA

Herman Julius Sturm was the third child of John Michael Sturm and Elizabeth Demmer Sturm. He was born July 31, 1906, on the family farm at Cabeza near Yorktown, Texas. Herman grew up in a family of ten children: Ernest, Philomena, Herman, Hedwig, Arnold, Mary, Joseph, Johnny, Clara, and Leo Sturm. His grandparents were Ernst Sturm, Isabella Hohn Sturm, Joseph Demmer, and Louisa Schroeders Demmer.

Eleanora Elizabeth Warzecha was the sixth child of John Warzecha and Mary Biela Warzecha. She was born February 21, 1918, on the family farm at Three Oaks Community near Falls City, Texas, in Wilson County. Eleanora grew up in a family of seven children: Ella, Julia, Joseph, Gertrude, Isadore, Eleanora, and Albert Warzecha. Her grandparents were Josef Warzecha, Mary Jendrzey Warzecha, Jesse Biela, and Katarina Olinick Biela.

Of similar backgrounds, both Herman Sturm and Eleanora Warzecha grew up in large, hardworking farm families, who were devoutly Catholic. On September 1, 1936, Herman and Eleanora pledged their vows of love and fidelity at Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Falls City, Texas.

When Herman and Eleanora married, they had nothing. They knew it would be hard to start married life, but they worked very hard, and put their faith in God. Though they were poor in money, Herman and Eleanora Sturm were richly blessed by God with the true wealth of life, a healthy, happy, loving family of eleven children: Herman, born June 18, 1937; Theresa, born April 6, 1939; Albert, born April 28, 1941; Raymond, born September 21, 1943; Robert, born November 16, 1945; Wilbert, born October 31, 1947; Alvin, born July 31, 1950; Janet, born June 6, 1952; James, born November 24, 1954; Linda, born May 28, 1957; and Marvin, born November 25, 1960. "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul!" With eleven children, the spirit of Herman and Eleanora Sturm will surely not be lost.

Herman and Eleanora lived on three different farms, moving to the present farm four miles east of Yorktown on December 12, 1945. They purchased the farm in August, 1946, and raised their eleven children and lived there since. Herman loved farming, especially when his boys grew older and helped with custom peanut thrashing and hay baling. Eleanora has always enjoyed her garden, her flowers, and her chickens.

Time passed quickly, and soon the children grew up and began families of their own.

Herman Joseph Sturm married Pauline Theresa Motal on November 7, 1964, at St. Mary's Church in Victoria, Texas. Herman works as a mechanic at Alcoa Aluminum in Point Comfort. They made their home in Victoria, and raised three sons: Kevin, Gerald, and Byron Sturm.

STURM, JOHN MICHAEL AND ELIZABETH DEMMER

John Michael and Elizabeth (Demmer) Sturm

John Michael Sturm began his life in the village of Braubach, Germany, a peaceful town located on the banks of the Rhine River. He was born on Sept. 28, 1878, to the cabinetmaker Ernst Sturm, of Braubach, Germany, and his wife, a seamstress and future midwife, Isabella Hohn Sturm, from Buir, Germany. When John was five years old, his father died of illness at age 29 years, leaving his mother a young widow, and John the "man" of the family, and his sisters, Emma, age 4, Katherine Elise, age 2, and a third sister who died as a young child after her father's death. After Ernst's death on Jan. 27, 1884, Isabella and her three children moved back to Buir, Germany, to be with her family. Her parents were Johan Hohn and Elisabetha Wirtz Hohn, and two brothers were Arnold Hohn and Mathias Joseph Hohn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sucher

Robert H. Sucher came to the Nordheim area in 1898. He had emigrated from near Berlin, Germany and came into the U.S. at Galveston. His father, Joseph, and brother, Gustav, has also come to America, with the father planning to be here temporarily. Robert's mother, Gertrude Schiffov (sp) Sucher, daughter of a Russian army officer stayed in Germany as did the only sister, Francesca Sucher Duerwald.

Robert married Louise Bues, daughter of Henry J. (Johann Heinrich) Bues and Sophia Koenig Bues of Fayette County. Louise was a member of the Bues family that traces its history through Germany and Holland back at least to the early 1500s. Robert had written a letter telling his beloved mother of his marriage to this lady, asking her to come here also, and saying that she would like Louise very much. When the letter finally arrived, Gertrude had just been buried.

Robert and Louise had eleven children. Walter and Ella died in infancy. The others are: Irma, married to William Pohl, Herbert, married to Doris Brieger, Frances, married to Alfred Pargmann, Hertha, married to John Buesing, and after his death to Joseph Forsyth, Emil, married to Mary Miller of California, Arthur (deceased), married to Irene Jordan, Gus, married to Lydia Jaeger, Minnie, married to L.C. Sievers, and Ellie, married to Earl Yeary, and after his death to Dick Schendel. Herbert Sucher and Minnie Sievers reside in DeWitt County. Several of the others live in adjacent counties.

Robert Sucher was trained and apprenticed in the building trades in Germany, and his skill is evident in structures in Nordheim and neighboring towns. When he got to Yorktown his first job was taking over completion of a building that was begun with the foundation put together with wooden pegs. He finished the job with regular nails. Robert and Mr. Blanton decided to journey from Yorktown to Nordheim one day to investigate the new town. There were already five saloons there! Blanton returned to Yorktown to pick up his printing press and Robert's tools, etc., and returned the next day. While Blanton began printing The View, Sucher began building. He and an architect. Mr. Leutenbacher built the Osterloh-Neutzler store building in 1911. It still stands on Broadway. Robert had also built St. Paul Lutheran Church, which is still the main part of the church today. Another church he built was the Catholic church in Refugio, where he took a fall from the tall bell tower. About the worst thing that happened was that he broke his nose! He also had built the original shooting club hall (Schuetzen Verein Halle).

Robert and Louise remained in Nordheim until 1917 when they moved to the farm they had bought near Runge. The large lovely home of the period was just what the growing family needed. It even had indoor plumbing! Louise was an industrious homemaker and gardener. The yard had many lovely flowers and banana and magnolia trees. The place had several extremely deep in-ground silos. The family worked hard, but also had social gatherings, and would travel to San Antonio in their car to go to the opera house and other places of interest. They also motored to various places to visit relatives of Louise's, especially to the Orange Grove area.

Orange Grove area.

Their oldest son, Herbert, also became a contractor in DeWitt and surrounding counties, having also worked more than once on the Shooting Club complex and the Lutheran Church. He also built other churches, business places, and many homes. Another son, Gus, also was in construction all his life, owning his own company. Arthur served in the Army, then travelled extensively in his job with General Services Administration. Emil served in the Navy and also later worked for GSA on the West Coast, being involved with electronics supplies and shipping. The girls of the family were homemakers, mothers, and several worked in business.

Most of the children married persons from the local area and neighboring towns. From these marriages came the following grandchildren: Phillip Pohl, Carol Pohl, Norlene Sucher Ckodre, Nolan Sucher, Karen Sucher Blaschke, Kathy Sucher Ozuna, Gilbert Pargmann, Alfreda Pargmann Gisler, Robert Pargmann, Gerald Pargmann, Wilma Pargmann Cagle, Margie Pargmann Dominguez, Wayne Buesing, Janice Buesing Stifflemeier Level, Kirby Buesing, Mark Sucher, Martha Sucher, Lisa Sucher Mosteller, Sheryl Sucher Mueller, Don Robert Sucher, Arlen Sievers and Steven Sievers. All the grandchildren live in Texas, except for the Pohl and Emil Sucher families who live in California.

SUMMERS, E. T. JR.

Loucretia (Morris) and Emmett Tobias Summers.

Emmett Tobias Summers, Jr. was born at Hotel Dieu in New Orleans, Louisiana to Albertine Wagner and Emmett Tobias Summers, Sr. He lived in Covington, Louisiana with his parents until moving to Texas where his father had purchased the Coca-Cola Bottling Company. They came by car, and the trip lasted four days in 1926. Soon after his arrival, he enrolled in St. Michael's School where he stayed for his pre-high school years, and was graduated from Cuero High School in 1935.

E.T. attended the University of Texas receiving a Bachelor of Business Administration

Degree with a major in Management in 1939. While there, he was an active member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, and the Sigma Iota Epsilon, honorary business fraternity. On graduation, E.T. joined his father, E.T. Summers, Sr. as Sales Manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Cuero and Victoria. Actually, he had been active in all facets of bottling and selling Coca-Cola since childhood. As a young boy he did odd jobs such as sorting bottles, painting cases, and when older worked as a helper for the drivers, and then as a driver and salesperson himself. His Mother was fond of saying that E.T. had to be literally chased off from the plant when too young to help, but he loved the business so much he wanted to be there. He was with Coca-Cola for fifty-five years, serving as President of Cuero and Victoria for thirty-five years and for Gonzales for seven years. During that time he was very active in state and national bottling affairs, serving as a Director of the National Soft Drink Association in Washington, D.C. (all brands) for twelve years, as a member and President of the Texas Coca-Cola Bottlers Council, as a member and President of the Texas Soft Drink Association (all brands), as a member and President of the Main Stream Bottlers Council of Coca-Cola (national), and served on the Board of Governors for the Coca-Cola Bottlers Association in Atlanta, Georgia (national).

In addition, E.T. found time to serve Cuero as a member of the Cuero City Council, the Cuero Chamber of Commerce as member and President, the Cuero Federal Savings and Loan Association as a director since 1951, and at present Vice-Chairman of the Board. He was selected "Citizen of the Year" by his fellow citizens in 1966, and was chosen as Sultan Yekrut XII of the Cuero Turkey Trot in 1960. He also received the 4-H Club Award in 1963, and the Rotary Club Business Award in 1972. E.T. served as director and past Chairman of the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority for seventeen years. He was honored as an outstanding alumnae of Cuero High School in 1989. He is currently President of the Cuero Industrial Foundation, and President of the Civic Center.

On July 8, 1941 Miss Lou Cretia Morris of Yoakum, Texas and E.T. Summers, Jr. were united in marriage in a garden ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Benjamin Morris. A full moon added to the beauty of the eight o'clock ceremony. They spent their honeymoon in Los Angeles and Hollywood, California.

Miss Morris was born in Yoakum, the only child of Ida Middlebrook and John Benjamin Morris. Her father could trace his lineage to Robert Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Her grandfather, William Harrison Morris, served with distinction in the Spanish-American War. Her maternal grandmother, Cora Lee Howell Morris often told LouCretia the favorite story she remembered form her childhood. Her mother, who was Cora Lee before her marriage to Mr. Howell, said she remembered sitting on the knee of General Robert E. Lee when she lived in Virginia as a little child, and he came to visit her parents.

After graduating with honors from Yoakum High School, Lou Cretia attended Baylor University in Waco, Texas receiving her Bachelor of Business Administration Degree with a major in Education as well. She completed her work in three years. She was a member of the Beta Xi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, International Honor Society in Education, of the Kappa Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Alpha Chi National Scholarship Society, and Delta Delta Delta Sorority. In 1939 she was chosen Queen Ceres XII of the Yoakum Tom-Tom. As a teacher in Yoakum High School, LouCretia taught typing, shorthand, business correspondence, and bookkeeping; was sponsor of the Pep Squad; and sponsor of, and responsible for, publication of the "Bulldog", a weekly newspaper published by the commercial department. She was kept very busy with two classes meeting each period directly across the hall from each other, Lou Cretia has been actively associated with the Cuero Public Library since coming to Cuero as a bride in 1941. On joining the University Club she was immediately asked to serve on the book selection committee for the Cuero Public Library which the University Club sponsored at that time. The library was located in the basement of the old city park bandstand, and heavy rains frequently flooded the basement. Many times University Club members had to assist the librarian in drying out the books and discarding those too wet to save. When the City of Cuero assumed active management of the library in 1968, she was appointed a member of the Library Board and has served continuously since then in all capacities; president, secretary, a continuous member of the book selection committee, and is currently the Vice-President of the Board for 1989-1990.

Lou Cretia is a member of the University Women's Club, having served in all their offices and is Trustee, the Hawthorne Club, the DeWitt County Historical Commission, and the Pilot Club.

She has been an active member of the Baptist Church since joining as a young girl in Yoakum, Texas. She was church pianist while in high school in Yoakum, and moved her membership to Cuero when marrying in 1941. In First Baptist of Cuero, she was Superintendent of the High School Department for twenty years, a member of the building committee for the present new church building, chairperson for the Christmas decoration committee for many years, and is currently serving on that committee, the budget committee, and is Trustee for the church.

The Summers have lived in Cuero all their married life except for an interval during World War II. E. T. volunteered for service in the United States Army and spent his early training at Camp Frances E. Warren in Cheyenne, Wyoming after which he was sent to Officers Candidate School at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Virginia where he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant. (Lou Cretia accompanied him during this time working at various jobs.) After being commissioned, he was sent to the Harvard Graduate School of Business in Cambridge, Massachusetts. SUMMERS, E.T., SR. FAMILY

Emmett Tobias Summers Sr.

Albertine (Wagner) Summers

Emmett Tobias Summers was born on January 15, 1894 in Abita Springs, Louisiana to Tobias and Katie Strain Summers. He was second of four children: Otis, Victor, and Clara Nancy. Their father, Tobe as he was called, died when Mr. Summers was only seven. He was forced to quit school at the end of the sixth grade to help his mother with operating a hotel, and with the expenses of rearing a family.

When Emmett was in his late teens, he worked for a lumber company in Slidell, Louisiana about twenty-eight miles away. One night he was returning to work by rail, and stopped at the Covington, Louisiana station to change trains. A group of Covington young people came to the station to catch a train to Abita Springs to attend a dance. He visited with some that he knew, and they introduced him to Albertine Wagner who would eventually become his wife. He was so taken with Albertine that he decided to return to Abita Springs with them and attend the dance. This was the beginning of a romance that would lead to the marriage of Albertine and Emmett on September 28, 1916 in Covington, Louisiana.

Albertine Mary Wagner (Teenie as her family called her) was born on October 30, 1891 to Jeanette Fontaine and Peter Wagner. She was one of two daughters born to this union, her sister dying at age twelve of acute appendicitis. Her father died when Albertine was only two and her mother later married Jean Marie Aoueille, a French immigrant to New Orleans, Louisiana from the Bordeaux area of France. They lived in New Orleans where Mr. Aoueille had a bakery, and later he moved his family and business to Covington. Six children were born to this union.

Emmett and Albertine lived in Slidell, Louisiana following their marriage where he was foreman and overseer for a lumber company. However, in 1921 he bought the Coca-Cola plant in Slidell, and in 1923, purchased Pineland Springs Coca-Cola of Covington, and moved to Covington. Three years later, Mr. Summers learned there were some plants for sale in Texas, and he decided to investigate. As a result, he purchased the Coca-Cola Bottling in Cuero, and moved his family to Texas in 1926. (See Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Cuero in Business Section).

The Summers had five children. Emmett Tobias, Jr., Fabian Marvin, Genevieve Mary, and Leon Paul were born in Louisiana, and Elmire Gertrude was born in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers were members of St. Michael's Catholic Church. Mrs. Summers was a faithful supporter of St. Michael's Altar Society.

Mr. Summers served on the City Council of Cuero for many years, and was a dedicated worker for the city's growth. He also steered his business through the Great Depression, and World War II successfully, and lived to see a tremendous growth in added sales and franchises, growing from two counties to eight counties in size.

Mrs. Summers was a devoted wife and mother. She was a genteel, loving person both to family and friends.

Mr. Summers passed away June 25, 1961, and Mrs. Summers died on January 25, 1987. Both are buried in Hillside Cemetery in Cuero.

SUTTON FAMILY

F90

James and William Sutton came to DeWitt County in 1856 when their mother, Cynthia Shults Sutton married William J. McDonald. Their father, "Jack" (John) Sutton died in Fayette County.

Cynthia was the daughter of Polly Martha and Christly W. Shults, a Fayette County farmer. C.W. Shults died in DeWitt County in 1888, and is buried at the Taylor-McCrabb Cemetery. Cynthia is buried at Thomaston, with this inscription on her marker:

"Mrs. C.E. McDonald, nee Shults, born June 2, 1826, died April 6, 1903,

Willie and Laura Sutton

First husband Wesley Sutton, second husband C.E. McDonald"

There is no explanation for the inconsistency in information. There was a C.E. McDonald, but Cynthia was not married to him.

Cynthia Shults Sutton was a widow with two young sons. William J. McDonald was a widower with two small daughters. Then when W.J. McDonald's brother, John William, died, he took in his niece, Laura Eudora. Laura's mother, Leah Kirsh McDonald died in 1853, shortly after the family arrived in Texas, in mule-drawn wagons from Brandon, Missouri. Laura's father opened a store in Clinton, but died in the winter of 1859.

William Sutton married Laura McDonald in DeWitt County. A daughter, Laura Elizabeth, was born to the couple, but died in infancy. William Sutton was a DeWitt County deputy sheriff and rancher.

One night, before he was to leave the next day on a trail drive, Laura handed Bill a sack of gold coins that she had saved. He was to buy her a nice set of flatware. When he returned, after many months, he presented his wife with the beautiful sterling utensils. Later that night, as the story goes, he casually tossed the sack of gold goins that Laura had saved, back into her lap. He had bought the silver with his own money, earned on the drive. Laura used the flatware the rest of her life and it remains in the family today, and she tucked away that small bag of coins as a reminder of their live.

Laura was pregnant with their second child when William Sutton was murdered, on board the steamship, Clinton, at Indianola, March 11, 1874. He is buried in Evergreen Cemetery in Victoria.

His wife returned to DeWitt County, and on August 24, 1874, their daughter, Willie Slaughter Sutton was born. She grew up near Burns Station, and later attended the Nash Academy in Cuero. One classmate of Willie's was John Calhoun, the oldest son of Annie Rennolds and John Richard Calhoun. Willie and John were married at the First Methodist Church in Cuero, November 5, 1895.

John went to work for the Southern Pacific Railroad and the couple moved to Houston, first, and later to Sanderson, before moving back to home at Victoria. Willie died unexpectedly in March 1908, leaving John with their three children to raise. Laura Sutton, who had never remarried, raised her grandsons: Norman, Ralph, and Frank. Years afterward, John Calhoun married Willie's best friend, Beulah Nash, the daughter of Cuero educator, D.W. Nash.

Laura Sutton died in 1930 and is buried near her beloved husband and daughter in Evergreen Cemetery in Victoria.

SYMA FAMILY

F903

Pauline (Kozielski) and Louis Syma

About nine miles southeast of Yorktown, Texas, lies a 176 acre farm with an old frame home which has been in the Syma Family for over 125 years.

Frank Syma, Sr. and Frances (Danysh) Syma

Albert Syma and his wife, Maria Lipinski Syma, originated in Hamburg County, Prussia, where Albert Syma was a magistrate. Albert Syma and Maria Lipinski Syma immigrated to America and settled in DeWitt County, about nine miles southeast of Yorktown. They purchased a 176 acre farm in 1864, and built a frame house in 1872. The house is a two story structure with a steep roof. The boys slept upstairs, and the girls and parents slept downstairs.

Albert and Maria Syma had several children: Ludwig, Maria, Adam, and Tom Syma, Sophie (Syma) Biemer, who married Felix Biemer and settled in Runge, Texas, and Louis J. Syma, who married Pauline Kozielski and stayed on the Syma family farm in Yorktown, Texas.

Louis J. Syma (09-01-1865 to 05-14-1927) and Pauline A. (Kozielski) Syma (02-07-1869 to 05-25-1960) had four children: Lucille (Syma) Brantley (06-12-1895 to 12-25-1986), Agatha Syma, Susan "Cecelia" Syma Petras (09-08-1902 to 12-05-1984), and Frank Syma Sr. (01-29-1890 to 10-09-1978). Frank Syma married Frances Danysh and they also stayed on the Syma farm.

Frances Danysh (08-16-1892 to 01-31-1978) was the daughter of Louis Danysh and Mary Koronczok Danysh. She grew up in Yorktown in a family of eight children: Anastasia (Krawietz), Agnes (Kozielski), Louise (Biemer), Frances (Syma), Peter Danysh, Konagonda (Migura), Benedict Danysh, and Veronica (Perkins).

Frank Syma Sr. took Frances Danysh as his wife, and they made their home on the Syma family farm in Yorktown. On this farm, they loved their ten children: Irene (10-25-1913 to 07-15-1961), Bruno (12-18-1915 to 03-20-1931), Joseph (04-14-1918), Maurine (Thompson) (08-30-1920), Lucille (Pitre) (10-31-1922), Severen (01-05-1925 to 02-02-1925), Sebastian (01-09-1926), Frank Jr. (10-04-1928), Frances (Glisson) (03-13-1931), and Robert (10-27-1934) Syma. Severen died of pneumonia as an infant of 28 days old.

Bruno Syma was killed at age 15 years. On March 20, 1931, Bruno and his little brother, Frank Jr., age 3-½ years, were dragging logs from a field in a wagon. It was almost noon, and Mother called the boys home for lunch. When Bruno was leaving the field to go home, he started getting on the wagon, in his usual way, by stepping on the double tree, then on the wagon bed. On this morning, when he stepped on the doubletree, it caused the trace chain to hit the right mule in the flank. The mule began to run, causing Bruno to fall backwards off the moving wagon, and the fall broke his neck. He died a few minutes later that morning.

The children grew up, and knew the hard work and close family spirit of working together on the farm. But time passed quickly, and soon the children of Frank Sr. and Frances Danysh Syma began their own lives. On the farm, Frank and Frances enjoyed many grand-children.

Irene Syma married Dennis Korzekwa from Poth, Texas. They married at St. Michaels's Catholic Church in San Antonio, and had a big reception on the Syma farm. They had no children.

Joe Syma married Sally John in San Antonio, Texas, where they made their home. They had five children: Robert Joseph, Barbara, Sandra, Jeannette (Newburg), and Mona (Syma) Moore.

Maurine Syma became the bride of Arnold Alvis (A.A.) Thomason from Arkansas. They married in San Antonio, then settled in Austin, Texas, and raised four children: Marjorie Ann (Hanshaw), Carol Ann (Winkley), Michael Alan, and Teresa Ann Thomason.

Lucille Syma married Francis "Errol" (Moose) Pitre in San Antonio. They made their home in Groves, Texas, near Port Arthur, and raised six children: Marcus, Lucille (Ayers), Raymond, Christopher, Kenneth, and Marion Pitre.

Sebastian (Sabie) Marcellus Syma took Hazel Hicks from Hillsborough, North Carolina, as his wife. They married in Hillsborough, then made their home in San Antonio. They have three children: Linda (Pederson), Mark, and Phillip Syma.

Frank Syma Jr. married Mary Louise Kotara from Cestohowa, Texas, in Cestohowa. They made their home in San Antonio, and were blessed with five children: Rachel, Russell, Rebecca, Reyne (Shaffer), and Rory Syma.

Frances Syma Glisson lived in Victoria. She had six children: Thomas, Deborah (Ballin), Mitchell, Rita (Shimek), and James Glisson, and Mary Ann (Hubbard).

Robert Syma married Chris Shrimpf from Ettlingen, Germany. Robert brought his bride to America, and settled in San Antonio, Texas. They have two sons: Frank Earl and Justin Syma.

After 65 years of marriage, Frances Danysh Syma died January 31, 1978. That same year, Frank Syma Sr. died October 9, 1978. They are buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Yorktown.

The Syma family farm is still owned by some of their children. The 115 year old home is still in use in 1989 for family gatherings and reunions, where every year, the Syma siblings and their children and grandchildren gather and remember the legacy of the Symas who lives, and who loved each other, and the old house, and the Syma Family Farm.

STUBBS, WALTER BERT AND JANINE

DeWitt County has been a significant place for Bert and Janine's family. Bert, as his Cuero friends and family call him, was born and reared in DeWitt County. In later years after he graduated from highschool, he was stationed in San Antonio during the Korean conflict. His friends teasingly said he fought the Battle at the Alamo because he fortunately was able to spend his four years of military service in the area close to DeWitt County. Seldom did he miss the opportunity to come home at least weekly to Cuero to see his mother, Mary and brother Bryan and his Cuero buddies.

Bert's father, Bryan Stubbs Sr. was also born and reared in DeWitt County. Born in 1897, he died in 1937 when Bert and Bryan Jr. were still young boys. Bryan Stubbs' parents, Green Berry Stubbs and Harriet Kelley migrated to Texas from Georgia and Alabama in the second half of the 1800s.

Bert's mother, Mary (Skrehot) was born in 1898. She was also reared and educated in DeWitt County. As a young woman in her twenties, she studied nursing at the old Burns Hospital. Her studies were interrupted by marriage and raising her two sons. However, in the late 1950s, she returned to her nursing studies and later after being certified, she nursed again in the old Burns Hospital. Appropriately, she retired from medicine about the same time the old hospital did. Mary's parents were Clement and Rosina (Orsak) Skrehot, who also spent many years in DeWitt County.

DeWitt County has been home to Janine's original family in Yoakum for over forty years. In 1949, Janine's mother, Charlotte (Ellsworth) Huebel moved to Yoakum with daughters, Janine and Karen to live with Charlotte's parents, Robert and Nell Haynes. The Haynes owned and operated a flower shop in Yoakum after Bob Haynes had retired from the Internal Revenue. The Haynes other daughter, Betty

Sue, was educated and married in Yoakum, to Robert Mann. If you go to Yoakum today you will more than likely see Charlotte, Betty Sue and their mother Nell at Haynes' Fabric Shop because Nell is still in the retail business six days a week and her daughters, who have been retired numerous years, occasionally help their mother, who has yet to retire and stays very busy. In 1951, Janine's mother Charlotte married Reuben H. Koether, who was city manager of Yoakum for over twenty-two years. They increased the DeWitt County population by two more when they gave birth to Laurel Lee in 1952, and Joseph Wayne in 1956.

Bert and Janine (Huebel) Stubbs were married in 1956. After living in Cuero for several months, they moved to Austin where Bert was graduated from the University of Texas. Bert was employed in several cities as their children were growing up. Suzanne was born in Austin in 1957. Kevin Kelly was born in Sinton in 1960. Walter Bryan, however, was fortunate to be born in DeWitt County, at the old Burns Hospital where Janine chose to return when Bert began a new job with Texaco in Houston. So it was during the Cuban Missile Crisis in October 1962 that Janine and her new baby, Walter Bryan, were tucked away safely on the top floor of Burns Hospital receiving much care and attention since they were the only patients for three days in the OB ward. They profited greatly, but the hospital did not.

In 1964, Bert and Janine bought forty-four acres, six miles from Cuero, off the Yoakum highway. While Bert and his family had to move to different cities as the children were growing up they always had their country cabin in DeWitt County to give their family a sense of security and roots. This is where the family has celebrated holidays, anniversaries, reunions, and weddings. The "Ponderosa", as the kids affectionately called it, has been also used to raise cattle, horses, train dogs for hunting, and to learn to drive cars, tractors, motor bikes and which consequently led to broken arms and legs.

Over the past few years, Bert and Janine have especially enjoyed their DeWitt County home as a get away from the city. Janine has retreated to the cabin to write her masters thesis while she attended the University of Texas. Bert loves to play golf with his friends in Cuero. Most of all the two of them have enjoyed getting reacquainted with old friends and meeting new ones in DeWitt County.

Today Bert and Janine are employed in Austin. Janine teaches at St. Michael's Academy. Bert manages an independent oil company. However, they still rush back to the country in DeWitt County on weekends to relax and be with family and friends. Its a great privilege to have a home in DeWitt County thirty-three years after they first left it. Having roots and being near friends that date back to one's youth in today's mobile society gives the Stubbs family a warm comfortable feeling. Hopefully, Bert and Janine will retire in DeWitt County and it will be home again in the true sense.

PLISKAL'S HOME BAKERY 209 West Main St. Creed joined Sam Houston and went through the Battle of San Jacinto. Creed said, "I was not afraid and thought only of fighting, I believe every man was ready for the fray."

Creed described his return home as, "the happiest day of my life." In early 1840 Creed said he "was struck by a love at first sight from which he never recovered." The young lady was Nancy Matilda Goodbread. Nancy, along with her father Phillip Goodbread and her sisters and brothers, came to Texas in 1834. Two of her brothers fought in Texas' struggle for Independence and her great grandfather's participation in the American Revolution has been verified.

One of Nancy's brothers, Joseph, was killed by Charley Jackson in Shelbyville in 1837, setting off what historians have labeled one of the greatest feuds in Texas history – The War of the Moderators and Regulators.

Creed and Nancy married April 25, 1840 in Grimes County; they built a log cabin on Ecleto Creek. A concrete storehouse owned by Creed was the first courthouse and was located in Sutherland Springs.

Creed said that six weeks after their marriage he "rode away to war" and for all practical purposes did not return for three years. Now we know that he made a few trips home because late in 1840, Nancy gave birth to their first son, John Hays, named after the famous Texas Ranger, John C. Jack Hays, under whom Creed fought. In 1842, Phillip Goodbread Taylor, called Doboy, was born and in 1844, Caroline Hepzibeth Taylor, named after Creed's mother arrived as a new Texan and ultimately my great grandmother. My mother, Delvia Nell Spencer Tschirhart received much family tradition from her.

August 12, 1840 found Creed in the Battle of Plum Creek and then on an Indian hunt with Robert Howard. He rejoined the Texas Rangers under Capt. Jack Hays and participated in the Battle of Bandera Pass and fought in the Battle of Salado. When the Mexican War broke out, Creed was off again and fought in nearly all battles from Palo Alto to Buena Vista. He also participated in the ill-fated Meir Expedition, obviously drawing a white bean; those who drew the black beans were killed.

And now to the regrettable Taylor-Sutton Feud. Creed said it had its beginnings when, following Texas becoming a Free Republic, an element of people rushed in having little or no regard for the law. They began harassing the old time community members, in some cases misappropriating their property, and land and threatening them with bodily harm.

In an attempt to defuse the situation, Creed, a Master Mason, suggested that members of each party gather at the Masonic Lodge and let the Masons act as mediators. The trouble did subside until after the Civil War.

Buck Taylor, Creed's nephew, was shot by William Sutton, his sons Hays and Doboy got into trouble with the Union Officers. Creed felt they did so in defending their honor against insult. Reconstruction was certainly not presented with much regard for the high spirited Texans and most historians agree that the tactics of the State Police and Regulators were in many cases questionable and in others, downright contrary to the law they had sworn to uphold.

In addition to losing his two sons, (a loss from which he never recovered), Creed lost his brother, Pitkin, his two sons-in-law, the Kelly Bosy, and his nephew, Buck Taylor. Many more relatives and friends were lost. Much loss of life and grief occurred with the Sutton faction as well and while it is hard for us to comprehend the feud in today's time frame, we should not now sit in judgement or question the motives of those who truly felt their actions to be well justified.

In 1866, Caroline married William Addison Spencer, then County Clerk of Old Karnes County; he worked out of the Helena Courthouse. When her mother, Nancy died in 1867, Creed deeded their home on the Ecleto to Caroline and W.A. Spencer. Creed relocated to Kimble County. Caroline and her husband would later follow Creed where W.A. Spencer figured prominently in Kimble County politics, serving as County Clerk, Sheriff and County Judge.

In 1873, Creed married Lavina Spencer (W.A. Spencer and Lavina Spencer's fathers were brothers). Life for Creed was happier then. They lived in what was known to most as "The Taylor Mansion" at the head of the James River in Noxville. Creed probably named the James River after his father's father, also named James. The home was constructed over a two year period of hand chiseled stone over a foot thick and had two full front porches suspended by nine porticos. Said to be one of the finest houses in the southwest, my grandmother, Mineola Northcutt Spencer (who married Creed's son, James Josiah, "Kince") said it was always open to "the young folks who could dance til daylight" as Creed watched with Creed and Lavinia (called Aunt Vennie by our family) had five children. Mary, who married Gip Hardin and later Mr. Waddle, Linnelle, who married Mr. Blount, Minnie who married Mr. Jay and James Phillip Hays (named after both sons Creed lost in the feud and his grandfather) who married Effie Whetstone, and Little Creed who died at about the age of eleven of lockjaw. Mother described Grandpa Creed Taylor as "fiesty, but kind and loving". She recalled that he often took her on his knee and told her stories about Indian fights and other battles; she was, no doubt, hearing Texas History first hand. She remembered the days just before and after his death vividly. They were at a tree trimming party at the Spencer School, located on her parents ranch at Segovia when they received word of his worsening condition. They left by horse and buggy immediately on that Christmas Eve and stayed at the Taylor Mansion until he died the day after Christmas, December 26, 1906. Mother said the huge home was filled with friends and relatives; she attended his funeral at Noxville Cemetery. It was the first time she had seen him travel in a wagon . . . he was always on horseback no matter how bad the weather.

Creed was a guest of honor at the Battle of Flowers Fiesta – then called a Carnival in 1904. He is expected to be honored in some way at the Fiesta Centennial in 1991.

When Creed died, our family lost a dear loved one – Texas lost one of the youngest and believed to be the last survivor of their struggle for independence.

Elizabeth Ann (Silcriggs) Taylor, wife of Joe Taylor.

John Milam Taylor, eighth son of Joe Taylor and Elizabeth (Silcriggs) Taylor.

Elizabeth Silcriggs Taylor was born November 28, 1838, in Washington-on-the-Brazos, the daughter of Henry David Silcriggs and Minerva Newman. At the time of her marriage to Joe Taylor in DeWitt County she was probably living with her grandmother, Rachel Rabb Newman, widow of Joseph Newman, an Austin colonist. Rachel Newman is buried in the Salt Creek Cemetery near Davy, Texas, near Elizabeth's older sister, Lorena Minerva Silcriggs and her husband, William Burt. Another sister, Serena, wife of Richard Foster, is buried in Glen Dale Cemetery in Goliad.

These three sisters were the only children of David Silcriggs and Minerva Newman who were married about 1833, probably in Colorado County. David Silcriggs came into Texas in 1825 as an eighteen-year-old orphan who was born in Mississippi according to Austin's Register. He was the son of William Silkrig II and Catherine Scanlan who were married December 29, 1800, in the Natchez District of Mississippi, now Adams County. William Silkrig II came to the Natchez area with the Lyman Colony from Connecticut in 1774 where he settled on St. Catherine's Creek.

William Silkrig II was the son of William Silkrig I who came to Middletown, Connecticut about 1730 from Glasgow, Scotland, and there he married Judith Mallaree on December 10. 1733. He was a barber by trade and spoke only Gaelic. The births of all their children are recorded in Connecticut. William Silkrig's death on January 10, 1756, in Waterbury, Connecticut, was reported in a New Haven newspaper in this way: "he slipped on the ice, broke his skull, and died instantly."

TAYLOR, HESTER LEE

Hester Cunningham (Lee) Taylor

And Her Brothers

Hester Lee was born in Ireland in 1816, but she spent the last twenty years of her life in Cuero. She was one of the ten children of Samuel Lee, a well-to-do Londonderry merchant, and one of the seven who came to America. Hester came to Jackson, Tennessee, probably around 1834; and it was there that she married Irish-born William Taylor in 1836. Their two daughters, Frances and Martha, were born at Gallatin, Tennessee, and the family later moved to Selma, Alabama, William died nursing yellow fever victims at New Orleans in 1843. Hester was left a widow of 27.

About 1856 Hester came to Texas with her two little girls, two brothers, and an unmarried sister. She taught school at Mission Valley in Victoria County; and there in 1858 her sister, Margaret Lee, died.

Later Hester lived with her daughter Martha (Mattie) and son-in-law Samuel Lee Kyle. There was never any question about what Lee Kyle should call his mother-in-law he called her Aunt, because she was his mother's sister.

Hester's older daughter Frances (Fanny) married Confederate General Arthur Bagby of Halletsville. They had seven children, one of whom was State Representative Will Bagby.

The older of Hester's two Irish-born brothers who came to Texas with her was Ralph (pronounced Rafe) Lee, a printer. In his old age Ralph lived with the Kyles in Cuero, and died there in 1892. The other brother was St. George Lee, a writer who was much published in the Galveston News. He died in Halletsville in 1870.

Long after the death of her husband Hester was seriously ill. She said - she had died. At the moment of death, she saw William, her young husband, and he said, "Hester, I have come for you, but you are not ready." So she lived on to prepare, so she would be ready. She read the Bible by the hour until, at length, her eyesight failed. Still she said, "There are two things I can do without my eyes — I can knit and I can read the Bible." From years of reading she knew long passages by heart and would recite them with her hands resting on her Bible. She also continued to knit, and made mittens for all of her great-grandchildren, including my mother, Adelaide Garrett (Gill).

My mother remembers her Irish great-grandmother saying, "Let me look at you," and touching her face and hair. Then she laid her hands on the child's head and blessed her.

Hester died in 1909, aged 93.

TAYLOR, JOE

F910

Joe Taylor, second son of William Riley Taylor and Elizabeth Tumlinson, was born June 6, 1833, in DeWitt's Colony. There he married Elizabeth Silcriggs, daughter of David Silcriggs and Minerva Newman, on January 31, 1856.

During the Civil War Joe Taylor served the confederacy when he enlisted on May 3, 1862, in the 36th Texas Cavalry, Company G, 32nd Regiment, Texas Mounted Volunteers. This company was first commanded by his uncle, Josiah Taylor II, and later commanded by Col. P.C. Woods. He served in Texas and Louisiana.

In the years that followed the Civil War, Joe Taylor continued his successful farming and stockraising operations in Goliad County. He bought the house northwest of Goliad built in 1840 by the Vivian family. Later he built a house in Goliad proper designed after the "old stone house".

Joe and Elizabeth Taylor were the parents of eleven children, eight of whom were sons: John Milam, 1858-1923, married Penelope Ann Cresap; Elizabeth, 1861-1916, married Sidney Hord; Joseph Lee, 1862-1919, married Elizabeth Webster; Thomas Carney, 1865-1923, married first Laura Evans, second Lillie Bridwell Wheeler; William Riley (Buck), 1867-1920, married Bettye Davis; Charles Leslie (Les), 1869-1921, married Minnie Alice Yeater; Serena, 1870-?, married Nathan D. Fly: Mattie, 1873-1955, married Jefferson D. Seeligson; Henry David, 1875-1926, married Vashti Baker; Arthur E., 1876-1940, married Ola Sandherr; and Hayes W., 1879-1922, married Mollie Baker.

In the late 1880's Joe Taylor began buying land in Kimble and Edwards Counties. One deed recorded the sale of eleven sections to Gus Schriener. At varying times for a period of some twenty years, his sons were sent to this area to oversee his holdings there. Allan Stovall, in his volume entitled Nueces Headwater Country, states that at one time the Taylor family ran 1000 horses and 2500 cows on the open range.

By the turn of the century all of the sons had returned to Goliad County except Les who remained in Edwards County, and Tom and Henry who continued to live in Kimble County. Tom also eventually returned to Goliad County where he remarried and lived out his life.

Several of the Taylor sons served as sheriffs and deputy sheriffs at various times during their lives. Tom Taylor served as deputy sheriff and sheriff in Kimble County. Les Taylor also served as deputy there. William Riley Taylor served as sheriff of Goliad County from 1900 until 1902 and again from 1904 until 1906. Arthur Taylor's son, Claude Taylor, was Goliad County sheriff from 1948 until his death in 1960. William Alonzo Taylor, son of William Riley Taylor, served as sheriff of Jim Hogg County from 1928 until 1950, a period of twenty-two years which is the longest tenure in the history of the county. He later served as a Texas Ranger.

Joe Taylor died in Goliad May 23, 1923, just a few days short of his ninetieth birthday. He is buried beside his wife Elizabeth in Oak Grove Cemetery in Goliad.

TAYLOR, JOHN MILAM F911

John Milam Taylor was born September 11, 1835 across the Guadalupe River from Clinton near present-day Cuero, Texas on the eve of the Texas Revolution. His father, William Riley Taylor, arrived in DeWitt's Colony in June, 1828 and received his headright grant in what is now Lavaca County. His grandfather Josiah Taylor first came to Texas in 1812 and commanded a company of Americans involved in the Gutierrez-Magee Expedition, the ill-fated attempt to wrest Mexico from Spanish rule in 1813. Josiah barely escaped Texas with his life after being seriously wounded at the Battle of the Medina. He returned with his family to DeWitt's Colony in 1829 and died in 1830. His wife, Hephzibeth, John Taylor's grandmother, received a headright grant in the Colony shortly thereafter.

John Milam's mother, Elizabeth Tumlinson Taylor, was born July 13, 1814 in Tennessee to John Jackson Tumlinson and Elizabeth Plemmons Tumlinson. John Tumlinson was killed by a band of Waco Indians in 1823 near present-day Seguin, Texas while crossing the Guadalupe River. His wife, Elizabeth, was the only woman to receive an Old Three Hundred Grant in Austin's Colony. John's mother died February 22, 1886 in Junction, Texas, where she is buried.

