GTHS 2004 ANNUAL MEETING TOUR SITES

BETHLEHEM LUTHERAN CHURCH AND CEMETERY Although the Lutheran congregation in Round Top began in 1853, this building was not started until 1866. Carl Sigismund Bauer was the stonemason. Stone was quarried from the hill on which it stands, and cedar was hewn from trees in the neighborhood for the interiors. Johann Traugott Wantke built the original pews and native cedar pipe organ by hand in his nearby shop. There are no metal parts in the organ, as even the screws are of hand-turned cedar. This organ, the second of seven built here by Traugott, received a citation from the Organ Historical Society as being "an instrument of exceptional historical merit." His first pipe organ (and the first organ ever built in Texas) is on display in the Edythe Bates Old Chapel at Festival Hill. It was a special gift to The Festival-Institute from world-renowned organ designer and builder, the late Otto Hoffmann, who was also a long-time member of GTHS. The heirs of Johann Scheige had inherited this little organ, and it eventually passed from their possession until rediscovered (in 21 boxes) by Hoffmann on the front porch of a ranch house in Uvalde. The Bethlehem Lutheran Church pipe organ still plays beautifully in the oldest active Lutheran church in the state.

ROUND TOP CHILDREN'S LIBRARY The Hope Lutheran Church was built in 1925 in Buckholts, Texas (Milam County) by immigrant pioneer German families. After constructing a new church, this building was sold in 1975 to a farmer who boarded it and used it for storage. It was purchased by the Children's Library and moved to Round Top in 2001. The entire interior is sheathed in differing patterns of pressed tin. Some of the painted glass windows are original. Sterling and Marianne McCall generously paid for the purchase, move and renovation of this building. On May 3, 2003 the finished building was dedicated and today houses the Round Top Library (a lending library), and the Bybee Texas Heritage Collection (focused on local history, Texas history and folklore, and Texas furniture, decorative arts and architecture). Be sure to see the porcelain collection of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, one of only two complete sets in existence, and made in Germany.

HENKEL SQUARE MUSEUM VILLAGE Henkel Square is recognized nationally as an authentic restoration of German-American and Anglo-American 19th century architecture. Round Top's first settlers belonged to Stephen F. Austin's original band of colonists in the early 1820's. Thirty years later, a wave of educated and cultured German immigrants came in search of land and water and Round Top became a German-Texan community. The Pioneer Arts Foundation was created in 1968 by Faith and Charles Bybee to collect, preserve, and exhibit the arts and artifacts, antiques, tools, and buildings characteristic of the German-Texan culture that flourished in the Round Top area in the 19th century. Henkel Square was created to provide a home for these treasures and serves to preserve and perpetuate an authentic representation of local Texas life as it was in that time period. Three of the Henkel Square structures stand where their owners built them originally and most of the others came from no further than 15 miles away.

FESTIVAL HILL The home of the International Festival-Institute at Round Top, which was founded in 1971 by world-renowned concert pianist James Dick, has developed into a unique 200-acre campus containing major performance facilities, historic houses, extensive gardens, parks and nature preserves. Through its singular collection of rare books, manuscripts, archival material, music and historic recordings, photographs and objects, the Festival-Institute is also known as an important center for research and scholarly study. In 1981, work began on the 1100 seat Concert Hall, the focus of the campus and the site of nearly 800 concerts, many performed before the building included air conditioning or even a roof. Today, the hall approaches completion and work centers on the beautifully handcrafted interiors of this unique building. Visitors are greeted on the hall's west side by gardens and a nearby fountain, and once inside are reminded of similar European structures by the glowing woodwork, grand staircases, handcrafted chandeliers and keen attention to detail inherent in the design.

GTHS 2004 ANNUAL MEETING SPEAKERS

KATHY BRUNE CARTER is a native of Sealy, Texas and of German and Czech descent. Although she speaks neither language, she remembers family members speaking them fluently. She recalls that both her grandmothers were great cooks. Her Grandmother Brune's specialties were sugar cookies and hog's headcheese, while her Grandmother Lux excelled at homemade butter bread and "incredible" coffee cake. Kathy has been married to Mark Carter since 1979 and they have one daughter, Kristin, who will be a senior at Sam Houston State University in the fall of 2004. Mark's family has lived in Fayette County since the 1850's. Kathy began her career at the Fayette County Library, Museum & Archives in 1982 and has served as facility director since 1989. During those years, the Library and Museum Archives have garnered statewide recognition for its programming and exhibits. Kathy has also served as the Fayette County Historical Commission chairman for 12 years.