John Milam first settled on the land which would become his homestead (below Nordheim on the Manahuilla Creek) in the mid-1850's. Here he built the first of two log cabins which were later joined into a "dog-run" style house which still stands on this property. He married Mary Ann Couch on January 30, 1861. She and her twin 6-month old boys died from "fever" and are buried at the ranch cemetery. John enlisted during the Civil War in his uncle Josiah Taylor's Company G (P.C. Wood's Regiment, Texas Auxiliary Volunteers) in April, 1862. He was discharged two months later with a medical disability. He enlisted in his uncle Joseph Tumlinson's company of Mounted Militiamen for Home Defense in DeWitt County in 1863. Josephine L. Adams, from an early Colorado County family, became his second wife on May 11, 1864 near Columbus, Texas. They had three children: Josiah Preston, Nancy J. and Charles Milam. Josephine died May 24, 1884 and is buried at the ranch cemetery with her son Preston. John was married to his third wife, Virginia Harrington, on April 30, 1885. Virginia's parents traveled from Jackson, Mississippi to Texas in the early 1840's and settled at Manor in Travis County, where Virginia was born May 6, 1851. They married in Travis County and settled at John's ranch in DeWitt County where they had eight children, including Leona ("Lee"), Elizabeth, John Fletcher, Mae Agnes, Wm. E.C. ("Crain"), Myra Alice, Frances Rebecca ("Fannie"), and Martha Ann ("Annie"). Virginia died January 31, 1935 and is buried at Yorktown.

John Milam Taylor was a participant in the so-called "TAylor-Sutton Feud" of the post-Civil War era of DeWitt and surrounding counties. This bloody struggle reached its peak in the early 1870's and diminished only after Captains McNelly and Hall and their companies of Texas Rangers took up residence in Clinton to ensure that the courts functioned and that justice would be served. Although regarded as a "feud", the fighting which took place in this part of Texas during the decade following the Civil War was a result of the lack of willingness on the part of the Taylors, and other Southerners like them, to adjust to the tyrannical military rule of the Reconstruction government in Texas.

Many of the Taylors were considered "outlaws" and "desperadoes" who travelled in "gangs". They were dealt with accordingly by the federal troops and the "carpetbag" government in Austin. When the smoke cleared in the late 1870's, John's brother Buck and nearly a dozen uncles and cousins had been dispatched to early graves by enemy gunfire. John's uncle, Joe Tumlinson, had taken the "Sutton" side: the notorious gunfighter John Wesley Hardin had joined the Taylor faction and remained friends with John Milam until his death. John Milan somehow survived this fight with his land, cattle and horses intact. He accumulated nearly 20,000 acres at his ranch in DeWitt County, and during his life had ranched with his brother Joe over a wide area from Tilden in McMullen County to the Paint Rock area in Concho County. John Taylor was a respected and successful citizen of the community. He died on March 5, 1906 at his residence near Yorktown.

TAYLOR, JOSIAH AND HEPHZIBETH LUKER

From information on the program for the dedication of grave markers...supplied by the late Luther Hill, Sr.

Josiah Taylor was born in Virginia about 1781 in the James River area, probably below Richmond. There is no record of his early life in Virginia or his parentage. The first documented record is that of his marriage in Clarke County, Georgia, on October 1, 1807, to a girl born in South Carolina about 1790 with the distinctive name of Hephzibeth Luker. Their first two children were born in Georgia. William Riley Taylor was born in 1811, and his sister, Hardiena, was born in 1812.

Josiah then left to go to Texas and was gone a period of about four years. During this period he explored eastern Texas and became involved in the Gutierrez-Magee Expedition, an abortive attempt by a combination of Anglo-Americans and Mexicans to free Mexico from Spanish rule.

Josiah was one of the several captains commanding the Americans in the total force which included Indians as well as Mexican armies. Captain Josiah Taylor's men had been chosen with two important requirements in mind: they had to be well-mounted and proven marksmen with the rifle. In at least two of the four battles which were fought against the Spanish forces, Captain Taylor's company were in the center of the line and carried the brunt of the attack. The nucleus of the force assembled in Natchitoches, Louisiana, and moved on Nacogdoches which they took with only token resistance. Their next objective was La Bahia, on the coast. The Spanish governor at San Antonio moved to dislodge the invaders, but after several indecisive encounters, he retired to San Antonio followed several weeks later by Samuel Kemper who had commanded the forces at La Bahia. Kemper had succeeded to the command after the death of Lt. Augustus Magee. At the Battle of Rosalis, near the confluence of Salado Creek with the San Antonio River near San Antonio, the Spanish Royalists forces were defeated, and San Antonio was taken on April 1, 1813. In an effort to retake San Antonio, a Spanish force lay siege to San Antonio. At the Battle of Alazan on June 20, 1813, the Royalists were again defeated.

In August a new force lay in ambush on the Medina River and sent out forces to lure the expeditionary force toward the ambush. On August 18, the filibusters were defeated with great losses, and the survivors were sent flying toward Louisiana. Captain Josiah Taylor was one of some three hundred who survived the battle out of the total force of about fourteen hundred men originally engaged. His escape was possible because of the superb horse which he rode. But he did not escape unscathed; he received seven wounds in the battle and rode back to Louisiana with two rifle slugs in his body which were removed after the long ride back.

After he had recovered sufficiently to travel, he returned to Georgia to his wife and two children. Their third child, Joanna, was born there in 1817. Within two years he had moved his family to Tennessee. There Creed was born in 1820, and another son, Josiah, Jr., was born two years later. Then still another move was made, this time to Alabama. There two more sons were born, Pitkin in 1821/22, and Rufus about 1823. In 1824 he moved to Texas. James was born here about 1825. Their last child, Mary Jane, was born about 1828.

Josiah Taylor took his family into the Atascosita area in the most southeasternly part of Texas. The area was not opened for settlement until December, 1826. The family of Josiah Taylor was living in the area when the Atascosita Census of 1826 was taken. This document gives complete early information about the family as it came into Texas. However, the settlers of the Atascosita area were unable to get grants for the land on which they had settled, although petitions to the Mexican authorities were made and grants promised in due time. Some of the settlers lost hope of ever receiving grants, and when Green DeWitt received an empressario contract to settle four hundred families in his colony in April, 1825, Josiah Taylor moved to DeWitt's Colony, arriving January 16, 1829. His oldest son, William Riley Taylor, had preceded the family in moving to the colony. He arrived on June 28, 1828.

Josiah settled on the land not far from the present-day Taylor-Bennett Cemetery where he and Hephzibeth are buried. On February 1, 1829, he registered his marks and brands in the presence of John McCoy and witnessed by Green DeWitt. He also registered the brand and marks of Hephzibeth, "by her husband and next friend," and the marks and brands of Joanna, Creed, and Josiah Taylor, Jr. "who are minors, by Josiah Taylor, their father and next friend." All are on record in Gonzales County and also witnessed by Green DeWitt.

Josiah also applied for the grant due him as a colonist with a family. Certificate No. 58 was issued to him on May 28, 1830, a few months after his death; but this certificate was the basis for the grant of one league of land which was requested for his widow, Hephzibeth, by Green DeWitt, saying in part, "the interested party is a respectable lady and the widow of the colonist, Mr. Josiah Taylor, who, in addition to having died in this colony after he had been admitted, had the special merit of being one of the patriots who with their arms defended the cause of National Independence at Bexar in the year 1813." The application was signed by Hephzibeth Taylor, widow of Josiah Taylor. Hephzibeth received her grant dated July 26, 1831. A few months following the death of Josiah Taylor, she signed a marriage contact with Patrick Dowlearn who was an adjoining neighbor and a widower. This marriage contact is also in the marriages recorded in Gonzales County, and it is dated July 20, 1830. They had one son, Joshua. Hephzibeth died in 1840 or Descendants of Josiah Taylor are numerous. William Riley Taylor married Elizabeth Tumlinson; Hardiena married Richard Chisholm; Joanna married Joseph Tumlinson; Creed married first Nancy Goodbread, second, Lavinia Spencer; Pitkin married Susan Cochran Day; Rufus married Elizabeth Loew; Josiah II married first Sarah Jane York, second, Emily Porter; Mary Jane married Achilles Stapp; and Joshua Dowlearn married Jane Lowe first, and Mrs. Rebecca Harkins second.

TAYLOR, THOMAS CARNEY

Thomas Carney Taylor was born July 23, 1865, in Clinton, DeWitt County, Texas, the son of Joe Taylor and Elizabeth Silcriggs. The marriage of Thomas Carney Taylor and Laura Evans is recorded in Menard County November 28, 1882, while they were residents of Kimble County. Laura was the daughter of Edward Evans and Sarah Odom. She was born in Gonzales County, Texas, June 1, 1865.

To this union were born eight children: Thomas Walter, 1883, married Elizabeth (Bessie) Rogers; Sarah Elizabeth, 1884, married Thomas Hodges; Charles Aquilla, 1886, married Ethel Turner; Serena M., 1888, married Johnnie Graham; Cloma, 1891; James Leslie, 1894, married Myrtle Bartley; Clarence Arthur, 1899, married Maudye Nunn; and Deana Lorena, 1903, married Albert Ray Taylor.

Laura Evans Taylor was divorced from Thomas Carney Taylor and died in Kimble County July 10, 1918. She is buried in the Junction Cemetery. Tom Taylor returned to Goliad and married Lillie Bridwell Wheeler. To them were born three children: William Riley, Henry Harold, and Esther Lee.

Thomas Carney Taylor died July 14, 1923, in Kerr County, Texas, and is buried in Glen Dale Cemetery in Goliad, Texas.

TAYLOR, WILLIAM RILEY

On January 12, 1850, William Riley Taylor died at his home in DeWitt's Colony and was buried in the McCrabb Cemetery near Cuero. In the years that followed, four of his children found their final resting places beside him. Thirty-six years later and two hundred miles away, his wife, Elizabeth Tumlinson, was laid to rest in the cemetery at Junction, Kimble County, Texas. Although it was her wish to be buried beside her husband, the year was 1886 and travel was slow.

William Riley Taylor was born February 16, 1811, in Clarke County, Georgia, the oldest child of Josiah Taylor and Hephzibeth Luker. They were married in Clarke County, Georgia, by Isaac Suttles, an itinerant Baptist minister. Josiah Taylor first came to Texas as a captain in the ill-fated Magee-Gutierrez Expedition about 1811. After he returned to Georgia, the family began a series of moves that would bring them to Texas.

William Riley Taylor received his land grant on August 8, 1831, having preceded the rest of the family to DeWitt's Colony, arriving June 28, 1828. He received his land grant for one league of land "on the main stream of the Lavaca, contiguous to the road which goes from this town to San Felipe de Austin and about twenty-five miles in that direction." This league is in present-day Lavaca County near the northwest corner, near the town of Moulton.

One of the earliest marriages by bond in Gonzales County on March 14, 1830, is that of William Riley Taylor and Elizabeth Tumlinson born July 13, 1814, in Tennessee. She was one of eleven children of John Jackson Tumlinson (1776 North Carolina/1823 Texas) and Elizabeth Plemmons (1778 North Carolina/1829 Texas) who were among Austin's Old Three Hundred colonists. Tumlinson was the first Alcalde of the Colorado District and was killed by Indians July 3, 1823, near Seguin, Texas.

At least seven generations of native-born Texans descend from William Riley and Elizabeth Taylor. They were the parents of nine children: Creed (1831/1855) married Eliza Ainsworth; Joseph (1833/1923) married Elizabeth Ann Silcriggs; John Milam (1835-1906) married (1) Mary Jane Couch, (2) Josephine Adams, (3) Virginia Harrington; William P. (Buck) (1837/1868) married Mary Anderson; Martha Ann (1840/1861) married Joseph McCartney; Elizabeth (Lizzie) (1843-1930) married Thomas J. Bailey; Eliza Jane (1846-1877) married Abednago Hyatt; Delaney Hephzibeth (1848/?) married Joseph McCartney; and Amanda (1850-1873) married Abednago Hvatt.

Although only thirty-nine years old at the time of his death, William Riley Taylor will be remembered as a courageous pioneer in the early days of Texas, serving a short term in the Army of the Republic of Texas for which he received a bounty land grant.

TENNELL/TERRELL, SAMPSON MACK

F915

Samson Mack Tennell/Terrell was born ca. 1805 in Kentucky. His father may have been George Tennell of Madison Co., KY who later settled in DeWitt Co., TX. Sampson's mother's maiden name was Susan Emmert. She is said to have married Sampson's father in Kentucky. Sampson was educated in Lexington, Kentucky, and had special interests in botany and medicine. He had a large library of medical and botanical textbooks which his eldest daughter later inherited and used in her herbal medicine practice. This daughter, America, later patented two medical preparations, one of which was an eye ointment.

Much of the information in this sketch comes from a little article that was dictated to W.W. Downing by his grandmother, America Mack Tennell Smith, ca. 1910. America was born either 19 November or August 1826 in White Co., IL and came to Texas with her parents when she was seven years old in March, 1833. Sampson was given a Mexican land grant of one league and one labor of land in what is now Goliad County, TX. Other children born to Sampson and wife were William, Lester, Jackson, Granville, Jane, Ann, and Milton. It is said that Milton became a union teamster during the Civil War and was killed in Arkan-

W.W. Downing related the Tennell's move to Texas as follows: "When he (Sampson) decided to come to Texas to improve his land, he acquired some good horses, but in coming through Louisiana, the John A. Murril gang stole all of his horse stock except one old mare. Grandpa MC did not like this at all so he followed them and found his horses being watched by one man. Do not know just what happened only that the watchman was left dead and that he recovered his horses. He knew then he would have to go on to Texas, which he did in March, 1833. Sometime later the Murrel gang followed him and came to where they lived one Sunday afternoon. A great believer in dreams, (Sampson) had one the night before which alerted him. He cleaned his guns and had them ready for use. When the gang rode up to the house and stopped, the leader got off his horse and stepped over the fence. Grandpop pointed his rifle at him and he went to his knees and begged Grandpop not to shoot him. One of the other gang members tried to go around him, but when he got to the door Grandpop's wife picked up a pistol and pointed it at him, and pulled the trigger. It failed to fire which saved the young man's head from being blown off. After a pow wow, the gang agreed they would molest him no more. I don't know why the MC Tennel family moved to DeWitt Co., near the town of Clinton, nor how long they lived there. During this period Granville, who was about 16 or 17 years old did some work for a man who was a horse racer and gambler. The man did not pay him for the work and when Granville asked for his pay the man told him if he ever asked again that he would horse whip him. This did not set well with the boy and said "If my pistol don't fail to fire I'll have buzzard bait tomorrow." The old man said do not depend on a pistol (and to) use a rifle. The next day Granville and William rode into Clinton. When they stopped at the store or saloon, the man came out and walked up to them and spoke. He caught William's rifle by the muzzle and said to Granville, "You dam puppy you have come to town for a row." That was the last words he was ever to speak. He died before he hit the ground. The dying man had such a grip on William's rifle that he pulled it from William's hands. The boys did not stop to pick up the gun, just rode away. This is what started the family to go north, as the gambler's friends got a crowd and followed them. They got close enough for a shooting match and Grandpa received a bullet through one hand. Joe Tomkinson followed to protect them and the family went on and settled in Leavenworth Co., Kansas."

America married John Lewis Smith, Jr. on 20 March 1849 in Bastrop Co., Texas. Her sister Ann married a German, John Grund who operated a beer brewery. The other sister, Jane, married William McKinley, a distant relation to President McKinley. It is not currently known which of Sampson's children made the move from Texas to Kansas except that America did not as she had already married John L. Smith, Jr. prior to the family's trek to Kansas. It is thought that they chose Kansas as either Sampson or his wife had Osage Indian lineage and therefore had land rights there. It is said that the MC Tennell sons took Osage Indian land but this has not been confirmed nor denied by the Osage records which are currently being held by the US Govt. in Pawhuska, Osage Co., Oklahoma.

TERRY, B.P. FAMILY

The Terrys were pioneer people in DeWitt County, Texas. The family was introduced to this section in 1857 by Roland Terry who came with his family from DeKalb County, Tenn. and settled on Fulchers Creek, DeWitt County, Texas. Later the little village of Cheapside sprang up around them.

Roland Terry was born in 1784 and his wife, Mary, was born in 1800. To them were born seven children: William, Weldon Edward, James, Lucy Ann Serina, Martha Frances, Amanda Melvina and Caroline Safact. Roland spent his life as a farmer. He died one year after coming to the state of Texas, 1858. His wife died in 1874.

When the Terrys came to Texas, there were no roads, no bridges, no fences, and no public schools — only a private school here and there when a teacher could be obtained. Traveling was done by horseback or in wagons. Pioneers usually built their homes near a stream so they could have water.

The Terrys came by boat from Tenn., and wagons were sent by Shelby Rackley, a grandson-in-law of Rolands, to meet them at the port of Indianola, Texas. From there they came by wagons pulled by oxen to the little creek in DeWitt County, where they built a log cabin. Later they built a better house which became the home of five generations: Roland, Weldon Edward, Bailey Peyton, Sarah Terry Carson, and Keyes F. Carson, Jr., who lives there at the present time.

Weldon Edward Terry, second son of Roland and Mary, was born in 1826 in North Carolina. He grew up in De Kalb County, Tenn., and married Emily America Isbel. To them were born: Bailey Peyton Terry, born 1850 and died in 1917; Carolyn, born 1853 and married Jacob Gordon in 1889; Madison Monroe, born in 1854 and died in 1901; Mary Polly born 1857 and died in 1887; and Weldon Henry born 1870, died 1957.

Weldon Edward was a Democrat, a member of the Presbyterian Church and served in the Confederate Army in Josiah Taylor's Company and Col. Wood's regiment. After the war, he returned to his home in DeWitt County, where he had settled when he first came to Texas. He lived here until he died in 1904 at the age of 79. His wife preceded him in death in 1894. He was a farmer and stockman, and had a blacksmiths shop at his place. He sharpened tools, mended wagons and made yokes for oxen.

The State of Texas was only 12 years old when the Terrys came from Tenn. and land was free. All one had to do was select a place for his home and build a house. When Weldon Terry went for his deed, he was offered all the unclaimed land between the two creeks, Sandies and Fulchers, which was several thousand acres, but he said that was too much land for one man. He'd rather have some neighbors. He told them to give him a deed for 500 acres, which they did.

James Terry, third son of Roland, was born in 1828 and was accidentally killed somewhere in West Texas in 1857, soon after coming to Texas with his family.

Lucy Ann Serina Terry, eldest daughter of Roland was born in 1831 and married a Mr. Montgomery. She remained in Tenn. when the rest of the family came to Texas. She had no children.

Martha Francis Terry, second daughter of Roland was born in 1833 and married Shelby Rackley. They came to Texas several years before the rest of the family, and they settled in Gonzales County. Here they both lived until they died. To them were born the following children: John Rackley, Mary Rackley, Sallie, Tom, Walter and Edward Rackley.

Amanda Melvina Terry, third daughter of Roland was born in Tenn. in 1836 and came to Texas with her family in 1857. She was a member of the Baptist church and married R.T. Hester. To them were born the following children: Terry Hester, William Hester, Mattie Hester, Katie and Nettie Hester.

Caroline Safaet Terry, the youngest daughter of Roland was born in 1839, and died when she was 8 years old, ten years before the family came to Texas.

Bailey Peyton Terry, oldest son of Weldon Edward and Emily Isbel, was born March 4, 1850 in De Kalb Tenn. He came to Texas with his parents and grandparents when he was 7 years old. He was young, but remembered a lot about traveling down the Mississippi River and the storm on the Gulf of Mexico before they reached the port at old Indianola.

When only fourteen years old, while his father was away in the service of the Confederate Army, he, with the help of a negro man, drove an ox wagon drawn by twelve yolk of oxen to and from Brownsville, bringing supplies to DeWitt and Gonzales Counties. These supplies consisted principally of flour, salt, sugar and coffee. They were very scarce and sometimes unobtainable. The ox wagons usually made the trip in groups for safety purposes. At one time, they were bringing seed potatoes when one of Texas' "blue northers' met them. Being warned by the familiar blue bank of clouds in the north, Peyton, as he was called, drove hurriedly, not taking time to rest the oxen before reaching the Peach Creek bottom in Gonzales County. There they built a big log fire on the north side of the wagon and spent the night. They saved their potatoes from freezing, and these were the only seed potatoes in the two counties that year. In all the other wagons the seed potatoes froze.

On February 10, 1875, Peyton married Mary Elizabeth Placker, who was born in 1852. Her parents were John and Mary Alexander Plack-er and her father came from Germany when just a young man. He settled in North Carolina and later moved to Arkansas. From there he came with his wife and seven children to DeWitt County, Texas when Mary Elizabeth was 14 years old.

Peyton bought land adjoining his father's estate, paying $2.50 an acre for it. This was $2.00 more than anyone else had ever paid for land off this league. This price seems very little now but when we realize that the price of a four year old steer was only ten dollars, and the only market was Abilene, Kansas where the cattle were driven on foot, then that was a high price for the land.

Peyton built his home just across the creek from his father's home. Here he and his wife lived until they died. She died in 1909, and he in 1917. To this couple were born 9 children. These children were all reared in the same place where their parents first made their home. Peyton, as he was called, was a Democrat, and took a great interest in politics. For many years he was a regular attendant at both county and state conventions. He helped nominate Governor Hogg in 1892, and was one of the strongest local supporters of that Texas statesman. He also helped Gov. Culberson, Gov. Lanham and Gov. Colquitt. He always helped hold the elections and long before the day of the telephone, he had a way of informing the county seat of the results of the election from his area by blasts from anvils. This was done by setting one anvil upon another with powder between them. When fired, the second was sometimes heard twenty miles away. Those interested listened eagerly for the report.

He was a farmer and stockman. He also sold plows and had a blacksmith's shop.

His and Mary Elizabeth's children were:

I. Bailey Peyton, Jr. oldest son, born in DeWitt County in December 24, 1876. He married Maggie Bransonia Carson on December 13, 1901 and died a few weeks later on January 17, 1902.

II. Belle Zalora Terry, oldest daughter of Bailey Peyton, born January 24, 1879. She married John Fletcher Elder, a neighbor ranchman on November 23, 1904. They made their home on the Elder Ranch within two miles of the place where the Terrys first settled. To this couple, seven children were born as follows:

 Foster Elder, born September 5, 1905 and died September 20, 1905.

2. John Fletcher Elder, Jr. was born in 1908 and married Annie Lee Brown. They have lived on the Elder Ranch for over 50 years. They have four children as follows: John Fletcher Elder III, Peggy Jo, Donald Albert and Patrick Brown Elder.

Clifford Elaine Elder was born in 1910; married Walton E. White, and after his death, married Walter Graham, a rancher from Happy, Texas.

4. Joseph Bailey Elder was born in 1913. He married Nellie Manville Montague from Stevenville, Texas. They have two daughters, Patricia Joy and Sherri Elder.

5. Charles Henry Elder was born in 1914 and married Nelda Fern Randolph from Lamesa, Texas. To this couple were born 5 children as follows: Kay Ruth, Charles Roger, Nathan Mark, Nelda Suzanne and David Henry Elder.

 Marjorie Belle Elder was born in Cheapside in 1916. She married William B. King III, in Seattle, Washington. They have one child, Marilyn Janice King.

7. Harold Terry Elder was born in 1919. He married Virginia Stephens of Garret, Kansas. To them were born two children, Harold Terry Elder, Jr. and Roxanne Elder.

III. Katie Clyde Terry was born in Cheapside, Texas, December 28, 1880. She married Dr. N.A. Elder of Nixon, Texas, brother to John Fletcher Elder, and to them were born three daughters: Florine Elder, Joyce Laverne Elder, and Dorothy Chrystel Elder.

IV. James Munroe Terry was born March 1, 1882, and married Etta Wood of Estancia, New Mexico. This couple has three children: Carly Bailey Terry, Fay Estelle Terry and Helen Marjorie Terry.

V. Ethel Terry was born October 1, 1884 and died in 1885.

VI. Sarah Elizabeth Terry was born in 1888. She married Keyes Fawcett Carson who was born and reared on an adjoining ranch. To them were born: Thelma Elizabeth, Byrta Bea, Kayes Fawcett, Jr. and Branconia McRue Carson.

VII. Charles Edward Terry was born in 1889, and married Valeska Riedel from Gillett, Texas. This couple had four children as follows: Eunyce Adele, Doris Carolyn, Charles Edward, Jr. and Bailey Gus Terry.

VIII. Johnie Florence Mae Terry, born in 1891, married William Patrick Riggs from Yoakum, Texas. They had two daughters: Lela Ruth Riggs and Janis Elaine Riggs.

IX. Mary Ruth Terry was born in 1893 and married William Belew Gist from Oklahoma. Their two daughters were Chloe Delle and La Vera B. Gist.

The last of the Baily Peyton Terry family to pass away was Johnie Terry Riggs who died in June 1988 at the age of 97 years.

There are three more generations other than those listed here, but they are too numerous to name. Each year we find more and more descendants of the Roland Terry family. All have been honest and hard working people and extremely proud of their Terry heritage.

TERRY, JAMES DOSS AND KATE FERBER

James Doss Terry was born in Smith County, Tennessee on November 1, 1835. He was the fourth child of Thomas Jefferson Terry and Maria (Doss) Terry. The three younger children of this marriage were Jonathon Alpheus, Nathaniel Willis, and Carrie. Maria Terry died in Tennessee in 1848 and Thomas Jefferson Terry married Eliza Oakley in 1850 in Tennessee. There were three children, David Spence, Thomas, and Mary Elizabeth, from this marriage. In 1853 Thomas Jefferson moved with his family to Grayson County, Texas. He purchased 80 acres of land at $5 an acre near Sherman, where he was a farmer until his death in 1858.

James Doss and Jonathon Alpheus came to Texas earlier than their father, probably some time in 1851. For in 1852 the two brothers selected a site among the huge, moss-laden trees in the Michael Devine Survey in DeWitt County, and established a mercantile store. This was when the village was given the name of "Terryville" for James Doss Terry.

On April 11, 1859 James D. Terry married Kate Ferber in Victoria. Kate Ferber was born

Kate (Ferber) Terry

May 28, 1842 in Nassau, Germany, and was the daughter of John and Margareta (Edinger) Ferber, who came with their family of two boys and two girls to Texas in 1851. An older daughter, Else, stayed in Germany to be married. The father died shortly after their arrival in this country from an infected leg which had been crushed on board ship en route to their new home. Margareta Ferber was married again in 1853 to Fritz Wackerer. The new husband did not want the children from the first marriage around, so Kate and her sister, Rosena, were placed in a foster home.

On June 22, 1861 a volunteer cavalry company, Scarbrough's Davis Guard, was organized in Terryville. James D. Terry was among the first volunteers. He later was a sergeant in Waul's Legion, a spy company. He was captured by the Yankees during the Civil War, but he and three others escaped and were hidden by a family in the attic of their home until the proper time for them to get away. A girl in the family kept watch and when the Yankees were not looking she told them to escape one night. James Terry served until the end of the war.

At the time of his marriage James Terry was operating a gin and a small store in Terryville. When he went to fight in the Civil War his wife managed the business, but moved to Victoria before his return from service. They returned to Terryville after the war.

In 1869 the Terrys took a year old girl to raise. Her name was Margaret Ella Farrar. Both of her parents had died and the Terrys had no children of their own. Maggie, as she was called, ran away from the Terrys in 1882 when she was fourteen and married John Ryan Shows in DeWitt County. They had five children. She had a tragic death, and her story may be found elsewhere in this book.

The Terrys had three daughters in Terryville: (1) Martha Maria was born September 7, 1870. She attended the Athenium College in Tennessee before her marriage in Cuero to B.L. Hausman on March 24, 1891. They had eight children. She died August 15, 1939. (2) Alberta Maude was born August 25, 1875. She married Charles Emil Kleinecke on Aug. 26, 1896. They had two sons. Alberta Maude died Nov. 17, 1945. (3) Kate Pearl was born June 25, 1877. She married Anton Keller April 19, 1900, and they had five children. Kate Keller died January 29, 1957.

There was a schoolhouse in Old Terryville from approximately 1850-1854. A post office was established February 15, 1869. James D. Terry served as postmaster from October 5, 1875 to September, 1880. John Ferber, Kate Terry's brother, served from September 5, 1874 until James D. took over. By 1884 most of the businesses had moved from Old Terryville to a new location near the Lavaca County line. The Terrys sold out in Terryville and moved to Cuero. He was County Judge in DeWitt County from 1883 until his death August 6, 1891.

Kate Terry continued to live in Cuero for a number of years after her husband's death, but then moved to Fort Worth where she stayed with her daughter and son-in-law, Alberta and Charles Kleinecke, until her death there April 5 1998

James Doss Terry and his wife, Kate Ferber Terry, are buried in Hillside Cemetery, Cuero.

A granddaughter, Mrs. Kate Turek, lives in Yorktown. She is the daughter of Martha (Terry) and B.L. Hausman.

THIELE, GUSTAV AND IDA (KAISER)

F918

Gustav Ferdinand Thiele was born 11 June 1883 in New Braunfels, the son of Heinrich Christian and Augusta Christine (Wolfshohl) Thiele. He was one of nine children: Carl, Marie, Heinrich, Harry, Walter, Alfred, Gustay, Alma, and Martin. His brother, Harry, was already residing in Yoakum when Gustav came. He worked in the Thiele Meat Market for his brother. After he was married, he spent some time working in the Damon area and by 1908 had his own business, Gus Thiele Market, on the southwest corner of Irwin Street and Grand Avenue in Yoakum. Each December, Gus's father would put several Christmas trees in a ducking sack and ship them by rail to his son and other relatives who lived in Yoakum.

After Christmas, Gus would butcher a hog, put it in the sack and ship it by rail back to his parents in New Braunfels.

Ida Johanna Fredericka Wilhemina Kaiser was born 6 April 1888 in Baursville, Lavaca County, the daughter of Carl George Fredrich and Elise Augusta (Frerichs) Kaiser. She and her two brothers, Ludwig William John Emil "Louie" and Carl Bernard Lewis Heinrich "Sos", lived with their parents on Nelson Street in Yoakum. Her father at one time owned the Buckhorn Saloon and was a Justice of the Peace of Precinct #6 in Yoakum, DeWitt County.

Gustav and Ida were married on 21 November 1906 in the Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Yoakum by Rev. W.C. Wolfsdorf. They were the parents of seven children:

Infant daughter stillborn 11 January 1908. Augusta Elise "Sis", born 10 December 1908, married Alfred Joseph Seitz(dec.) son of Joseph and Rosie (Shulak) Seitz, on 10 September 1934. They are the parents of Daniel Julius (dec.), Marvin Joe, and Alfred Gilbert.

Cora Alma, born 5 January 1918, married Arthur Sigismund Carl Leske (dec.) son of Rudolph and Katherine (Bangston) Leske on 9 September 1942. They are the parents of Arthur, Jr.

Gustav Henry, born 17 June 1920, married Peggy Lou Bledsoe daughter of Gaither Winston and Virgie Loise (Wrenn) Bledsoe, on 19 October 1944 in North Carolina. Gus was the first baby delivered by Dr. E.H. Marek after he came to Yoakum to practice medicine. Gus, Jr., Ida Lois, and Terri Tia are their children.

The family resided at several locations in Yoakum, finally settling on December 1920, on the home place west of Yoakum on the west bank of Oily Creek. The family belonged to Holy Cross Lutheran Church and all were baptised and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

Gustav died 12 May 1931 in Seguin from injuries he received in an automobile accident in which he and Ida were involved in Guadalupe County, on their way to visit relatives in New Braunfels. Ida finished raising her family and then divided her time among her children, staying with each of them until her death on 9 January 1978. Buried in Oak Grove Cemetery.

THIELE, ROBERT AND ANITA (BRESSEL)

Robert Ludwig "Pete" Thiele and Anita Emilie Mathilda Bressel were married 30 June 1934 in Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Yoakum, having postponed the wedding from the 26th because of the death of her grandmother.

Robert and Anita (Bressel) Thiele

"Pete." born 27 November 1910 in Yoakum.

"Pete," born 27 November 1910 in Yoakum, DeWitt County, was the son of Gustav Ferdinand and Ida Johanna Fredericka Wilhemina (Kaiser) Thiele. Like his father before him, he was a butcher, getting an early start at the age of 8 when it was his job to tie the ends of the wieners. After his father died in 1931, he took over the family's Gus Thiele Market and later bought and hauled cattle for packing houses in Yoakum. He lived his entire life in Yoakum, except for the 8 years spent farming in the Cheapside-Hochheim area. As a young man he was a member of the Volunteer Fire Department and enjoyed bowling. On 21 February 1984 he died in a Houston hospital.

Anita was born 22 December 1913 in the Cheapside-Hochheim area, the only child of Otto and "Ella" (Braeuer) Bressel. Before her marriage she worked as a beautician in the Vrazel Beauty Shop in Yoakum. She was a homemaker until 1950 when she began working for Tex-Tan Leather Company, retiring in the spring of 1983.

Dorothy Anita, their oldest daughter was born 13 October 1938 in Yoakum, Lavaca County. She married David Leon Johnson, born 20 August 1936, the son of Howard and Pearl (Wimberly) Johnson, on 26 March 1955 in Victoria, Texas. Dorothy and Leon reside in Floresville, Texas.

Their son Robert L., Jr. was born 18 January 1941 in Yoakum, Lavaca County. He married Mary Rachel Treece, born 27 July 1941, the daughter of Charles Elmer (dec.) and Roberta (Neil) Treece, on 28 July 1962 in Yoakum. He was Salutatorian of the Class of 1959 at Yoakum High and an A&M civil engineering graduate. He was also a Junior and Senior King of the Yoakum TOM-TOM. Robert and wife reside in Katy, Texas.

Gail, their youngest daughter, was born 29 October 1946 at Huth Memorial Hospital in Yoakum, Lavaca County. She was married to David Arlen Kocian, born 20 May 1946, the son of Jerome and Alice (Henkhaus) Kocian of Hallettsville, on 27 January 1968 at College Station, Texas (div.). Gail and her family reside in Katy, Texas.

Pete's and Anita's grandchildren are: David L. Johnson, Jr. and Capt. Kent Lee Johnson USAF, Tracey Michelle Thiele and Colin Robert Thiele, and Jonathan David Kocian and Suzanne Renee Kocian.

The time spent living in the country during WW II was everything but easy. The black '39 Ford pickup seemed to consume fan belts and carburetors on the 15 mile trip from Yoakum to the farm. "Pete" finally had a tool box welded to the running board and kept an extra fan belt and carburetor in the truck.

Because of the rationing of gas during the war, the relatives from Yoakum came to visit only on special occasions such as an all day birthday celebration. "Pete" would get up early to get the man to do the barbeque. If it was during the summer, after lunch everyone got in the back of the truck and went over to Weigelts to swim in the creek fed by the artesian well.

After returning from the farm to live in Yoakum, the Thieles resided near the Edna highway from 1948 to 1950 when they moved to 511 Culpepper where Anita still resides.

THIEME, EDWIN AND LUCILLE HARTMAN

F92

Edwin and Lucille Thieme

Lucille, daughter of Alfred and Mathilde Groll Hartman, was born Nov. 2, 1913, Fannin, Texas, Goliad County on the Coleto Creek on the site of a coal plant generating electricity.

My parents bought 200 acres of farming land near Arneckeville. At five weeks of age, Dec. 9, 1913, my parents moved to Arneckeville in DeWitt County. There were nine wagons with household goods, corn, hay, chickens and turkeys, followed by cattle driven by 2 of my uncles. An aunt, my mother and I in the buggy, were the last to follow. We arrived late at some neighbors, driving through pastures off of the Thomaston Road. The road is still visible in 1989. In 1933, as a bride, my husband and I moved to the place where we now reside. It is some of the land that I crossed as a five week old baby.

My parents lived in a three room 1½ story house for 6 years. In 1919 3 rooms and 3 porches were added. In March of 1917 my brother, Victor, was born and, in Dec. 1919, my brother, James, was born.

I went to school in Cuero: John C. French for three years, Arneckeville school for six years and Cuero High. In 1964 I went into nurses' training and worked for 21½ years at the Cuero Hospital Foundation and Cuero Community hospitals in Cuero.

In 1933 I married Edwin Thieme of the Arneckeville community and moved to the farm mentioned above. On Dec. 1939, our son, Larry, was born. He went to college in San Antonio and graduated from the University of Houston in 1965 and worked in the Houston area. He now lives at Cypress, Texas. He married Barbara Ann Schrader of Houston in 1961 and they have two children, Michele, born 1963, married Dennis Taylor in 1983. Their daughter, Jennifer Marie was born in 1987. Jay, born 1970, is now a student at Texas A&M College.

Our daughter, Nita Jean, born 1943 graduated from beauty college in 1962 and works as a beautician. She owns her beauty shop. She married Garland Pakebusch and they have three children: Shelli, Scott and Stacie. Shelli was born in 1965 and is now a student at Texas A&M College. Scott was born in 1970 and graduated from Cuero High in 1989. Stacie, born in 1975 is a student at Cuero High School.

THIEME, JOHANN CHRISTOPH AND ELISABETH MARGARETHE (JOHANNE) LANGHAMMER FAMILY

F921

Johann Christoph Thieme was born on 4 April 1811 in Teichroda, Principality of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, Germany, where records indicated that he was a small farmer prior to his immigration to Texas. His father, also a small farmer, was Johann Nichol Thieme (b. 11 February 1764 Teichroda; d. 14 June 1834 Teichroda; m. 1796 Tannroda bei Teichroda), and his mother was Barbara Margaretha Thieme, nee Bober-Beber, from Dannrothe/-Tannroda bei Teichroda (b. ca. 7 March 1774; d. 4 February 1847 in Rudolstadt, Principality of Schwarzburg- Rudolstadt). Johann Christoph Thieme became a naturalized citizen on 7 November 1854 in DeWitt County, Texas, He died on 12 April 1890 in Arneckeville, DeWitt County, and was buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Arneckeville.

While still in Teichroda, on 4 September 1834, Johann Christoph Thieme married Elisabeth Margarethe (Johanne) Langhammer (b. 27 January 1805 Teichweiden, Principality of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt; d. 8 April 1888 Arneckeville; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville). She was the daughter of Joh. Christoph Langhammer, a herdsman from Teichweiden.

According to information gleaned from census and immigration records and from oral history, Johann Christoph Thieme and Elisabeth Margarethe (Johanne) Thieme, nee Langhammer, begat eight children: Antone August Thieme; Johanne Sophie (Henrietta) Thieme (b. ca. 1836); Johanne Dorethea Christiane Thieme (b. ca. 1836; Friedrich Theodore Thieme (b. ca. 1839; Ottomar Thieme (b. 2 November 1839; d. 29 June 1915 DeWitt County); Johann Heinrich Theodor Thieme (b. ca. 1843); Gustav Friedrich Louis Thieme (b. ca. 1845); and (Johanna) Hulda Charlotte Thieme (b. 6 October 1849; d. 14 April 1931 DeWitt County; bur. Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville; m. 10 October 1867 Meyersville, DeWitt County, to Johann Peter Rath). The first seven children were born in the Principality of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt in Germany, and the youngest, Hulda Charlotte, was born in Arneckeville.

Texas became independent of Mexico in 1836. The new Republic of Texas was poor in money, but there was one major resource: land. The Congress of the Republic of Texas therefore passed a law which granted 640 acres of land to each married man and 320 acres of land to any single man who settled in Texas after 1837. The taxation on this land would aid in providing much needed money for the struggling new county.

In addition, contracts were drawn up with empresarios, who promised to bring in married men with families, as well as single men. Large grants were offered to those men who could settle a certain number of people in Texas. The Verein zum Schutze deutscher Einwanderer in Texas (Society for the Protection of German Immigrants in Texas) was formed by a group of noblemen in 1842 at Biebrich am Rhine. It was easy to secure immigrants as the Verein promised much more than it could deliver. Among the promises were the following: free transportation from the port of disembarkation to the colony itself in wagons and tents; a dwelling house at about sixty florins; 320 acres of land free to each family and 160 acres to each single male over the age of seventeen; provisions for all utensils and materials for agriculture and livelihood at low prices; establishment of churches, schools, hospitals, etc. Agents of the Verein in Germany signed agreements with persons who wished to depart for Texas.

On 12 August 1846 at Bremen, Germany, Johann Christoph Thieme signed an immigration contract (#242) with the Verein. Fisher-Miller Colony Certificate #121, dated 6 June 1851, stated that Thieme was entitled to 640 acres of land. This certificate was transferred in DeWitt County on 9 June 1854 to Samuel A. Maverick. The 640 acres of land were located in Bexar County, in two surveys of 320 each, by Samuel A. Maverick, who received the patent or final title to the land in March of 1876.

The Johann Christoph Thieme family members were among ninety immigrants who sailed on 21 August 1846 from Bremen on board the Margaretha. Two months later, on 21 October 1846, they arrived in Galveston, Texas. After disembarkation, the Thieme family made the hazardous journey to DeWitt County, where the original German immigrants existed at first on fish from the creeks, prairie chicken eggs, and field rabbits.

As the early German settlers migrated inland from Galveston, they traveled through Karankawa Indian territory. Belongings were usually shipped in wagons, but the immigrants generally traversed the land on foot. The Karankawa Indians were considered uncivilized, and consequently the pioneers reportedly were not permitted to stop for rest or to prepare fires for cooking.

The Thieme family settled on Coleto Creek in December of 1846 and began to farm the land. According to the 1850 DeWitt County federal census, Johann Christoph Thieme's real estate was valued at two hundred dollars, and in 1860, it was valued at six hundred dollars, and in 1870, at five hundred dollars. With the encouragement of Pastor Grote, a Methodist minister, Thieme donated an acre of land for the erection of a church. Later the congregation bought five more acres from him; the price was one dollar per acre, and the congregation received a deed for this purchase. A church, built of logs, and soon thereafter a log-cabin parsonage were erected. The church fathers, however, could not agree to Pastor Grote's demand that the church and land be deeded to the Methodist Church at large, and their ties with the Methodists were thereupon severed. This congregation, which consequently evolved into St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church of Meyersville, was reorganized under the leadership of Christoph Adam Sager, who was pastor of the church from ca. 1850/51 until ca. 1854/55.

Records also revealed that Johann Christoph Thieme was one of ten family heads listed as charter members of Zion Lutheran Church in Arneckeville, which was organized in 1868. Members of the Thieme family were probably among those who helped erect the original Zion Church building with their axes and saws and the sweat of their brows. Indeed it can be said of Johann Christoph Thieme that he conquered the wildwood, thereby providing his children and his children's children with the opportunity to climb to the top of Mt. Zion.

THOMAS, J. CARTER FAMILY

Ann Friar and J. Carter Thomas, 1984.

J. Carter Thomas was born June 19, 1913 in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He was the second son of James Hiner and Margaret Carter Thomas, who were both born in Gratz, Kentucky. Hiner was a bank president in Forest City, North Carolina. He and two friends developed a large resort on Lake Lure near Chimney Rock, North Carolina.

Carter grew up in Forest City, sixty miles east of Asheville, went to school there, enjoyed the mountains, streams and fishing. He spent winters in Florida with his family. He attended Wake Forest University, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He was a premed student. Later he joined his brothers in Washington, D.C. He worked for the U.S. Treasury Department.

In 1938 Carter Thomas married Anne Friar of Cuero, Texas. Margaret Anne was born August 8, 1939 in Washington D.C., mid Nov. 39 they moved to Cuero to join Alfred Friar, Anne's father, in the dairy and commercial cattle business. The dairy operated until the 1950's when Carter began to concentrate on raising registered Brahman cattle. He selected thirty-seven top quality Brahman cows from Alfred Frair's herd to begin his herd of registered Brahman cattle.

Carter Thomas became a member of the American Brahman Breeders Association and was a director for twenty-eight years, serving on various committees. The Texas Brahman Association was organized and he was a lifelong member. Carter was a charter member of the South Texas Brahman Association, serving as president several times. He loved Brahman cattle and enjoyed helping or advising others, especially young people. Breeding and owning gentle cattle was particularly important to him.

DeWitt County Producers Cooperative was one of Carter's prime interests. He helped to organize it and served as a director for thirty-eight years. He was a true supporter. Carter also gave strength and balance to the Board of Directors of Cuero Federal Savings and Loan Association. He was a director there for thirty-two years. He was involved in the stock market and gave strong support to his political party. He and his family in North Carolina were Methodist. He joined the Presbyterian Church when they moved to Cuero and was an officer, serving as Deacon.

Alfred Friar's death in 1973 brought new responsibilities to Carter and Anne, managing the Friar commercial cattle herd.

Anne Friar was born May 25, 1913 at her grandparents home (the Sidney J. Friar's) five miles east of Cuero. Alfred and Ann Nagel Friar were Anne's parents. Later they resided eleven miles east of Cuero on Friar Road. Anne attended Cuero schools where she excelled. She went to Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia and the University of Texas where she graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics. Anne's career started as the Mercedes School Cafeteria Director and homemaking teacher. She served lunch for the school, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and community banquets. In Washington D.C. she worked briefly for the Home Economics Department of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In 1939 it was "Back to Texas" for Anne. She brought with her a North Carolina husband and a Washington D.C. baby girl. They all became Texans! Anne enjoyed making a home and working with the ranch activities. She joined the Hawthorne Club (a study club) and was very active in church work as an officer, Sunday School teacher and a youth group leader; as a member of the Presbyterian Church. For years she helped with the education program of the Cancer Society. Projects in the DeWitt County Historical Commission and the DeWitt County Museum have been important for her. At the Museum she established a memorial room to her mother's family, the J.R. Nagels.

Always Anne was interested in Carter's business. She went with him and helped him with his responsibilities in his organizations: American Brahman Breeders Association, Texas Brahman Association and South Texas Brahman Association and she was secretary the years Carter served as president.

To honor all the members of the Friar family who have ranched in DeWitt County, Anne Friar Thomas and her family built the Friar Ag-Center in 1983. The building is a memorial to Daniel Boone Friar, Alfred L. Friar, William S. Friar, Sidney J. Friar and Alfred Friar for their contributions to agriculture. This facility is being enjoyed by 4-H and FFA groups and other agricultural activities.

Margaret attended school at Saint Mary's Hall in San Antonio and Cuero schools where she graduated. She studied at Southern Methodist University in Dallas and at the University of Houston. She mastered ballet, enjoyed Scouts and rode horseback at every opportunity. Her special hours were spent with "Gran," her grandfather, Alfred Friar.

Currently Margaret is involved with Eling

Corporation, a real estate brokerage firm, and Earthnut, Inc., a landscaping and interior design firm. She and her husband, Jeremy have joined her mother, Anne Friar Thomas in the operation and management of the Friar-Thomas Ranches.

Dinah Rae Voelkel also graduated from Memorial High School in Houston. She graduated from Southern Methodist University in Dallas with a degree in Journalism and Psychology. She has been working for advertising agencies and doing free-lance work in media planning. She has also done television commercials and was the Volunteer Co-Ordinator for City Faire, a Dallas arts fair.

Dinah is currently associated with Prudential Equi-Source, a Dallas real estate firm. She is working in sales and advertising. She is currently unmarried.

The Friar-Thomas family continues its tradition of ranching and having daughters. The Friar name is no longer alive because there are no male children to carry the name, but their strength and conviction of strong business ethics, continues as they are involved in their respective communities. Whether it's raising cattle, plowing crops, building barns or fences, digging tanks, or working cattle — it keeps the cycle of life on the ranch ever changing . . and that's what life's all about . . . change.

The year they were married they lived in a small house on the farm which belonged to Solly's Uncle Amos Granberry and Aunt Amanda May Bissett at Cabeza. They dug a water well by hand and it went dry, so they moved over a few feet and dug another one.

My mother and Mrs. Sophie (Manz) Brown, wife of Thurman Brown, washed their clothes under some of the beautiful Anaqua "knockaway" trees. They would help each other with their babies. My mother's baby was Gladys Naomi and Mrs. Brown's baby was Henry Norman Brown. Many years later, the Browns moved to Live Oak Co., Texas, near the Bee Co. line, and they were again neighbors. Henry Norman Brown married my sister Jewelle Geneva Thomas.

Uncle Amos and Aunt Amanda Granberry reared my father, James Solly Thomas and his sister, Nettie Adella (Della) Thomas, after their father died. Uncle Amos willed the farm at Cabeza to them.

They had one son James Thomas Barron. James Royce was killed in combat on Okinawa Apr. 4, 1945. Virginia married 2nd. Cornelius Hutchins Allen July 30, 1948 in Beeville. They had one son, Neil Hutchins Allen.

My parents were devoted Christians. We attended church services at a very small Baptist Church in Clareville, Texas. When meetings were held at night, we would have to stop working in the field early in order to get dressed for church.

When a meal was served and everyone was seated, Papa would return thanks. The whole family ate at the same time, never separately. One time I came to table and hadn't combed my hair. All Papa said was "Son, your hair is not combed." I went and combed my hair and when I returned, the whole family was waiting for me. When I was seated, Papa returned thanks. His method of correcting me was a lot more effective than a scolding or a spanking.

Papa farmed all his life and we all worked very hard, but we enjoyed life very much. When the cotton or broomcorn was sold, he would usually get very little money for it. That didn't seem to worry him much as long as he had enough money to pay his debts. I have heard him say many times that he really didn't know there was a depression, because he had very little money before or during the depression, but he always had plenty of food and clean clothes for his family.

When we came in from school, the first thing we did was change to our work clothes and go to the kitchen where Mamma always had something for us to eat. Then we would all go to our assigned chores. I had to shuck about fourteen big ears of corn for each mule, and pull out enough hay from the stack so they would have plenty to eat during the night. Papa said he wanted the mules fed well, because he expected a lot of work from them.

Papa would get in from the field a little before dark. By then the chores were all finished and Mamma would have supper ready. After supper, Papa would read the Bible, magazines or farm papers by a kerosene lamp. Mamma would be sewing or patching some of our clothes. I think she made clothes for all of us except Papa's overalls and trousers. She made my overalls with short legs. I sure was glad when I got my first pair of store-bought overalls with long legs.

Papa was very honest and always said there was nothing any lower than a liar or thief. He always assured me that he would give me a whipping I would never forget if he caught be doing either.

He was a firm believer that it was the duty of every citizen to vote in all elections. Every year he bought a Poll Tax ($1.75) for himself and Mamma. He wanted all of us to get a good education. I would say "ain't got", and there was always a sister to inform me "that is improper English."

I don't remember the first time Papa took me fishing. We fished together every chance we had as long as he lived. Sometimes the whole family went fishing on Copano Bay and we would rent two or three boats (50¢ per day for each boat). We would row out a ways and fish with long bamboo poles and sometimes gather oysters.

Several neighbors would gather at one neighbor's house and bring their ice cream freezers and domino tables. This was called an ice cream and domino party. The children played many different games.

Most of the boys about my age had pretty good saddle horses and hound dogs. We would hunt coyotes, try to ride anything that would buck with us and help neighboring ranchers round up cattle out of the thick brush. Many times we would saddle up and go to the river for a few days, fish, swim and cut up like a bunch of wild Indians. The first thing we would do was to build fire and start cooking a big pot of frijoles and they would remain on the camp fire until we broke camp. We gathered moss to sleep on. Sometimes there were ticks in the moss.

Mamma took some eggs to the store to sell and the merchant offered her 3e per dozen. She refused to sell them and brought them home, boiled them and fed them to the baby chickens.

Regardless of what Mamma was doing, she was always humming a tune. She played the accordian and harmonica for us at night and told us stories.

Mamma always prepared good meals, nothing fancy, but it must have been good for us because we were all healthy and sick very little. She must have had quite a job keeping all of us in clean clothes. She used a cast iron pot to heat the water and scrubbed the clothes on a wash board. I guess the home made lye soap did the trick.

Home remedies: Every spring she would give us what she called a "through of calomel." Turpentine and sugar or honey for coughs and sore throats; Black Draught or Castor oil for a stomach ache; for a bleeding wound, soak it in kerosene; for a sore she used iodine or Cloverine salve; to draw a thorn out or to make a boil come to a head, she prepared a prickly pear politice.

THOMAS, JOHN NATHANIAL (THANNON) AND ADA ANNIE JONES

F932

John Nathanial (Thannon) Thomas, son of Ferdinand G. Thomas and Mary Jane (Mollie J.) Bissett, was born Dec. 26, 1874 at Terryville, east DeWitt County; died July 12, 1913. He married Ada Annie Jones. She was born about 1867; died about 1960. It is not known just when this family lived in DeWitt County, but their younger son, Scott, attended school, at what he referred to as the new school, on the hill at Cabeza, west DeWitt County.

Children:

1. John Waitus Thomas; born about 1897. It is not known when or where he died. He served in the army during World War I and was badly gassed. He married Birdie?. They had two sons; James and Grady.

2. Scott Thomas; born Nov. 12, 1898; died March 15, 1963 in San Antonio, Texas. He married Cora (Corinne) Pearl Delzell March 25, 1919. Cora was born Nov. 18, 1899, probably in Blanco County, Texas. They had four children; all were born in San Antonio, Texas. Scott Thomas, Jr., Alden Lurline (Thomas) Chaney, Raymond Edward Thomas and Melba Jean (Thomas) Lacey.

Scott Thomas, Sr. worked for Otis Elevator Company in San Antonio, Texas. They installed the escalator in Joske's Department Store which, I believe, was the first one in San Antonio.

Prior to the depression Scott, Sr. owned a nice home and drove a beautiful Auburn car. During the depression, I suppose he either lost or sold the house and the car. He took any kind of job, regardless of the wages. His wife also had a job.

Scott, Sr. served in the army during World War I and in the Navy during World War II. His two sons also served in the Navy in World War II. The three of them arranged for a leave for the same period of time and they met in Hawaii.

THOMAS, WAYNE SOLLY AND ANNIE LEE PATTON

Wayne's story: I was born Dec. 6, 1913 in Goliad County, Texas. I have never lived in DeWitt Co., but in 1950 we bought the farm at Cabeza, DeWitt Co., which was willed to my father and Aunt Della by their Uncle and Aunt, Amos L. Granberry and Amanda May Bissett, is almost 30 years.

My ancestors who are listed in this paragraph have lived in DeWitt Co. My parents, James Solly Thomas (1881-1963) and Margie Lou Shows (1886-1971). My grandparents, "Ferdinand C. Thomas (1845-?) and Mary Jane (Mollie J.) Bissett (1852-1923). "Adam Jasper Shows (1856-1939) and Mary Ella Farrar (1860-1930). My great grandparents, "Lodawick Bissett (1807-1883) and Mourning Williams (1810-1905). "Adam Shows (1823-1890) and Nancy Granberry (1829-1867). My great great grandparents, "Amos Granberry (1798-?) and Elizabeth Rogers (1794-?). "These families came from the same general area in Mississippi. Some were in Louisiana a while.

My great grandparents, Elias Sweet Farrar (1816-1868) and Candace Case Bailey (1824-1869) came from Indiana and settled in Victoria and Lavaca Counties in the late 1840s.

Wayne Solly Thomas and Annie Lee (Patton) Thomas 1953

After completing a course in a business college, I took a job which required traveling Texas and bordering states. I quit when I was drafted.

I was drafted in the army for one year on June 14, 1941 at age 27. ($21 per month). I was assigned to the 8th Corps Area Hq. in the Quadrangle at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. In Oct. 1942 we sailed from New York to England where we stayed for about three weeks before going to North Africa. Later, I served in Italy and at the end of the war, we were near the Austrian border.

Any time I had an opportunity to see some of the sights, I took it. In August 1945 I went on a seven day tour of Switzerland. we were allowed to exchange only $35 for spending money. The cost of the tour was $13. The tour consisted of first class travel on trains and lodging with meals in the best hotels. My buddy and I would stop in for a drink and a snack of that good cheese. When we were ready to pay for it, the cashier would tell us that someone in the house had paid for it, but did not wish to be recognized.

As we were about to enter the Capitol building in Berne, the guide stopped us and said, "I have something to tell you Americans before we enter, because if I tell you inside, you would surely blow the roof off. About two hours ago we received word that the Japanese had suspended." He meant surrendered. The seventy five of us made quite a commotion, and he said: "See there, if you had been inside, the roof would have blown off."

I flew home on a B-17 in Oct. 1945. As we were leaving Naples, we looked down into the crater of Mt. Vesuvius. We spent two nights in Africa, two nights in South America and landed in Florida. We rode a troop train to Fort Sam Houston, which took about as long as the flight from Italy. I was discharged at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

My sister, Virginia Barron, whose husband was killed in battle on Okinawa, and I opened an auto supply store in Pleasanton, Texas in 1946 and closed it in 1950. We enjoyed it very much, even though we worked hard. We met a lot of good people and are still friends with some of them.

I met Annie Lee Patton in Pleasanton, Texas, where her mother was living and where her family had lived since 1937. She was teaching music in a school in Mercedes, Texas. We were married Dec. 18, 1948 in San Antonio.

I went on active duty in the army in San Antonio, Texas in 1950 as a Master Sergeant; went to Korea in the spring of 1953; was assigned to Fort Bliss, Texas in 1954. After having served that many years in the army during war time, we decided I would stay a few more years and retire. I was transferred to Fort Sam Houston in 1959. Annie Lee and I were in Germany from 1962 to 1965. We saw a lot of Germany, made friends, and had wonderful trips in most of the countries in western Europe. I was assigned as an advisor in a reserve Armory in San Antonio from 1965 until I retired in 1966.

Annie Lee's story: I was not born in DeWitt County, but I might have been! My mother's family almost moved to the area about 1900. Her father, Henry Lee Lenoir, wanted to make the move, and he did have a half-brother in a neighboring county. However, the rest of the family did not want to leave east Tennessee where the family had lived for almost 100 years.

There were two Lenoir descendants, Ben and Henry McCulloch who came from Tennessee to become well known Texas Rangers.

My father's family began arriving in Texas early. My great-great grandparents, Alexander Thomson (1785-1863) and Elizabeth Dowsing (1790-1849) came from west Tennessee in 1830. He was the partner of Sterling C. Robertson in colonizing a large portion of central Texas.

My great grandfather, John M. Burton (1806-1877) was born in Georgia. He also came to Texas in 1830 and married Elizabeth Maury Thomson (1813-1871), daughter of Alexander Thomson, in 1832. The town of Burton in Washington County, Texas bears his name.

My grandfather, Robert Wilson Patton (1840-1916), came from Tennessee and married John M. Burton's youngest daughter, Emma Katherine Burton (1853-1888), in 1872.

My mother, Annie Lee Lenoir (1889-1981), came from Tennessee about 1919 to visit cousins, with whom she grew up, and who had settled in San Antonio and the Hill Country. She met and married the youngest son in the Patton family, Robert Moore Patton (1886-1939), in 1924.

By the time I was born (Oct. 15, 1926) we were living in the Hill Country and spent the next nine years on leased ranches, raising sheep and goats. Those depression years were bad times for parents. For my brother, Robert Frank Patton (1930), and me it seemed a happy time and place to grow up. We always had lambs, kids and puppies for playmates. When I was small I could drink only goat's milk. When we visited in San Antonio my goat rode along too!

When school time came for us, the huge kitchen table was the school desk and our mother was the teacher. She had taught school before she married. Learning proceeded while she was preparing meals for our family, an occasional ranch hand, and some members of a crew drilling a wildcat well across a dry creek from our house. The smell of fresh bread and cinnamon rolls always brings back memories of those days of our kitchen school.

Our family moved to Jourdanton in 1935 and to Pleasanton, Texas in 1937. Wayne Thomas came there almost a decade later. We met, we married and have had forty wonderful years together. The years have been filled with all the joys and sorrows that came to those who belong to a large, close-knit family.

Our DeWitt County years!

When we bought the old family farm at Cabeza, the only structure on the place was a Sears Windmill on an old wooden tower. The place has never looked right since we replaced that tower! We were lucky the old one didn't blow over in a storm like the Hackberry trees do. Those trees almost always fall on a fence.

Only a few years ago the only daily sounds from the outside world were the passing of the school bus and the Postman's car. Once in a while a pick-up with a cattle trailer would create a terrible commotion on a "wash-board" section of the road. The road is still unpaved, but it is a well used route.

Now there is traffic at night too. Until recent years about the only sounds in the night were howling coyotes, a hooting owl, or the sound of a mockingbird. There has always been at least one armadillo, (sounding like a herd), plowing through the dry leaves, providing three generations of our dogs with fun and frustration.

We rarely see a horned "toad". The jack rabbits and roadrunners that had regular routes around the place are rare visitors since the pasture next to us was cleared of brush. It's also been a few years since we had a blue heron that was a regular visitor at our stock tank.

Through the years, there has always been all the hard work required on a farm or cattle ranch. However, on a hot day, there is a way to rest. According to Wayne Thomas, you just relax and cool off underneath the "air-conditioned knock-away (Anaqua) trees." The grass may not always grow under these trees, but it's always cooler there.

The farm has been a place where we could enjoy peace and quiet we hadn't found since our childhood years in the country. Much of our pleasure has come from our cattle starting with a few crossbreds and growing into a small herd of very good registered Shorthorn cattle.

Wayne's parents came from Beeville many times to enjoy Cabeza again. My mother finally did get to DeWitt County, not to live, but to enjoy time with us at the farm. Many other family members and friends have also enjoyed mustang grape and prickly pear jelly, or wood for their fire places or barbecue grills.

With all the years of hard work, any number of "record" drought years, hail and wind storms, most of our memories of the farm at Cabeza will be of the happy times when it did rain and the wild flowers, grass and cattle were all growing and beautiful.

TRAUTWEIN, WILLIAM F938

(1838-1915)

William Trautwein was born Charles Wilhelm Trautwein in Vaihingen an der Enz, Wurttenburg, now a part of unified Germany, on February 22, 1838. At age 16, he, his brother, and half brother emigrated to the United States, landing first in new York and then in New Orleans on December 4, 1854. Two weeks later they were in DeWitt County. William worked as a freighter driving ox carts between San Antonio and Indianola. By 1860 he had his American citizenship and was working for Judge Klegberg at $4 per week.

In April 1861, William answered the call to arms with the Cuero group, later known as Sibley's Brigade and later as the Green Brigade. The army crossed the Rio Grande River on January 1, 1862, hoping to win the western part of the United States for the Southern cause. However, many engagements later, William's horse was stolen by the Indians and he had to walk home defeated and practically starving from Albuquerque, N.M.

After he returned to Meyersville, he purchased what has come to be known as the Trautwein Home Place in 1865 and is owned by his great-grandson, Verlin Joseph Trautwein. He later purchased another ranch in 1885, which is still owned by another great-grandson, William Wolters Wendtland, Sr. Both are located near Meyersville.

A romance between Protest and William and Catholic Caroline Hug, daughter of Francois Joseph and Ann Marie (Welker) Hug, who was born in Kruth, Haut Rhin, France, was not looked on favorably by Caroline's parents, because of religious differences. On a Sunday afternoon, William saddled up two horses and went to the milking pen where Caroline was busy filling the pails. She abandoned the pails and eloped with William to Clinton where they were married on December 4, 1865. They soon became the parents of Louis and Sophie, but Caroline died shortly after, having lived from February 24, 1848 to October 9, 1868, and was buried on the St. Peter and St. Paul Catholic Cemetery in Meyersville.

A second marriage of William was to Wilhelmine Muller, born in Eichewerder, Prussia, on August 12, 1848. They became parents of Albert F. and Louise. After William's brother, Charles Louis and his wife passed away, William and Wilhelmine became guardians of their children, Caroline, Louise, and John, from 1885 to 1899. William engaged in farming, stockraising, and various enterprises. At one time he was a DeWitt County commissioner. They moved to Cuero in 1913, where he died of cancer on April 1, 1915. Wilhelmine lived until August 11, 1932.

Louis Trautwein (1866-1961) oldest son of William, attended Five Mile Coleto School and Nash Institute in Cuero. He managed Hausemann's Gin until he became a partner in the Shiner Gin with Edmund F. Wolters in 1889. This was the year that he also married Louise (Lulu) Schaefer, daughter of Carl and Amalia (Wurz) Schaefer of Meyersville, and they lived in Shiner for 65 years. Their three daughters were Hilda, Natalie, and Carlyn.

Hilda married Howard Crosby and became parents of three daughters, Natalia, Lois, and Marjorie. Natalia married Elmer Blankenship, and had two children, Judy who is married to Joe Bryant with two children, Jennifer and James who married Barbara Bullard and are parents of Brandi. Lois married Glen Razak and they have one son, Glen Razak, Jr. Marjorie married Robert Burns and had one child, Cindy, who married Richard Albrechtand they are parents of two children, Cheryl and Brian.

Natalie married an engineer, John Hollman and lived abroad most of their lives, having only one child, Clarice. Clarice married Joe W. Neal and had four children, John Hollman, Tom Louis, Frank West, and Mary Joe. John married Linda Bebout and had six children, Julie, Sarah, Michael, Rachel, and Stephen, and Matthew. Tom married Candy Cowles and had three sons, Joel, Brian, and Kevin. Frank married Jane Lester and brought forth three sons, Daniel, Andrew, and Timothy. Mary Joe married Robert Beckman, and they have two children, Natalie and Richard.

Carlyn, third child of Louis and Lulu, married James Quicksall. They had no children.

Sophie Trautwein (1867-1963), second of William's children, met Edmund F. Wolters at her brother's marriage and married Edmund one year later. They too lived in Shiner and had two daughters, Lillie and Stella.

Lillie married William A. Wendtland and had one son, William Wolters Wendtland. William married Polly Ann Dietze, daughter of "Cutter" and Charlice Dietze of Cuero; they have three children, William, Jr., Stephen Gillette, and Lisa Lynn. William, Jr. married Karen Ann Sullivan and have three children, William, III, Katherine Ann, and Barrett (Buzzy) Wolters. Stephen married Gail Wessels and are parents of two children, Jennifer Lauren and Jacob Gillette. Lisa married Donald Barcak and has four sons, Eric Anthony, Evin Kyle, Elliott Arman, and Ethan Lane.

Stella married Willard L. Russeall and had no children. They left their considerable legacy to many charitable organizations.

Louise Trautwein (1878-1944), was the fourth child of William, and lived on the land her father left her. She married Charlie Knocke, and they had no issue.

Albert F. Trautwein (1877-1960), was William's third child. His education included Alamo College in San Antonio. He was a businessman in Cuero, where he held several pieces of rent property and a laundry at one time. He was also a rancher on the original tract of land purchased by William in 1865. He married Susie R. Weisiger (1864-1939). They had two children, William Rochester and Albert Joseph.

Albert Joseph (1906-1983), second son of Albert F., lived in Cuero all of his life, helping with the family business and also working as a fireman for many years. He never married.

William Rochester (1903-1979) helped his father with the ranch as well as operated a cafe (Bill's Cafe) and worked in the oilfield. He also attended Alamo College in San Antonio. In 1928, William married Annie B. Wolf (1902-present). She is from another prominent DeWitt County family from Nordheim. She still lives in Cuero. William and Annie had three sons, Verlin Joseph, William Ernst, and Robert Dale.

William Ernst (1935) is second son of William and Annie. He married Shirley J. Brice in 1953 and had three children, Joanie Jean (1954), William Edd (1956) and Lee Anne (1959). Joanie married Jim Bishop and has two daughters, Jennifer Lynn (1978) and Lauren

George W. Trowell was born in Fort Pierce, Florida on May 24, 1902. He was the son of N.J. Trowell and Lucy Lee Trowell. He attended school at Ft. Pierce High School and the University of Florida. He married Dorothy Marie Richter on October 18, 1930. They have one daughter, Dorothy who lives in Europe.

He received the distinction of being one of three county judges in the United States to be selected to serve on the President's Advisory Committee. During his tenure as county judge he also was appointed by Governor Smith to serve on a Criminal Justice Study Commission. TUMLINSON FAMILY

Two Tumlinson families came to Texas in 1821 with Stephen F. Austin. These two families left North Carolina in the late 1700's. After short stays in several places Texas became their permanent home. Several members of these two families became residents of DeWitt County. Andrew, David, James, John, Joseph and Littleton, all sons in the two families, received headrights in Green DeWitt's Colony. Andrew was killed by Indians and when county lines were drawn the land of David, James and Littleton became a part of Gonzales County leaving only John and Joseph of the original grantees in DeWitt County.

Six men of the Tumlinson families participated in the Texas Revolution and John, who was living in Mina (Bastrop) at the time was among the first to respond to the call for assistance which went out from Gonzales in September, 1835. While participating in the Siege of Bexar John was commissioned by the Provisional Government of Texas to form a company of rangers and take it to a location northwest of present day Austin with the objective of protecting Texians against Indian attacks. In carrying out this commission John may be credited with being the first Texas Ranger. Ranging companies had been used before to protect the settlers but this was the first time that the muster was at the direction of and under the authority of a Texas Governing body.

After the revolution John continued to reside in Bastrop (Mina) with his wife Laura Cottle and his son Joseph. He engaged in farming, land trades and in protecting the frontier against Indian and Mexican raids. After he lost Laura and Joseph he moved to the old town of Clinton where he engaged in trade. His DeWitt Colony headright was up-river from present day Cuero. At one time the County Seat of DeWitt County was located on John's land.

John remarried, first Delaney Aster and when he lost her he married her sister Mary Ann who also died. When John died in May 1853 he left only one heir, a daughter named Amanda L. Tumlinson. She was raised by John's brother Peter in Atascosa County and married Cullen W. Edwards. No record of John's burial site has been discovered.

John's brother Joseph located his DeWitt Colony headright immediately south of the boundary of Cuero on the banks of the Guadalupe River and joining the headright of Hephzibeth Taylor. This land was occupied by William Taylor who married Joseph's sister Elizabeth Tumlinson. Joseph married Johanna Taylor in April 1834. After her death in 1838 Joseph married Elizabeth Newman.

Joseph served the Texas Revolution in several capacities and after Texas Independence was won he settled first in Eagle Lake and afterwards in Yorktown. It was in Yorktown that he established a ranch and lived for the remaining years of his life. These included some of the most troubled times the citizens of this community ever faced.

Joseph's experience with hostile encounters began early in his life when he helped punish the Indian raiders who had killed his father. He continued throughout his life to protect his neighbors from intrusions by Indians and Mexican renegades and against lawlessness among the settlers of his community. He died on his ranch in November 1874. His descendants include a number of Texas lawmen not the least of which are the Wrights. Milam Wright, William L. Wright, Charles H. Wright and E.A. (Dogie) Wright all served Texas as rangers, sheriffs, custom agents and border patrol officers from 1898 to 1969. 'Dogie' still makes his home in Sierra Blanca, Texas.

A third Tumlinson settled in DeWitt County was Thomas Carney Tumlinson, a nephew of John and Joseph. Thomas' father was killed by renegades before he was born and he grew up not knowing his true identity. Upon reaching his majority his foster parent revealed his true family identity and Thomas came to Texas. Thomas took land on Cabeza Creek about five miles south of the site of Nordheim where he raised a family of nine children. In 1881 he moved to the neighborhood of Lampassas.

TUREK, ALBERT J. AND KATIE HAUSMANN

F943

Albert J. Turek was born in Shiner on April 6, 1899 to Albert B. and Emily Kosarek Turek. He was the oldest of nine children. Katie Hausmann Turek was born to Berthold and Mattie Terry Hausmann (whose story is given separately) on December 19, 1901 in Yorktown. She was the seventh of eight children (two of whom died in infancy).

Albert attended school in Shiner and at age 21 he moved to Yorktown to become a barber. In Yorktown he met Katie, who had lived in Yorktown all of her life. They were married on September 20, 1922. Katie and Albert had two daughters. On October 9, 1928 Patty Claire was born and on April 18, 1932 Shirley Lucille was born.

During the depression years it was difficult to make a living as a barber so Albert, who was affectionately called "Turk" by his friends, went to mortician's school in Fort Worth. He returned to Yorktown and worked for the Mollenhauer Funeral Home as well as barbering and selling cars for the Smith Motor Co. In order to make a reasonable living he also leased some land and went into the cattle business in a small way. He was active in civic affairs. He served as president of the Yorktown Country Club and on the Yorktown School Board. He was a member of the Lions Club and was an avid sports fan. He played on local baseball teams in his younger years and played golf frequently as he grew older. After the death of Ed Mollenhauer in July 1944, he and Berthold Ideus bought the funeral home and it became Ideus-Turek Funeral Home. He was a partner in this business when he died of a heart attack on September 2, 1946.

Katie did not work outside the home on a regular basis after her marriage. Since she had enjoyed working in the retail business at the B.A. Goodfriend's ready-to-wear store and at Nau's Dry Goods Store before her marriage she sometimes worked in these stores on Saturday's and during sales. Upon the death of her husband, Katie bought Vlasta's Dress Shop in December 1946. She renamed the shop Katie's Dress Shop at that time and it has continued in business up to the present. The dress shop's story is found elsewhere in this book.

Patty graduated from Yorktown High School in 1946. She enrolled at the University of Texas in September 1946 and graduated with a B.S. degree in home economics in May 1950. Upon graduation from college she went to work at Foley's in Houston. On December 22, 1951 she married Glen Thomas Swenson, whose home was Austin. They lived in Lockhart for two years after their marriage. Glen coached in the high school and Patty taught sixth grade and homemaking. The couple moved to Austin in 1954. Glen continued his coaching career at Austin High School, Reagon High School and the University of Texas. Patty continued her education and received her M. Ed. degree from Antioch College in 1978. She taught in the Austin Public Schools for 26 years. Glen was killed in an automobile accident on October 14, 1983. Patty retired from teaching in May 1988. Patty and Glen had two sons, Glen Thomas Swenson, Jr. (Tom) and William Patrick Swenson (Bill). They married Kayla Jean Goodrich of Midland and Sandra Lynn Sudduth of Houston, respectively in 1980 and 1981. Kayla and Tom have two sons, Clark Thomas (born March 2, 1985) and Blake Patrick (born May 24, 1988). They presently live in Denton. Sandy and Bill have a daughter, Katherine Kelly (Kate) who was born July 3, 1987 and a son William Glen (Will) who was born August 15, 1989. They live in Houston.

Shirley graduated from Yorktown High School in 1950. She attended the University of Texas and Southwest Texas State Teachers College where she graduated in 1955. She taught physical education and social studies in Round Rock, Vanderbilt, Fort Lavaca, and Boling. She received her M. Ed degree from Prairie View University in 1975 and currently lives in Wharton. She retired from teaching in May 1989. Since she did not marry and have a family of her own, she derives much pleasure from Patty's grandchildren.

Shirley and Patty bought Katie's Dress Shop from their mother in July 1961. Because of this, they have never lost their ties to Yorktown and return there on a regular basis.

Note: All the towns mentioned are in Texas.

VOELKEL, ANTON AND ANNA THERESA (FUHRMAN) FAMILY F944

Anton Voelkel was born in 1869 in Gnezen, Germany in the province of Posnan, which at one time was a part of Poland. Anton, his sister Maria, and his younger brother Herman were the only children born to their father and mother. Anton grew to manhood in Germany where conscription for service in the Kaiser's Army was mandatory for all young men. Since he decided that he did not want to be in the Army of Germany, Anton and one of his boyhood friends chose to come to the United States and become citizens. Anton was raised a deyout Catholic and the last thing his mother told him as the boat departed from Germany was to never forget his church. He never did. He was a lifelong member of St. Michael's Church in Cuero. His mother also gave him a Bible which he cherished.

The two friends from Germany landed in Anton and Anna Theresa Fuhrman Voelkel (1890), father and mother of Ray A. Voelkel.

Galveston about 1886 with Anton who was 17 years old coming to Cuero to settle. Here in Cuero, he became a saloon keeper and worked at the Bank Saloon on North Esplanade. Anton began to save money and buy land for the sum of $2.00 to $10.00 an acre until he had accumulated a ranch of approximately 400 acres on the Stratton Road (FM 1447) located about three miles from Cuero. He began to raise and sell cattle. Anton's father was very wealthy in Germany, and owned quite a bit of land and had a title "Von Voelkel" because of the amount of land he owned and his wealth, so Anton wanted to be a land owner in the United States, as his father had been in Germany. Anton's sister, Maria, in Gnezen, Germany married and had three daughters. She and her family came to America at a later date and settled in Michigan. She died in 1931, six months before Anton's death. Herman, his brother, moved to Breslau, Germany. Herman was a very wellknown concert violinist in Germany and is believed to have died there.

In Victoria, Anton met and married Anna Theresa Fuhrman, daughter of Christian Fuhrman and Anna Dohman. They made their home at their Stratton ranch, later moving into Cuero. They resided in a home at 204 Stockdale (later numbered 304). A portion of this home was a section of the old Gulf Hotel which had been located on the corner of Morgan Avenue and Stockdale. Their home was a two story house with picket fence and large pecan trees. This home burned down in December, 1982. Anton suffered from severe asthma attacks and liked to travel to the hill country where he received some relief for his breathing. These attacks weakened his heart and brought about his death in 1931 at the age of 62. Anton was never able to return to Germany but here in America he enjoyed his land, his grandchildren, and raising his cattle.

Anna Theresa Fuhrman was born to Christian and Anna Dohman Fuhrman in 1874 in Germany. As a young girl she became adept at taking care of, and tending, farm animals which she loved. She and her mother Anna Dohman Fuhrman came from the Pomerian area of Germany to the United States and her father followed sometime later. Theresa had one sister, Annie Fuhrman Mueller, and 4 halfbrothers and two half-sisters from Christian Fuhrman's earlier marriage. They were Rudolph, Willie, Paul, Otto, Lizzie, and Martha Fuhrman. Theresa had two half-sisters and a half-brother by Anna Dohman's earlier marriages. They were Emma Dohman Maurer, Bertha Bittner Fischer, and Emil Bittner Fuhrman. Most of these relations resided in the Victoria, Sinton, Tivoli, and Alice area in Texas and many of their children still live in these towns. After the death of Anton Voelkel, Theresa lived with her son and daughter-inlaw (Gladys Wasserman Voelkel) at 204 Stockdale in Cuero until her death at the age of 60. Theresa Fuhrman Voelkel operated the Stratton ranch with her son Ray (Dutch) Voelkel and enjoyed life and her grandchildren until she died of a ruptured appendix after falling down the steps of her home in 1934.

Anton Voelkel's parents died and were buried in Germany. Christian Fuhrman died in Victoria in 1926 and Anna Dohman Fuhrman lived with her daughter Annie Mueller until her death in 1938. They were buried in Evergreen Cemetery in Victoria, Texas.

To the union of Anna Theresa Dohman Fuhrman and Anton Voelkel were born two children, Raymond Anton Voelkel and Bertha Alfreda Voelkel. Raymond (Dutch) Voelkel was born January 12, 1901 and died on October 2. 1982. His story is found in another section. His sister, Bertha Alfreda Voelkel, was born on February 1, 1896 in Cuero. She grew to young womanhood in Cuero and married a Mr. Ernst. After a short marriage, she divorced Mr. Ernst and married Oscar Louis Davis of Yoakum. Oscar Davis served an honorable term in the United States Navy during World War I where he was wounded, and spent a very cold night in the sea before being rescued. He always suffered from his injuries received on this night and had a slight limp. Oscar Davis was a Shriner and was employed until he retired as a conductor and brakeman for the Southern Pacific Railroad. He was born June, 1893 and died January 17, 1964 of emphysema. During Oscar Davis lifetime, Alfreda was a loving housewife and loved her flowers and gardening. She died June 16, 1984, a victim of a blood clot after hip surgery. She was 88 years old. Her niece and nephew called her "Auntie Fritzie" because Alfreda was hard to say. Oscar and Alfreda had no children. They had resided at 407 Hopkins Street in Yoakum, Texas for many years after moving from Waco sometime between 1930 and 1936.

Anna Dohman Voelkel and Anton Voelkel, Bertha Alfreda Voelkel Davis and Oscar L. Davis were all buried on the same lot with the tall cedar trees in Hillside Cemetery in Cuero, Texas.

VOELKEL, RAY A. AND GLADYS (WASSERMAN) FAMILY

F945

Raymond Anton Voelkel was born to Anna Theresa and Anton Voelkel on January 12, 1901. He had one sister, Bertha Alfreda Voelkel. Ray acquired the nickname "Dutch" at an early age because of his German ancestry. He was a musician all of his life, and as a youngster, learned to play the trombone. In his early days as a young man, he played his trombone one summer with a circus band. Ray (Dutch) loved to build and race automobiles and his pride and joy was an old "strip ford" he built. During the early 1900's he worked as a projectionist at the old Dreamland Theatre on Cuero's Main Street, and was a fireman for the Cuero Fire Department. He belonged to Home Protection Hose Co. #2 which was organized in 1895 and had a station somewhere around Morgan Avenue. In young adulthood, he was employed as a mechanic for the R.A. Nagel Motor Co. on Esplanade in Cuero. Ray (Dutch) played his trombone in the St. Mark's Lutheran Church Orchestra where he met and married Gladys Pauline Wasserman (Mickey) on August 31, 1924. They were married in St. Mark's Lutheran Parsonage by Rev. E.E. Eberhardt. After a happy and "muddy" road honeymoon trip to Houston and Galveston, they lived at 204 Stockdale Ave. with Mr. and Mrs. Anton Voelkel, With his wife's help, Ray went into business as a mechanic as "Ray's Automotive Shop" on Courthouse Street. He was an excellent mechanic and worked as a dealer and repairman for Johnson Outboard Motors. During this time he began to buy cattle and to operate the ranch he had inherited from his parents. Eventually he closed his automotive shop about 1940.

Ray (Dutch) loved music and he could play the trombone, the piano, the drums, sing, and arrange music as well. In his early years, he played trombone in the Cuero City Concert Band under the direction of Ben Prause, Sr. and marched in many "Turkey Trot" parades in bands and once had a float advertising his business. It was an old Model-T converted into two front ends of an automobile which loped down the street. It was his father's old car. He played in dance bands such as "The Turkey Trotters Orchestra," Bennie Prausie Orchestra, with the Marquis Brothers, Alfred and Charles, the Wasserman Brothers, Ed and Norman, the Boldt Brothers, and Edgar Davidson and his son, Junior Davidson. He played with the Sledge Wilson band of Yorktown, and until his death at 82, played drums with the "Hub City Dutchman" of Yoakum.