ELIZABETH "LIZ" NITSCHKE HICKS is originally from Austin, Texas, and is a descendant of pioneer Germans of Travis and Austin Counties. Liz is the genealogy editor for the German-Texan Heritage Society. She is also presently serving as President of Clayton Library Friends. Liz is the creator and manager of the "Angel" program for Clayton Library Friends. She has written several articles on genealogy: "The Southern Claims Commission", "Bodies In Transit", "Georgia Salt Rolls", "The Yellow Book of Funeral Directors" to name a few. Liz is a past contributing editor for "Tree Talk" the publication of the Cherokee County [TX] Genealogical Society. One of Liz's greatest genealogical "finds" was discovering her great grandfather, Karl Ludwig Nitschke, was a participant in the German Revolution of 1848. He was also a trustee of the German Free School.

H. H. "PANCHO" HOWZE is the Curator of Collections at Winedale, a division of The University of Texas at Austin Center for American History. Winedale is a complex of 19th century structures and modern facilities situated on 225 acres near Round Top. Winedale's main mission is to foster an understanding of Texas history and culture. The heart of Winedale is its historic buildings, owners, and occupants. Winedale derives its name from a German community that existed briefly after 1870 in Washington County. Local farmers cultivated grapes and the post office carried the name Winedale. Sometime after 1881, the village was relocated nearby in Fayette County where it centered around a residence owned by Joseph George Wagner, Sr. The "Wagner House" today is the centerpiece historical structure at Winedale.

WALTER D. KAMPHOEFNER, a 5th generation Missouri-German with roots in the Westfalia-Osnabruock region, earned his PhD. at the University of Missouri-Columbia in 1978 and is Professor of History at Texas A&M University, where he teaches in the fields of immigration, urbanization, and quantitative methods. He has published widely in the field of German-American studies, including a transatlantic tracing study entitled The Westfalians: From Germany to Missouri. (Princeton, 1987). He has co-edited two nationwide anthologies of immigrant letters. The first appeared in English as News from the Land of Freedom: German Immigrants Write Home (Ithaca, 1991); the second, Deutsche im Amerikanischen Burgerkrieg: Briefe von Front und Farm (Paderborn, 2002), includes a half-dozen Texas Germans and is currently being translated with the support of an NEH Grant, with English publication expected in 2005. He has researched widely in Germany and was awarded two Senior Fulbright lectureships at German Universities. Besides his collaborative work on immigrant letters, his research interests include immigrant language, bilingual education, and transatlantic tracing of immigrants to study settlement patterns and social mobility. He is pursuing the latter in a new project, supported by an American Philosophical Society sabbatical fellowship. Dr. Kamphoefner is married to a German native and has two children.

2004 ANNUAL OPERATING FUND DRIVE

Dear German-Texan Heritage Society Member:

Your support of the Society is truly invaluable. Your gift to the Annual Fund Drive will help bridge the gap between annual dues plus Guild-Society fundraising income and our operating expenses.

Our mission of promoting awareness and preserving the German cultural heritage of Texas is served well through our own quarterly Journal, Web site, Schulhaus Reporter, Genealogy Assistance, Maifest, Annual Meeting, Traditional German Christmas Program and Market, Research Library, Adult and Children German Language Classes, Speaker Series, Guest Lectures, Open House Tours, as well as Stammtisch Lunches and Games Night. We look to all of you who are able to give more than annual dues to help keep our programs alive.

Please fill in your pledge at your most generous level below, which range from STUDENT at $25 to CHANCELLOR at $5,000+. And don't forget about your corporate matching programs! We greatly appreciate your support at any level.

Sincerely,

Charles "Chuck" Kalteyer

The 2003 GTHS Operational Fund Drive began June 24, 2003 and concluded on May 11, 2004. We raised $15,450 from 221 donors.

Many thanks to each one of you for your generous financial support.