For approximately 22 years, Ray was a rural mailman and enjoyed nothing so much as to go fishing with his friends and relations at Copano Bay in Rockport. He enjoyed his second home at Fulton Beach near Rockport where he and his family loved to go. Ray (Dutch) Voelkel died on October 2, 1982 of emphysema. He led a full and interesting life with his much loved music, his family, and raising his cattle and grandchildren. He was a friend to many who needed his help during the years.

Gladys Pauline Wasserman was born Sunday, June 29, 1902 in Cuero, Texas. She was the only daughter born to the union of Ida Kunitz and Gus Wasserman, Jr. of Cuero. She had two older brothers, Edward and Norman Wasserman. At an early age she learned to play the piano and sing. The family would gather around their beautiful rosewood piano and sing with her accompaniment. Gladys graduated from Cuero High School with honors in 1920 and was one of the main soloists for the Cuero High School Glee Club. She began working for the Garrett Abstract Company, located across from the old post office in Cuero.

Gladys was nicknamed "Mickey" by her father because he said she was always so happy and cheerful she reminded him of an Irish "mick." Almost all of her friends and relations knew her as "Mickey" for the rest of her life. She became a voice student of Mr. David Griffin from San Antonio in her early years and appeared in many vocal performances in the area. One of the newspapers of Cuero wrote, "Miss Gladys Wasserman has a rich lyric soprano voice with great interpretive quality." On May 30, 1921 in Yoakum at the Methodist Church, and on April 28, 1921 in Cuero at the Presbyterian Church, Handel's Messiah was presented by Mr. Griffin's students and Gladys (Mickey) was one of the soloists. Three of his students performed at the home of Sam Lackey, Jr. (Gladys Wasserman, Anne Louise Hamilton, and Herbert Dornbluth). On May 30, 1922, Mr. Griffin's students gave a grand and light opera concert assisted by the Victoria and Cuero Choral Club at the Dreamland Theater in Cuero. One of the numbers was "Three Little Maids from School" performed by Miss Gladys Wasserman, Miss Delka Dietze, and Miss Minnie Lee Mangham. Mr. Griffin selected four of his most promising vocal students to appear with the San Antonio Symphony Orchestra in San Antonio, Texas on June 6, 1922. They were Miss Gladys Wasserman, Miss Nell Putman, Mrs. Alfred Frobese, and Mr. Leroy Hamilton. One paper wrote that for a town of 10,000 or less that Mr. Griffin's students were second to none in musical artistry. At this concert Gladys sang "One Fine Day" by Puccini from Madame Butterfly.

Gladys (Mickey) married Ray Voelkel on August 31, 1924. She was accompanist for the Lions Club of Cuero and played in several dance bands including "The Turkey Trotters" Orchestra of which her husband and brothers were members. She sang in the St. Mark's Lutheran Church Choir with her daughter and they often sang duets. When her daughter was about 10 years old, she was her accompanist on a weekly radio show.

Gladys (Mickey) worked for I.R. Wilkes at the Garret Abstract Company, for Mr. Tom Stell as Deputy Tax Collector at the Cuero Courthouse and for Mr. Poetter. For a great number of years she was Deputy Clerk under Mr. Henry Koenig, County Clerk. A great portion of her working years was at the DeWitt County Courthouse in Cuero. She was an excellent worker and typist. Before she retired at 62, she worked several years for the Brentex Mills Office in Cuero.

Gladys (Mickey) loved to play bridge and she was a great craftswoman with her hands. She made some beautiful hand-crocheted bedspreads and other crocheted handwork that she left to her children and grandchildren.

Mickey played the piano for family singing and sang until her death July 22, 1975. Her greatest joy was to go fishing with her friends at Rockport and Fulton and to take care of her grandchildren.

To the union of Gladys Wasserman Voelkel and Ray Voelkel who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary August 31, 1974, two children were born. They were Shirley Voelkel Sprigg, now living with her husband on the Voelkel Ranch (Sandy Fork Ranch) in Cuero, and Ray Allen Voelkel, born December 16, 1933. Their son Ray followed in his father's and mother's musical footsteps by playing in various orchestras while in Cuero High School and he was Drum Major of the Cuero High School Band. He has a degree in Metallurgy from the University of Houston and presently lives in Houston and works for WKM as a metallurgist. WAGNER, FAMILY

Julius Wagner and family were among the many who fled the coast area after the devastating storm in Indianola. One of his sons Richard Wagner married Blanche Petty and they chose Cuero for their home. Julius's law background in Germany encouraged his children to further their knowledge and it is believed that Richard spoke four languages. He was employed by several local firms before engaging in the freight business. Blanche was a devoted wife and mother and along with their father through sacrifice, encouragement and love were able to instill a desire for accomplishment. William, the eldest, married and moved to Texarkana and was employed in industry. Emily married Harry M. Berger of Wharton and they had one son Harry. Blanche married F.C. Schaefer, a local rural mail carrier. They had three children, Henry, Walter Carl, and Doris. Carl, in partnership with Walter operated a confectionary. Later he became owner of Wagners Jewelry Store. He married Agatha Weber. They had no children. Robert, the youngest child was a doctor. He married Ruth Harrison of Wharton and they had two children, Harrison and Virginia. He practiced in Cuero for a short time and then moved to Houston to continue his practice. Walter (Bully) became a prominent Cuero business man. Wagners Confectioneries No. One and No. Two were the meeting places for Cueroites day and night for delicious homemade ice cream and other confections. School buses also made a daily stop there and children lined up for an ice cream cone for the ride home. During this time, Bully found time to excel in semi-pro baseball which was sweeping the area. His ability as a shortstop was well known throughout South Texas and northern Mexico. In 1941, with the outbreak of World War II, he was approached by Brayton Flying Service to operate his confectionary at Brayton Field located north of Cuero, which was training military pilots. His warm, caring personality endeared him to many young men who came his way.

Sunday was sure to find several of the young men enjoying Faye's delicious roast dinner and hot rolls. Fave was a commercial teacher at Cuero High School and many young women were given the incentive to go onto professional work with her encouragement. She is a dedicated member of the Methodist Church and taught the Womens Bible Class for approximately fifty years. In 1950, Bob married Billie Leggett. They had three children. Robert Reed, Walter Richard and Sandra Faye. Bob inherited his dads love for baseball and played on the local Trotter team. He was also active in local government and was a member of the city council for six years. Reed graduated from Sam Houston University with a degree in business. He married Beverly Vackar and they are now active in the management of Wagner Hardware. They have two children, Krista kFaye, 5 and Robert Clayton 3. Reed is a golfer and avid fisherman and the family can often be found at Port O'Connor. Richard excelled in Football at Cuero High School and was named to the All State Football Team in 1975. He graduated from A&M University and received his law degree from St. Marys University in 1984. He is employed in San Antonio. Sandra Faye graduated from A&M University with a degree in elementary education. She married Ward McCampbell also a graduate of A&M and a certified CPA. They have one daughter, Sara Courtney age 3. They make their home in Corpus Christi. Sandra is a first grade teacher and Ward is employed by an accounting firm. Both are active in civic clubs. Holidays come and family and friends gather - another chapter in the Wagner family history begins.

WAGNER, FRANK AND PETRONELLA (JANSA)

A biography written by Miss Edna Wieland (as a school assignment) and published as part of Mr. Wagner's obituary, reads:

"Frank Wagner was born in Czechoslovakia on November 11, 1853. At the age of 13 he left his parents and went to Austria to seek employment. He obtained work with a German family and had many interesting experiences there, as he could speak no other language except Czech.

"After two years in Austria he moved to Vienna and took up his trade as a mason. From there he moved to Prague and lived there one year and returned to his parents and sailed with them to America.

"They settled in Fayette county. There he married (the former Petronella Jansa) and then moved to Lavaca county near the present town of Moulton. After nine years in Lavaca (county) they moved to Yorktown on the old Wagenschein place near Garfield. They farmed there two years and then bought a farm located about five miles north of Yorktown and moved there. Two years later they bought another adjoining the first, and immediately Mr. Wagner began to take an interest in his community. The distance to Yorktown had to be traveled through pastures, and so the need of a road was felt, to get to town, school and church. Mr. Wagner got up a petition and sent it to the Commissioners' Court. They ignored it, so again he got up another; it did not pass, but the farmers did not give up hope and sent a third. This was successful and a road was built from Yorktown to Davy.

"A few years later at a community gathering, the men discussed the need of a school. So again, Mr. Wagner became active and got up a petition and about fourteen land-owners in this vicinity built a school on the William Gohlke land and named it Gohlke School in his honor

"Mr. Wagner is the father of seven children and is always interested in the welfare of his family, community, church and country. On account of his advanced age he is not very active in affairs outside of his home, but is always glad to hear and read of the progress made."

The children of the couple were: Emil J. (1886-1968) who married Anna Rohan; Peter F. (1889-1964), Valentin (1891-1920), and Frances (1893-1989) who never married; Annie (1882-1971) who married Joseph Chamrad; Emelie (1898-1966) who married Emil Hranicky, and Nell (1885-1970) who married John Petrasch.

WALDECK, RICHARD J. AND PAULA (EICHHOLZ)

F950

Richard J. Waldeck, son of Albert and Annie Junker Waldeck, was born at Meyersville, August 4, 1882. His father died when he was seven years old, and soon after he assumed a father's responsibility. He had three brothers: Albert, William and Paul; three sisters: Annie, Mamie and Matilda. He helped to rear and educate the younger children.

After completing his education in the local schools, he went to a San Antonio business college. In 1904, he returned to Cuero and was employed as a law clerk in the firm of Davidson and Bailey. While a clerk he read and studied law, and was then admitted to the Bar on a very creditable examination. During his tenure as law clerk, he accompanied Davidson, then Lt. Governor, to Austin and served as his secretary.

In 1911, he formed a partnership with August Hartman under the firm name of Waldeck and Hartman. This partnership was a little more than a year old, when at the age of twenty-nine, he was elected County Judge of DeWitt County. He served as County Judge from 1912 until 1917. At the time of his election, he was one of the youngest judges in the Judge Waldeck and F.S. Schliecher formed a partnership in 1917. This was brought to a conclusion by the untimely death of Mr. Schliecher in March 1922. Waldeck continued his law practice until 1941 when his health forced him to close his office. He was an outstanding attorney in South Texas, very active in all civic matters, and did much to promote the growth of Cuero and DeWitt County.

On May 20, 1914, he married Paula Eichholz, daughter of Professor and Mrs. W.T. Eichholz. The wedding took place at the home of her parents on Courthouse Street, Cuero, Texas. She was born March 1, 1894 in Yorktown. At the age of nine she moved to Cuero when her father founded the Duetche Rundshau (German Newspaper). She was well educated in both German and English as well as piano and voice. For several years before her marriage, she assisted her father in his newspaper work where she used her talent in writing.

During World War I, Judge Waldeck accepted the chairmanship for all five Liberty Loan Drives. Under his organization, the drives were very successful.

At the time of his death, he was recognized as one of South Texas outstanding Pythians, and was Chairman of the Grand Tribunal of Texas.

Judge and Mrs. Waldeck were members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

The Waldecks moved into their home on Valley Street when they were married. Since they did not have children and they both loved children, their home was the gathering place for nieces and nephews. Each summer the house was full of happy young people. While there, they were taught integrity, honesty and self worth, as well as how to enjoy a full and happy life. These were the attributes on which the Waldecks based their lives.

Judge Waldeck died June 25, 1942, and his wife, Paula, died February 9, 1974. They are interred in Hillside Cemetery. They were survived by an adopted daughter, Hertha Helen McCoy, and a grandson, John Robert McCoy, who, in his law practice, is following the fine example set for him by Judge Waldeck.

WALLIS, JACK TRAYLOR AND MARY SUSAN (HAMILTON) F951

Jack Traylor Wallis, present owner and operator of the Wallis Ranch, located fifteen miles northwest of Cuero, off the Westhoff Highway, was born in Del Rio, Texas, October 16, 1922. He was the only child of Samuel Jackson Wallis and Anna Brooks Rogers.

Jack's father, "S.J." as he was sometimes called, was born May 21, 1892, on the Wallis Ranch. He attended school on the Wallis Ranch and graduated from A&M in 1914 with a degree in Agriculture. He was in the Cavalry and later the Artillery in World War I; and before going overseas he married Anna, April 20, 1918, in Ft. Worth. After the War, they lived for a time in San Antonio. He went to Del Rio to manage a pecan orchard for an estate; and later owned a farm implement company in Gonzales. In 1938 S.J. came to DeWitt County to continue operation of the Wallis Ranch. The following year he and his son, Jack, began the Wallis Turkey Ranch on a part of the Ranch. This grew into a significant industry. S.J. died November 21, 1980, and is buried at Hillside Cemetery in Cuero.

Anna Brooks Rogers, Jack's mother, was born February 11, 1896, in Jacksonville, Florida, but her family had moved to Texas before she and Jack were married. She died March 10, 1975, and she is also buried at Hillside.

Jack Traylor Wallis attended school in Gonzales, in Westhoff for a short time, and graduated from Cuero High School in 1940. He was seventeen when he went into the Turkey business with his father. They developed the "Wallis Strain" of broad-breasted bronze turkeys, which won awards for quality and were known even in Mexico and Canada. In the sixties, Jack was one of the organizers of Tex-Best Turkeys, a co-operative turkey dressing plant in Marlin, Texas, and was a director of that co-op for ten years. In 1973, Jack and his father discontinued the turkey operation and returned the land to cattle and irrigated grasses.

Jack married Mary Susan Hamilton, of the industrial and ranching Hamilton family of DeWitt County on August 4, 1954. She was born in Cuero July 24, 1925, to (Thornton) Graham Hamilton and his wife, Mary Sue Graves. Graham managed his father's business, the Cuero Cotton Seed Oil and Manufacturing Company in Cuero, and was also a sportsman, rancher, and conservationist. Mary Sue, Susan's mother, came from a prominent Texas family of judges; her father, George W. Graves, was a judge of the Third Court of Civil Appeals in Galveston for fortytwo years, and her maternal grandfather, William L. Davidson, was a presiding judge on the Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin for many years. Mary Sue was active in civic affairs, was president of the Hawthorne Study Club, and was president of the local Red Cross in World War II. Graham and Mary Sue have two children; Susan, of this article, and Graves Graham (Buzzy) listed separately.

Susan attended school in Cuero where she was a tennis athlete; and where she won the American Legion Citizenship award. She earned her B.S. degree from the University of Texas in 1946. She taught school in Austin four years and in Cuero three years, and was a professional tennis coach. Some of her tennis students won state championships. She was the first woman on the school board of the Cuero Independent School District, where she served for fifteen years. In the sixties she was listed in Who's Who of American Women for her civic work in the community. Susan and her mother are both members of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority and the Colonial Dames. Mary Sue, Susan and Jack are active in Grace Episcopal Church.

Susan and Jack have three children. All were born and graduated from high school in Cuero. Jack Wesley Wallis was born October 6, 1955. He earned his B.S. degree in Biology and his M.S. in Micro-biology from Southwest Texas; and he graduated from the University of Texas Medical School, San Antonio, in 1984. He is practicing in San Marcos, where he has his own clinic. Dr. Wallis is married to Deborah Lambert of Cuero, and they have three children: James Wesley, born in San Antonio, September 1, 1982; Jennifer Beth, born October 26, 1985, and Tiffany Amber, born May 8, 1987, both of the latter born in Corpus Christi.

Sheryl Katherine Wallis, born August 18, 1957, earned her B.A. degree from Sam Houston State in 1979. She did art work in Huntsville for several years and later did interior decorating for a large company. In 1983 she married Louis Theodore Winslow, an area supervisor with Evergreen Helicopter Corporation. They have one child, Katherine Elizabeth, born July 25, 1988, in League City.

Mary Susan Wallis, called Sue, was born March 22, 1960, and earned her B.A. degree in Criminal Justice from Southwest Texas in 1982. Sue worked for a time with abused children but is currently working for the Motorola Corporation in Austin.

Susan and Jack Wallis are now operating their respective ranches together as one business enterprise.

WARZECHA, AUGUST AND KATRINA KAMINSKI

F953

August Warzecha was born on August 22, 1859, in Panna Maria, Texas, the fourth child of Jan Warzecha and Malgorzata Kuczka Warzecha. His parents immigrated by boat from Upper Silesia, Poland, to Panna Maria, Texas, in October to December, 1855, with two sons, Josef, age five, and Julius, age two years. The trip was long and harsh, and Julius died at sea. The family first lived in Panna Maria, Texas, where Konstantina, August, and Maria Warzecha were born. August's father served in the Civil War as a Confederate soldier. Then the family moved to Yorktown, Texas, where they settled permanently, and where brother, Stanick Warzecha, was born.

Katrina (Katie) Kaminski was born on November 9, 1862, in Upper Silesia, Poland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kaminski. Katrina's family immigrated to America in 1876, when Katrina was 14 years old.

August Warzecha and Katrina Kaminski were both devout Catholics. They were married at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Cuero, Texas, on May 3, 1887, by Reverend John Hagel.

This union of August and Katrina was blessed with seven sons: John (February 3, 1888), August (August 27, 1889), Benjamin (August 13, 1891), Frank (January 27, 1894), Joseph (March 17, 1896), Vincent (April 4, 1898), and Peter (April 19, 1906). The family lived and worked on a large farm on the Cheapside Route near Cuero, Texas. The large family of boys was a great asset when there was farm work to be done.

All too quickly, the farming days slowed down as the boys began their own lives.

John August Warzecha married Victoria Radzikowski from Bremond, Texas. They had no children. After her death, when he was 69 years old, John remarried to Ruth Marie Bernard on May 24, 1957, at St. Leo's Catholic Church in San Antonio. They had 20 years together.

August Steve Warzecha married Broncy Migura on January 21, 1913, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown. August and Broncy were farmers in Yorktown, Texas, where they raised three children: Katherine (Parks), August Warzecha, and Isabel (Hartman).

Frank John Warzecha married Elizabeth Ann Migura, sister to Broncy Migura, on May 4, 1921, at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Yorktown. They lived in Yorktown for 1 year and 9 months, then moved to San Antonio, Texas, where they raised their family of four children: Frank Warzecha, Eleanor (Pullin), Bernice (LeBow), and Dorothy Buckholdt).

Joseph (Joe) Theodore Warzecha married Helen Sally Skloss on February 4, 1923, in Holy Cross Catholic Church in Yorktown. They married in double wedding with Helen's brother, Conrad and Tina Skloss. They lived about 11 miles out of Cuero, then moved to Karnes City in December, 1923, where Joe farmed and raised cattle, a garden, and fruit trees. Joe and Helen raised six children: Lillian (Rodgers), Valeria (Kozielski), Clarence, James, Joseph Theodore (J.T.), and Charles Warzecha. In 1947, they moved to Yorktown, Texas.

Vincent William Warzecha married Susie Drzymala on August 26, 1924, at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Yorktown. They settled on a farm in the Mustang Mott Community, where they lived the rest of their lives, and where they celebrated 58 years of marriage. Vincent and Susie had seven children: Rose Marie (Tam), Vincent Joseph, Ladislaus, Anthony, Newton, Robert, and David Warzecha.

Peter Paul Warzecha married Pauline Zuber, but they were together only a few months when Pauline died. Peter remarried to Bernice Rose Zuber, sister of Pauline, and they had five children: Florence (Kahlich), William, Jo Ann (Griffin), Alfred, and Daniel Warzecha. Peter worked as a farmer and a carpenter. Peter and Bernice divorced, and Peter is now married to Ulida Warzecha.

Benjamin (Ben) L. Warzecha never married. He worked as a farmer, and lived on the Cheapside Route near Cuero. When Ben was 42 years old, he was in a car accident on the Yorktown-Gonzales Road. He was killed on June 23, 1934, when his car overturned, crushing his head and causing instant death.

Katrina Kaminski Warzecha died on November 18, 1937, at the age of 75 years. August Warzecha died on December 3, 1942, at the age of 83 years. They are buried at Hillside Cemetery in Cuero, Texas.

WARZECHA, JAN AND MALGORZATA KUCZKA

Jan (John) Warzecha was born January 23, 1826, and Malgorzata (Margaret) Kuczka was born July 13, 1824, in humble villages in Upper Silesia, Poland. They spoke the Upper Silesian dialect of Polish, and probably spoke German as well. Their Catholic Religion was a major force in their lives from childhood until death.

Jan and Malgorzata married in the Catholic Church in Upper Silesia, Poland, about 1849. In Poland, they had two sons, Josef Warzecha, born September 18, 1850, and Julius Warzecha, born about 1853.

During these years, Germany was trying to overtake Poland and force German ways on the Polish people. For several years beginning in 1854, many Upper Silesians escaped German control in their homeland by traveling to freedom in America. Many came to Panna Maria, Texas, a Polish village established by Father Leopold Moczygemba on Christmas Eve, 1854.

Jan and Malgorzata Warzecha and their two sons, ages 5 and 2, left Upper Silesia in early October, 1855, en route to Panna Maria, Texas, in America. The boat trip was long and harsh, and the youngest son, Julius, succumbed from the hardships. Julius was buried at sea, floated on the water in a little burial basket. The family watched the little floating basket until the boat was too far away for the basket to be seen. The trip and the loss of her son were especially hard for Malgorzata, as she was pregnant at the time with her third child.

The boat stopped in New York for provisions. Jan Warzecha's brother and his family, who were also coming to America, left the boat at New York and settled in Chicago, Illinois.

Jan, Malgorzata, and Josef continued the boat trip to Texas. They landed at Indianola during the middle of December, 1855. From Indianola, they walked to Panna Maria, pulling a wooden cart carrying their meager belongings. Arriving about Christmas, 1855, they were met at Panna Maria by Josef Kuczka, the brother of Malgorzata, who came with the original group of Polish settlers who founded Panna Maria in December, 1854, one year earlier.

Five months later on May 20, 1856, a daughter, Konstantina Warzecha, was born to Jan and Malgorzata. A son, August Warzecha, was born on August 18, 1859. During this time, Jan Warzecha worked for the Butler family in Karnes County. The Polish people were treated well by the Butler family. During the drought of 1856, the Butler family gave grain and cattle to the Polish people so they would not starve. Jan learned the English language, and was interpreter for the Polish people.

The Civil War had begun on April 12, 1861. As Union or Confederate soldiers passed through towns, they commanded young men to join them as soldiers, thus conscripting them into the Army. On March 8, 1862, Jan Warzecha was naturalized as a citizen of the Confederate States of America. Thus about March of 1862, the newly immigrated Jan Warzecha was conscripted as a Confederate soldier in the Civil War, and was forced to leave his pregnant wife and three little children. His daughter, Maria Warzecha, was born July 18, 1862. Jan Warzecha was a war hero by capturing the enemy Union flag during one battle.

After the war ended on April 9, 1865, it took many months for Jan to find his way back to his family. Happily, he did return. The family moved from Panna Maria to the fast growing town of Yorktown in DeWitt County, and settled on the east edge of town near the present day American Legion Hall. On February 26, 1868, a son, Stanick Warzecha, was born in Yorktown. Only 16 months later, on June 28, 1869, while digging a water well for the family, his lungs weak from pneumonia suffered earlier, possibly after hitting a shallow pocket of gas, Jan Warzecha died. He was 43 years, 5 months, and 5 days old. He was buried at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery in Yorktown (now Holy Cross Catholic Ceme-

Malgorzata was left with her five children, ages 18 years to 16 months. On October 20, 1870, Malgorzata remarried to Leopold Zielonka, but they stayed together only a few months. Malgorzata remained single until her death on November 4, 1910. She was 86 years, 3 months, and 22 days old. Malgorzata was buried beside Jan at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery.

Malgorzata was survived by her five children and their spouses: Josef Warzecha and Mary Jendrzey, Konstantina Warzecha and Filip Dlugosch, August Warzecha and Katrina Kaminski, Maria Warzecha and Frank Simon Kolodziejczyk, and Stanick Warzecha and Maria Placzyk. She was also survived by 36 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren. The children all lived in DeWitt County.

On April 17, 1915, St. Mary's Catholic Church burned down. It was beautifully rebuilt by September, 1916, and named Holy Cross Catholic Church. The five children dedicated a stained glass window of John the Baptist, Jan's patron saint, at the baptism fountain of the new church as a lasting memory of their parents, Jan Warzecha and Malgorzata Kuczka.

WARZECHA, JOSEF AND MARY JENDRZEY

EOEE

Josef Warzecha was born on September 18, 1850, in Upper Silesia, Poland, the oldest son of Jan Warzecha and Malgorzata Kuczka Warzecha. In 1855, at the age of 5, he traveled with his parents and two-year-old brother, Julius Warzecha, on a boat to America. Julius died at sea. In America, Josef's family grew with added siblings: Konstantina, August, Maria, and Stanick Warzecha. His family first lived in Panna Maria, Texas. Josef's dad served in the Civil War as a Confederate soldier. Then the family moved to Yorktown, Texas, where they settled permanently.

Maria (Mary) Jendrzey was also born in Upper Silesia, Poland, on August 31, 1849, to Valentine Jendrzey and Katherine Panicz Jendrzey. She was the only girl with four brothers: Jacob, Joseph, Frank, and Peter Jendrzey. The family traveled to America about 1855 and lived first in Panna Maria, Texas. Frank was born under the big oak tree by St. Mary's Catholic Church in Panna Maria on November 28, 1857. They soon moved to Yorktown, Texas, where they settled across the road from St. Mary's Catholic Church. The Valentine Jendrzey family donated the land for St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery (now Holy Cross Cemetery).

Josef Warzecha and Mary Jendrzey were married on February 18, 1873, at St. Mary's Church in Yorktown. The priest, Rev. Adolph Snigurski, presided at their wedding.

Josef and Mary Warzecha were farmers living on a 200 acre farm near Yorktown and near the Ratcliffe Community in the area known at that time as the Five Mile Community. They were neighbors with Josef's sister and her husband, Konstantina Warzecha and Filip Dlugosch.

The union of Josef and Mary Warzecha was blessed with seven children: Adam, born December 24, 1873; John, born May 14, 1876; Julia, born December 26, 1878; Karolina, born October 29, 1881; Rosie, born September 2, 1884; Tekla, born September 4, 1886, and Nicholas, born September 6, 1889. Just six days after Nicholas was born, their young daughter, Karolina Warzecha, only seven years old, died on September 12, 1889, while her parents were taking her to the doctor in a wagon. She was buried under the big oak tree near her grandfather, Jan Warzecha, at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery in Yorktown.

When the children were little, the house they lived in had a loft. At night, they would sleep in the loft and pull up the ladder for protection from Indians.

Also, when the children were little, they would pick cotton in summer, and in winter they would sit by the stove and pick the seeds out of the cotton lint so they would have cotton seeds for planting the next spring. They would sell picked cotton with the seed for $3.00 per hundred pounds.

Time passed quickly as the children grew up, and soon the happiness of weddings and grand-children filled the lives of Josef Warzecha and Mary Jendrzey Warzecha.

Julia Warzecha married Joseph Respondek on November 9, 1898, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown. They made their home in Yorktown, and had 13 children: Jerome, Victoria (Nesloney), Ignatz, Mary (Ledwik), Helen (Tam), Rosie, Leon, Conrad, Katie, Annie, Felix, Walter, and Bonnie Respondek.

Adam Warzecha married Karolina Ibrom on November 22, 1898, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown. They lived in Yorktown until about 1908, then settled in Westhoff, Texas. Adam and Karolina Warzecha had nine children: Tekla (Lipinski), Raymond, Hedwig (Brysch), Mary (Kowalik), Edward, Conrad, and triplets Pius, Julius, and Ignatz Warzecha.

John Warzecha married Mary Biela if Czestochowa, Texas, on April 26, 1904, at the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary Catholic Church in Czestochowa. They lived on a farm near Falls City, and were the parents of seven children: Ella, Julia (Kyrish), Joseph, Gertrude (Sturm), Isadore, Eleanora (Sturm), and Albert Warzecha.

Rosie Warzecha married Valentine Pokluda at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown on November 7, 1911. They lived near Yorktown, and had four children: Katie (Styra), Vera (Sturm), and twins Peter and Ursula Pokluda.

Nicholas Warzecha married Ursula Biemer at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown on January 28, 1913. They lived near Yorktown, and raised four Warzecha daughters: Elizabeth (Tam Kolodziej), Carrie (Broll), Rose (Syzdek), and Mary (Parchman).

Tekla Warzecha remained single. She lived at home and took care of her parents.

Mary Jendrzey Warzecha died on February 17, 1914, at age 64 years. Josef Warzecha died on October 17, 1933, at age 83 years. Both are buried at Holy Cross Catholic Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

WARZECHA, STANICK AND MARY PLACZYK

Stanick (Stanley) Warzecha was born on February 26, 1868, in Yorktown, Texas, the sixth child of Jan Warzecha and Malgorzata Kuczka Warzecha. His parents immigrated by boat from Upper Silesia, Poland, to Panna Maria, Texas, in October to December, 1855, with two sons, Josef, age five, and Julius, age two years, and the mother was pregnant during the trip. The trip was long and hard, and little brother, Julius, died at sea. The family first lived in Panna Maria, Texas, where siblings Konstantina, August, and Maria Warzecha were born. Stanick's father served in the Civil War as a Confederate soldier. Then the family moved to Yorktown, Texas, where they settled permanently, and where Stanick War-

Mary Placzyk was the daughter of Joseph Placzyk and Josephine Kozuk Placzyk, who came from Kielce, Poland. Mary was born on January 13, 1867, in Kielce, Poland, and immigrated to America with her family as a young girl.

St. Mary's Catholic Church in Yorktown, Texas, was the setting for the wedding of Stanick Warzecha and Mary Placzyk on May 20, 1889. The happy couple made their home on a farm near the Lindenau Community and Mustang Mott Community near Cuero, Texas. Stanick and Mary were neighbors to Stanick's brother and his wife, August Warzecha and Katrina Kaminski Warzecha. On the farm, Stanick and Mary Warzecha loved and raised five children: Josephine (Ledwik), Victoria, Theodore, Pauline, and Anna Marie Warzecha.

Josephine Warzecha was born November 27, 1895, in Yorktown, Texas. She married John Ledwik on November 26, 1919, at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Yorktown. (John's birthday was May 14, 1889.) They resided in Westhoff, Texas, and were blessed with one daughter, Agnes Ledwik Srubar. John Ledwik died on August 2, 1962, and Josephine died on May 12, 1981. They are buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

Theodore John Warzecha was born on April 20, 1902, in Lindenau. He married Mary Dworaczyk on November 19, 1934, at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Yorktown. (Mary's birthday is March 25, 1913.) Theodore and Mary made their home in Westhoff, where they raised two sons: Stanley and Virgil Warzecha. Theodore John Warzecha died on December 19, 1968, and is buried at St. Aloysius Catholic Cemetery in Westhoff. Mary still resides in Westhoff, Texas.

Victoria Warzecha was born on December 17, 1897, Pauline Warzecha was born on January 22, 1904, and Anna Marie Warzecha was born on July 16, 1905. All were born in Lindenau. The three sisters all remained single, and lived together on the farm where they took care of their parents, and were very capable with the farm work. Victoria and Anna Marie still live on the farm in the Lindenau area near Cuero, Texas.

The father, Stanick Warzecha, died on February 2, 1930, at age 61 years. The mother, Mary Placzyk Warzecha, died on February 26, 1942, at age 75 years. Pauline Warzecha died on May 17, 1978. They are buried at Holy Cross Catholic Cemetery in Yorktown, Texas.

WASSERMAN FAMILY F957

Gustaf Wasserman, Sr. (1910), father of Gus Wasserman, Jr.

Ida (Kunitz) Wasserman (1874).

Gus and Margaret (Rose) Wasserman, Sr. and Gus and Ida (Kunitz) Wasserman, Jr.

About 1854 George Wasserman brought his wife, Anna Rosina Wasserman, with his children Gustaf Wasserman, Emelia Wasserman, and Eliza Wasserman from Saxony, Germany to settle in Indianola, Texas. Two other children were born to this union, George Wasserman, Jr. and Bertha Wasserman. They were born in Texas. George Wasserman was born on February 17, 1818 and died in Cuero July 30. 1897. His wife, Anna, was born on September 25, 1821 and died in Cuero June 13, 1894. Both are buried in Hillside Cemetery with daughter, Emelia Lewis. George Wasserman was a drayman as was his son, Gustaf. Gustaf Wasserman married Margaret Rose from Saxony, Germany. Emelia Wasserman married Davis Lewis, a grocer from Massachusetts. Eliza Wasserman married Philip Holtheuser, a seaman from Nassau. George Wasserman, Jr. who worked as clerk in a retail store married Fanny Wasserman. Bertha Wasserman married William Miller who owned and herded

George Wasserman, Sr. was the one who recovered the bell of the ship, S.S. Reliance, which had been given to the Lutheran Church in Indianola by the Morgan Steamship Company Line. This bell was removed from the belfry of this church during the Civil War and buried in the sand of Matagorda Beach when the Yankee soldiers came into Indianola to find all metal and melt it down for ammunition. George Wasserman, Sr. assisted in finding and retrieving this little bell from the Indianola sand in 1889, and bringing it to Cuero. It is installed in the steeple as a prayer bell of St. Mark's Lutheran Church of Cuero (1989). It had been used from 1894 until 1913 by the Cuero Volunteer Fire Department and then reinstalled in the church's belfry. This little copper bell has a remarkable history.

Gustaf (Gus) Wasserman, Sr. was born on January 8, 1843 and Margaret Rose, his wife, was born September 6, 1842. Both were born in Saxony, Germany, and Margaret Rose had been brought by her parents to Indianola when she was three years old. Margaret Rose had a sister Katarina (Catherine) Rose who married Henry Heyer of Indianola. When Margaret Rose died she had a sister in Marlin, Texas. To the union of Gus and Margaret Wasserman were born seven children, five daughters and two sons. They were born in Indianola. The children were Annie Wasserman (wife of Raymond Flick, Cuero), Louisa Wasserman (wife of A.C. Dietze, Karnes City), Katie Wasserman (wife of Albert F. Lienhardt, Cuero), Emil Wasserman (husband of Erixie McRae, San Antonio), Gustaf (Gus) Wasserman, Jr. (husband of Ida Kunitz, Cuero), Georgina Wasserman (wife of Festus Able, Cuero), and Daisy Wasserman (wife of L.A. Bauer, Cuero). Gustaf Wasserman and his wife Margaret walked their family out of Indianola after the hurricane had demolished it for the second time. Some of the descendants of their children still reside in Cuero, Gustaf Wasserman and his wife, Margaret, lived in their home on Morgan Avenue until their deaths. Gustaf died March 14, 1912 and his wife, Margaret, died June 26, 1923. Gustaf had been an associate in the firm of Lucas & Wasserman painters. He loved music and played in the Lienhardt Brass Band with his son Gus, Jr. and his father George Wasserman, Sr. in the 1890s.

Gus Wasserman, Jr., son of Gustaf (Gus) Wasserman of Saxony, Germany was born in Indianola in 1875 and came in 1886 with his parents to Cuero where he grew to young manhood. Gus Wasserman learned to play the cornet and played with his father in Lienhardt Brass Band and in the Wasserman Orchestra which played for many social events in the 1890s. On September 23, 1896, he married Ida Kunitz and this same Lienhardt Brass Band serenaded them. Gus Wasserman, Jr. and Ida Wasserman resided in a new home at 707 Southline Street (Newman) in Cuero. Gus Wasserman, Jr. was senior member of the Wasserman Sign Company with his sons Edward and Norman Wasserman. He was Fire Marshall of Cuero for 12 years and established a splendid record. He loved his music and took pride in buying his family a beautiful rosewood piano for the family's music and pleasure. Gus Wasserman, Jr. was a devoted husband and father. He died on October 19, 1932, of a heart attack, at the age of 57. Gus Wasserman, Jr. is buried with his wife Ida Kunitz in Hillside Cemetery.

Three children were born to Gus Wasserman, Jr. and Ida Kunitz Wasserman. The first son was Edward Raymond Wasserman (born December 3, 1897-died December 6, 1947). He married Annie Dohman. The two children born to this union were June Wasserman Chase, a retired librarian living in Albuquerque, New Mexico with her mother, and Albert "Pete" Wasserman, a plant executive in Washington, D.C. and Virginia, who died February 12, 1985 at the age of 60. "Pete" Wasserman married Marjorie Monk of Yoakum who now lives in Arlington, Texas.

Norman Wasserman (born February 1, 1900-died December 25, 1968) married Sophie Dohman (deceased) who was Annie Dohman's sister. The three children born to them were Lamar Wasserman (San Antonio), Glen Wasserman (Amarillo), and Norman Lee Wasserman (Snookie) (deceased).

Gladys Pauline Wasserman, the only daughter, married Raymond Voelkel and has her story elsewhere. Norman and Ed Wasserman worked with their father, Gus, Jr., in the Wasserman Sign Company located on North Main Street near the old passenger railroad station. After their father's death, they moved their shop to Esplanade Street. They were both lovers of music and played in orchestras, such as "The Turkey Trotters," and in the Cuero City Concert Bands for many years. Edward played the cornet and trumpet and Norman played the drums.

Albert "Pete" Wasserman (son of Edward Wasserman) had four children who were Barry, Carol Ann, Deborah Lynn, and Janie Marie Wasserman. Lamar Wasserman, Glen Wasserman, and Norvan Lee (Snookie) Wasserman (sons of Norman Wasserman) had four children each in their families. Lamar's children were Robert Anthony, David Lamar, Gary Edward, and Rebecca Ann. Glen's children were Linda Marie, Gene Richard, Victoria Ruth, and Carol Ann Wasserman. Norvan Lee's children were Marylyn Ruth, Jimmie Carl, Mark Anthony and Jon Lee Wasserman.

Most of the deceased members of the Wasserman and Kunitz families are buried in the Hillside or Memorial Gardens Cemetery in Cuero.

WATSON, WILLIAM

Joe and Luella (Houston) Watson

The Watson family had its roots in Durham County, England. Aaron and Mary, residents of Durham County were the parents of William Watson. Aaron was a miner and a farmer. William (1834-1913) married Lois in 1856 and migrated to America in 1878 with their two daughters: Hannah (1852-1922) who was married to Thomas Urwin, and Elizabeth (1853-1878) who was married to Joe Peadon, she died one month after arriving in Luling: and their sons were George (1860-1913), Aaron (1863) and Thomas (1871-1943). Thomas is buried in Bellevue Cemetery near Cheapside, Texas. The Watsons lived near Luling until 1889 when they relocated to Gonzales County. In 1892, William and sons erected a public cotton gin, which later became known as Watson's Gin. Lois died in 1898 and William returned to England to visit a daughter, Maggie, who remained there. His health declined and he died in England May 7, 1913 and was buried in Shelton County.

Thomas married Margaret Ramage (1878-1958) of Scotch descent (who came with her family from England in 1879) on June 21, 1899, and lived at Watson Gin until 1903 when they moved to Caldwell to operate a cotton gin there. After cotton season he operated a street car in Galveston. In 1906 Tom returned to the family farm, but sold out in 1910 and bought land in Cheapside. Tom's children were: Bella, Bessie, Jessie Lois and Joseph "Joe."

In the fall, after the crops were gathered, he "graded" turkeys for Stahl Produce. In 1936 he drove a truck for Armor and Co., gathering poultry and eggs in Gonzales County and surrounding counties. On February 20, 1938, he and Luella Houston, of Gonzales, were married in Hochheim. They made their home on the Watson land near Cheapside. They raised chickens, turkeys, hogs and farmed. Besides farming Joe worked for Wagner Hardware in Cuero and Randal Hardware in Gonzales. Joe has served as election judge, school trustee, Rural Electric Association director and church elder.

In 1958 Joe and Luella bought the E.L. Freeman Grocery in Cheapside. Luella was Postmistress and helped with the store and meat processing. After 30 years they retired and closed the store on December 30, 1988.

Joe and Luella's children are: Joseph Charles (Nov. 23, 1939, married Barbara Bolt on Nov. 9, 1964), Thomas Howard (June 19, 1941, married Carol Ray on August 19, 1967 in Cuero), James William (Dec. 12, 1943, married Emily Staton of Combs, Dec. 26, 1970), Robert Carlos (August 31, 1945, married Annette Krueger in Cuero August 9, 1968), Marjorie (Dec. 3, 1946, married Gene Kacir in Waco September 4, 1970), Lynette (May 8, 1956 married Tommy Schlenker in Westhoff March 7, 1981).

WEBB, ALBERT AND MARY JANE McALLISTER

Albert Webb, 1874 before he married.

Mary Jane McAllister, 1874 before she married.