Rodney C. Koenig of Houston and La Grange

I was born on a farm at O'Quinn/BlackJack, southwest of La Grange, Texas to John and Elva Oeding Koenig and attended Luck Country School, being the sole survivor of my first grade class. Thereafter, I went to and graduated from La Grange High School. The University of Texas on a Navy scholarship was next, and I was a member of the Texas Cowboys and active in the Eulenspiegelverein. After college I served in the Navy and was Chief Engineer on the U.S.S. Braine (DD630) and thereafter served as Assistant Professor of Naval Science at Auburn University. After the Navy, I went to law school at the University of Texas, graduating in 1969 and immediately went to work for Fulbright & Jaworski, a law firm in Houston, Texas, where I still work. I have been a partner with Fulbright & Jaworski since the mid 1970s. I am board certified in Estate Planning and Probate Law and was elected to the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel as well as the International Academy of Estate and Trust law.

I have had several lives, including my Navy life, my musical life, my German heritage life, my church life, my legal life, my foundation life and most importantly, my family life. I have served as President of the Navy League in Houston, as Treasurer of the U.S.S. San Jacinto Committee, on the Battleship Texas Commission and on numerous other Navy Boards. In musical areas, I played with the Ray Baca Orchestra, I sing with the Houston Saengerbund and with Christ the King Lutheran Church and also play trumpet with Christ the King Lutheran Church Brass Choir. I have served as President of Houston Early Music and serve on the Board of the Bach Society as well as on several other church boards, including Texas Lutheran University.

In German matters I have served as President of the German Texas Heritage Society, am a founding director of the Texas German Society, have served as President of German Gulf Coast Association and was fortunate to have received the Bundesverdienstkreuz from the Federal Republic of Germany. I have enjoyed writing a column known as "Leave Your German Mark" for GTHS for about seventeen years. I spoke German as a child on the farm until I started public school at age five. My wife Mary and I still enjoy going to Germany and participating in German events. My son, J. T., was in Germany last fall and speaks German.

In law circles I have spoken widely at various legal seminars and universities and am published in several legal publications. I served as Course Director of the Advanced Estate Planning and Probate Course and as a speaker at a number of advanced courses in my professional area.

In other charitable areas, I serve on the Lutheran Foundation of the Southwest, on the Crawford and Hattie Jackson Foundation, on the Luck and Loessin Collection Trust, as well as other foundations, and enjoy working with foundations. In my professional life, I have created a number of foundations for clients.

I am married to Mary MacDonald Koenig, who has been a twelfth grade English teacher for many years and have two sons, Erik Koenig, who builds racecar engines, and Jon Todd Koenig, a lawyer who works with Merrill Lynch Trust Company. My wife Mary and I enjoy life in Houston and we also enjoy weekends at Koenigsbruecke, our weekend home just outside of La Grange, near Monument Hill. I am very proud of my German heritage and German language and I plan to continue working to help preserve German heritage and language in Texas.

Dear President Massirer and Board Members:

The family members of John O. Meusebach join me in expressing our deep appreciation to you for selecting him as the German chosen to be honored with a wax statue by Adrienne Rison-Isom this spring. We know there are many other distinguished Germans who have lived in our state and deserve to be recognized. There are no living relatives in the United States with the name of Meusebach, but there are many relatives by other names. Meusebach had three granddaughters who attended the Fredericksburg 150th Anniversary, but they have all died now. Still seven great-grandchildren and a large number of people a generation beyond those are proud of being a Meusebach relative and appreciate his contribution to Texas. Thank you for your recognition of him.

We are pleased with the statue, and having JOM in the living room adds to the fun. Family members enjoy having their picture made with him, and Julia Germany, our splendid director, tells me other people enjoy visiting with him also.

Sincerely,

Marie Marschall Fuller

A Tex-Deutsch Poem

As some of you know, the Society's executive director, Julia Germany, spends as much time as possible underground, exploring and surveying caves. As a caver, she belongs to the NSS (National Speleological Society), the TSA (Texas Speleological Association) and the University of Texas Grotto, and she is a volunteer for the TSS (Texas Speleological Survey). Among its many functions, the TSS maintains a library containing books, references, maps, databases and exchange newsletters, which are all dedicated to speleology or some specific component of speleology such as geology, biology, or cartography.

While volunteering recently at the TSS office, Julia came across the following "Tex-Deutsch" poem, which first appeared in the April 1965 issue of The Texas Caver, and was written by Fern Davis, Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas:

Was ist das?

Das ist ein schpelunker, nein?
Er exploren die sinkenholen.
Er hat einen hugen ball of twine,
Und er hat eine wilden goalen.