Albert Webb came to DeWitt County Texas in about 1872 from Vienna (Dorchester Co.) Maryland where he was born (1845-1923). He joined a cousin Samuel James Webb and an aunt (Elizabeth Webb married to James N. Shearman) who were already in Clinton, Texas. Here, his marriage to Mary Jane McAllister was solemnized in the Live Oak Church on 22 January 1874 with the Rev. J.T. Gillett performing the ceremony. The wedding was reported in the 30 January 1874 issue of the Cuero Weekly Star.

Albert's parents were Thomas Henry Webb and Frances Ann (McNamara) Webb of Dorchester Co. He had a sister Sarah and a brother James Franklin. His grandfather was Col. Francis Webb who fought in the War of 1812. Thomas Henry was Francis' son of his second marriage to Harriett Hicks, sister of Holiday Hicks, Governor of Maryland.

Mary Jane McAllister was born in Mississippi (1849-1925). Her father was Alexander McAllister of Cuero (DeWitt) Texas. Her sisters were Mattie and Sally.

Albert was a merchandise clerk in his cousin's store, S.J. Webb & Company. He was appointed Postmaster in Clinton, serving from 7 July 1879 until James R. Wofford succeeded him in 1882. His cousin Samuel had been Postmaster from 18 May 1874 to 25 July 1876 succeeded by J.T. Kilgore who preceded Albert.

Albert and Mary Jane had seven children. The six older children were born in Clinton: Thomas Henry (1875-1955), Albert Walter (1876-?), Nancy Alberta (1878-1959), Archibald Sterling Grimes (dates unknown), George Clark (dates unknown), and Frances McNamara (1887-?). The seventh child, Clay McAllister (1888-1950) was born after the family moved back to the Eastern Shore of Maryland, urged by Albert's father, Capt. Thomas Webb to return to Vienna. This they did and prospered in farming, remaining there until both Albert and Mary Jane were laid to rest in that small community with his ancestors. Their daughters married and lived in Portsmouth, Va. Their sons had careers in law, medicine, engineering and business. Thomas Henry returned to Texas, Albert Walter and Archibald went to Oklahoma, and George Clark practiced medicine in Federalsburg, Maryland. Clay McAllister remained in Vienna to become a prominent Dorchester County farmer and canner, one of the leading and most highly respected citizens of the county.

It is interesting that Texas still beckons Albert's descendants. Of his 12 grandchildren, one is Margaret Ann Webb, daughter of Clay McAllister, now Mrs. Joseph Faries Denniston who resides at 12106 Shetland Chase in Austin, Texas. She has 2 brothers and a sister: Albert Walter (1916-1978), Clay McAllister, Jr. (1917-1956) and Marian (1924). Margaret Ann (1922) married Joseph Faries Denniston III (1923). They have three sons, one daughter and five grandchildren viz: Joseph F. IV (1949), children: Jodie Rebecca (1973) and Joseph F. V (1975); Ann Webster (1951-1982); Webb (1953), children: Christopher Clay (1972) and Jennifer June (1974); David Andrew (1960), son Daniel Andrew (1984).

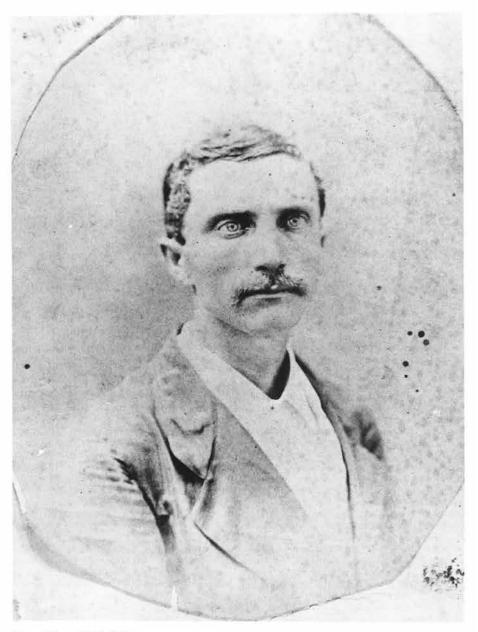

There is no doubt that Joseph and Ann's move to Texas in 1957 was sweetened by the knowledge that her grandfather once lived here. Of Albert's many great-great grandchildren, their descendants may continue his line in Texas.

WEBB, JAMES WEBB, AND ELLEN ANN DELAMATER

F960

Samuel James Webb was born 28 January 1829 in Vienna (Dorchester) Maryland, on what is known as the Eastern Shore. He spent his early youth there. At some point in time before 1850 he emigrated to Texas, spending some time along the way possibly in Missouri. He may have traveled in company with the Reverend James N. Shearman's family, who was also from Vienna. Shearman's wife, Elizabeth Webb (daughter of Francis Webb II and Harriet Hicks), was also born in Vienna. Rev. Shearman was appointed guardian in 1843 of a James Webb; it is believed that this was Samuel James Webb. (Eliza would have been his aunt by relation to Samuel's father. Only the appointment of her husband as guardian is verified.) Only two male Webbs reported on the 1830 U.S. Federal Census in Vienna that they had male children under the age of five; Thomas and William, who were Eliza's brothers.

When the town of Clinton was created, the first town lots were sold at public auction 17 February 1852 by John R. Foster, appointed as Commissioner to handle the sale on behalf of the DeWitt County Commissioners, James M. Baker, Chief Justice, Daniel B. Friar, Jonah Taylor and C. Cardwell. Rollins B. Wofford and S.J. Webb were the highest bidder for "Half Lot Four Block Thirteen as laid down on the Map of said Town. . "(County Clerk's Office, DeWitt County, Deeds Book F, pp. 71-72, No. 1116) The deed was not filed or recorded until July 1854. Again at auction by Foster, on 8 May 1855 Samuel purchased Lot 3, Block 13 for $59.50. The first general dry goods and grocery store owned by the firm of Webb & Wofford was built on Half Lot Four, Block 13.

From 1852 through 1873 Samuel bought and sold several parcels of land in Clinton and DeWitt County. By one recorded deed dated 10 March 1873 he sold his interest in the business he owned with R.B. Wofford and John Tyler Wofford: ". . . my entire interest and claim to the Store House and Lot . . . Lot No. 2 in Block No. . . "(Record of Deeds Book N, pp. 300-301) He received Six Hundred Dollars for this sale, which included another parcel of land from which he excluded a one-eighth acre of ground out of a tract of some two hundred sixty-two acres, ". . . on which three graves occupy the centre on above tract of land . . ." It is quite likely that the three graves referred to are the graves of Samuel's three daughters, Laura May, Fanny and Bobbie who died as young children in 1865 and 1866. This may also be the old cemetery in Clinton, since Samuel and his wife's graves are with the children's, and have been recently identified.

Samuel married Ellen Ann Delamater 21 February 1856. She was fourteen. His descendants believe that she had immigrated to America from Alsace-Lorraine, France with her mother (who was a French Huguenot) and her brother. The mother died on board ship, so Ellen was taken by another family to be reared, and John by a different family. They did not meet again until John, by chance travelling through Clinton and stopping at the Webb store, happened to mention that his name was Delamater. Samuel called Ellen into the store to meet this man. Ellen remembered that her brother had had two toes on one foot that were joined together. John removed one shoe, revealing that his toes were so joined, and the brother and sister were reunited. Ellen was born 25 January 1842, and died 15 July 1876.

Ellen may have been in Texas as early as 1842. Who reared her, or when and how she arrived in Texas, is not known. It is believed that John grew up in Ohio, according to some of his descendants who now reside in San Antonio, but spell their name "Delemater." Samuel's grandchildren in the San Antonio area always called these Delamaters "Cousin."

Married in 1856, the U.S. Federal Census for 1860 shows the Webb family residing in Gonzales. Ellen's birthplace is erroneously stated as New York — which is where ships from Europe usually landed at that time. Samuel stated that he was from Maryland, a farmer, with a personal estate of $6,000 (a respectable sum of money!), and listed two small children, Larry (Leary) and Laura (newly born). He owned no slaves. No mention was made of a store in Clinton; why? one wonders. Was Clinton not yet ready for family life?

With the onset of the Civil War, Samuel enlisted in DeWitt County and was mustered into service for Texas and the South by J.A. Harral, being assigned as a private into Capt. B.J. Hogue's Company, Waul's Legion Texas Volunteers, for the duration of the War. He served with light artillery companies. Waul's Legion was among the troops under Lt. General John C. Pemberton, C.S.A., who were surrendered and paroled to Major General Ulysses S. Grant, Commanding the U.S. Dept. of the Tennessee, U.S. Forces, in the surrender of Vicksburg, Mississippi on July 4th, 1863. General Pemberton had hoped that by choosing July 4th (a day held in great esteem by the Union) to surrender Vicksburg, his troops might receive better terms. General Grant was adamant in dictating his own terms of surrender. Each man - officer or enlisted - would march out of the trenches at a specified time, lay down his gun, and sign an Oath of Allegiance to the United States. He would then be paroled rather than imprisoned, and could return to his home. All arms were to be surrendered, except that an officer could retain his horse and one gun. Because the Union was as desperate as was the Confederacy, parole rather than imprisonment benefited both Armies. It still was a long way from Mississippi to Texas, and winter was coming.

By December Samuel (still a private) appeared on roll with Company B, Light Artillery Battalion, Waul's Texas Legion. He managed to get home to Ellen in December 1863 briefly, and then again was back with troops at North Caney (a military encampment) with Timmons' Texas Regiment Infantry Co. G, from which in March 1864 he was transferred to McMahan's Battery, and may have participated in the Red River Campaign later that year.

This record of Samuel's service in the Civil War was recovered from The National Archives, Washington, D.C. His Oath of Allegiance, which he was required to sign by surrender terms that July Fourth was also found there. Still, as did so many Confederate soldiers, he continued his service and loyalty to the South almost an entire year after signing that repugnant document. His final date of service cannot be determined.

Ellen, meanwhile, did what other Confederate women were doing: she remained behind, caring for the home and tending her two small children, and sewing chevrons on to other soldiers' uniforms, for which she received silver coins and made them into teaspoons!

From another deed dated 20 January 1872 (Deeds Book Vol. M, pp 390-301), dissolution of the firm of Webb & Wofford can be placed in 1871. Perhaps Samuel and Rollins B. decided to go into separate businesses so that their grown sons could participate. For whatever reason, by the end of 1873, the Cuero STAR Newspaper reported in its Wednesday December 31st edition:

"The newly opened dry goods establishment of Mr. Webb's at Clinton is quite an ornament to the place. He has a large and well selected stock as can be found in Clinton and deserves the patronage of a liberal people."

The new store was built with a dwelling for his family attached, and with a stockroom in back, and a stable. By the end of '73, Ellen and Samuel had buried their first three daughters, and Ellen had borne three more children: Phinnie Floree in 1868, Joe Friend in 1870, and Daisy Ellen in April 1873. Samuel had his new store, Ellen had her new family to raise and care for. Leary Francis, now nearly seventeen, was available to learn the store trade from his father. Samuel James, Jr. was born 28 February 1876.

Samuel's "new" store appears in the book written by one Lewis S. Delony (who was born in Clinton 21 October 1857 to Lewis H. Delony and his wife) and privately published by him. The book was reprinted in the Winter of 1970 issue of the OLD WEST Magazine, copyrighted 1970 by Western Publications, Inc., Austin, Texas. Delony's book recounts his forty years as a peace officer, much of it occurring in DeWitt County. He clerked for a while for Samuel, also serving under him as Assistant Postmaster. Delony wrote of the Sutton-Taylor feud and the attempts one day of the Taylors to kill Judge Add Kilgore over some altercation. Delony hid Judge Kilgore in the Webb storeroom most of the day until the Taylors gave up the search and rode out of town.

Many other interesting anecdotes about Clinton and DeWitt County appear in the book. A copy of the magazine cited is in the possession of Mrs. Melvin J. Luker, Weesatche. Mrs. Luker is a great-great-granddaughter of Samuel; her grandfather was James Eugene "Gene" Webb, the first son of Leary Francis and Annie Elizabeth Williams Webb, born in Clinton. The story of Leary Francis' marriage to Miss Williams, and his role of executor and guardian of his younger siblings appears in a separate story in this history of DeWitt County. A biography of Leary, Annie and their descendants can also be found in the Goliad County History which was published in 1983.

Of the eight children born to Samuel and Ellen Ann, five lived to maturity. Three little girls died at an early age: Laura May (six years old) in 1865, Fannie (twenty-one months) in 1865, and Bobbie (one month) 1866. Of the five who reached adulthood, three were accident victims. Phinnie Floree Maddux, her husband Willie and three of their four children were killed by a tornado which hit Goliad May 18, 1902. Joe Friend Webb, who had become a Methodist Episcopal minister, was struck by a truck and killed instantly in 1928. Samuel James, Jr. was struck by lightning in a summer storm in Weesatche August 9, 1892, dying instantly. He was sixteen.

What else does the family know about Samuel and Ellen Ann? Very little; too little! Yet, from the meager records gathered by their descendants, a picture of a fine and honorable man is drawn. Certainly an adventurer and a survivor, for he left a pleasant, well-established county in Maryland to find his fortune in unsettled lands in a new state. He was a man who built a prosperous mercantile and grocery business - twice; who bought and sold land often between 1852 and 1876. He served his community as a Postmaster (1871-1876); he was an Assistant Marshall for a time. When the need arose, he served the South and Texas without personal distinction, selflessly, leaving his wife and two small children in surroundings that could not have been other than simple. At twenty, Ellen was little more than a child, herself, but she proved equal to the task, as did many other DeWitt County wives. DeWitt County's pioneer wives deserve their own niche in the County history!

Samuel was a man who helped to build a new town from bare ground, and in the process found many friends, among them his business partners Rollins B. Wofford and John Tyler Wofford, also Webb Wofford; Judge Add Kilgore; his clerk Lewis Delony; Richard Chisholm of trail-driving fame. A pharmacist named W.T. Williams (from Tennessee), whose daughter Annie Elizabeth married Leary Francis Webb. Williams moved to Weesatche about the same time.

Samuel imbued his children with good religious beliefs, favoring the Methodist religion. He saw that his children attended school. He taught Leary the store business. When he died a year after Ellen, Sam left Leary as his executor and as guardian of his smaller sisters and brothers. Sam and Ellen are buried by their little girls in Clinton.

Samuel never returned to Maryland. A cousin, Albert Webb (1845-1923) came to DeWitt County and settled in Clinton, where he clerked in the store and pursued farming interests. He married Mary Jane McAllister (1849-1926), whose father was Alexander McAllister of Cuero. They have established a healthy line of their own, living in other states as well as Texas. His ties to Maryland endured, and he returned with Mary Jane before their 7th child, Clay McAllister Webb, was born in 1888, and are buried in Vienna.

The writer has added a listing of Samuel and Ellen's children and their spouses to this history. The children have joined their parents in death; in turn, they have been joined by their own children. Only great-grandchildren remain, and their progeny. Texans!

The children of Samuel James and Ellen Ann Webb were:

WEBB, LEARY FRANCIS AND ANNIE ELIZA WILLIAMS

Leary Francis Webb was born in Clinton (DeWitt) Texas January 14, 1857. He grew up in Clinton, going to school and helping his father in the general mercantile businesses Samuel built and owned from Clinton's beginning until he died in 1877. He lived in DeWitt County until 1878, moved his father's family and his new wife to Weesatche in Goliad County where he lived until 1912. He moved to San Antonio (Bexar) in 1912, working as a postal delivery agent until his death on 27 March 1921.1

Leary had fathered eight children, lived in three counties, and - like most citizens of that period - followed in his father's footsteps, continuing in the general mercantile store(s), trading land in DeWitt and Goliad Counties. Like his father Samuel, who served as Postmaster in Clinton 1871-1876, Leary was the Postmaster in Weesatche from 1881 to 1910, when his son John Leroy became Postmaster. (Leary earned for this service $64 per year; John was paid the handsomer sum of $320 per year!) Two of his sons, Gene and John, both owned general dry goods stores in Weesatche, learning the business from their father.

Some of his descendants did not have the privilege of knowing Leary, of course. The existing pictures of him show that he was a tall. gangly man (like Samuel) with blonde hair and blue eyes, easy-going but shrewd where finance mattered. They can at best surmise that he was a kind, responsible man with a knack for good business, who prospered in his different interests. He was generous with his children and his wife. He liked good houses and good fences around them, to set them off. Life set upon his and Ellen's broad shoulders responsibility not only for his own children, but for his younger brothers and sisters who were left in their care in 1877.

Leary was eighteen when Ellen died in 1876. A year later, near death, Samuel made Leary the sole executor of his estate, appointing him guardian of four younger siblings, one only a year old. The week before he died, Samuel wrote a letter to the County Clerk of Goliad County asking him to ". . . pleas (sic) let my son Leary F. Webb have License to Marry Miss Annie E. Williams . . . "This was surely a union of love as well as one hastened by necessity: there were small children to be cared for. The young couple are to be admired and honored, raising the children with their own offspring who now began to arrive. James Eugene, their eldest and firstborn, arrived June 9th, 1878, and was the only child born in Clinton, the others being born in Weesatche.

Clinton had lost its status as the county seat of DeWitt County; the railroad had selected Cuero as its terminal. By 1877, citizens were quick to react by moving their businesses and homes away to other centers of population. Land was purchased in Weesatche on the south side of the Coletto Creek by Leary (Goliad Co. Land Records, Book M, pp. 442-443), so the decision to move the family store was finalized. Can the modern reader visualize moving a very big wooden building on log rollers over dirt roads, successfully? Leary did it! But the first location proved unhandy for its customers, so in 1879 Leary purchased land on the northeast side of the creek, and moved the store again. Leary's cattle brand was "U7" (United Seven — L.F., Annie, 5 children), reg. Goliad 1879.

For his family, Leary built a fine two-story house near the new location. Here, with the help of a stern German nanny, Annie tended to the home. As his boys grew up, they learned the mercantile and grocery business. All the children went to school in Weesatche. The community quickly grew. The children took music lessons, Gene and John playing violin and guitar and horns, the girls learning piano. Fourth of July barbecues and church services and local dances provided social occasions. Close friendships were established, but the older friendships in DeWitt County were not forgotten or neglected.

After the small structure attached to the store was not used by L.F.'s family, W.T. Williams (Annie's father, a pharmacist) rented the space for a drug store. In 1912, Gene bought the store from Leary, with Alonzo Albrecht becoming his partner. Across the main street, John Leroy (the doctor or county clerk did not spell the name "Leary", as it had been intended) had opened his own general store in 1902. The building with his name and the year emblazoned on the top storefront, stand empty, unused. In 1901 John had married Elizabeth "Lizzie" Hohn from Yorktown; they lived two doors down, next to Gene and ollie, across the street from the Busbys and Dr. C.L. O'Quinn, Weesatche's beloved doctor. who delivered Gene's daughter Gladys, and all three of John's children: Annie Lorraine (1902), Hazel Marguerite (1908), and the writer of this history, Pearl (1918). Gene and Ollie had already built a large brick and wood home on property adjoining John's store. It is a handsome home, which was inherited by their daughter Gladys (Mrs. Alvin) Meyer when Ollie died 28 April 1971, Gladys died not long thereafter, passing the home to her daughter (and only child) Bobbie Jean (Mrs. Melvin J.) Luker. It is now owned and occupied by her second son, Russell Luker.

Bobbie and Melvin are Weesatche residents. Another son, Randy, lives in Goliad County. The family is engaged in ranching and cattle, and have an oil business in the county. Bobbie, Russell, Randy and his two children Ryan Webb and Courtney continue the Webb blood line in Goliad County.

Leary and Annie's children, and the siblings' families, gathered each major holiday at 130 E. Lewis Street in San Antonio. It was always a time of great happiness, and the cousins grew up in this tradition of reunion. The writer (Pearl) remembers progressing from her favorite place under the huge dining table to eat Christmas dinner...she was only three—to her next favorite stair landing on the oak staircase, reading while she ate.

In the Thirties, Annie remarried and was again widowed. She lived alone in the home. In 1941, it was the scene of Pearl's wedding reception, prepared by the aunts. Taking John's place (he died in 1938), Tom gave the bride away in a Randolph Field Chapel ceremony, to 2nd Lieut. Clarence B. Hammerle. It was the family's last big celebration. Annie Eliza(beth) Williams Webb died 8 July 1942, at home. She was eighty years old.

Leary Francis Webb and Annie Eliza Webb's children: 1) James Eugene "Gene" was born June 9, 1878 at Clinton, Texas and married Alvina Albrecht "Ollie" who was born September 25, 1885 in Goliad County. They were married January 18, 1904. Ollie's parents were William and Louise Dorbritz Albrecht. James died in Corpus Christi, August 10, 1927 and Ollie died April 28, 1971 in Yorktown, Texas. Both are buried in Westside Cemetery in Yorktown. Some of James and Alvina's descendants are: a) Gladys Webb who married Alvin "Pope" Meyer. Their daughter was Bobbie Jean Meyer who married Melvin J. Luker of Cuero.

2) John Leroy Webb was born March 17, 1880 at Weesatche, Texas and married Elizabeth Hohn on November 20, 1901 at Yorktown, Texas. Her parents were Louis A. and Johanna Behringer Hohn. Elizabeth was born June 6, 1883 at Weesatche. John Leroy died February 20, 1938 at San Antonio, Texas and Elizabeth died April 4, 1960 at San Antonio, Texas. Some of their descendants were: a) Annie Lorraine Webb who married George Wm. Cross. Their children were; George W. Cross, Gene Leroy Cross, Ann Cross who married Dr. Tracy Irving Wallace, b) Hazel Marguerite Webb who married Walter C. Doughty and then, Bob S. Hinds. c) Pearl Adelle Webb who married Clarence Bernard Hammerlee, Jr. Their children are: George Bernard Hammerle and Holly Ann Hammerle.

3) Laura May Webb was born March 29, 1882 at Weesatche and died November 20, 1887 at Weesatche. She is buried there.

4) Marguerite Ellen "Maggie" Webb was born August 17, 1883 at Weesatche and married David Wm. Carroll "Fessor" on July 8, 1900 at Weesatche, Texas. David was born in 1871 and died October 6, 1937 in San Antonio, Maggie died August 6, 1961 in San Antonio, Texas. Both are buried at Mission Burial Park South, San Antonio, Texas. David and Maggie Webb's descendant was Thelma Lorraine Carroll.

5) Thomas Ketch Webb "Tom" was born October 25, 1886 in Weesatche and married Lenora A. Bilhartz on May 18, 1916 in San Antonio. Lenora was born October 25, 1896. She died September 4, 1972 in San Antonio and Tom died January 26, 1959 in San Antonio. They are buried at Mission Burial Park South.

6) Clara Bell Webb was born July 10, 1888 at Weesatche and married Fred Clyde Bruce on March 1, 1917 at San Antonio. Fred was born June 7, 1881 in Gadsden, Alabama. Clara died in Castroville, Texas on March 23, 1971 and Fred died July 1, 1972 in Lytle, Texas. They are both buried at Mission Park South in San Antonio, Texas. They had no children.

7) Albert Joe Webb was born July 30, 1891 at Weesatche. He married Mozelle Miller on August 7, 1915 in San Antonio. She probably remarried after Albert died because he is buried alone at Mission Burial Park South. He died September 15, 1919 in San Antonio, Texas. They had Mataley Mozelle Miller.

8) Leary Francis, Jr. was born January 12, 1905 at Weesatche and married Evelyn LA Fortune on June 6, 1927 in San Antonio. Leary Francis, Jr. is buried alone at Mission Burial Park South in San Antonio. They had three daughters: a) Evelyn Webb, b) Betty Jo Webb, and c) Patricia Ann Webb.

WEBB, WALTER PRESCOTT

Walter Prescott Webb, son of Casner P. and Mary Elizabeth (Kyle) Webb, was born April 3, 1888, on a farm in Panola County, Texas. As the family moved about through Texas, he attended several schools, finally graduating from Ranger High School and receiving a teaching certificate.

After service in several one-teacher schools, he entered the University of Texas, receiving the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1915. His first position after receiving the degree was that of Cuero High School at a salary of $1200 per year. His superintendent was A. S. Bush, and there were eight members of the teaching faculty.

Biographers Kenneth R. Phelps and Elliott West record Webb's impression of Cuero as "a splendid little town, with plenty of churches and saloons." In a more serious manner, he commented that "Cuero was clean and well kept, with many pretty houses and lawns — the best town he had seen south of San Antonio, except Corpus Christi!" Writing in Reflections, Past and Present, Stacey Fox reports that he roomed at the R.P. Breeden house at a rental of $10 per month and took his meals at the Baker boarding house at $20 per month, which he considered rather expensive.

Webb's responsibilities as principal included those of being chief disciplinarian, directing the senior play, paying school bills, attending teachers' meetings and the PTA, eating lunches prepared by home economics students, accompanying the various athletic teams on their out-of-town trips, coaching baseball, producing a minstrel show to raise money for the school yearbook, and recording all student grades in the school's permanent records. He was also charged with teaching six recitations in four different history courses.

Webb was obviously very popular with his Cuero students. The famous Texas artist, E.M. "Buck" Schiwetz, who was one of his proteges, described him as "very knowledgeable, patient, and knew how to communicate." Another of his sophomore history students, Mrs. Werner Fischer, remembers him with respect and affection. The school yearbook of 1915-16, of which Mrs. Fischer has a copy, included him affectionately with pictures and jokes.

Following his year in Cuero, Webb moved on to a more lucrative position at Main High School in San Antonio, and in 1918 he joined the faculty of the University of Texas, where he remained for the next forty-five years, interrupted by many visiting professorships at Stephen F. Austin State College, the University of North Carolina, the University of West Virginia, the University of Alaska, Rice University, the University of Houston, Harvard University, Queens College at Oxford University, and the University of London. During his stay at the University of Texas, he received the Master of Arts degree in 1920 and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1932. He also held honorary degrees from University of Chicago, Southern Methodist University, and Oxford University in England.

From 1936 to 1946 Dr. Webb was director of the Texas State Historical Commission, where he founded The Handbook of Texas and originated several of the Commission's outstanding projects. The recipient of two Guggenheim fellowships and many other distinguished awards, he was special advisor to Senator Lyndon Baines Johnson on water needs of the South and West. He is best known for his authorship, or editorship, of more than twenty books, including The Great Plains (1931), The Texas Rangers (1935), Divided We Stand (1937), and The Great Frontier (1952).

Dr. Webb was married in 1916 to Jane Elizabeth Oliphant, who died in 1960. They had one daughter. In 1961 he was married to Mrs. Terrell (Dobbs) Maverick, widow of Maury Maverick of San Antonio. Dr. Webb was killed in an automobile accident near Austin on March 8, 1963, and was buried in the Texas State Cemetery by proclamation of Governor John Connally.

Cuero and its public school system can take pride in having been, even for a short time, the workplace of one of Texas' most distinguished historians and writers.

Note: For additional details on Dr. Webb's sojourn in Cuero, the Reader is directed to Stacey Fox's excellent article "Walter Prescott Webb" in Edition Number Four of Reflections, Past and Present produced by Cuero High School in the summer of 1987.)

WEBER, MICHAEL CLIFTON AND AGATHA KATHERINE

Michael Clifton Weber (1904-) and Agatha Katherine Weber (1906-) were born in Victoria to Valentine Weber (1871-1914) and Agatha Clara Hans Weber (1872-1909). Valentine Weber's parents were the immigrants, Michael Weber (1845-1913) and Katherine Fuhrman Weber (1847-1911). Michael Weber had come from Mannheim, Baden, Germany in 1866. He came to St. Louis, Mo. There he met and married Katherine. They came to Texas in 1870. Clara Hans Weber (the mother of Clifton and Agatha) was the daughter of immigrants.

Ambrose Hans and Agatha Hans Hans (1838-1911), who came from Alsace-Lorraine in 1861. They settled on land between Arneckeville and Mission Valley.

When the children, Clifton and Agatha, were very small, Clara Hans Weber became ill. She took the children and moved in with her mother, Agatha Hans, in DeWitt County.

When the children were five and three respectively, Clara Hans Weber died, Valentine Weber left his home and farm and came to stay with his mother-in-law, Agatha Hans, and the children. His sister-in-law, Mary Hans, lived there also. The father, knowing he would be unable to care for the children sought a home for them among his brothers and sisters. He found a home for each of them but not both of them together. When he told Mary Hans this, she said she would take both the children. After staying with the children a few months, Valentine Weber went back to Victoria and sold his house and farm. He then bought land on the Garcitas Creek near Telferner in Victoria County where he was living when he died. The children continued to live with Mary Hans at their grandfather's house.

The aunt, Mary Hans had never married. When her mother, Agatha Hans died, Mary received a life interest in the house as long as she lived there with the children. If they moved, the house reverted to the estate. A guardianship was set up for the children when their father died.

The children attended grade school at Golly Hollow. When Clifton finished the seventh grade, he came to Cuero and entered high school, boarding first with a Mrs. Karo and then with Mrs. Frank Gohmert. Then in 1921 when Agatha had finished the seventh grade Mary Hans came to Cuero and rented a house and Agatha entered high school. Later Mary Hans purchased a house at 107 E. Sarah. Clifton and Agatha were graduated from Cuero High School in 1923 and 1925, respectively.

Clifton had begun his business career two years before graduation by taking a job with Davidson Electric Company. Shortly after graduation he went to work for the R.C. Flick Auto Company selling buggies, harness, wagons, and, secondarily at that time, Chevrolet automobiles. The store was located on the northwest corner of Esplanade and Church Streets where Means Furniture Company now conducts business in the same building.

After graduation, Agatha went to work as a secretary for Judge Waldeck. She worked there eight years.

In 1937 the Ford Franchise for Cuero was open. It was offered to Clifton. He and Agatha decided to take it together but Ford Motor Co. had a policy against women as dealers. They refused to let Agatha be a part of the deal. Upon hearing this, Clifton said that if his sister were not included, he himself was not interested. Ford capitulated and Agatha Weber became the only woman dealer in the Houston District.

Weber Motor Company under the two Webers was first located in the old Masonic building on the northeast corner of Church and Gonzales Streets where at present the Weber Insurance Agency office and sales lot are. Later they purchased the building across the street on the southeast corner from August Hartman. At one time that building had been a filling station and later a Buick agency. They moved there and Weber Motor Company has operated at that location ever since. During all the years Clifton Weber sold Fords, he also served seven years, including one year as chairman, on the Houston District Ford Dealers Advertising Committee.

In 1969 Agatha Weber retired after thirtytwo years in the business, and Clifton bought her out. In 1958, upon graduation from Texas University, Michael C. Weber, Jr. joined the firm. In 1977 Clifton Weber, himself, retired and sold the business to his son, Michael, the present owner. In 1980 still another Weber, Michael Clifton Weber III went to work at Weber Motor Co. as a salesman and later was named General Manager.

Aside from their business careers, Clifton and Agatha Weber participated actively in the life of the community. Agatha was a life-long Catholic. She was a member and past Grand Regent of the Catholic Daughters of St. Michael's Church in Cuero. She is particularly proud of having organized the Junior Catholic Daughters. In the thirties she was active in the Business and Professional Women's Club. Later she was selected by the Victoria Pilot Club, which was interested in staring a Pilot Club in Cuero, as organizational chairman of the committee whose business it was to determine the feasibility of a club here. When the Pilot Club was organized here, she became a charter member and served as its president one term. She has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce since 1937.

In 1953 Agatha married Carl Wagner (1901-1983), a jeweler. After a few years she and Carl moved to a ranch about eight miles out on the Yorktown Highway. Clifton and Agatha had purchased this ranch in 1934. It had formerly been part of the Reed Ranch. Agatha lived there until shortly after her husband's death when she moved to Cuero where she still lives.

Clifton Weber's community life was varied. He volunteered for the Fire Department in the early twenties and served under Chief Robert Heyer. In 1935 he became Fire Chief himself and served in that capacity for thirteen years. He was an early member of the Lion's Club. It was Weber who led the movement to restrain the behaviour of the Lions in their meetings. (The Lions were pretty riotous in the beginning!). He recruited ministers and eventually the Lions calmed down to the point where a minister felt he could stay in the club without compromising his dignity. Weber was active in the club for many years and served as its president, as has his son Mike and grandson

With Weber's participation, first as an individual member and then as the owner of a business, he has served the Chamber of Commerce for many years and is a past president. In 1967 the Chamber gave him its Outstanding Citizen Award.

Clifton Weber was elected to the Board of Directors of Cuero Federal Savings and Loan Association in 1949. He was elected President in 1952 and Chairman of the Board in 1972 and is still serving in that capacity. He also was President of the Steering Committee that organized the Cuero Hospital District and served the Hospital District as its first Chairman.

For many years Weber served as parade chairman of the Turkey Trot. He prided himself on starting the parades precisely at eleven o'clock. In one of those Turkey Trots, Governor Beauford H. Jester was Parade Marshall, and as such, was supposed to lead the parade; however, when the town clock struck eleven, he was not there. Weber gave the order to roll and the parade started. A few minutes later a very excited Bert Kirk came up in a convertible with the Governor in it. Weber would not stop the parade. The Governor had to accept a lesser place where he could fall in. Kirk was distraught but the Governor thought it was fair enough.

In 1935 Clifton Weber married Kay Fischer (1913-), the daughter of Arthur Charles Fischer (1887-1956) and Mary Will Blackwell (1891-1977). Clifton and Fay have two chil-

WEHE, HENRY FAMILY

Henry and Leona (Metting) Wehe, 1989 Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Henry E. Wehe and his wife Leona Metting Wehe were both descendants of families who came to America in the 1850's and settled in the area around Yorktown. Henry's grandfather Louis Wehe arrived with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wehe in 1851 when he was only 4 years old. Leona's grandfather Albert Metting Sr. came to America with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Metting I in 1859 when Albert was only 9 years old. Both families settled on tracts of land outside of Yorktown and became involved in farming and related agricultural trades.

Henry E. Wehe was born on November 30. 1917 in Yorktown, the youngest child of Henry Wehe Sr. and Marie Sauermilch Wehe. He had an older brother Marcus and two sisters Amanda and Elorine. Henry was educated in the Yorktown public schools and graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1936. Shortly thereafter, because of the illness and subsequent death of his brother, it became necessary for Henry to run the family farm with his widowed mother. On October 22, 1939 he married Leona Marie Metting at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown. They moved into the family homestead with Henry's mother and continued operating the family farm. This farm, which consists of 96 acres, was part of the original 800-acre tract that Henry's grandfather Louis had purchased in the late 1800's. It is located about 4 miles north of Yorktown on the Westoff Highway.

Leona Marie Metting was born on December 26, 1917 in Yorktown, the only daughter of Otto and Katie Stehle Metting. She had 4 brothers: Ernest, Ervin, Werner and Ottwald. Ottwald died at the age of 16 in 1940. Leona was educated at the Golhke Country School through the 8th grade, after which she continued living and working on the family farm until she married. Both Henry and Leona were baptized and confirmed members of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown.

After their marriage, Henry and Leona continued living on the family farm. In the early 1950's they began operating a dairy and also a milk delivery route for the people and businesses of Yorktown. In 1961 they stopped delivering milk, but continued operating the dairy until 1967 when Henry took the job of City Secretary of Yorktown and they moved into town. In 1969 a move to Victoria was necessary as Henry began a career with the U.S. Postal Service. In 1975 they moved to Weesatche when Henry was appointed Postmaster in that community. They lived in Weesatche until 1979 when the opportunity became available for them to move back to the family farm in Yorktown. Henry continued with his job until his retirement in June 1988 after completing 20 years with the postal service. Presently, they remain active, involved members of their church and community as well as enjoying many other activities including gardening, playing dominoes, traveling, and visiting the children and grandchildren.

Henry and Leona Wehe had five children. Nathan (1940) is married to Donna Terry and has two sons Nolan and Rodney. Kathrine (1942) is married to G.R. "Buddy" Boldt and their children are Kandy, Ginger, Wesley, Clayton, and Travis. Joycelynn (1943) married Lawrence Onken and has two children Keith and Laura. Marian (1945) married Roy Hoefling and has two children Bryan and Sheila. Nellene (1950) married Jim Dlugosch and has two children Jason and Angela.

Henry and Leona are looking forward to celebrating their golden wedding anniversary in October, 1989 with all of their family and friends. The pioneer spirit that sustained their ancestors - hard work, honesty, caring about others, a love for family and the land, and a strong belief in God - has also been reflected in the life of this couple. They are a well-known and deeply respected couple of DeWitt County today.

WEIGELT, JOHN AND MARGARET WENDEL

John Weigelt and Margaret (Wendel) 1900

In the early days of Texas when immigration from Europe was becoming more commonplace, many families were lured to the new land by relatives or friends who had gone before them and had found a better life with many privileges they could never have had back in the old country.

In 1838, a man named John Weigelt, who had emigrated earlier to New York from Cassel, Bavaria, heard about the colonization taking place in Texas. The promise of plenty of land in Texas prompted him to leave New York and make his way to Colorado County, Texas, along with his wife and two stepsons. Soon John Weigelt began writing his brother, Anton Weigelt, who was still living in Cassel with his wife and four children, about the fine prospects in Texas. He even promised to give him some land to start with if he would only join him in Texas. Several years passed before Anton Weigelt and his wife, Barbara Schmitt finally decided to join John Weigelt in Colorado County, Texas. When nearly ready to emigrate, Anton became ill with typhoid fever and died. Barbara was devastated, not only by the loss of her husband, but by the grim future in Cassel for herself and the four Weigelt children. Finally, in 1854, Barbara Schmitt Weigelt, her four children, John, Gertrude, Eva and Mary and several of Barbara's brothers, left Cassel, Bavaria and joined John Weigelt Sr. in Texas.

Young John Weigelt was only eight years old when his father died, leaving him as literally, "head of the house". He took his father's request seriously, but this "head of the house" title did not last too long for young John Weigelt. As soon as the family reached Texas, Barbara Schmitt Weigelt married John Guenther, a man also from Cassel, Bavaria, in Colorado County, Texas in 1854. This situation left John Weigelt and his sisters with a stepfather of whom they were not particularly fond. Soon, two more children were added to the household, both, girls; one dying at age 3 and Magdalena, living to adulthood.

The Weigelt-Guenther home was near the Catholic Church at Mentz, Texas and church records show that the family did attend services there. The Weigelt children received very little education during their early years in Texas, but eventually the German community provided schools for the children to attend.

John Weigelt was born to Anton Weigelt and Barbara Schmitt on 24 June, 1844 in Cassel, Bavaria. On October 27, 1868 he married Margaret Wendel at St. Roch's Catholic Church at Mentz, Colorado County, Texas. Margaret Wendel was born in Bingen, Germany to Frank Wendel and Cecilia Mayer on August 27, 1848. Margaret emigrated with her family from Bingen, Germany to Texas in 1854. After their marriage, John and Margaret lived in Colorado County for several years and their first three children were born there; Barbara in 1869, who died an infant; Cecilia 1870 and Magdalena in 1872. John Weigelts' sister, Mary, who had married Otto Hanselmann and lived in Victoria, urged John Weigelt and his family to join them in Victoria County. John and Margaret purchased land in Victoria County in 1875 and moved there; a location which was in the Mission Valley area. Later John bought land nearer the town of Victoria and lived in that location until 1892.

In 1875 the first son, Phillip, was born and the last son, Frank was born in 1877. In 1891, John and Margaret Weigelt adopted an infant girl whose mother had died when the child was born. The child was Margaret Grueb and her parents were Sebastien Grueb and Otilia Beyer, who had emigrated from Volkshausen, Bavaria. This same year, Cecilia Weigelt married George Braden, a young man the family had known from Mentz, Texas. It was then that John Weigelt decided to purchase 600 acres of land in the Daniel Davis League in DeWitt County on the West side of the Guadalupe River between Hochheim and Cheapside. John had never been satisfied with the land in Victoria County as it was not the best for farming and it lacked the wood and water which were desirable at the time.

In 1892, John, his sons, Phillip and Frank, and daughter Cecilia and her husband, George Braden, camped in a tent on the newly purchased property while they built a house for the family. George Braden and Cecilia, who were expecting their first child soon, pushed the project as fast as possible so that the house would be ready in time for the first grandchild. John and Margaret lived in this house until death claimed John Weigelt in 1916 and Magdalena moved to Yoakum to live with their daughter, Magdalena, (Olsen).

Not long after the Weigelts moved to the Hochheim area, their son Frank died from typhoid fever. This beautiful land along the Guadalupe river was very fertile, producing cotton, corn and other crops in abundance. The bottomlands near the river had hundreds of native pecan trees which provided good harvests most of the time. However, this land which had all the wood and water John Weigelt desired, was plagued often with too much water when the Guadalupe River flooded, leaving many swampy areas that became infested with mosquitos. John and Margaret watch many times as a beautiful crop, ready for harvest, washed away with the flooded river. The good times evidently were more numerous than the bad times as the Weigelts did prosper on this land and most of the property that was purchased in 1892 is still owned by Weigelt decendants.