Er dresen in sein cover-ups red,
Und hat ein tempermental licht.
(Er sitzen on harden hut on sein head
Und es nicht immer very bricht.)

Er waden through ein freezen pool
Und droppen offen einen ledge.
Er ist namen einen fool
Fuhr ever gehen uber die edge.

Er finden many caven critter
Und scaren hundert batten.
Er crawlen through das guano litter
Until er schmellen ratten.

Er squeezeen through ein crawlway out
Und imergen mit sein gear.
Und all who see him, mit great doubt,
Cry, Ach! Was ist das hier?

A Meeting Place

Hubert Heinen, GFSG President

When discussing the recruitment and retention of members, several GFSG board members suggested small-group meetings (a Kaffeeklatsch, a pot-luck picnic) with members, friends, and neighbors. This is something that interested GTHS members all across the state might want to initiate. If you would like to invite members near you and their friends to drop by and shoot the breeze, discuss common concerns, just get to know each other, let us know and we can help you locate others in your general area. A brief program (German customs, a bit of local history, some German songs) might be fun, but it's perfectly all right to just get together and chat (in English or in German).

Our mission is outreach (disseminating information about and awareness of the German-Texan heritage), and the German Free School is a focal point for such activities. We regularly schedule Maifest and the Christmas Market. On the third Sunday of most months (or occasionally on a different Sunday) at three in the afternoon we have a lecture or a musical presentation. We also have beginning, intermediate, and advanced adult German instruction, as well as a Samstagsschule (informal German instruction on Saturday mornings) for children from four to fourteen. We have a regular Stammtisch (German conversation group every Thursday noon) and a monthly evening Stammtisch and games night (generally Skat). With the exception of the Skat, and to a lesser extent of the conversation groups, these are somewhat formal events, as is the annual meeting of the GTHS. We have had an occasional group picnic or an Oktoberfest, which are a bit more social, but most of our events stress education and culture rather than social interaction. To an extent, given our charter, that is as it should be, but when thinking in terms of getting and keeping members involved, it is well to remember the adage that one can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar.

Let me highlight one upcoming event that wraps up themes from both of the paragraphs above. Wednesday, 6 October 2004, is the national German-American Day. At the German Free School we will be having (starting at 6:00 pm) a potluck supper (bring food, beverages, chairs, picnic tables, fellow German-Texans, Germans in Texas, friends with an interest in things German) with German games, a German sing-along, conviviality. In German: ein gemütliches Beisammensein. When I talk about GTHS, some of the people I speak to say: "Oh, but I can't speak German." Remember: "Texan spoken here."

We have consistently advertised cultural events (concerts, German films, plays, poetry readings); we are working on broadening this approach. For instance, we want more and more to let our members know what other German and German-Texan groups are doing across the state. Our web page and the GFSG newsletter (the "Schulhaus Reporter") have or will soon give notice of activities (not just special concerts, but also dances and picnics) of the Austin Sängerrunde. We want to encourage our members to join the Texas German Society (the GTHS and the TGS are planning another joint meeting on 12 March 2005). If you belong to a "German" group or your church or other organization is sponsoring a German or German-Texan related talk, dance, or concert, please let us know as far in advance as possible and we will post a notice on our web page and announce it, if possible, in the Journal. You've seen reports of family reunions in the Journal; keep the reports coming. With enough leadtime, you could also announce an upcoming family reunion; who knows, one of our members may know your long-lost cousin Minetta.

GERMAN FREE SCHOOL GUILD MINUTES TUESDAY, JULY 13, 2004

(unapproved)

The Meeting of the GFSG Board of Directors was called to order by President Hubert Heinen at 9:40 AM. Members present were: Hubert Heinen, Wing Evans, Barbara Evans, Christa Rábago, Siegi Keimling, Julia Germany, Chuck Kalteyer, Rolf Stachowitz, Annette Stachowitz, Gerri West

Secretary: Gerri West

The minutes of the May 11, 2004 meeting were approved with corrections of typographical errors: Samstagsschule (#2) and GTHS correction (#4). Moved/seconded by Wing/Annette.