John and Margaret were devout Catholics but being so far away from a church, were not able to attend Mass very often. The problem was remedied when the priest from Cuero would ride out to the Weigelt home, say Mass for all the nearby Catholics, baptize any new babies and occasionally perform a wedding. John and Margaret were instrumental in organizing and helping to build St. Ann's Catholic Church on the Hochheim Prairie.

John and Margaret spoke German most of the time at home, as did their children and grandchildren, even though the adults spoke English fluently. When Julia and Phillip Braden started to school they could speak more German than English. The teacher admonished them all to speak English, which they did from then on. Eventually the German language became the second language and then was forgotten entirely.

John Weigelt was known to be extremely serious, stern and hard working, having little, or no, patience with people who idled away time. He practiced soil conservation long before there were governmental agencies to implement such practices and constantly scolded his children if they did not take care of the land. Margaret Weigelt, the opposite of her husband, was extremely kind, gentle and patients with everyone, especially her grandchildren. Needless to say, they were very fond of their grandmother, but behaved very properly when in the presence of their grandfather. John Weigelt hated automobiles, favoring his trusted team of horses to the new contraptions occupying the roads. No one in the family even considered purchasing an automobile until John Weigelt died, at which time his three grown and married children hastily bought their first cars, stored the buggy in the shed and saw life move at a faster pace. Phillip Weigelt bought a Dodge, Cecilia bought an Overland and Magdalena bought a Ford.

Cecilia Weigelt married George Braden and they had six children; Magdalena, who died at age 11 from typhoid, Julia, Phillip, Anne, John, Joseph and Sylvester. Magdalena Weigelt married Joseph J. Olsen and they had three children; Henry, John and Ellen. Phillip Weigelt married Anne Olsen (sister to J.J. Olsen) and they had four children; Frank, Ellen, Margaret and Lawrence. Margaret Grueb, the child that John and Margaret raised, married George Stock, from Colorado County, Texas, George being a relative of the Weigelts. Maggie, as she was called, and George Stock lived their last years in Alice, Texas. They both died and are buried there.

John Weigelt and Margaret Wendel are both buried in St. Joseph's Catholic Cemetery in Yoakum, Texas.

WEIGELT, PHILLIP AND ANNE OLSEN

F967

Phillip Weigelt was the oldest son of John Weigelt and Margaret Wendel, early immigrants from Germany to Colorado County, Texas. Phillip was born March 9, 1875 in Victoria County, Texas, his parents having moved there shortly before he was born. Phillip attended school in Victoria and went to the Catholic Church, sometimes in Meyersville, and sometimes in Victoria.

In 1892, Phillip's father purchased land in DeWitt County on the West side of the Guadalupe River near Hochheim in the Daniel Davis League. Phillip helped his father and brotherin-law, George Braden, build a house on this land. Phillip lived in this house until he married, at which time he and his wife lived on land near Cheapside. Phillip helped his father farm the fertile valley land, producing large crops of cotton and corn. The native pecans that grew in the bottomlands along the Guadalupe River yielded many good harvests. This pastoral setting was not a bed of roses, as the Weigelts soon found out. The river would often flood, leaving the lowlands with an army of mosquitos, snakes and other abominations. In 1893, Phillip's brother, Frank, died from typhoid fever and from then on, typhoid and malaria became watchwords for the Weigelts.

Phillip Weigelt married Anne Olsen, the daughter of Henry Francis Olsen and Ellen Coffey. The Olsen family had lived in many places before settling in Luling, and later the Denton Creek area of Gonzales County. Phillip and Anne purchased land near Cheapside so that they could live on high ground out of the infested bottom land. For some reason no one seems to remember, Phillip and Anne did not live at the Cheapside location very long and soon moved back to his father's farm and lived in a little house a short distance from the elder Weigelt.

In 1900, Phillip and Anne had their first child, Frank. Two years later, a daughter, Ellen, was born but lived only a few months. She is buried in Hillside Cemetery in Cuero, Texas. The next child, Margaret, was born in 1905 and named for her grandmother, Margaret Wendel Weigelt. Lawrence, the last child, was born in 1915.

Phillip's sister, Cecilia and husband George Braden left the Weigelt farm and made the move to Hochheim in 1905 and Magdalena and husband, J.J. Olsen had moved to Yoakum about 1910. Phillips' father died in 1916 and his mother went to Yoakum to live with his sister, Magdalena. The time seemed right to make the move to Hochheim too; something he had been thinking about for a long time. Phillip Weigelt and his wife purchased a house in Hochheim with just enough land for a small garden and there they lived from 1916 until they both died. Margaret Weigelt and her brother, Lawrence, attended Hochheim School along with some of their cousins, the George Braden children, and attended St. Ann's Catholic Church on the Hochheim Prairie. Phillip and Anne enjoyed this "town" living, especially having neighbors close by. In his later years, Phillip would walk from his house to Braden's Store, which was not far, and there he would visit and play a few games of dominos with some of his old friends. Everyone called him "the Mayor" and he liked that.

Frank Weigelt married Irma Moczegemba and they had one daughter, Aileen. Aileen married William Manning of Yoakum and had two children, Carolyn and Ralph. Margaret Weigelt married John Arthur Kelley of Yoakum and they had three sons; Charles, Douglas and Clyde. Margaret, a widow, lives in Harlingen, Texas. Lawrence Weigelt married Frances Vinklarek and they had three children; Lanelle, Mary and Lawrence Jr. Lawrence Weigelt, a widower, lives in Corpus Christi, Texas. Lawrence Weigelt Jr., the son of Lawrence Weigelt and Frances Vinklarek, is the only living decendant of John Weigelt

(1844-1916) to possibly perpetuate the Weigelt

F968

Joseph Weiss, Sr.

Carl Weiss, Hedwig Weiss and Joseph Weiss, Jr.

Joseph Weiss, Sr. was born July 7, 1923 in the kingdom of Bayern, Germany. The following story was told to us, however there are no documents to verify it. Joseph, Sr. with his wife and five children left Germany so the sons did not have to go to war. They moved to Austria. There with another family they owned a winery. The Weiss family did all the labor and the other man took care of the bookkeeping. However the bookkeeper mishandled the money and skipped the country. This left Joseph Weiss, Sr. with all the debt which he could not pay. Joseph, Sr. is supposed to have served time in jail. It is believed that the shame hastened the death of his wife, Elizabeth Doneman Weiss. She died and is buried in Germany. The Austrian government took over the winery and sent Weiss his share of the profit after he came to America. The Weiss family were supposed to be wealthy while in Germany. Esther Zengerle, daughter-in-law of Elizabeth Weiss Zengerle, recalls Elizabeth saying that this was such a change for her in America. In Germany they lived in a nice brick house and here they lived in a log cabin.

Joseph, Sr. came to America landing in New Orleans, La. Dec. 30, 1870. With his five children he came to Arneckeville and purchased land for their home. All of the children were born in Germany. 1) Caroline, Nov. 3, 1846-Jan. 5, 1926, married Fred Friedrichs. 2) Karl, July 7, 1853-March 23, 1929, never married. Karl was blind. One day Karl went to the corn crib to feed the cattle. The bull wanted corn faster than Karl could feed it and the bull horned him. After that Joseph, Sr. always had polled Herefords. 3) Hedwig, Nov. 10, 1856-Jan. 24, 1942, never married. 4) Elizabeth, Feb. 11, 1861-Feb. 25, 1943, married Edward Zengerle. 5) Joseph, Jr., July 4, 1862-June 16, 1941, never married.

When we visited with Joseph, Jr. and Hedwig (Georgie, Dalton and I, Elorine Friedrichs) we would always find pennies in the yard. Edieth Zengerle Nagel also remembers finding money. Great-uncle Joe would have sharp hoes for us to use to look for money. Dalton still things he threw money in the yard for us to hunt and would get his yard chopped as we were looking for pennies.

WENDEL VICTOR GEORGE

Victor and Regina (Kornfuehrer) Wendel. Wedding Jan. 14, 1934

Victor George Wendel was born September 25, 1911 in Meyersville, Texas. He is the son of the late Fred and Amalia (Diebel) Wendel. He attended Meyersville School and was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church.

He married Regina Sophie (Kornfuehrer) Wendel, January 14, 1934 at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Victoria, Texas. She is the daughter of the late Henry and Annie (Arnold) Kornfuehrer. She attended New County Line School until the Fall of 1927, when she and her family moved to Victoria.

Victor and Regina (Kornfuehrer) Wendel Jan. 14, 1935

Fred Arlen Wendel, Patricia (Wendel) Thieme, Talbert Wendel Jan. 18, 1974

She graduated from Patti Welder High School in May 1931. They lived across the street from the High School at 1515 East North Street.

Victor and Regina built a small wood frame house close to Victor's parents. They farmed and raised cattle, turkeys and hogs. They had three children; Fred Arlen, Patricia (Patty), and Talbert. Their histories follow.

The Wendels operated a Grade B Dairy in the middle 1940's, after which a Grade A Dairy barn was built around 1946. They took much pride in the dairy, and their family holds many treasured memories of those days of working together.

Fred Arlen, Patty and Talbert's job was to keep the feed buckets filled for the next shift of cows to come into the barn. They sometimes got so interested in the Lone Ranger program on the radio in the feed room, that they wouldn't notice that a batch of cows was through being milked. Then the new batch came in to find empty troughs. There was confusion for a while as the cows milled around, and Victor gave "scoop" duty to the guilty parties. By then, the The Lone Ranger was over.

Regina made cottage cheese by letting the milk turn to clabber and then putting it in a thin cloth and hanging it up to drain and settle. Patty's job was to churn the cream into butter. She complained about this at times. to cure this, Regina bought some oleo margarine as it first came on the market. It was white and in a pound chunk that came with a yellow food color to be mixed into it. It was easy, quick, looked pretty, but tasted awful. Patty was glad to churn again and eat the real thing.

The fresh milk was put into cans and into large coolers that had cold water circulating around them. Harold Hartman and later Reuben Gohmert would load the cans, which were covered with insulated jackets, onto a truck and take them to the Crescent Valley Creamery in Cuero. The cans were outdated when dairies were required to have bulk tanks for holding milk. Victor and Regina went out of the diary business when this change was required. Victor then operated a maintainer, working on road construction, and raised cattle. Fred Arlen and Patty both milked cows for their own families' use.

Regina was a devoted wife and gentle mother who took pride in being a housewife. She was an excellent cook, baked bread, canned fruits and vegetables from her garden and butchered and dressed the chickens and turkeys. Patty cut into the gall, while removing it from the chicken liver, many times before she mastered the art of dressing a chicken. Fred Arlen and Talbert learned the art of butchering hogs and sheep as they helped Victor and Grandpa Fred.

The Twelve Mile Creek which runs just below Victor's house had many rises and deep fishing holes when Fred Arlen, Patty and Talbert were growing up. Grandpa Fred caught many good meals of perch on a cane pole there. At the time of this writing, the creekbed is dry and the fishing holes are gone. This same creek was crossed on horseback as Fred Arlen, Patty and Talbert rode their Shetland ponies, Billy and Spunky to Meyersville school. Spunky would often lie down in the creek letting the lunch boxes float downstream.

When Fred Arlen and Patty started school, Victor asked Merton Ideus to bridle and saddle Spunky for their trip home. Patty remembers her parents asked Merton because he was sensible and trustworthy. Fred Arlen soon took the job over and helped Talbert in his first years of school.

Arriving home meant hunting the turkeys in the pasture and driving them home, which was a slow process as they ate grasshoppers etc. along the way. Then, someone had to stand by until all the turkeys had flown to the roost for the night. Victor and Regina sold turkey eggs behind Eggs Store in Meyersville. This paid for the groceries during the years. Each egg had to be carefully stamped with a number to identify who brought them.

Victor loved to go coon hunting. He had good coon dogs and knew their voice no matter how many dogs were in the pack treeing a coon.

Fred Arlen and Talbert would go with Victor to help Grandpa Fred on jobs such as repairing windmills, or doctoring baby calves with screw worms which were a constant menace. Their work together was a bonding of generations, always with humor mixed in. Victor's sense of humor left many happy memories for the family. He would get Grandpa Fred to imitate Santa on the telephone as he let them all take turns talking to him. Just for fun, he built a harness for his German Shepherd to pull the wagon and children around, thus giving them a taste of horse 'd buggy days.

Regina with mu oatience, taught Patty to sew on an old treadle machine, making buttonholes by hand.

Victor and Regina had a deep respect for God, their parents, the elderly, their country and life in general.

Victor was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church and Regina a member of Sts. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church, both in Meyersville. Regina died of cancer at the age of 53, March 18, 1967. Victor died suddenly of a heart attack at the home of his parents at the age of 56, December 30, 1967. They are buried in Sts. Peter and Paul's Catholic Cemetery in Meyersville.

To look back is to remember the peace and sense of deep caring and security, as Patty and her brothers saw their parents and grandparents take each day, one day at a time, knowing that God held them in the Palm of His Hand. To be part of their family is to be truly loved and blessed.

WENDEL, FRED AND AMALIA (DIEBEL)

F970

Many memories are vivid in the minds of Edwina, and Halley and Victor's children concerning the examples set in life by Fred and Amalia Wendel. Perhaps the greatest was to be thankful and appreciative for the simple things in life; also, for the heritage of land because of the hardships involved in acquiring it.

Grandma Amalia spoke of cutting her wedding dress up to make baby clothing when times were hard. She also told how she picked cotton the day Edwina was born, and of letting the small children sit on the cotton sack as they pulled it through the fields.

There is an old liveoak tree still standing where Fred and Amalia's first home was. She told how Halley, Victor and Edwina played under the tree while they worked in the fields nearby. It was all necessary to pay for the land — land that is now their grandchildren's heritage.

The land, "the good earth", provided a living, but only by the seat of their brow. It was a slow process when a team of mules pulled a one row plow and other equipment. Fred bought a one row Allis Chalmers Tractor in the early 1940's. Fred Arlen and Patty recall riding in the corn wagon while their mother, Regina, drove the tractor with Talbert, then a baby, beside her. Fred, Amalia and Victor pulled the corn by hand. Regina pulled corn later when Fred Arlen learned to drive the tractor at an early age. Patty and Talbert soon learned to drive, graduating Fred Arlen to the corn pulling task. Victor bought a double row Farmall B a few years later which helped speed the field work up.

German was always spoken in the fields and at home enabling Victor's children to learn this second language. Patty recalls the time she drove the tractor while her grandparents pulled corn. A big thunderstorm came up and they stood on the back of the wagon as Patty headed for home across the terraces. Patty's German wasn't too good at that time, and the more Grandpa Fred waved his arms saying, "Slower, Slower," the faster she went. Patty thought he said, "Faster! Faster! They were a bit shaken, and needless to say, reviewed Patty's German on the words fast and slow.

Fred and Amalia belonged to a "Meat Club" about 1926. Alvin Doerhman would butcher a cow on a Friday. One could have his choice of meat by going to his house on butchering day. Edwina would sometimes drive there, because on butchering day, he would give away liver, soup bones and the heart. To wait until he delivered meat meant one had to take whatever cuts of meat were available. The meat was covered with cotton ducking to keep it cool, and to keep the flies off. Everyone in the club would donate a cow ever so often to pay for the meat they had bought.

In 1937 or 1938, Fred and Amalia's children helped turn Victor and Halley's room into a bathroom with a sheet metal bathtub. Victor was the main carpenter. Grandma Amalia being so thankful, wrote on the back of a board hiding the plumbing how thankful she was for this modern convenience, and how happy she was that her children and their families never had a real argument. Their grandson, Bill Wendel and his wife, Elizabeth Haun Wendel now live in this home. In 1989, they remodeled the bathroom and found the loving words, written by grandma, that had been hidden all those years. The Wendel's whole life was one of thankfulness, and they never ceased expressing it. Halley, Victor and Edwina shared in this quality.

Fred and Amalia had only a 4th or 5th grade education, but they could read and write English and German, add, subtract, etc. very accurately. They were very healthy, but with the small children and hard work, Grandma became overworked. She went to a doctor and he told her what she needed was more exercise. She enjoyed good health through the years and in July 1957, got her first shot because of a dizzy spell. Grandpa enjoyed good health also, but on one stay in the hospital, the doctor lifted the covers to listen to his heart and found a prayer book. The doctor stated he had often found things under the covers, but never a prayer book.

Elizabeth (Haun) Wendel found in St. John's Lutheran church records that Grandpa Fred was to be confirmed on March 31, 1901, but had to wait until April 21, 1901 because of having the measles.

Holidays and birthdays were memorable times at Grandma's house. Everyone knew she would have their favorite turkey, dressing, homemade noodles, wine rice etc. Anise cookies were an extra treat. From Grandma's humble kitchen, she prepared this favorite meal for the large family until she was in her 80's. Edwina lovingly filled the void in their lives after losing Halley, Esther, Victor and Regina in so short a time. After Grandma's death, Edwina and all the family still made Grandpa feel like head of the family in his home, always respecting his wishes. Otto Hartman graciously took care of Grandpa Fred from about 1974 until Grandpa died. He even baked a turkey etc. and with Edwina's help, we were still all able to come together out of love and respect for Grandpa and Grandma. Edwina now bakes the anise cookies and wine rice as a treat for family reunions.

Grandpa and Grandma never had to beg the family to come help them with anything. They would patiently wait for help, whether it was for replacing a light bulb in their 10 ft. ceilings, or repairing a water line etc. Never complaining, they always knew someone would come by very soon. Everyone considered it a precious privilege and the labor of love to be able to help them. In giving love, they received it back in double the amount.

To have Halley's children a few weeks in the summer was a special joy since Halley lived so far away, in Corpus. Grandma was so glad Edwina had a daughter, Sandra, because she knew the joy of having a daughter like Edwina.

It was their prayer and hope that with the heritage of the land, family harmony, love and respect would always follow each generation to come.

WENDEL, FRED H. AND AMALIA (DIEBEL)

Fred Herman Wendel, one of sixteen children, was born in Meyersville, Texas Jan. 8, 1887, son of George and Albertina Boldt Wendel. He married Amalia Diebel, born April 15, 1886, daughter of William and Bertha Haun Diebel, one of nine children. She was born in the Golly community. They were united in marriage Oct. 28, 1909 at the Meyersville Lutheran Church.

The young couple rented a farm from Fred's father and raised cotton, corn, chickens and turkeys. Their greatest pleasure was working with their cattle. "F" was the brand they used to identify their cattle. In later years the branding iron was handed down to Fred Arlen Wendel, a grandson and namesake.

They were devoted christians, and life-long members of St. John's Lutheran church in Meyersville. Sunday was the day the family went to church. Fred helped with the building of the present church and served as councilman and elder of the church. They are buried in the Lutheran Cemetery in Meyersville.

Hard work and thrift were the characteristics of the lives of this couple. They were good providers and good managers. Well filled barns, a smoke house well-supplied with meats and a barrel of mustang wine were the rule.

They bought only the bare necessities in order to buy their own land and build their own home. The home they built is now home to their grandson, Bill Wendel and his wife Elizabeth Gohmert Haun Wendel.

Fred was six foot, one inch tall and was known as "Grandpa Fred" to his grandchildren and great grandchildren. Amalia was five foot three inches, and was known as "Grandma Molly".

The children inherited their parents keen wit and delightful sense of humor. Their home was the scene of many family gatherings. Cards and dominoes were favorite pastimes of the Wendel family.

Fred and Amalia enjoyed 62 years of married life. They were a close-knit family. Amalia passed away May 3, 1973, at the age of eighty-seven years. Two years later, March 9, 1975, Fred passed away at his home, at the age of eighty-eight years.

They were blessed with three children:

Halley Wendel, born May 18, 1910, died May 22, 1966. 1) Married Esther Dreier Dec. 27, 1931; Born Jan. 11, 1910, died Oct. 1, 1950. 2) Married Rachel Hudson Aug. 2, 1953; born May 15, 1915.

WENDEL, HALLEY WILLIAM AND ESTHER NATALIE (DREIER) F973

Esther and Halley Wendel 1949

Halley William Wendel, son of Fred Herman Wendel and Amalia K. Diebel Wendel, was born on May 18, 1910, in Meyersville, Texas. He was named after Halley's Comet and was the eldest of three children: Victor (9/25/12 – 12/30/67) who married Regina Kornfuehrer and settled in Meyersville; and Edwina Marie (8/26/14) who married Elmo Hoff and settled in Schroeder.

Esther Natalia Wilhemina Mathilde (names after her godparents) Dreier was also born in Meyersville on January 11, 1910, to Alfred G. Dreier and Amalia Hartman Dreier. She was second to the eldest of six children: Elenora Mathilda Amalia (7/6/07 - 10/11/10) who died at the age of three; Louis Alfred Henry (2/7/12), who married Irene Kahlich and settled in Meyersville; Elvira (1/27/15 - 8/15/66) who married Bryant Sholars and settled in Corpus Christi; Margaret Louise Mathilde (2/22/17) who married Allen Wendel and settled in Weser; and Louella Ruth (11/3/22) who married Alfred (Pete) R. Mauer and settled in Victoria. Esther and Halley "met" while their mothers sat outside the old stone church at Meyersville trying to entertain their fretful infants. It was said that Esther made the first move by biting Halley. They grew up near each other on farms along the Twelve-Mile Coleto Creek in this small German community. They went to the many country dances, often taking younger brothers and sisters along. Halley went to school in Meyersville and Esther studied at the County Line School which was built on land donated by the Alfred G. Dreiers. They also boarded the teachers as did some of the other close neighbors. Halley and Esther were married Dec. 27, 1931, by Pastor H.C. Wehmeyer in Meyersville's St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church. After their marriage they moved to Cuero where Mona Fay (10/14/32) and Halley Boyd (1/12/35) were born. William Alfred (Bill) was born in Alice Feb. 17, 1938, and Mitchell Wayne arrived in Corpus Christi Dec. 9, 1949. Halley was first employed clerk in Boyd and "Deet" Crains grocery store in Cuero. The children remember Mr. Crain or Uncle Boyd (Halley Boyd was named after Boyd) bringing brown and white striped peanut butter logs to them while they waited for their Daddy to get off work. They later followed the Crains to Alice, working for them until they closed the store. Halley then began working for the HEB grocery chain. He was transferred to the Corpus Christi Agnes St. HEB in 1938. Halley and Esther opened Wendel's Food Market in 1946 or 1947 at the corner of Morgan and Baldwin in Corpus Christi. The boys helped in the store after school and on weekends. This was also considered the "Coon Hunter's Headquarters" of Corpus Christi. Halley gained a great deal of publicity Thanksgiving Day 1932 when he shot an 85 pound seven-foot mountain lion with a .22 rifle while hunting with a new pair of hounds on the Buehrig ranch in the Five-Mile Community. He was also an avid domino player who could tell what you had in your hand after only a few plays. He came by this naturally from his parents, Fred and Malie. He was also known for his baseball prowess. Esther was a talented painter in oils. Her paintings grace the walls of many homes today. She loved music and played the organ, led the Junior Choir and sang in the choir at First Lutheran Church in Corpus Christi. She died of leukemia Oct. 1, 1950, at the age of 40. Two years after Esther's death, Halley married Rachel Adeline Paulson Hudson on August 2, 1952, in Corpus Christi. She had three children by a previous marriage: Weldon (10/26/36), Sylvia (11/24/45) and Ronald (10/24/43). The couple continued to operate the grocery store until Halley's death on May 21, 1966. Mona Fay married Elwood Alfred Knetig (5/2/29), a Nueces County farmer from Robstown on April 25, 1952. They have three children: Robert William (7/12/53) married Christine Lockman from Orange Grove on August 26, 1978. They have two children: born in Corpus Christi; Tiffeny Elizabeth (6/29/80) and Kyle William (8/6/82); Esther Anne (named after her grandmothers) married Mark Edwards from Houston on May 14, 1988, in Austin; and Stephen Wayne (11/16/56) who resides in Austin. Halley Boyd married Jane Lee Bryant (8/7/40) on June 5, 1959, and lives in Portland and Coleto Creek near Schroeder. They have two children: Randall Lee (5/25/60) who lives in Corpus Christi; and Elizabeth Dawn (1/22/62) married to David Lindsey (4/17/62) on Sept. 1, 1984, and lives in Springfield, Virginia. William Alfred (Bill) married Naomi King on Mar. 11, 1960, in Las Vegas, Nev. They had one child, Beverly Lynn (11/15/60). Naomi had two children by a previous marriage - Craig David (3/30/58) and Debra Lee (6/18/55). After Bill's divorce he married Elizabeth Gohmert Haun on April 30, 1988. They live in the Fred Wendel home in Meyersville. Elizabeth and John Haun (11/10/38 - 1/10/81) had three children: Terry Ray (9/23/57), Jeffery Dale (6/5/59 - 7/28/80); and Lee Charles (8/21/65). Mitchell married Claudia McElveen on Oct. 2, 1971, in Corpus Christi. They had two sons: William Howard (Bill) 12/2/73) and Matthew James (8/20/75). After their divorce, Mitchell married Pat Barber Heasley on July 24, 1981. Pat has two children by a previous marriage; Kimberly (6/29/68) married Johnny Whitworth on Aug. 19, 1988, and has one son Johnathan (2/1/89); and David (8/22/70). They live in Corpus Christi.

WESTHOFF, WILLIAM, JR.

F977

William Westhoff was born at Indianola in Calhoun County on the seventeenth of May, 1872 and went through the disastrous storm that practically destroyed the town in 1875. He is the son of W. Westhoff, native of Germany who came to the United States at the age of thirteen, landing in New York and later going to St. Joseph, Missouri, then to Meyersville, Texas, then to Indianola. Last, he moved to Cuero where he died in 1911. William Westhoff's mother, also a native of Germany, was formerly Rosa Buchel, who passed away in DeWitt County in 1923.

On the sixteenth of November, 1897, Mr. Westhoff was married to Miss Louise Korth, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Korth, pioneer residents of DeWitt County. They have one daughter, Rosa Lou Westhoff.

William was the Mayor of Yorktown for a number of years. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and affiliated fraternally with the Sons of Hermann.

With the coming of the railroad to Yorktown, The Westhoff Eckhardt Lumber Company opened in Yorktown. The firm was composed of Mr. William Westhoff of Cuero and Mr. William Eckhardt of Yorktown with William Westhoff, Jr. as manager.

William Westhoff, Jr. died July 20, 1940. Louise (Korth) Westhoff died October 15, 1944. They are buried in Westside Cemetery in Yorktown.

WESTON FAMILY

F978

The Westons have lived in DeWitt County since the early 1900's. Mack Weston was married to Lorena Wofford. There were nine children in this family: George, Ella, Ernest, Mary, Leonard, Florence, Henry, Janie and Olan. They lived on a farm about three miles south of Westhoff, just off the Cuero Highway. Mr. and Mrs. Weston later moved into Westhoff where they resided at the times of their respective deaths.

George Weston married Katie Lee Goldman. There were five children in their family: Claude, James, Orline, Bessie Lea and Ray. Orline, now Mrs. George Iley of Gonzales, taught school at Concrete in the early 1940's. At the time of his death in October of 1927, George Weston was the Constable in Westhoff.

Ernest Weston married Emma J. Goldman, sister of Katie, and there were six children: Clifton, Carlton (Monk), Charles, Joyce, Kenneth and Royce. The children of both of these families attended schools in Westhoff and Cuero. During World War II, Clifton and Carlton Weston served in the Army and saw action in North Africa and Europe. Charles served in the Navy and saw action in the South Pacific. During the 1950's Kenneth served in the Navy. For many years Ernest and Clifton Weston ran the Circle Dot Cafe in Westhoff. Ernest Weston was the Deputy Sheriff in the Westhoff Community for many years.

The other children of Mack and Lorena Weston scattered to various locations in Texas. All of their nine children are now deceased, but the third and fourth generations of the Weston family reserve the fourth Sunday of April, Decoration Day at the Westhoff Cemetery, to come to Westhoff for a Reunion. They meet to keep in touch with each other and to renew fond memories of visits with grandparents and aunts and uncles who were early settlers in DeWitt County.

WESTPHAL, JOHANN AND MARGARETHA FAMILY

Johann August Westphal

Johann August Westphal was born in Germany on June 20, 1827. He came to Texas at the age of 24 and married Margaretha Aschmann on Aug. 18, 1854, in Clinton, Texas. Margaretha was born in Gumberinen, East Prussia, on Sept. 6, 1829. The couple settled on a farm a couple of miles from Yorktown. They had eight children, but only four survived past infancy. Rudolph was born on March 20, 1855; Minna on April 9, 1859; Robert on Oct. 17, 1870; and Hugo on Sept. 8, 1872.

According to family legend, Johann was opposed to slavery and took his family North, possibly to Indiana, during the Civil War. Part of the journey was made by stern-wheel paddle boat up the Mississippi River. As the story goes, one child fell overboard and was drowned during the trip. After the war, the family returned to Texas.

Johann caught bronchial pneumonia while rounding up cattle on horseback, in the rain. He died on Aug. 2, 1905. His wife Margaretha died on Jan. 19, 1902. Their son Randolph preceded them in death on Feb. 4, 1884. Daughter Minna married a man named Klokau. She also died young, on June 19, 1892. Hugo Westphal died on March 10, 1897.

Robert Westphal graduated from Starling Medical College in Ohio in 1902. Starling College later became part of the Ohio State Medical School. While he was in Ohio, Robert met and married Sadie Laylander, a school teacher, in 1901. After his graduation, Dr. and Mrs. Westphal moved back to Yorktown.

The couple had three children. Margaret Claire was born on Dec. 11, 1903, but died on June 4, 1904 of the "summer complaint," a fever which caused diarrhea and dehydration, and which killed many young children in those days. Robert and Sadie then had a son, Darwin, born on April 8, 1905. Darwin became a medical doctor like his father. He graduated from Vanderbilt University in Tennessee in 1930. Darwin married Dr. Mary Morgan on April 8, 1959, in Houston, Texas. They had one daughter, Elizabeth Ann, called Betsy, who was born on Aug. 15, 1962, in Florida.

Dr. Mary Westphal died a few years ago in Bellview, Washington. Dr. Darwin Westphal and his daughter Betsy live in Philadelphia, where Betsy works for a real estate company.

The last of Robert and Sadie Westphal's children is Corrine, born on Nov. 21, 1907, in Yorktown. She graduated from Yorktown High School, then attended Southwestern University, majoring in English while planning to be a teacher. She received her B.A. at the age of 19. While in college, Corrine was inspired by her brother Darwin to become a doctor, despite the obstacles presented to women entering the medical profession in those days.

Corrine received her M.A. with a major in history and a minor in English. She majored in pre-med at Vanderbilt, then graduated from medical school at Washington University in St. Louis in 1934 as a doctor of medicine specializing in ophthalmology. The fledgling doctor experienced discrimination upon trying to receive an internship. She applied to six different hospitals and was refused by five of them on the grounds that they had no place to house her. Corrine was forced to lose a year of internship by taking a teaching job at the University of Iowa. She finally got a residency in Iowa the following year. She later left for a better internship in Kansas City, but lost a year of residency when lack of funds caused her to take a teaching job at the University of Kansas.

Dr. Ray K. Dailey finally used influence with Jefferson Davis City Hospital in Houston to start an ophthalmology department in which Corrine became the first resident. The program was very disorganized and lasted only a year, but it gave Corrine her start and taught her a great deal. She then worked with Columbus Eye Associates in Columbus, Texas, from 1959 to 1968. From 1968 until her retirement in 1976 she worked in Burns Hospital at Cuero, Texas, and operated her own office in Cuero as

Dr. Corrine Westphal still lives in Yorktown, the place where she was born. One of her prized family heirlooms is a saddle belonging to her grandfather, Johann August Westphal.

WHITE, ANN (MRS. JAMES TUMLINSON) F982

Dianah (Ann) Noyes Wilkerson and Thomas White were married September 9, 1819. They started to Texas from Elizabethtown, N.C. in 1829 with their five children. Thomas White died in Alabama on June 30, 1829. His death did not alter the plans of his sturdy widow and she pushed through the vast unsettled area and arrived in the region around Columbia, Texas which is located on the Brazos River. Mrs. Ann White is registered in Austin's "Register of Families" as of April 1830. Mrs. White arrived and is registered in the colony as being 30 years of age, a widow, and had 4 male children and 1 female child. Her children were Kerr Bigham (July 20, 1820), John A. (April 26, 1822), Ann Eliza (October 23, 1824), Thomas M. (July 17, 1826), Franklin (January 19, 1828).

Ann White married James Tumlinson on July 13, 1831. A short time later they moved to Gonzales. Mr. Tumlinson had eleven children. A son, George, fought and died at the Alamo. Another son John, fought at the Battle of San Jacinto. Ann and James Tumlinson had one son, Samuel, who was born May 12, 1832 and died December 19, 1846.

Their children were John F. and Ann Mary (Mrs. Lewis Burns). Franklin White married Laura Davis who was the daughter of Perry Davis and Elizabeth (DeMoss). Perry Davis fought at the Battle of Goliad (1836) and was one of the few survivors. The Arthur Burns, Lewis Burns and Franklin White families were double cous-

Mr. S.M. Le Sesne of the Galveston News interviewed Ann Eliza Cardwell about the days of the fall of the Alamo and of early incidents of Texas history. She said that their trading points were at Columbia and Nacogdoches and an armed escort would have to accompany the trading parties to resist Indian attacks. Her family was close friends of Stephen F. Austin, "Three-Legged Willie" and other distinguished statesmen of that era. At her home in Gonzales, her family received Mrs. Emily Dickinson who was the only Anglo survivor at the Alamo. While trying to escape from the Mexican army, which was crossing through the country, members of her family could see both the Texas and Mexican armies near San

There are quite a few descendants of the White, Burns, and DeMoss families in DeWitt County. These include the Frank Burns family, the Blair James family, and Mrs. Stephen Fuller (Gail James-Fuller) of Austin.

WHITE, CAPTAIN JAMES KNOX FAMILY

James Knox White was born near Union Village in Union District, South Carolina on August 24, 1833. He was the oldest son of Daniel Jefferson White, a farmer, and Elizabeth (McCullough) White who was a strict Presbyterian born in Belfast, Ireland. The other children were Araminta Caroline (m. Harvey Andrews), Josephine, William Thomas, Mary Elizabeth (m. James DeMoss), Henry Junius (m. Mattie Brown), Joseph Priestly "Doc" (took part in the Taylor-Sutton feud), and Daniel Jefferson (m. (1) Zeluka Blair, (2) Rachel Walling).

Daniel J. White moved his family to Noxubee County, Mississippi about 1849. Although the family stayed only a year or two, young James remained until joining the family at Clinton, DeWitt County in 1858.

After the War Between the States broke out, James K. White was mustered as first lieutenant of the "DeWitt Rifles" in May 1861. He enlisted as a private in Company E of the Eighth Texas Cavalry ("Terry's Texas Rangers") on September 12, 1861 at Houston. James was elected first lieutenant on January 9, 1862 and promoted to Captain on November 18, 1862. Captain White took part in the battles of Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, and several others. After taking part in the Battle of Chickamauga, he was captured on a reconnaissance mission near McMinnville, Tennessee on October 4, 1863. Captain White was sent to the officer's military prison on Johnson's Island in Lake Erie and spent about eighteen months there. He was paroled after the war at Victoria, Texas on August 8, 1865, and he listed DeWitt County as his residence.

Little is known of Captain White's existence over the next four years. However, it is known that he married Elizabeth E. (Sheppard) Powell in Matagorda County on April 6, 1869. She passed away in 1873. Captain White courted Laura Frances Bowie for almost a year before they were married on November 15, 1875 in Matagorda County.

James and Laura lived on a plantation on Caney Creek near present day Cedar Lane. There, his four children were born. The children were Sophia (b. Sep. 6, 1876) and Mary Alma (b. June 18, 1878) who both died young; also, James Bowie (b. Feb. 17, 1880) and Vasser H. (b. Mar. 16, 1882).

Captain James Knox White was very active in Matagorda County community life. He conducted business with the famous cattle baron, A.H. "Shanghai" Pierce, and was sworn in as a county commissioner on April 18, 1876. In 1885 Captain White was selected to represent the Sixty-Sixth District in the Texas Legislature. This district included Wharton, Brazoria, Matagorda, and Galveston Counties. Because of his wife's illness, he moved his family to Abilene, Texas in 1887 and did not run for reelection.

After Laura Frances White passed away on September 11, 1891, James sent Vasser to live with her maternal grandmother, Frances Sophia Bowie, in Matagorda County. Captain White and Bowie settled in Austin County where Vasser joined them after her grandmother's death in 1899. In Austin County, Bowie married Mary Cochran and Vasser married Norris Gault Pier (Mary's first cousin).

Captain White suffered from rheumatism and lived with Vasser and her family in Brookshire. After being bedridden for more than five years, James Knox White departed this life on March 30, 1915, at the age of eightyone. His obituary said, "Sometime during the night this gallant old soldier received his summons and quietly went to join his comrades who had 'crossed over the river, to rest in the shade of the trees'." He was buried in the Bowie Family Cemetery at Cedar Lane.

Captain White was a farmer, soldier, statesman, and family man whose legacy lives on in his descendants who have since spread all over the world. His grandchildren living today include Mrs. C.E. Lee (nee Nantie Pier), Bay City, Texas; Mrs. Mary (White) Peticolas, El Paso, Texas; and Harris Francis "Bob" White of Wakefield, Massachusetts.

WHITFIELD, MATILDA FLOWER THETFORD VANNOTE

F984

Matilda Flower was born May 19, 1811 in Claiborne County, Mississippi. Her parents were Elisha Flower and Margaret White. In December of 1830 Matilda married William G. Thetford in Copiah County, Mississippi. Bondsman was David Flower, Matilda's brother.

William and Matilda had six children. David was born in 1831, Mary in 1833, Tobias in 1836, Samuel in 1839, Sarah in 1840 and Catherine in 1842. Samuel died in 1839, Sarah died in 1841, and Mary died in January 1842. William G. Thetford died in December of 1841. His daughter Catherine was born four months after his death.

After the death of William G. Thetford and three of her six children, Matilda Flower Thetford decided to move the family to Arkansas. Matilda's brother David Flower had already moved his family there as had John Thetford, her father-in-law. Matilda and the three children reached the grandfather's home in January of 1843 and remained with him until 1846.

On June 10, 1847 Matilda married John Vannote. On the first of November 1849 John and Matilda Vannote started the move to Alabama. They arrived there in February and stayed till October of that year. They then moved to Mississippi and stayed there until February of 1852 at which time they moved to Clinton, DeWitt County, Texas. During one of the separations the family endured, John Vannote wrote a letter to his stepchildren. Rilla Squyres, of Tyler, has this letter as well as Matilda's Bible in which she very carefully recorded all the births, deaths, and marriages of the Flower-Thetford-Vannote-Whitfield family. This letter was written prior to 1849 as no mention was made of John and Matilda's son, John William Vannote, Jr. The letter was directed to David Thetford, Esq., to Tobias Thetford, and to Catherine Thetford. It reads

"My Children. Hear the words and heed the advice of your stepfather. Be careful of your mother. Obey and be directed by her. Catharine, make your mother your model. My children, remember that I have used every effort to instill into your minds virtue. And boys, you know me to be an affectionate and careful Father. My advice is to love one another, and, if you love me, prove that you have not forgotten it, for with you and your dear mother is all the desire that I have to live in this world. Remember your creator in the days of your youth. Nothing more. So good bye children. God being willing, I shall see you all in a few days."

John and Matilda Vannote had a son John William Vannote, Jr. born December 29, 1849. In October of 1852, John Vannote died in Clinton, Texas. David Thetford died in October of 1854. Daughter Catharine married Russell Moody Squyres in 1858. A few months later, Tobias Thetford married Amanda Squyres, sister of Russell.

On March 12, 1868 Matilda Flower Thetford Vannote married Wm. B. Whitfield of DeWitt County. Wm. Whitfield died in 1881. Matilda Whitfield died September 1, 1899.

WHITLEY - FLEMING F98

Joseph Whitley (1842-1868) married Martha "Mattie" Fleming (1848-1905) on 17 Jan. 1867 in DeWitt Co., Texas. Their daughter Elizabeth "Lizzie" was born in 1868. Joseph was born in St. Clair Co., Mo., a son of Randolph Whitley (1798-1858) and Judy Duncan (1798-1845). Randolph was one of ten children of the Isle of Wight Co., Va., family of John Saunders Whitley (1770-1838) and Barsheba Bateman. This family, moving through North Carolina and Tennessee, settled in Illinois along the Kaskaskia River ca 1810 where several members, including Randolph, fought the British in 1812.

While two of Randolph's brothers, Mills Whitley (1791-1864) and Sharp Whitley (1802-1857) in 1835, and a sister, Elizabeth (Whitley) (Mrs. Sam'l) Lindley (1795-1838) in 1833, came to Montgomery Co., Tex.; Randolph — along with two brothers John Jr., Joseph, William and a sister, Clarenda (Mrs. William) Price — moved to Rives Co., Mo., in 1836.

Mills' son John Thomas Whitley and Elizabeth (Whitley) Lindley's son Jonathan Lindley (1st cousins to Joseph Whitley) fought in the Siege of Bexar in December 1835. Jonathan, by Feb. 1st, 1836, was a member of the Alamo garrison where he died in brave sacrifice at the Battle of the Alamo.

Joseph Whitley was listed at age 8 in the 1850 census of St. Clair Co., Mo., in his father's household. Two of Joseph's brothers, John R. and Jefferson Whitley, came to Texas in 1854 settling first in Lavaca County where Jefferson married Sarah Amanda Day (1843-1930) in 1857. About 1858, Jefferson moved to the tricounty area of Bexar, Medina and Atascosa where he was a stockraiser until his death in 1904. John R. Whitley moved to Wise Co. ca 1858 where his family, including Joseph at age 17, was listed in the census of 1860. Another of Joseph's brothers, James Wilson Whitley, settled in Collin Co., Tex., after the Civil War.

At age 19, Joseph enlisted on 18 Feb. 1862 at Dallas, Tex., in Capt. George Pickett's Company, Texas Cavalry, 2nd Regiment, Johnson's Brigade, CSA. At the close of the Civil War, Joseph was drawn to DeWitt County by the presence of his brother John R. Whitley who left Wise Co. during the war and had married his second wife, Mrs. Emily McFarland, on 3 Apr. 1864 in DeWitt County. Here, Joseph met and married Martha Fleming, believed to be a daughter of Monroe Fleming. Joseph was listed in the DeWitt Co. tax roll of 1868 with two horses assessed at $40, and miscellaneous

Joseph died ca. 1869, the circumstances of his death unknown, and Martha married her second husband, William M. "Zeke" Sanders (1843-1927), on 28 Dec. 1860 in DeWitt Co. William, b. in Ala., Martha, b. in Texas, and Elizabeth Whitley, at age 2, were listed in the 1870 census of DeWitt Co. By 1880, William had moved his family to Grimes Co. where Elizabeth, at age 13, was enumerated with the Sanders household in the 1880 census. By that year, Martha had four more children: Josephine D., b. 1870, Samuel G., b. 1873, Matthew Lee, b. 1877, and Ellen, b. 1879. Two others, Ludie and Thompson, were born after 1880.

Mrs. M.L. Sanders, Jr., of Grimes Co., recorded Martha Fleming's married name (and Elizabeth's maiden name) as "Monroe" rather than "Whitley" in a Sanders family article in The History of Grimes County, (1982). Elizabeth Whitley married widower Marshall Henderson on 23 Apr. 1893 in Grimes Co. The 1910 census of Prairie Plains, Grimes Co., listed Marshall at age 65 (b. 1845 in Louisiana), Lizzie at age 42, and five children: Jeff, b. 1895, Minnie M., b. 1897, Daniel, b. 1901, Birdie, b. 1903, and Lena, 1908.

By 1869, Joseph Whitley's brother John R. had departed DeWitt Co., but not before two children were born there too him and Emily: Jefferson, b. 1865, and Fanny, b. 1868, all listed in the 1870 census of Goliad Co., including Emily's children Celeste McFarland, b. 1854, Louisa McFarland, b. 1856, John McFarland, b. 1856, and Jonathan McFarland, b. 1858. John R. Whitley was last known to have lived in Atascosa Co. in 1875, but no further record of him or Emily, or their children, has been located.

The contributor of this article is a greatz grandson of Joseph Whitley's brother Jefferson Whitley (1835-1904).

WILD, DANIEL FAMILY

Daniel Wild Family. This picture was taken at the Wild home in Lindenau around 1920. Seated is Daniel Wild; Standing left is Aloise Grohmann Wild, wife of Daniel Wild. Standing on bench is granddaughter, Antonia Wild (Mrs. Anton H. Koopmann), daughter of Adolph and Adeline Wild.

Daniel Wild was born to Jacob Wild and wife Anna Marie Haug Wild on Nov 25 1841 in Rangendingen, Hohenzollern, Germany. He married Aloise Grohmann, who was born on Mar 23 1856 in Neudeck, Destereich, Germany. After coming to America, they first settled at Black Spring in Fayette Co. Texas. While living there, their three oldest children were born. Later they lived near Schulenburg in Fayette Co. where their four younger children were born. On Oct 21 1893 they purchased 200 acres of land out of the DA Gardner Survey in the Lindenau Community in DeWitt Co. from WC Hunter and his wife Jennie Hunter for $3700.00. Later that year the family moved to this farm. They were accompanied to DeWitt Co. by Daniel's brother Charles and family. They were among the first settlers of the Lindenau Community. Charles had two sons, Chas. and Arthur, who farmed in North Texas near Wilson in Lynn County. After a dispute between the brothers, Charles sold all his property in DeWitt Co. and with his wife and two daughters moved to Austin in Travis Co. One daughter married a professor of agronomy at A&M College, the other was married to a Dr. Winkler, Professor of Astrology at the University of Texas. Daniel also had a sister named Anna Marie who was married to Isador Dieringer. After retiring, Daniel and Aloise built a home on 1 and acre (Andrew Lockhart Sur.) in the townsite of Lindenau across the road from the Lindenau Rifle Club. Daniel suffered a stroke and was confined to a wheelchair for most of the last 14 years of his life. He died on May 19, 1924 and is buried in Lindenau Cemetery. Aloise continued living alone in her home. At the urging of some of her children Aloise wrote a new will on May 2, 1936 when she was 80 years old. After her death on Jan 12 1938, this action caused a rift among some of the family members. She was buried in the Lindenau Cemetery. Daniel and Aloise were faithful members of St Michael's Catholic Church of Cuero. Their seven children were: 1. Ferdinand (born Nov 24 1873) married Mathilda Goehring (born May 18 1879). She died May 20 1941. They had four children: Edwin, Olga (Mrs Henry Hingst), Arthur and Elenora (Mrs Lee Pargmann). Ferdnand's second wife's name was Mary. He died on Sept 21, 1948 and is buried beside his first wife in Lindenau Cemetery. 2. Adolph (born Jul 22 1875) married Adeline Goehring (born Oct 17 1882). She died Nov 7 1924. He died on Sept 28 1959. They are buried in Lindenau Cemetery. They had five children: Meta (Mrs Robert Hingst), Lottie (Mrs Chas Knocke), Alfrieda (Mrs Henry L Koopmann), Raymond and Antonia (Mrs Anton H Koopmann). 3. Mary (born Sept 8 1878) married Alvin Hengst (born Jun 1 1875). Their story appears elsewhere in this book. 4. Anna (born Dec 19 1880) married Herman J Buchhorn (born Oct 14 1875). WILLIAMS, BAMA T. FAMILY

My great-grandmother was Sally Jones. It is not known where or when she was born or when she died but family tradition has it that she was buried about a mile from Concrete. Family tradition also has it that she was a slave belonging to a Stephens family. The place where the Joseph Stevens family buried its slaves is about a mile from Concrete but it is no longer a cemetery. There are no markers.

Sally Jones married Andrew Jackson. They had a daughter, Ann Jackson, who married Ben Wingate. He was a farmer. Ann and Ben Wingate had two daughters: I) Sarah Wingate who married Boston Mike, and II) Barbara Wingate who married Prince Brown, Sr. in Gonzales, Texas.

Prince Brown, Jr. was born in Sladen, Texas. The mother, Barbara Wingate Brown, wanted to live in Cuero with her mother, Ann Jackson Wingate, but the father, Prince Brown, Sr., did not move here with her. After the mother moved back here, three more children were born. They were: Dakota Brown, Macellus Brown, and a daughter, Bama Thompson (1900), who later married Sylvester Williams, who was with the Cuero police force.

We – my three brothers and I – attended the Scheicherville school. Later we attended the Deer Creek School. Before we moved to town, we walked nine miles to school from Schlinke Park on the Yorktown highway. After we moved to town, my brothers attended Daule school

We belonged to the Little Mt. Zion Church. We were baptized in the Guadalupe River near the old Clinton bridge.

All of my people, except my great-grandparents, are buried in the Schleicherville Cemetery.

WOFFORD, ANN MARY LANE

F994

Ann Mary Lane, the third child of Samuel Winston (Tad) Lane and Nannie Lee (Baby Lee) Williams Lane was born December 15, 1917, on the Lane ranch near Lindenau. She attended school through the third grade at the Lindenau school, riding horseback the four miles to and from school with her brothers and sister. She began school in Cuero in the fourth grade, as her family moved into town, living first in the Mugge rent house on West Reuss, then in the old Buchel home her father bought on Indianola and Broadway, so that her brother, Sam, could continue his schooling.

Ann Mary finished high school in Cuero in 1934. She attended Victoria Junior College, Southwest Texas State Teachers' College, and the University of Texas, where she received her degree in 1950.

Ann Mary married Francis William Wilson of Luling, a student at Baylor School of Medicine in Dallas, in 1936. They had two children:

Ann Mary (Lane) Wofford

Francis William Wilson, II, born November 19, 1940, and Ann Mary Wilson, born July 29, 1943.

In 1946, Ann Mary and James Monroe Howard were married. Their two children were Susan Lee Howard, born October 31, 1951, and James Monroe Howard, Jr., born April 12, 1955. James, "Jimbo", died in 1961 of leukemia at the age of six. During these years Ann Mary taught school in Houston, Waco, Mesquite, and Cuero. Her teaching specialties included degrees in Elementary Education and Special Education. After twenty-eight years, the marriage of James Monroe Howard and Ann Mary was dissolved.

On December 28, 1974, Ann Mary and John Tyler Wofford, II, were married. They had been sweethearts in high school in the 1930's. John, the second son of Chancey Sheppard Wofford and Sarah Lander Wofford, was born April 1, 1916. He attended school in Cuero, received his degree in gas engineering from A&I in Kingsville, and bought the Keseling Metal Works in Cuero in 1960. He has one son, John Tyler Wofford, III, who has been a partner in the business. John has also been a rancher and is an avid golfer.

Ann Mary's first child, Francis William Wilson, II, called "Billy" by his family, but known also as "Smokey", was married to Linda Breton in 1963. They had one child, Francis William Wilson, III, who received his degree from Texas Tech University in Lubbock, December 19, 1987, just one month after diagnosed as having leukemia. Billy attended Southwest Texas State University in the 60's, and is presently employed by the Texas Animal Health Commission. Earlier, while in the Navy, he learned to play the drums, guitar and harmonica. He became known as Smokey, while travelling throughout the United States as an entertainer. His music is still enjoyed by many.

Ann Mary Wilson, Ann Mary's second child, received her degree from Southwest Texas State University, and in June 1969, and married Tom Arch Allen, II. She and Tom has three children: Stephanie Lynn, a college freshman; Thomas Arch, III, who is in high school; and Samuel Gates, who is in elementary school. They live in Lavernia, where Ann Mary

Allen teaches school.

Susan Lee Howard, Ann Mary's third child was married June 7, 1975, in the First Methodist Church in Cuero to Thomas Jefferson Haynie. They both attended Sam Houston State University, where Susan received her degrees. Tom later went to Texas A&M and received his degree. They have two children: Lee Ann and Thomas Jefferson Haynie, III, called "T.J." Susan Lee is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha National Sorority. Their family lives in Navasota, where Susan teaches dancing.

Ann Mary Lane Wofford and her two daughters, Ann Mary Allen and Susan Lee Haynie, belong to the Guadalupe chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, from their ancestor, Aquilla Lane, who was named for a star in the Northern Constellation.

Because the Lane ranch has been in the Lane family and owned and operated continuously by a member of the family for over one hundred years, it has the distinction of being a Land Heritage Ranch.

Rollins Bob Wofford, son of Daniel Wofford (1774) and Elizabeth Webb, 1798, was born in Tennessee on December 15, 1808. He married Frances Jane Davis (born 1815) of Petersburg, Virginia on May 7, 1840. They came to Texas soon afterwards where most of their children work born.

He was the first Chief Justice of DeWitt County and lived at Clinton before the town of Cuero was established. As soon as the county had settled the location of the county seat as Clinton, Judge Wofford donated five acres to the City of Clinton for a graveyard. In Clinton he had a general store and he also had very extensive land holdings in the Lindenau area, west of the Guadalupe River.

In about 1860 he received a beautiful silver cup and "five gallons of fine brandy for the earliest bale of new cotton sent to New York". The cotton brought Rollins B. Wofford 15 cents per pound.

In 1865, November 14, Rollins Bob received a proclamation, signed by Andrew Johnson, who was then President of the United States of America, giving him "Executive Clemency" – "a full pardon and amnesty for all offenses by him committed, arising from participation, direct or implied, in the said rebellion, conditioned as follows:

"1st. – This pardon to be of no effect until the said R.B. Wofford shall take the oath prescribed in the Proclamation of the President, dated May 29, 1865."

"2nd. - To be void and of no effect if the said R.B. Wofford shall hereafter, at any time, acquire any property whatever in slaves, or make use of slave labor.

On November 7, of 1844, John Tyler Wofford was born in Wharton County on Caney Creek (where Wharton now stands) to Rollins Bob and Frances Jane Davis Wofford. He was their oldest son. His grandfather, Daniel Wofford was a soldier in the Revolution. His father, Rollins Bob Wofford was, as written earlier, the first Chief Justice of DeWitt County (August, 1848) and had extensive holdings in plantations and slaves. At the age of 2 years, John Tyler moved with his parents, Judge and Mrs. R.B. Wofford, to Clinton, then the County seat of DeWitt County.

Wofford's early education was obtained from rural schools, and later he attended the Texas Military Institute, at Rutersville, near La-Grange, Texas when he was in his "teen" years.

When his country's call for the Confederacy volunteers in the Civil War was sounded, although but sixteen at the time, he enlisted as a private in the "Fourth Mounted Volunteers" under the command of James Reilley. This regiment saw active service in New Mexico and Arizona. In the spring of 1863, he accompanied his regiment to Louisiana, and there participated in the operations under Richard Taylor and Tom Green, making a splendid record as a soldier. He was serving on the staff of General W.R. Scurry when that gallant officer was killed, and continued in the service of his country until mustered out at the close of the war. He was also serving in Hood's Brigades.

On November 7, 1865, John Tyler Wofford, at the age of 21, was united in marriage to Miss Josephine Stevens of Concrete, Texas, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Ann Steen Stevens (See Joseph Stevens). Mr. J.V.E. Covey was the minister. J.T. Wofford immediately entered the mercantile business in Clinton, in partnership with his father and he continued that and ranching after he acquired some 30,000 acres of his own ranch lands.

He was a pioneer in the stock raising industry of DeWitt County, and sent herds of cattle annually from 1873 to 1885 by way of "The Trail" (Chisholm) in Kansas and Nebraska. On one of these trips, seeing the need of a better grade of cattle, he purchased several Black Polled Angus bulls, from which he got a start of graded cattle, although at that time it was a very expensive and hazardous enterprise, owing to the lack of knowledge necessary in warding off the fatal disease known as "tick fever".

After several years, his first herd of cattle was driven to market in Kansas in 1869, going by route of Hochheim, Gonzales, Lockhart, Austin, Waco, Hillsboro, Cleburne, Ft. Worth, Denton, St. Arbuckle, Abilene and Wichita, Kansas. Wofford and his brother-in-law. John Y. Bell, did not make the drive, but took the stage coach to Galveston where they boarded a train for the trip to Kansas. The last herd, belonging jointly to Wofford and Bell, was driven to Kansas in 1882, and was made up of 7,000 head of cattle. The trail bosses were Arthur Burns, Louis Burns, and Jim Sumners, prominent pioneer residents. After reaching Kansas and learning of the drop in the prices being paid for cattle, Bell decided to sell his interest in the cattle to Wofford who leased land to be able to hold the stock until spring. The cattle were wintered on range in Indian territory in Nebraska on the North Platte River. Bell hoped to catch a rising market, but due to the extreme cold of the winter of 1882, all but 600 of the original 7,000 cattle were lost. The unacclimated cattle succumbed to the "biting blast" of the bitter cold. It was necessary for the trail h ands to chop ice from water troughs each day in order for the cattle to have water to drink.

J.T. Wofford had large stock pens located not far from the confluence of Sandies Creek and the Guadalupe River. This area was one of the "gathering places" for stockmen preparing for "cattle drives up trail". His ranch brand was XT; his up-trail brand was lazy F. In no wise daunted or crushed by the disastrous blow, he continued to raise cattle for market and farmed on a large scale, although he never sent cattle up "The Trail" again.

He moved to Cuero, from the ranch, in 1884, to take advantage of the school facilities for his large family of children, and personally conducted his farming and cattle interests until the time of his death, Thanksgiving Day, November 24, 1910. The large home, now on Reuss Boulevard, was dismantled and each board numbered. It was then ferried across the Guadalupe River to its present location, where it was rebuilt in 1883 and 1884.

He was a charter member of the Jewel Lodge No. 103, Knights of Pythias of Cuero, Texas, organized in 1898, and filled all offices in that Lodge successively until elected at Beaumont, Texas, April, 1910 to Grand Chancellor of the Grand Domain of Texas, the highest position in the order, and which position he held at the time of his death.

Some time earlier he identified himself with the Baptist Church of Cuero, and was a leader and worker in that organization, as in every other cause he espoused. "He was a man of indomitable courage and integrity of purpose, tranquil temperment and unfaltering faith, that "God's in His Heaven, all's right with the world"."

Josephine Stevens Wofford received her early education in Concrete, at the Concrete Academy, a co-educational school organized and run by Mr. J.V.E. Covey.

Later she attended Baylor College, which was then at Independence, Texas. A sister of Sam Houston attended at the same time.

One of Josephine Stevens closest friends was Mrs. H.A. Wroe of Austin, the former Mrs. Carey MacNelly, whose husband, Capt. MacNelly was of the Texas Rangers force in DeWitt County in its early days. The two ladies were close friends at "Old Baylor University" at Independence, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wofford, having received good, sound early educations themselves believed in the same for their children. The ones who were not taught by Mr. J.V.E. Covey attended Professor Nash's Academy in Cuero later. The ones who did not marry at a very early age went on to college.

Jesse and Lucy Wofford went to Hollins in Virginia, Mary, Clare and Josephine went to Baylor College in Belton, Texas and John and Chancey attended Baylor University at Waco, Texas.

Clare Wofford, the eighth child of John T. and Josephine Stevens Wofford, after completing her education in Texas, went on to Nashville, Tenn. There she spent a year with Dr. and Mrs. Dan Blake while studying voice. The Blake's had been early residents of Cuero, but had moved to Nashville so they could educate their sons at Vanderbilt University.

On November 4, 1904, she was united in marriage to Alexander Frank Hamilton, son of Alexander and Annie Thornton Hamilton. Two children were born to this union: 1. Alexander F. Hamilton, Jr., born on the ranch on August 31, 1905 and died on February 22, 1941. 2. Frances Ann Hamilton, born on the Cheapside Ranch on August 15, 1913.

I would be quite remiss if I did not mention the deep and abiding Christian faith of Josephine Stevens Wofford. She was a life long member of the Baptist Church and was an active worker until the "twilight years of her life."

WOLF, ALBERT C. AND JULIA (RAPP)

F998

Two months after Friedrich Wolf married Wilhelmina Sager on 11/20/1890, he bought 140 acres of land in the Green DeWitt League from his father, Christian Wolf. Christian had bought it in 1887 from Samuel C. Lackey. It has been in the Wolf family ever since. After a home was built, Friedrich and Mina moved onto the place. There, two sons were born: Albert Christian on 12/11/1891 and Felix Christoph on 9/22/1893. Tragedy struck the family on 5/02/1894 when Friedrich died of typhoid fever. He had drunk water out of the Guadalupe River while chopping cotton in the field next to the river.

The young family moved in with Christian Wolf for about six months and then moved to Arneckeville to live with Mina's mother, Mrs. Christoph Adam Sager. The boys attended school in Arneckeville until 1906. During the summer of 1906, Mina, for health reasons, moved to Comfort, Texas with her two sons. Albert began working (at 50 cents per day) doing odd jobs including helping to build a store.

Around Christmas of 1908, Mina and sons moved back to Arneckeville, temporarily living in the vacant parsonage, and then in 1909, onto her 140 acres. The boys were then old enough to work the farm. While Mina was absent from the place, she had leased it to a neighbor, Albert Koenig, who share-cropped it.

On 10/27/1914, Albert married his school sweetheart, Julia Rapp, in Moulton. She was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Gottlob Rapp who had served the Lutheran church in Arneckeville from 1904 to 1908. In 1915, Albert and Julia moved into a new home which Albert built on the same 140 acres. To their union seven children were born: Eugene, 9/29/1915-4/3/1936; Armin, 10/13/17-2/26/89 (married Helen Reinecke); Walter, 6/27/19 (married Ida Reinecke, dec'd., then Dorothy Gibson); Harold, 8/2/22 (married Elsie Kanak); Adeline, 12/18/25 (married Fred O. Thamm); Ralph, 3/7/28; and Ida Marie, 1/23/34 (married Ivan D. Schultz).

As the family grew, it became necessary to replace the buggy with the first automobile, a 1919 Chevrolet. Albert and Julia were active in the church, community and school. When the Green DeWitt school burned in 1929, Albert helped to build another by raising funds and then using his carpentry skills to build it.

Albert was an election judge at Arneckeville for many years. He served for 25 years as secretary of the local branch of Hochheim Prairie Farm Manual Insurance Association.

In 1938, Albert was one of the main carpenters who helped to build the present church building of Zion Lutheran, Arneckeville. Albert and all his family had a deep and abiding love for their church. He served in various church offices including President of the congregation. He was a grandson of its first pastor, Rev. C.A. Sager.

Albert farmed and ranched all his life. He died 11/26/1967 from a heart attack. Julia lived to be 93, dying 8/31/1985. They are buried at Zion Lutheran cemetery, Arneckeville. Both were first generation Texans who contributed to the growth of their community. Son, Walter, served as DeWitt County Treasurer for 15 years from 1974 to 1989.

The grandchildren of Albert and Julia Wolf are as follows: Armin and Helen; Wayne and Melvin, Walter and Ida; Byron and Lynn Douglas, Harold and Elsie; Donna Owens and Gary, Adeline and Fred; Marilyn Powell, Robert and

WOLF, CHRISTIAN AND SOPHIE (LANGE)

Christian Wolf was born 2/2/1831 in Viesecke, Perleburg, Brandenburg which is now in East Germany. His parents were Johann Joachim Ernst Wolf, a farmer, and Elisabeth Giesecke, his second wife.

When Christian was married 5/29/1859 in Viesecke to Sophie Lange of Legde, he was a laborer. Sophie was the daughter of Johann Lange, also a laborer in Legde. Seven children were born to Christian and Sophie of whom three died in childhood. In the Fall of 1873 (the year Cuero was founded), the entire family immigrated to Texas on the Vandalia which landed at Indianola. Their children were: Sophie Dorothea, born 11/3/1860; Freidrich Christian, born 3/17/1864; Marie Louise, born 9/20/1866 and Henriette Marie, born 3/4/1869.

When they arrived at Arneckeville, they lived in a log house on the farm of Mrs. Justine Dreier Sager, widow of Rev. Christoph Adam Sager. She took in many immigrants from Germany until they could be settled. Christian became a freighter, hauling lumber from Indianola to San Antonio. On 1/13/1876, Freidrich Karl Otto was born (the only child born in Texas). On 11/24/1877, Christian bought 21 acres in the Green DeWitt League through which the spring-fed Carlisle Creek flowed and onto which they moved. This became their homestead. Christian began farming. Adjoining land was acquired in 1878 and 1881. Christian filed his declaration of intent to become a citizen on 11/4/1878, but it wasn't until 7/6/1891 that he and son, Friedrich, became citizens.

Sophie died on 6/23/1880. She was buried at Zion Lutheran Cemetery, Arneckeville. The family had become active members at Zion. The older children helped raise Otto. Louise never married so she remained at home to care for the family as the older children married. She died 7/16/1959.

A story is told about the Wolfs. A John Groll came from Germany and eventually worked his way to Arneckeville. He worked with them as a freighter until he saved enough money to buy his own team and wagon. He married Mathilde Scheel and lived near the Wolfs. When John was hauling freight he often came home late at night. One night, while Mathilde was walking to the Wolfs home to stay with them, a snake bit her. The Wolfs got a chicken off the roost, butchered it and put the warm chicken on the bite to draw out the venom. She survived.

Daughter, Dorothea, married Fred Sager, son of Rev. C.A. Sager in 1883. Henriette married Albert Nagel in 1888 and died 3/6/1897. On 11/20/1890, Friedrich married Wilhelmina (Mina) Sager, youngest child of Rev. Sager. Two months later, Christian sold Friedrich 140 acres of land on the Guadalupe River which he had purchased in 1887 from Samuel C. Lackey. This land became Friedrich and Mina's home. The tract has been in the Wolf family ever since. Tragedy struck on 5/02/1894 when Friedrich died of typhoid fever. He left his widow and two small children: Albert Christian, born 12/11/1891 and Felix Christoph, born 9/22/1893. They moved in with Christian Wold for six months and then to Arneckeville to live with Mina's mother. The 140 acres were leased to Albert Koenig who share-cropped it. About 1909, Mina, Albert and Felix moved back onto the land. The boys were old enough now to work the land.

On 10/27/1914, Albert married Julia Rapp and the place became their home on which they reared their family: Eugene, Armin, Walter, Harold, Adeline, Ralph and Ida Marie.

Friedrich's other son, Felix married Adelia Goebel on 12/16/1915 and moved to Orange Grove in 1923 with their daughters, Alarie and Nina.

Christian's youngest, Otto, married Philipina Hiller on 12/30/1902 and lived near the 140 acres, mentioned earlier which was also in the Green DeWitt League. There, they reared their only child, Werner. He married Lorene Semmler. On the same place they reared daughters, Doris and Rita.

Christian Wolf died 8/11/1911 and was buried beside his wife at Arneckeville which was also the last resting place for their children. The fact that their other three children were buried in Viesecke is a reminder of the courage and hope this family and many others had in coming to a new land to seek a better life for their families. We, their descendants, are thankful that they took that venture of faith.

WOLF, OTTO CHRISTIAN AND PHILLIPPINE EMMA LOUISE HILLER

Otto Karl Friedrich Christian was born January 13, 1876 to Christian and Sophie Lange Wolf. He was their only child born in America. All the other brothers and sisters were born in Germany, including Louisa and Dora (Mrs. Fred Sager). He was baptized November 14, 1876 in Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church of Arneckeville, Texas, the sponsors were Fr. Fruede, Fr. Sager, and Matilda Scheel. He was confirmed March 30, 1890. He married Philippine Emma Hiller of Arneckeville on December 30, 1902 in Zion Lutheran. Philippine was born March 30, 1878, baptized June 9, 1878 with Gottlieb Hiller and Wilhelmine Schorlemmer as sponsors. Her parents were George Friedrick and Wilhelmine Henrietta Schorlemmer as sponsors. Her parents were George Friedrick and Wilhelmine Henrietta Schorlemmer Hiller. Otto and Philippine had one son, Werner Friedrich Christian, born November 7, 1903. They lived their entire married life on a farm in Green DeWitt, a small farming community south east of Cuero. The community still exist today. Otto made a success of farming and was the first farmer in the county to own a tractor. Son Werner married Lorene Ida Semmler and returned to his parents farm. They raised two daughters on the farm, Doris Nell and Lorita Mae. In 1933 Otto and Werner applied for a loan to buy the 100 acre "bading place" on South River Road. The asking price was $1,000 or $10 per acre. Otto had $500 for a down payment and several thousand dollars on loan to friends and family. He also had money in the bank. Farmers State Bank president, Mr. Schorre, felt there was too much risk involved, due to the slow economic conditions caused by the depression, even though both had excellent credit. Finally Werner and Otto mortgaged the 140 acre home place and both homes to secure the loan. Mr. Schorre was still uncomfortable with granting the loan but finally agreed. Balance of $500 was paid off within a year of the purchase. Otto was also a lover of fine horses and paid as much as $75 for one dun mare purchased from J.B. Garrett in 1905, and $150 for a gray mare purchased from Alcaro Equio (sp?) in 1910. Otto and Philippine celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on December 30, 1952. They were lifelong members of Zion Lutheran and are buried in the Church Cemetery. Philippine died June 29, 1953 and Otto passed away on March 7, 1958.

WOOD, WILLIAM HENRY AND MARY JANE NEWMAN

William H. Wood

My Grandma was born 'Mary Jane Newman' in Cuero, Texas in DeWitt County on August 16, 1861. When still quite young, she became interested in a cowboy from one of the large ranches in the area.

One day he came riding through the field where she was plowing with a walking plow (commonly called a "Georgia Stack"). "Molly," he said, "I'll do your plowing if you will do my cooking." She was willing but thought she was too young and should wait a year or two. However, he was persistent and kept setting the date nearer and nearer. So, on October 26, 1876, they were married. His name was William Henry Wood, born in 1856 in DeWitt County, Texas. William and Mary Jane had seventeen children during their marriage. Some of the children were: John Andrew, Roy P., William, A.D. "Jack," Fred, Cecil, Ollie, Betty, Effie Lornea, Mattie, Myrtle, and six more who are unknown at this time. It is thought that all of the children were born in DeWitt County. They attended the Primitive Church at Stratton but it took them one day to get to Stratton and one day to get back home. The only way they could attend church was to put four or five children on "Old Charley," their favorite horse. They would arrive at Mary Jane's parents on Saturday and spend the night, then return home after church on Sun-

Mary Jane was known as "Aunt Molly" to her friends and relatives. Many of her deeds and acts of kindness could be listed, but the qualities that sustained her and inspired her many friends and loving descendants could never be counted. She later was a devout member of the Primitive Baptist Church at Glen Rose, Texas, where her son A.D. Wood was pastor.

William Wood was known as "Uncle Billy." He loved music and played the "French harp" and sang. He and "Aunt Molly" were married for sixty years. "Uncle Billy" died in 1936. "Aunt Molly" died on March 7, 1956 at the age of 95 years 7 months and 9 days.

Grandpa's death left me devastated. He was known to most people as Uncle Billy, but to me he was and always will be, my grandpa.

WOODS, HENRY GONZALVO

F1005

Annie Saffarrans, descendants of Gonzalvo Woods, holding spear used to escape Dawsons Massacre. 1930's in front of Alamo.

Henry Gonzalvo Woods was born on February 18, 1816 in Lincoln County, Missouri (Wood's Fort – later known as Troy, Missouri) to Zadock and Minerva Cottle Woods. He married Jane Boyd Wells on October 18, 1844. Jane Wells was born on December 29, 1809, and died on August 2, 1866, at 56 years of age. Henry Gonzalvo Woods died in November 29, 1869, in DeWitt County, Texas. Jane and Henry G. are both buried in the Wood's Cemetery not far from the home he built near Yorktown in DeWitt County.

When Jane died, Gonzalvo directed his former slaves to erect a sandstone tomb at her grave. Gonzalvo is also buried beneath a sandstone tomb constructed by his former slaves.

H.G. Wood's father, Zadock, was one of Stephen F. Austin's Original Three Hundred Colonists. The Zadock Wood's family moved from Missouri to Texas in the mid-twenties.

Walter Gonzalvo Frazier, Arnold Brantley, 2 maiden ladies (unidentified). One of first lumber house built in DeWitt County in 1850's.

Zadock received a league of land in Fayette County in 1826. He settled on a piece of land about 10 miles west of La Grange called Wood's Prairie. Zadock's residence there was used as a Fort for protection against Indian attacks between 1828 and 1842. A State Marker is erected on Highway 27 west of La Grange at West Point, Texas where Wood's Fort was located.

In September 1842, Zadock and his two sons, Henry Gonzalvo and Norman Woods joined 50 other volunteers to form a company in La Grange under Captain Nicolas Dawson to help Co. Matthew "Old Point" Caldwell defend San Antonio against Mexican General Adrian Woll. As they approached San Antonio, they learned Col. Caldwell was in a battle at Salado. They became involved in the battle. When it was over half of the men were killed or wounded. Only two escaped. Zadock was killed on the battlefield, Martin was wounded and taken as a prisoner to Perote Prison in Old Mexico, and Henry Gonzalvo was one of the two that escaped. Before his escape, Gonzalvo went to where Norman was lying wounded and said. "Norman, let's get out of here," but Norman knew he was unable to make it so he told Gonzalvo to escape and to "Please take care of Jane and the children.'

Gonzalvo did escape. His horse having been shot, a Mexican rushed upon him with a lance. Catching the lance, which was attached to the Mexican's wrist, he jerked the assailant to the ground and himself mounting the Mexican's horse, dashed along the soldiers yelling as loudly as any of them; and, having on a Spanish sombrero, he escaped detection amidst the confusion, and then succeeded in getting through the Mexican line, and once clear, having a good horse under him, he made good his escape. This description came from Noah Smithwick's Book, "The Evolution of a State."

After the death of Norman Woods in Perote Prison, Gonzalvo carried out his brother's admonition to care for his family by marrying Jane and filling the place of a father to Norman's children.

Three children were born to Jane and Gonzalvo; two boys and a girl. The eldest boy was called Henry for his father whose full name was Henry Gonzalvo. The second boy they named Norman in honor of the dead husband and brother, and Jane called the baby girl Minerva in remembrance of the baby Minerva who died during the Runaway Scrape so many years before.

In 1856, Gonzalvo and Montraville sold their holdings in Fayette County and moved to DeWitt County. Gonzalvo settled on land in the Shiloh Community near Yorktown. He was a leader in the community. He owned a cotton gin and later built the first lumber home in that area. It was two stories high with an attic. He owned considerable property, a fine stallion, negro slaves and insurance which was unusual at that time. He was a Justice of

On July 6, 1861, the Shiloh Home Guards were organized on the west side of the Guadalupe River, 8 miles west of Clinton. Henry Gonzalvo was the Captain; D.N. Hardy, 1st Lt.; E. Edwards, 2nd. Lt.; J.H. Callihan, 3rd Lt.; and Joel S. Mily, 1st Sgt.

On April 25, 1965, Henry Gonzalvo Woods was honored with the Dedication of a Confederate States Army Marker at his grave. Gonzalvo was Captain of Co. K. 24th Regiment, Texas Cavalry during the Civil War.

Gonzalvo died on November 29, 1869, after being shot by John Kerlick. These were the days of outlawing and vigilante rule in DeWitt County. The sheriff deputized Gonzalvo and told him to get assistance to try to capture two outlaws who were supposed to be in the neighborhood. Gon took "Tobe" Brantley, husband of one of his stepdaughters, and a group of men with him to the house near Yorktown where the outlaws were supposed to be. Upon reaching there, they were told that the two men were at a dance and would return around 12 or 1 o'clock. They decided to wait there and capture the men when they returned from the dance. Not expecting the outlaws for several hours, they sat around quietly waiting. Gon made himself comfortable in a rocking chair on the front porch of the house. In the meantime, a little boy had slipped out of the back of the house and gone to warn the men at the dance. The outlaws immediately returned and hid themselves in a cornfield, Gon, unsuspecting they were near, lit his pipe in the dark, the outlaw fired upon him, killing him instantly.

He left behind his widow, the former Mary Ann "Polly" Calloway, whom he had married on September 22, 1867, about a year after the death of his first wife, Jane Boyd Wells. He also left behind the following descendants, his and

Jane's children:

1. Henry Leander Woods, b. 8-8-1845; died, 10-16-1910; married, Emily Frances Ward.

2. Norman Woods, b. 2-26-1848; married, Lucy Ainsworth

3. Minerva Jane Woods, b. July 21, 1850, in DeWitt County; died July 1, 1939 in Burnet, Texas. She married Andrew Jackson Frazier on July 4, 1867 at Clinton, Texas, the old county seat of DeWitt County. Andrew Prather, a minister of the gospel performed the ceremony. Witnesses were J.A. Long and J.W. Asbury.

His step-children who were also his brother's children:

1. Ardelia Woods, b. 1-3-1833; married, Thomas Glimp

2. Sarah Boyd Woods, b. 2-11-1835; died 9-1-11 in Williamson Co.; married Robert Insall

3. Minerva Woods, b. 2-11-1835; died 1836 in the Runaway Scrape. She was a twin to Sarah Boyd Woods

4. Caroline Woods, b. 9-13-1839; married, Andrew J. Brown

5. Martin Zadock Woods, b. 9-21-1841; died 4-18-1863, during the Civil War. Only son of Norman Woods, was captured and died in a northern prison, adding another name to the list of Woods who died in service to their country.

6. Susan Woods, b. 9-21-1841; married J.D. Brantley. She was a twin to Martin Zadock Woods

When Minerva Jane Wood's mother, Jane Wells Woods, died in 1865, the 15 year old Minerva Jane was left in charge of her father, Henry Gonzalvo Wood's, household. She married the next year and she and her husband, Andrew Jackson Frazier, made their home with her father.

Henry Alexander Frazier, oldest son of Minerva Jane Woods and Andrew Jackson Frazier, was born on April 2, 1868, in the home Gonzalvo built in DeWitt County.

In 1883, Minerva Jane and Andrew Jackson Frazier moved to Burnet, Texas where Andrew Jackson "Jack" died with pneumonia on February 17, 1885. Henry Alexander "Alex", being the oldest son, helped his mother, Minerva, rear his younger brothers and sisters.

WOODS, MONTRAVILLE AND ISABELLA (HIDALGO) GONZALES

F1006

Montraville Woods was born 17 November 1806 at Woods Fort, in present Troy, Lincoln Co, Missouri as the second son of Zadock Woods and his wife, Minerva Cottle. Zadock

Isabella (Hidalgo) Gonzales Woods ca. 1880, Yorktown, Tx. Mrs. Pearl Gilliam of Uvalde, Tx., owner of original

Montraville Woods ca. 1853

Woods was the son of Jonathan Woods and Keziah Keith of Bridgewater, Mass., who also pioneered the Louisiana Territory with the Cottles and Zadock. Minerva's father, deacon Joseph Cottle and mother, Azubah Powers (daughter of Andrew Power) helped build the area around Woods Fort which eventually became Troy, Missouri.

Zadock Woods moved his family to Texas in 1824 as part of the old three hundred pioneers of Stephen F. Austin's first colony. Zadock received a land grant of one league and one labor of land which he took in present Fayette Co. and built a second Woods Fort there near present West Point, Woods Prairie.

In June, 1826, Montraville Woods fell in love with the very beautiful Isabella, daughter of Spanish dignitary Francisco (Hidalgo) Gonzales and his wife, Procopia (Hidalgo) Valdes (daughter of Don Francisco (Hidalgo) (Valdes) and plotted to elope with her. They were successful in eloping; however, the matter was brought to the attention of Stephen F. Austin by a letter from James Cummins at the request of Don Francisco (Hidalgo) Gonzales who was insisting that the couple be married immediately at La Bahia (present Goliad) by a catholic priest as Isabella was only 14 years old. Montraville and Isabella were also given a land grant in the amount of one league and one labor of land in Favette County next to Zadock's land. Montraville became agent for his father-in-law, Francisco (Hidalgo) Gonzales in Fayette County after Francisco (Hidalgo) Gonzales received a league and labor of land in present Victoria County. Interestingly, the Spanish title of lesser nobility, "Hidalgo" was given by the King of Spain for exceptional service to the crown and was given to all descendants perpetually, so descendants of this family today may rightfully use the title of Hidalgo: A title similar to "Sir" or "Lord" in English.

Montraville and Isabella Woods had the following eleven daughters and one son: Mary born 8 December 1829; Minerva born 1 March 1832; Amanda M. born 5 Sept. 1833; Madalena R. born 17 July 1836 and married Sylvanus Brown; Sophronia born 13 April 1838; Mary Ann born 1 March 1840 and married William Milligan; Isabella born 3 December 1842; Malinda born 11 March 1844; Susan born 2 January 1846; Montraville Zadock born 7 March 1847 and married Ann Anderson on 4 January 1870; Margaret Eliza born 21 January 1849; and finally, Emma Ardelia born 27 December 1851 at Woods Fort, Fayette County, Texas and married William Hartmann at Yorktown, DeWitt County, Texas on 27 January 1881.

In 1856, Montraville and his brother, Henry Gonzales both moved their families to DeWitt County. Henry had married Jane, the widow of his brother Norman. Norman had died in pirate prison in Mexico City after being wounded and taken prisoner at Dawson's Massacre, Battle of Salado Creek in San Antonio, Texas. It was in this battle, 18 September 1842, that Zadock Woods, father of Montraville and Henry Gonzalvo was killed. In DeWitt County the brothers both ranched and farmed until their deaths. Montraville died on 15 July 1857 and Isabella gave the land designated as Woods Cemetery, Shiloh, Yorktown, DeWitt Co., Texas as a final resting place for her greatly beloved husband under the majestic oaks. Henry G. was made executor of Montraville's estate and helped Isabella until his untimely death as part of a sheriff's posse involved in searching for a nephew of Mr. Kerlicks of Yorktown who had been involved in the Taylor-Sutton feud. Deputy Sheriff Faust, Henry Gonzalvo Woods and two other posse members were killed and Henry G. was buried in Woods Cemetery, near Montraville.