Executive Director: Julia Germany

1. Current GTHS membership is 883; current GFSG membership is 278. We have lost approximately 140 members from the Guild since last year. Some of them may still be members of GTHS. After verifying numbers with Julia and whether they are still members of GTHS, Siegi Keimling, Membership, will survey those in the Austin area to research why they did not renew their membership.
2. Additional PR ideas for the Samstagsschule are to contact a wide variety of area groups with probable interest in this educational opportunity. Some of these include: Dell Jewish community Association, Dougherty Art Center, Austin Sängerrunde, Austin and Round Rock ISDs, Umlauf Sculpture Garden, Austin Children's Museum, Austin Home School Association, Ballet Austin Children's Program, International Groups, parents of former Samstagsschule members, the Austin-Koblenz sister city office and others.
3. There continues to be vandalism in and misuse of our parking lot. The "No Trespassing" signs are all missing except one. Events have been reported to the Police however by the time they can respond the problems have disappeared. Julia has talked with the "Downtown Rangers" which is a bike patrol that has a faster response time. Their hours are being extended until midnight. Julia is hopeful that this will help the problem. Problems will continue to be reported on a regular basis in the hopes that regular "misusers" will be discouraged and stop using and abusing the area.
4. Wing will see that the engraved nameplates are attached to the chairs donated by GTHS Board members in time for the GTHS Board meeting at the German Free School in August. The names are in the GTHS minutes.
5. Julia updated the information on the GFS repair grant. The bids must be re-solicited so that all bids reflect the same criteria. When this is complete, the grant proposal will be submitted.

Communications: Rolf Stachowitz

1. Rolf will correct the 2003 date on the membership form on the GFSG website.
2. Rolf is now the Editor of the Austin Sängerrunde Newsletter and would like to coordinate information with the GFSG Schulhaus Reporter. Hubert will be responsible for soliciting articles for the Reporter from the appropriate members.

Education: Annette Stachowitz

1. German classes will begin in early September. Christa Rábago will continue to teach Beginning German, Intermediate German may be taught by James Damon (sp) but has not yet been confirmed and the Advanced German class will be taught by Pat McCulloch (sp).
2. The Monthly Evening Stammtisch will begin again in September. Rolf will host the Skat players and Annette will host conversation table. An article in the Schulhaus Reporter will mention that we now have a TV/DVD/VCR so films, travelogues and other related audio-visual items of interest to the members can be shown and discussed. This is in addition to the variety of games and conversation usually available.

Development Fund: Chuck Kalteyer

As of July 7, 2004 the current fund drive had received $6525 from 91 donors. This is comparable to the same period last year although slightly lower. Chuck is trying to move the fund drive to earlier in the spring.

Historian: Marie Shultz

Hubert reported that Marie has resigned her position. We may have a replacement by the next meeting.

Hospitality: Barbara Evans

Barbara will not be available to host the September 19 Speakers Series. Hubert will host in her stead. This will be a poetry reading by Lisa Kahn. Refreshments will consist of coffee, cake, wine, cheese, crackers and fruit.

Membership: Siegi Keimling

1. Siegi will plan a series of social events designed to encourage new members. These will include "Kaffee Klatsches" and Potluck Dinners, which will be held in member homes. The host for each event will be encouraged to invite prospective members along with current members.
2. Roland Keimling will be in charge of Facility Maintenance for the German Free School.

Special Events: Wing Evans - Nothing to report at this time

Volunteer Operations: Christa Rábago

1. The telephone callers have too many members to call. In order to relieve this, members with email addresses will receive the volunteer requests in this manner.
2. Rolf suggested that we have a Volunteer Appreciation event as we have in the past.

Discussion Items:

1. Duties of Officers: Hubert requested that all board members email him their Position Descriptions in order to develop a Handbook for future board members.
2. Status of Current Projects: discussed above
3. Preparations for Fall: A nominating committee will be appointed to develop a slate of candidates for the 2005 year. Instead of an Oktoberfest Celebration, we will sponsor a low-key social celebration on German American Day. This will occur on Wednesday, October 6 at 6:00 PM at the GFS. The event will be Pot Luck , BYOB, Chairs, Tables, Music, etc.