Isabella continued to care for her land with the help of her children and later, their spouses. She even registered her own brand and marks in DeWitt County. She applied for and received a widow's pension from the State of Texas for her husband's service to the Republic of Texas during the revolution and separation from Mexico. She died on 28 January 1906, at the age of 93 years, 6 months, and 16 days and the family buried her next to Montraville in the Woods Cemetery, Shiloh, Yorktown, DeWitt County, Texas.

WOODS, ZADOCK AND MINERVA COTTLE

Minerva Cottle Woods spinning wheel made for her by Daniel Boone

In Bridgewater, Massachusetts on 3 May 1764, Jonathan Woods, Jr. (born 15 Aug 1740, Bridgewater, Mass, son of Jonathan and Betty Thomas Woods) married Keziah Keith (born 9 Oct 1748, Bridgewater, Ma, daughter of James and Lydia Perkins Keith and granddaughter of Ensign John and Hannah Washburg Keith (this lineage traces back to Edward I, King of England). Their son, Zadock Woods was born on 18 September 1773 in Brooksfield, Mass.

After the American Revolution, Jonathan Woods, Jr. moved with his father and their families to Hartland, Vermont. In nearby Woodstock, Vt. Zadock Woods met and married in 1797, Minerva Cottle (born 22 Dec 1776, Woodstock, Vt. daughter of Joseph and Azubah Power Cottle).

"Deacon" Joseph Cottle served in the American Revolutionary War in March, 1781 in the last alarm. With the promise of a Spanish land grant in the Louisiana Territory, Joseph Cottle, Jonathan Woods, Jr. and Zadock Woods moved their families to the St. Charles District (now Missouri) on the Cuivre River in 1799. On the present site of Troy, Lincoln Co, Mo, Joseph Cottle and Zadock Woods built Woods Fort (an almost square stockade) to enclose the spring, cabins, Woods Tavern and Inn and the Universalist Church (of which Joseph Cottle was deacon and most early settlers here were members).

During the War of 1812, as many as 30 families took refuge in Woods Fort. Zadock Woods enlisted in Capt. Nathan (son of Daniel) Boone's Co of U.S. Mounted Rangers in March, 1812 and later fought with Andrew Jackson at the battle of New Orleans. Woods Fort also served as headquarters for Daniel Boone and again for Lt. (later U.S. President) Zachary Taylor in the 1813-14 Indian Raids. Zadock and Minerva and her parents, Joseph and Azubah deeded the township of Troy, Mo. (including Woods Fort and the spring) to the public in Sept. 1819. The community had grown too populated and the cry of the wilderness stirred deeply.

Zadock joined Moses Austin on an early exploration to Texas in 1822 and returned to Missouri. His pioneer spirit ablaze with the promise of a Spanish Land Grant of one league (4,228 acres) and a labor (177 acres on water) in Texas. His married children would be granted the same acreage and smaller grants for single men. By October, 1824, Zadock led a group from Missouri and crossed into Texas by Christmas, 1824. He submitted letters of recommendation from the Governor of Missouri with his character references and Petition for his Spanish Land Grant as a settler in March, 1826. As one of Austin's "Old 300" families, Zadock first acquired land near PLedger, Matagorda Co, TX. Later in May, 1827, he was issued his league and labor ten miles west of present La Grange (near present West Point) in Fayette Co, where he built a second Woods Fort which was almost identical to the one in Missouri. The outside walls were made of bricks which were later covered with boards.

Zadock and Minerva had 5 children: 1. Minerva (born 1798, married William Harrell in Missouri, [had 9 children: Amanda, Sophronia, Milvern, Leander, Emily, Montraville, William Norman, Elizabeth, Maryl), 2. Ardelia (born 21 Feb. 1804, MO. died infant); 3. Norman B. (born 13 Oct 1805, married Jane Boyd Wells August, 1831, [had: Ardelia (born 1834 married A. Glimp), Sarah Boyd and Cordelia Minerva (born 11 Feb 1835); Caroline (born 1838, married A. Brown); Martin; Susan (born 1840 married Tobe Brantley], died a prisoner of war, Perote Castle Prison, Mexico; buried in Castle Moat; 4. Montraville (born 17 Nov 1808, married June, 1826, Isabella (Hidalgo) Gonzales (born 2 July 1812, daughter of Spanish Dignitary (Don) Francisco (Hidalgo) Gonzales and his wife, (Donna) Procopia (Hidalgo) Valdes; [had: Mary (born 1828); Minerva (born 1832); Amanda (born 1833, married A. Brown); Madalena (born 17 July 1836, married Sylvanus Brown); Sophronia (born 1838); Mary Ann (born 1841); Isabella (born 1842); Malinda (born 1844); Susan (born 1846); Montraville Zadock (born 1847, married Ann Anderson); Margaret Eliza (born 21 Jan 1849, married Jesus Gonzales); and Emma Ardelia (born 27 Dec 1851, married William Hartman)]; 5. Henry Gonzalvo (born 18 Feb 1816, married after brother Norman's death, Jane Boyd Wells Woods [and had: Henry (born 1846); Norman (born 1848); and Minerva (born 1850)]; and finally, Leander (born 1809, died at the Battle of Velasco, June, 1832).

Woods Fort became shelter to neighboring families during the early Indian troubles and again when Texas declared independence from Mexico in March, 1836 as family tradition states that while Zadock, Norman and Henry were with the Texas Army that Montraville had remained to care for their invalid mother, his family and other families which had taken refuge there from the approaching Mexican army.

Minerva Cottle Woods died on 18 March 1839 and was buried in Woods Prairie Cemetery, West Point, Republic of Texas.

Although Texas won independence from Mexico in 1836, Santa Ana swore to regain Texas and in September, 1842 Mexican General Woll entered San Antonio with troops, taking prisoners, including John L. Smith. The Texans quickly responded with Col. Caldwell's army taking their position at Salado Creek near San Antonio. Zadock insisted on defending his beloved Republic of Texas and rode with his sons, Henry and Norman, and grandsons, Milvern Harrell and John Wesley Pendelton. They joined Capt. Nicolas Dawson and the men of Fayette Co., as they traveled toward San Antonio to join the Texas Army. Early on Sunday, 18 Sept 1842 (Zadock's 69th birthday), on Salado Creek, Capt. Dawson decided to retreat since he could not locate the Texian troops; however, he gave the order to advance after "Zadock Woods, oldest member of the band, voiced the prevailing sentiments: We have marched a long way to meet the Mexicans, and I do not intend to return without meeting them. I would rather die than retreat." Surrounded by the retreating Mexican army, they were fired upon by the Mexican cannons until they tried to surrender; however, the angry and defeated Mexicans took their revenge on these helpless Texans. Zadock tried to go to the aid of his wounded son, Norman but a bullet caught him and he fell dead over Norman's body. Henry made his way to their sides where Norman begged him to try to escape and to care for Jane and the children. Henry escaped after taking a lance from a Mexican soldier and killing him with it. He used his horse to make good his escape. However, Norman was taken prisoner of war with Milvern Harrell and they were cruelly marched to Perote Castle Prison near Mexico City where Norman died in December, 1843. As promised, Henry married Jane and cared for the children. In 1848, Zadock and the other Dawson mens' remains were moved to La Grange and buried. In 1856, both Montraville and Henry Gonzalvo Woods moved their families to De Witt Co., Texas.

WULF, HERMANN AND ELISE (KOOPMANN)

Hermann and Elise (Koopmann) Wulf, December 12, 1893, wedding day

The Statue of Liberty greeted him a she had welcomed many of his fellow countrymen before him as he entered the port of New York City in May of 1891. Exactly why he chose to leave his native country is not known; we can only speculate what prompted Anton Heinrich Hermann Wulf, at the age of 25, to board ship and journey to America.

Anton Heinrich Hermann Wulf, known simply as Hermann, was born Jan. 29, 1866 to Hinrich Wilhelm Wulf and his wife Anna Margarethe Helene (Junge) Wulf in Esenham Oldenburg Germany. He was baptized on April 2, 1866 in the Evangelical Lutheran Parish of Abbehausen.

Hermann was the fifth and final child of Hinrich and Anna. Of Hermann's four siblings, two brothers and two sisters, only his brother Karl Anton Cornelius (10/2/1863 – 7/16/1882) was home to greet little Hermann. His oldest brother, Johann Heinrich Cornelius (11/6/1858 – 1/18/1859) and his oldest sister, Bertha Sophie Henricka (1/19/1860 – 10/1/1861) both died before their second birthdays. Another sister was stillborn in July of 1862.

Details of Hermann's life in Germany are sketchy. His father Hinrich died on June 20, 1879 when Hermann was only 13 years old. At age 14, he was confirmed in the Lutheran faith on March 21, 1880 at Abbehausen. On July 16, 1882, Hermann's brother, Karl, died. Five years later, the only surviving member of his family, his mother Anna, passed away on August 7, 1887.

At age 21, Hermann found himself facing the future alone. His entire family was gone and his life in Germany must have seemed uncertain. Whether it was the loss of his family, the economic conditions of Germany or perhaps encouraging news from friends already in America, at some point Hermann decided to emigrate. He obtained a travel pass from the Grandducy of Oldenburg and traveled alone to America, arriving in May of 1891.

Hermann wasted no time once he arrived in America. By December 3, 1891, he had relocated from New York to the Lavaca Co. area of Texas and had applied for citizenship by filing a record of intention in the District Court of Lavaca Co. Hermann remained in Lavaca Co. where he met his future wife Theodore Elise Koopman. Elise the daughter of Eilert Hinrich Christoph Koopmann and Agathe Elise (Wiegmann) Koopmann, was born July 28, 1871 in Abbehausen Oldenburg, Germany. Elise, her parents and her siblings, Hinrich Anton, Carl Anton, Bertha Johanne Auguste, Johann Hinrich and Wilhelm Hinrich emigrated to America in 1882. Elise was confirmed into the Lutheran faith on April 3, 1887 in Lavaca Co. Tx.

Hermann and Elise were married on Dec. 12, 1893 in Charlottenburg Lavaca Co. Tx. in the Charlottenburg Lutheran Church. Their attendants were Heinrich and Anton Koopmann and Minna and Emma Stindt.

By 1897, the Wulfs had moved to Garfield, a farming community in DeWitt Co. Tx. Here Hermann and Elise developed and expanded their farming and ranching interests. Hermann was granted citizenship on May 29, 1899 in the District court of DeWitt Co. Tx.

Five children were born to Hermann and Elise. The two oldest were daughters, Ida Elise Johanne Wulf (Weischwill) born Sept. 21, 1894 in Charlottenburg and Agnes Bertha Minna Wulf (Warling) born April 2, 1897 in DeWitt Co. The daughters were followed by three sons, Wilhelm Heinrich Elimar on August 31, 1898, August Heinrich on Feb. 22, 1900 and Hermann Johann Alvin on Oct. 2, 1901.

On Saturday, July 10, 1915, tragedy struck the Wulf household. On that day, Hermann was hauling lumber to his farm when his team became frightened and ran away and Hermann sustained a small wound on his left leg, which was not thought to be serious at the time. However, blood poisoning set in and in an effort to save his life, an operation was performed at the Allen Hospital, Monday, July 19, his left leg being amputated above the knee. Despite the surgery Hermann died the next day, July 20, 1915 at the age of 49. The funeral took place on Wed., July 21, at 9:00 a.m. Interment was made in the Westside Cemetery in Yorktown, Tx. Hermann was buried under the auspices of the Hermann Sons being that he was a member of the Turner Lodge of Gruenau.

Elise Koopman Wulf never married. With the help of her family, she raised her children and continued farming and ranching. Theodore Elise Koopman Wulf died on Jan. 8, 1948 in Cuero, Tx. She was buried beside her husband on Jan. 9, 1948.

WULF, HERMANN AND ERNA (HENGST)

Hermann and Erna (Hengst) Wulf December 18, 1924 wedding day

Hermann Johann Alvin Wulf was born October 2, 1901 in the Garfield community of DeWitt Co., Tx. Hermann was the youngest child of Anton Heinrich Hermann Wulf (1/29/1866 – 7/20/1915) and Theodore Elise (Koopmann) Wulf (7/28/1871 – 1/8/1948). Hermann was baptized on Feb. 23, 1902 by Rev. J.K. Poch in the St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown. Tx.

Hermann grew up in the Garfield community on the family farm. Hermann and his brothers Henry and William and sisters Ida (Weischwill) and Agnes (Warling) worked on the farm and attended both the local school and Lutheran church. Their social life centered around neighborhood events such as dances, feasts, birthday parties and Sunday visits with family friends such as the Blocks, Meischens, Hengsts, Bruns and Koopmanns.

On July 10, 1915, tragedy struck young Hermann and his family. Hermann was merely 13 years old when his father, Anton Heinrich Hermann, died as the result of an accident on the family farm. After the sudden death of their father and husband, the family regrouped and mother Elise assumed the duties of raising the children and attending to the family business of farming and ranching.

On April 24, 1916, Hermann was confirmed into the Lutheran faith by Rev. Poch in the St. Peter Lutheran Church in Garfield.

When Hermann was still a young man, he became acquainted with Miss Erna Hengst, the daughter of Alvin and Mary (Wild) Hengst. After courting Erna, Hermann proposed and the young couple were married on Dec. 18, 1924 in the St. Paul Lutheran Church in Yorktown by Rev. E.A. Sagebiel. The newly weds took up residence in Garfield on 119 acres owned by Hermann's mother. In Dec. of 1927, Hermann's mother, Elise, deeded this 119 acres to Hermann as an advancement of her estate. Hermann and Erna lived on this property for 53 years before moving to Yorktown in 1977.

Herman farmed his entire life. He raised cotton, corn and grazer; he operated a small dairy with the help of his wife and children. While in Garfield, Hermann was a member of the Garfield Shooting Club and sold tickets at many of the dances held in the hall. Erna was a member of the Garfield Home Demonstration Club.

Five children were born to Hermann and Erna: Ewald Hermann Oct. 17, 1926, Irene Mary July 15, 1928, Junell Elise (Lincke) May 7, 1930, Milton Willie Sept. 11, 1932 and Dianna Kay (Fudge) Aug. 1, 1945.

Hermann and Erna celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at the Garfield Hall in 1964. Ten years later they returned to that very same hall to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on December 21, 1974 with a party hosted by their five children.

In November of 1977, Hermann and Erna moved to Yorktown where they resided on Church St. They remained in Yorktown until Hermann's death on January 4, 1986 and Erna's death on Feb. 27, 1987. Both were laid to rest in the Westside Cemetery in Yorktown, Tx.

WURSTER - SAGER FAMILY

When Texas Was Brand New

In Germany's Swabian Alps, in the State of Wuerttemburg, there lies a village, Dettingen an der Erms, near the mercantile city of Bad Urach.

In the mid-19th century, two families grew together in the village, but the call of God to missionary work on the frontier of America broke up the closeness. Christoph Adam Sager wanted to be a missionary among the American Indians, but became instead a pastor to German immigrants in the South of Texas. In 1850 the Sager family emigrated to America, to De Witt County, Texas.

For young Friderica Elisabetha, the good pastor's younger sister, it meant leaving behind her boyfriend, Jacob Wurster. Friderica was born 25 July 1836. Jacob Wurster was born 16 July 1832. After the Sager family sailed, Jacob was apprenticed to a miller.

His parents, Andrew and Elizabeth (Haering) Wurster had five sons. Andrew Jr. was serving as a conscript in the army. He was the second son. Fearing the other boys, Samuel, Jacob, John, and Christopher, would be called to military duty, Andrew Sr. one day told Elizabeth, "I didn't raise my boys to be soldiers. We're going to America!"

Jacob received the news one day in 1852 at his place of apprenticeship. He set out on foot to join the family at the port of embarkation after the miller gave him his pay and a watch. Enroute to the port, Jacob stopped at an inn, put the watch and money in his boots, and was lulled to sleep by the ticking. He awoke in the middle of the night when the ticking no longer sounded. His watch and money had been stolen! With the help of the innkeeper, Jacob recovered his property from the thief, who became a little worse for wear in the recovery process, and caught the ship to America with only minutes to spare.

The Wurster family arrived in Jo Daviess County in northwestern Illinois in 1852, and built a log cabin. They were 1500 miles away from the Sager family in De Witt County. Travel was rugged. Railroads were just beginning to cross the state, reaching tentatively westward from Chicago, 180 miles to the east. Telegraph had not really developed yet; the stagecoach and the Mississippi River's steam packets were just about the only way to go.

Yet, there must have been some method of communication — probably very slow mails via Government post roads — for in 1854, Jacob built a flatboat, fashioned some long poles, loaded the produce of the Wurster family farm into the boat, and leaving the log cabin, poled his way down the Great River to New Orleans. There he sold the produce and the boat. The boat probably became a house in the French Quarter; the produce provided funds for Jacob to team up with a group hauling supplies to Texas. (Oral tradition says "he rode with a Mexican hauling supplies up into Texas.")

Jacob made a beeline direct to Arneckeville, or perhaps Meyersville, or one of the German settlements in South Texas, where Pastor Christoph Adam Sager was serving the religious needs of the German settlers. He was now 22 and Friderica was 18. Friderica's brother soon married Jacob and Friderica, and Jacob in 1856 took his bride home to meet the family in northwestern Illinois. It was the last she would ever see of her Texas family.

In November, 1857, a daughter, Caroline Louise, was born to the happy couple, followed by another daughter Frederica, in 1860.

America was soon at war with itself — just the thing the Wursters and Sagers fled Europe to avoid. Friderica's twin brothers Peter and Michael entered the Lost Cause on the side of the Confederacy. Peter became a private in the 4th Texas Cavalry, Co. C., CSA; Michael went into the 4th Texas, Co. D. They were both prisoners of war at Donaldsonville, Louisiana, and were exchanged at Red River Landing. The rejoined their units. Michael returned home to die in 1915; Peter remains missing in action.

Friderica was again pregnant in 1862. She was filled with worry for her family a thousand miles away, unable to communicate with them, probably very homesick, wondering about her brothers on the other side. Son Edward was born to Jacob and Friderica in 1862. He died in infancy. Medical science at the time dictated a new mother was to stay in bed and rest for a long time from the ordeal of childbirth. Because of this, Friderica contracted "milk-leg," a painful swelling caused by inflammation and clotting in the veins.

Jacob placed Friderica in the State Mental Hospital in downstate Jacksonville, Illinois, on 12 November 1862. Barely two weeks later, on 25 November 1862, she died there.

The 30-year-old widower returned home to Derinda Center, Jo Daviess County, to mourn his loss with the two daughters, Caroline, age 5, and Frederica, age 2.

Within the year, Jacob married again. His second wife, Barbara Baetz from Schweinfurt, Germany, took the two daughters to her bosom, and gave Jacob six more children before he became a pioneer again, traveling by covered wagon to Kansas in 1878, after Caroline's marriage to John Gass in Savanna, Illinois (Carroll County), in 1877. In Kansas, Jacob and Barbara lived in a dugout (sodhouse) and became happy parents of four more children, the last of whom died in 1983, fully 151 years after her father's birth.

They must have been remarkable people, to train their children Caroline and Frederica to maintain family contacts through the years. Both daughters wrote often to their Texas grandparents, aunts and uncles and cousins in the Sager family in South Texas. Caroline was the wife of a prosperous Carroll County farmer, and bore him eight children, the youngest daughter of whom became my mother, imbued with the knowledge that to maintain family contact, correspondence was the key. Mary Cecelia Gass, granddaughter of Friderica and Jacob, wrote for her mother, and continued the correspondence after her mother's death. Letters were exchanged at Christmas, at Easter, when a child was born, when an old person died. The language changed in the letters from the German of Grandmother Gass to the American English of the Sagers and the Koehlers and the Neubauers. Frederica Wurster, their other daughter, married Edward Sheldon, an early Smith Center, Kansas, banker, who moved his family to upstate New York.

Jacob Wurster died 4 April 1923, 61 years after his bride from De Witt County. Caroline, the first born daughter of Jacob and Friderica, died in 1934: Frederica died in 1949. The correspondence continued into the 1970's when the third and fourth generations in Texas, Illinois, Kansas, and New York slowly gave into the demands and pressures of modern living, and the old people who knew and

Mary Gass Neubauer, granddaughter of Jacob and Friderica (Sager) Wurster, died in

After her death, an amazing discovery was made. Mary had saved correspondence with just about the whole family. Jacob's daughterin-law Florence Sellers Wurster had recorded just about everything her father-in-law told her, and forty years later wrote these memories to her step-niece, Mary Gass Neubauer. After Mary's death, the records were discovered and a historian/genealogist's search for roots produced more information.

Through the courtesy of then-Mayor Ben E. Prause, of the City of Cuero, contact was reestablished with the Sager family in Texas.

In 1988, Jacob and Friderica's great-grandson flew home to Texas in two hours' time, contrasting with the month or more of travel his great-grandparents endured when they came north about 132 years earlier.

The emotional meeting at the Sager family in Arneckeville reunited the family, split by time and distance, but united in their love for one another, a love maintained through the years by correspondence. The third and fourth cousins in Texas remembered the Wursters, the Gasses, and the Neubauers.

Photographs and handshakes and hugs were exchanged at a Texas barbecue, in a Texas summer in the shade of live oak trees.

There are more than a hundred descendants of Jacob and Friderica who congratulate the De Witt County Historical Commission on this book project. We are proud to be hereditary Texans, and our history - the saga of Friderica Sager and Jacob Wurster - is the stuff of American history. It almost reads like a script for a TV mini-series!

WYATT, ALVIN E. FAMILY

Prior to moving to Cuero in 1941 to operate Wyatt Hatchery and Feed Store, both Alvin Earl Wyatt and his wife, Frankie B. DuBose Wyatt, had spent their lives in Gonzales County, Texas. Alvin was born at Harwood. Texas on June 15, 1902, to John Preston Wyatt (1856-1925) and Frances Myrtle Hubbard Wyatt (1866-1939). After farming and cattle ranching until 1932, he began selling pedigreed cotton seed to area farmers. By 1939, he had become District Sales Manager for the H. Conrad Company, producer of purebred seeds at Martindale, Texas.

Frankie was born on January 27, 1903, to Charles Lawrence DuBose (1864-1930) and Tilda Anna Leber DuBose (1877-1969), at Hamon where she grew up on their cattle ranch. She graduated after ten years of schooling from a small private school that several of the ranching families had established to provide for their children's education. One young lady teacher from Chicago, Illinois not only taught the usual three R's but also taught music, art, and social etiquette. Frankie became an accomplished horse-woman early in her life, often helping her father work cattle. She was one of the first women in her community to put on britches and ride astride instead of sidesaddle. Other young women followed her example as it was almost impossible to work wild cattle in the brush from a sidesaddle.

Alvin and Frankie Wyatt married on December 14, 1926, in Gonzales County. On June 17, 1928, their first child, Earl Franklin Wyatt was born. A daughter, Patsy Ann Wyatt, was born on October 3, 1933, but she died on December 1, 1940, after a lengthy illness. Another daughter was born of this union on August 9, 1940, Georgia Nell Wyatt.

In October 1941, Alvin and Frankie Wyatt opened the Wyatt Hatchery and Feed Store at the northeast corner of Esplanade and Railroad streets in Cuero. After many years of successful operation, the business was sold to Jess Ward in 1954.

After moving to 710 Indianola Street in 1942, the Wyatt family became active in many community activities. Both were tireless workers in the First Baptist Church congregation where Alvin served as a Deacon for many years. In April, 1947, Alvin was elected to the Cuero School Board where he served until 1954. From 1952 to 1954, he was President of the Board. He again was a member of that Board from 1956 until 1966. He was also a director of the Chamber of Commerce and South Texas Livestock Show, and a member of the Lion's Club, Masonic Lodge, and a Shriner. At the time of his death on August 10, 1968, Alvin Wyatt was engaged in cattle ranching and was a sales representative for Southland Life Insurance Company.

ZENGERLE, DANIEL E. AND NORMA K. STURM F1018

Daniel Edward Zengerle was born on October 4, 1921 to Ben J. and Effie Arnold Zengerle in the stone home built by his great-grandfather in 1865 near Arneckeville, Texas.

In the Fall of 1922 his family moved to Cuero and his father went to work in Charlie Schultz's blacksmith shop. Then in 1923 his parents bought the blacksmith shop in Weser and they moved into the farm house next door. By the time Daniel was 10 years old he was already helping in the blacksmith and automobile shop working on Model T's. One of his most cherished highlights and rewards from his father was to take the Model T, with his bench-legged sheppard riding on the running board, to meet the train in Yorktown for freight and supplies. Those were the days when you didn't need a license to drive.

Daniel attended schools in Weser, Meyersville and Goliad. He graduated from Goliad High School in 1939. After graduation he went to work for his father and in 1940 he went to work as a mechanic for Dewitt Motor Company in Yorktown.

On November 12, 1942 he was drafted and spent the majority of his duty in the South Pacific campaign. He served in the Army Air Force's 394th Bombardment Squadron, Thirteenth Air Force. He was involved in the battles and campaigns of the Bismark Archipelago, New Guinea, Eastern Mandates, Southern Philippines, and Central Pacific. he was cited with the Asiatic-Pacific campaign medal with 5 bronze stars, the Air Medal with 4 Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Good Conduct Medal. By the time he received his Honorable Discharge on September 2, 1945 he had attained the rank of Staff Sargeant.

After his discharge, Daniel worked for Weber Motor Company from November 1945 until December 1956 at which time he went to work for Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. He retired from Texas Eastern in December 1985. While working at Weber's he met Norma Katherine Sturm. Norma worked in the office as secretary and bookkeeper for M. Clifton Weber and Mrs. Agatha Weber Wagner. They were married on July 19, 1954 in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Cuero by Fr. William Jansen.

ZENGERLE, EDUARD LOUIS

Eduard Louis Zengerle, a long-time resident of DeWitt County, was born September 13, 1859 in Alsace, France. He was the son of Franz Joseph Zongerle and Katharina Haller Wolter. He immigrated with his parents and three step sisters to Texas by way of New Orleans and Galveston when he was just over one year old. They settled in DeWitt County near the community of Arneckeville. On November 10, 1884 he married Elizabeth Weiss. Elizabeth was born in either Switzerland, Prussia or Austria. There is some controversy about just where this took place. Her parents were Joseph Weiss, Sr. and Elizabeth Doneman. She came to the area near Arneckeville in 1871 with her father and two brothers and sisters, her mother having died earlier. Elizabeth often recalled the hardships of her journey to DeWitt County. She spoke longingly of the beautiful home they had left behind only to live in a log cabin. She spoke of how they traveled from the coast on foot through open country. Eduard and Elizabeth had nine children. 1. Eduard L. (Eddie), born August 14, 1884, married Louise Schultz. They had a son, Werner and a daughter, Melonie. 2. Emilie Elizabeth, born March 13, 1889, married Basil Dreyer. They had two sons, Leonard and Victor and three daughters, Helen, Mildred and Alice. 3. Joseph Charles Albert, born November 9, 1890, married Bertha Arnecke. They had two daughters, Emelie and Alberta. After Bertha's death, Albert married Annie Arnecke and they had a son, Joseph. 4. Wilhelm Oscar Berthold, born February 3, 1892, married Sophia Schultz. They had a son, Royal and a daughter, Gladys. 5. Hugo Adolph, born March 3, 1894, married Selma Doehrman. They did not have children. Oswald (Walter) Arthur, born March 28, 1896, married Helen Doehrman. They had one son, Wayne. 7. Bernhard John, born March 24, 1898, married Effie Arnold. They had two sons. Daniel and Bernard. 8. Joseph Francis. born January 3, 1900, died when he was not quite fourteen years of age. 9. Herbert Raymond, born June 20, 1905, married Esther Roessler. They had two daughters, Edith and Marjorie. Eduard purchased his first plot of land at a public auction held on the courthouse steps in January of 1883. He paid $720 for 100 acres of land. When his mother died, he inherited some of his father's land and he purchased some of his sister's shares. So by the year 1915, he had acquired a large amount of land. He had some acreage in the communities of Arneckeville, Green DeWitt and Thomaston. He raised Hereford cattle on many of these properties. He was a farmer and a rancher by occupation. He never held public office or did any great things that got his name recorded in history but he is remembered as a stern and loving father and grandfather, always ready to help his family our of a tough spot. He never failed to take something along when he visited his children, garden produce, wine that he had made or whatever he thought they might like. Elizabeth was a tiny, petite lady but she also had a heart of gold. They raised a large garden, had their own chickens, geese, hogs and cows. They prepared their own bacon, ham, sausage, fruits and vegetables. They had a large orchard of peaches, pears, and grapes. They made many a container of delicious wine that was always served to their guests. One of the highlights of their life together was the celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. An article printed in The Cuero Record relating the events of the day states that they had a large crowd of guests for a barbecue dinner. There were two large cakes, one in gold and one in white. Later in the evening there was a dance held outdoors on a platform built for the occasion. At the time there were eighteen grandchildren and eight great grandchildren present to help celebrate.

Elizabeth died on February 25, 1943. Eduard lived until March 12, 1955. During this time he became bedridden after he lost a leg. He would entertain everyone who came to see him with stories of his life in Texas. Both Euard and Elizabeth are buried in St. Peter and Paul Catholic Cemetery at Meyersville, Texas.

ZENGERLE, FRANZ JOSEPH FAMILY

"Life can be very sweet but also very cruel," best describes the life of Katharina Haller Walter Zengerle, my great-grandmother. She was born Feb. 23, 1826 to Louis Haller and his wife, Marie Rose Gruenenwald in Fellering, Haut-Rhin, in the upper Thur Valley of Alsace in France. The Hallers could trace their family to the early 1628's without interruption. Her mother was the daughter of a well known family, the Jean Baptiste Gruenenwalds of Kruth, a village a few miles north of Fellering. Katharina had a normal childhood doing the things all girls of her time usually enjoyed.

On April 6, 1850, she married handsome Andre Walter of Oderen. He was the son of Andri Walter and Anni Marie Horny. They settled in Fellering and four daughters were born to them: Catherine on Oct. 17, 1851; Mary Ana on March 23, 1852; Justina on Feb. 10, 1854; and Therese on Jan. 21, 1857. This happy family was devastated less than seven years after their marriage by the death of Andre on Jan. 21, 1857. Katharina was left to support four tiny daughters.

However, on Jan. 30, 1858, she married Franz Joseph Zengerle, son of Johann Pete Zengerle and Theresa Schneider. Franz Joseph was from Wesserling, a neighboring village. Born Nov. 21, 1831, he was a mason by trade. He was a very kind and gentle man who loved Katharina and her little daughters and was willing to make a good home for them.

This happiness was short lived, for on Feb. 12, 1859, little Therese died. On Sept. 13, 1859 Katharina presented Franz Joseph with his first born son, Edward Louis, later to be known as "Ed." This helped ease the sorrow of losing little Therese.

Things were not going well in Alsace and the surrounding area. The country was torn by war after war and the great industrial revolution and it certainly was becoming harder to earn a good living. The Alsatian population was growing to the point of overpopulation particularly in the villages and countryside. The people were reduced to poverty and could no longer survive on such little plots of land and had to work also. Many of the Zengerle family and friends had emigrated to America, especially to Texas. Some had gone to Castroville and others to Meyersville.

About this time Peter Bluntzer, one of the first to emigrate, returned to Alsace urging families to come to Texas and share the wonderful opportunities. Franz Joseph and Katharina decided to take their family and seek a new life. So, on Oct. 6, 1860 they sailed from Le Havre on the American vessel, SS Pequot. They arrived in New Orleans on Dec. 13, 1860. Here, they encountered a completely different, flat country and really wondered if they had made a big mistake. From here the family traveled by smaller ship to Texas and then by walking and ox cart to Meyersville, arriving there on Christmas Eve 1860.

Due to the long, hard journey, Katharina lost an expected child. This caused much sorrow. However, there were other hardships facing them, particularly the Civil War.

The Zengerle family did purchase land near Arneckeville and began to clear it. Franz Joseph being a mason by trade, began building a house for his family. This project was interrupted by the Civil War, for in June 1861, he was serving in the Confederate Army of his new country. He was a private in the Coletto Guards under Capt. Robert Kleberg, and later he served under Capt. John J. Schiwitz.

In the latter part of 1862, he again worked on the house, which consisted of a large basement and two big rooms. Rocks were secured from the creek which was nearby. All rafters, pins and beams were hewn by hand from wood by Franz Joseph. The walls were patterned after Alsatian houses and were 14 inches thick.

The basement gave much protection to the family, especially when Franz Joseph was away and during incidental Indian attacks. In fact, it was here where my grandmother, the youngest child of the family was born. She was named Alice Ann. Alice, for her godmother to be, Alice Golly; Ann, for the mother of the Blessed Virgin, the mother of Jesus. It was her father, Franz Joseph, who wanted her named Ann because of his great devotion to St. Ann. However, she was always called Anna or Annie.

It took several years to fully complete the house. Much work and love went into its building. Some of the stones used were very choice and large; especially the ones used for the fireplace and mantle. It took five men to carry them and put them in place. When finished, it was very comfortable and the family was very happy.

While the house was being built, a variety of crops had to be planted. Farm animals were obtained and given care as they were very important in a time of no tractors or automobiles. Big gardens were essential and in the summer canning of fruit and vegetables took place. In winter fat hogs were butchered for meat, bacon and sausage. There were always lots of chores.

The family also increased. Joseph was born Jan. 9, 1861; Rosalina on March 14, 1863; Carolina on Sept. 10, 1865; Louis on Aug. 24, 1867; and Alice Ann on Sept. 5, 1871.

Things were really looking up. On Nov. 26, 1867, Franz Joseph became a naturalized citizen. The family felt like Texans and real Americans. On Sept. 29, 1868, Catherine married Sixtus Bluntzer, youngest son of the Colonizer, Peter Bluntzer and his wife Theresa Jacob. On April 6, 1874 Mary Ana married Francis Xavier Fuchs and on Nov. 30, 1876, Justina married Erasmus Horny.

The family attended the Sts. Peter & Paul Catholic Church in Meyersville. The younger children grew and learned all about life in their new country and state, Texas, and some of the things of the old country of Alsace. On Nov. 10, 1884, their oldest son, Ed, married Elizabeth "Lizzie" Weiss. They made their home in Arneckeville. But, on Nov. 17, 1886, Joseph, the second son, died, and on Sept. 10, 1891 their daughter, Carolina died. Both were buried in the Catholic Cemetery in Meyersville.

Life must go on and it did have happy times. On Oct. 22, 1890, Alice Ann married Edward Paul "Ed" Wilhelm; Rosalina married Joseph Dentler on Dec. 7, 1892; and Louis married Melanie Eicholtz on Nov. 6 1893. Grandchildren were being born and life was getting much easier. Franz Joseph and Katharina knew that they had made the right choice in coming to Texas.

But, on Sept. 13, 1896, Katharina's beloved Franz Joseph died. Her sorrow was great. At his funeral he was eulogized as a quiet, diligent, gentle man. A good hard working farmer, one who loved his family very much and was always willing to help others in need. Never one to seek fame, but always ready to carry his share of responsibility in the community. Never a really wealthy man, but an excellent provider and a loving and caring father and husband. He was buried in the Catholic Cemetery in Meyersville.

In 1898 Louis died, and on Jan. 1, 1900 Rosalina died. This was almost too much for Katharina. Nearing 75 years of age, she was a wife who had lost two loving husbands, and a mother who had lost five children. She lived in a little log type house adjacent to her oldest son and enjoyed his family and the laughter of the grandchildren. On Aug. 7, 1900, God called her home, and she, too, was buried in the Catholic Cemetery in Meyersville.

Katharina was a wonderful woman — a woman of courage, love and fortitude. She was a person who was willing to sacrifice for freedom; a mother who loved and cherished her children so much that she would face the unknown in order to give them a better life.

It would have made her very happy to know that the other children lived long and productive lives. Catherine died Oct. 23, 1908; Mary Ana, July 13, 1925; and Justina, Dec. 24, 1935; Ed on March 12, 1955, well into his late nineties; and Alice Ann on Jan. 10, 1966, also well into her middle nineties. These children surely reaped the harvest of Franz Joseph and Katharina's sacrifices and love.

ZIESE, OTTO BERNHARDT AND MARY ETHEL (COOPER) FAMILY

Otto Bernhardt (Ben) Ziese, third child and first son of eight children born to John F. and Anna (Ahrens) Ziese, was born on the Lutenbacher Ranch in Bee Co. on 3 June 1910. Around Christmas in 1911, the family moved to Choate where Ben finished his schooling, excelling in sports, especially baseball.

He and two cousins, Harry and Henry Sachtleben, set up a farm and horse-breaking business and batched for a while.

On April 7, 1936, he married Mary Ethel Cooper (b) 28 Jan. 1917 in Lawton, Ok., third child of ten born to William Newton and Alice (Hudson) Cooper. They lived with his widowed mother in Choate and then in Kenedy until 1940, when they moved to Floresville. Ben joined the Soil Conservation Service in Floresville and was transferred to Yorktown in March of 1943. He continued with the S.C.S. until 1953 when he resigned to "practice what he preached" on the Dr. Marvin H. Gohlke farm. While farming, he also had time to sideline at the Streiber Bros. Gin and tout the products of Purina-Ralston.

In 1964, after having some health problems, the doctors ordered him off the farm, so he and Ethel bought the "Green Lantern", a restaurant, from Mr. and Mrs. Felton Schroller. There they served "Food we wouldn't be ashamed to serve to guests in our home" to scores of hungry Yorktowners. With Ethel cooking and Ben greeting his friends out front, they continued this business until his fatal heart attack on July 10, 1974. Ethel continued to run the business alone until 1978, when she sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Alexander.

Ben was buried in the Choate Cemetery in the plot adjoining the one where his parents are interred.

Ben and Ethel were blessed with three children: 1) Linda Joe (b) 11 Jan. 1937, married O'Dell Rabke Sr. (children) Carol, Robert, Melody, O'Dell Jr., Sandra, and Raymond; 2) John Fredrick (b) 1 Sept. 1942, married Mrs. Ada Joyce Ashby Lee, (children) Rachel, Shannon, and Laura; 3) Jerry Allen (b) 23 Jan. 1944, married Mrs. Nancylee Hansen Benson (children) Gail.

Ben was a friend to all and laid out most of the terrace lines around Yorktown. He loved his family, his town, sports, people, a good joke and little children.

ZIMMERMAN, O.A. FAMILY

F1023

O.A. Zimmerman of Lincoln, Texas moved to Cuero in 1925 to coach football and baseball. He spent the next twenty-five years with the Cuero Independent School District, moving from coach to principal to school superintendent. His favorite sport was baseball, but he encouraged his children and grandchildren to play tennis. (They continue to be involved in that sport.) He and his wife, Cleo Moran Zimmerman, of Salado, Texas were math teachers. They believed very strongly that every child deserved a good education.

After he retired, they established the Zimmerman Insurance Agency and accounting service. This business was begun in 1950 and continued until it was sold in 1971. O.A. Zimmerman died in 1978.

John Arthur Zimmerman (1934) is married to Joyce Towery Zimmerman (1935). They continue to play tennis and are involved in local and national tennis associations. Their daughters and families play for recreation. They are: Elizabeth Ann, married to Scott Kucera and their daughters, Kimberly and Katherine (Katie) of Corpus Christi, Texas; Janet Carol married to Jonathan Simmons and son, Sean of Austin, Texas, and Joy Zimmerman of Dallas, Texas. Charlotte Ann Zimmerman (1942) is married to Paul A. Busch (1941). Their son, Donald A. Busch is a college student. Their daughter, Kristen, is on the high school tennis team. Her mother, Charlotte, does her share of transporting and watching the little white ball. They live in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Stories and memories, much too numerous to list here, are left for individuals to recall. As the years go by many stories get taller, become more inclusive, and cover a wider span of time, and become more enjoyable as they pass from generation to generation.

However, there is one story that should be told. Before Pearl Harbor, there was quite a housing shortage in Cuero, because of the personnel at Brayton Flying School. Many families lived in very crowded conditions. So, in 1941, J.D. Bramlette built two small houses on French Street. He intended to live in the larger of the two and rent the other. By the time the smaller house was finished and the other one rented, it was December 7, 1941, and the whole country was at war.

J.D. knew that he would be involved in the war; so he persuaded the O.A. Zimmermans to buy the small house. Part of his argument was that he did not want Merle Rose (Fischer Bramlette) to have to be responsible for rent property. He also wanted her to have good neighbors to look after her while he was away at war. His power of persuasion was so great that the Zimmermans bought a house though it was too small for them to begin with. However, the price was right — $3,727.50 — which was the exact cost — and they bought it.

The Zimmermans moved to 308 East French in January of 1942. A short while later the Bramlettes moved to 304 East French, and James DeWitt Bramlette went away to war.

Soon after the war was over, both houses were enlarged to fit the growing families which occupied them. Today Merle Bramlette and Cleo Zimmerman live side by side on East French street as they have for nearly fifty years. J.D. Bramlette and O.A. Zimmerman are both deceased.