Comments:

1. Julia has not received an answer from the Erzgebirge Company regarding the final cost for our order. Annette will contact them to insure they received the fax and obtain a reply.
2. Rolf suggested that we invite the new Executive Director of Wild Basin to talk with us about fundraising and Wild Basin. He was born in Germany and came here with his parents at an early age. Annette and Julia will meet with him.
3. Geri suggested that we follow up with contact information about GTHS whenever we learn about German born people in the news or other German related events in order to familiarize them with GTHS.
4. Chuck suggested that we use name tags at all events

Next Meeting: Tuesday, August 10, 2004 at 9:30 AM

Adjournment: 11:30 AM; Moved/Seconded by Wing/Barbara; Approved

Respectfully submitted,

Geri Gehman West
Secretary

The Texas Wendish Heritage Society presents the 16th Annual Wendish Fest featuring the Ströebitzer Trachtentanz Gruppe, Cottbus, Germany

The Texas Wendish Heritage Society will host the 16th Annual Wendish Fest on Sunday, September 26, 2004. The event will be held on the grounds of the Texas Wendish Heritage Society Museum and St. Paul Lutheran Church picnic grounds at Serbin, Texas.

The daylong event will begin at St. Paul Lutheran Church at 8:30 a.m. with English worship service featuring the Rev. Ken Klaus, the Lutheran Hour speaker. Bible Class and Sunday School will be at 9:30 a.m. and the German worship service featuring Rev. Voight of Wiegiersdorf, Germany will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Meal tickets will be available for purchase beginning at 10:45 a.m. and the meal will be served from 11:00 a. m. to 1:30 p.m. Snack booths open at 2:30 p.m.

Deadline for entries in the annual Coffeecake Bake-off is 10:30 a.m. and winners will be announced at 12:30 p.m. Demonstrations and activities throughout the day include tours of St. Paul Lutheran Church (12:30 and 1:30 p.m.), noodle-making, sausage stuffing, blacksmithing, children's coloring contest (1:30 p.m.), washer pitching (2:00 p.m. with sign-up by 1:30 sharp), cross cut saw contest (4:45 p.m.), children's train rides, Klettern Pfosten, corn shucking, and many others. Kovanda's Czech Band will provide live music from 11:15 a.m. to 2:15 p.m.

Also on hand for her fifth trip to Wendish Fest will be Kornelia Thor from Finsterwalde, Germany who will demonstrate her expertise at decorating Wendish Easter eggs, and many of her decorated eggs will be available for purchase.

The Ströebitzer Trachtentanz Gruppe, a dance group from Cottbus, Germany will provide the featured performance for this year's Fest beginning at 2:30 p.m. The dance group will be accompanied by a small group of musicians, also from the Cottbus area. Both groups, which number about 25 members, will be dressed in colorful Wendish costumes and will entertain with traditional Wendish dances.

The annual Wendish Fest celebrates the departure of the first group of our ancestors from Germany, in September 1854. This group traveled as a congregation, lead by The Reverend Johann Kilian, and upon arrival-founded St Paul Lutheran Church in Serbin, Texas. The Texas Wendish Heritage Society and Museum is proud to join with St Paul congregation in the celebration of the 150th Anniversary of this monumental event!

It isn't out of the ordinary for members of the Feist family to not know everyone at their biannual family reunions.

Even Lynn Halmicek, this year's organizer, admitted he was only familiar with about 20 percent of the 165 people that attended Saturday's reunion at St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Wall.

But almost everyone recognized one 47-year old — Matthew Williams' 1956 Chrysler

"When I pulled up, everybody knew exactly what it was," Matthews said of the car, which has been in the family since the day it was bought brand new.

For the past 26 years, though, the car sat in a barn near Wall until Matthews' grandmother Alleen Williams offered to give it to her grandson to restore in August 1999.

Williams finished the car just in time to bring it to the reunion, he said, though he had to stop every 40 miles or so to fiddle with the carburetor.

"I had hell getting up here with that car," Williams said.

Throughout the day Saturday, members of the Feist family wandered past the car, taking a look at the remodeling that Williams spent the past 4 years on, before heading inside the church's parish hall where cards, dominoes, food and old friends were waiting.

Lynn and Maxine Halmicek spent three months organizing for this year's reunion. Most of the time was spent tracking everybody down. Though most of the family is rooted in Texas, some members of the family have spread out as far as Kansas, Georgia and New York.

As scattered as the family now is, the Feists can all trace their roots back to a single town in Germany — Diersburg.

The city is where Karl Feist married his 20-year old bride Karoline Vollmer on Jan. 23, 1860.

In 1876, Karl and Karoline left Diersburg and headed to America by ship with their five children, Pauline, Michael, Valentine, Magdalena and Mary.

At the time, Karoline was pregnant with her sixth child, Caroline, who would be the first Feist to be born in America on Dec. 22, 1876 in the East-Central Texas town of Rockdale.

Karl and Karoline would have two more children in Texas, Felix and Herman, to give them a total of eight children — all of whom stayed in Texas to begin their own families.

In 1961, about 400 descendants of the eight siblings joined for the first family reunion, Halmicek said. Through the years, participation has dwindled. The past three reunions averaged about 110 participants. This year, however, attendance increased by 50 percent to 165 people, which, conveniently, was the exact number of catered meals that Halmicek and his wife Maxine had ordered.

Despite the Halmicek's best efforts, descendants of only four of the eight siblings made it to the reunion, Halmicek said.

As the reunion approached, Maxine Halmicek spent much of her time diagramming the family tree. The task was somewhat difficult, she said, because she had married into the family and was only familiar with her husband's cousins. But it was a task she came to enjoy.

"What helping with this has made me think is, I wonder why they left Germany?" she said. "I wouldn't want to cross the ocean in a ship these days."

"... Just doing this, I wondered what their reason was — was it religious? Economical? Political? I just had a real good time learning the history of this family."

The book entitled The Heinrich Rothe Ranching Family--From Beads to Barbwire. 150 Years in Texas 1854-2004 is dedicated in the year 2004 to commemorate the Rothe Family in the State of Texas.

The book written by Rothe family members is dedicated to the memory of Christoph Gottlieb Heinrich Rothe and his wife, Emilie Rosa Wurzbach Rothe; their sons: Fritz, Henry, Louis, August; and their daughter, Ernestine Rothe Richter.

The Heinrich Rothe family provided the foundation and planted the seed for a better life for all Rothe family descendants for over 150 years. They were dedicated to building a better place to live for themselves and for the Rothe family descendants.

The authors of this book and all Rothe descendants offer their most sincere praises, admiration, honor, and respect to Heinrich and Emilie Rothe for giving all of us a heritage we value so dearly. They inspired their four sons and daughter to achieve accomplishments far beyond most immigrant families of the nineteenth century. THANK-YOU from all Rothe descendants!

THE ROTHES IN GERMANY

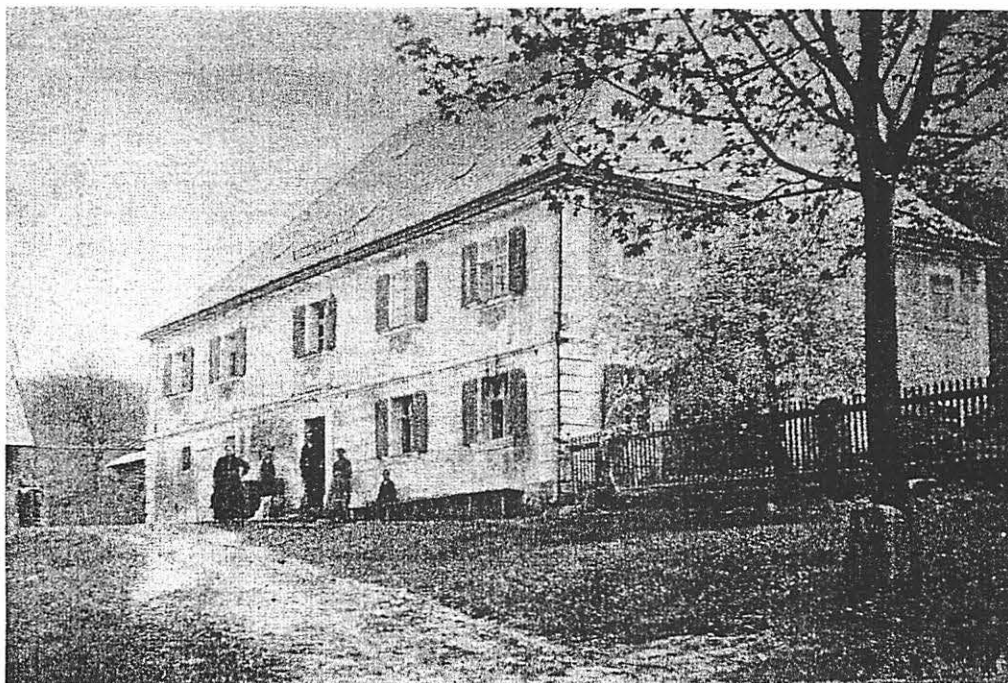

By: Cheri De Salme

Gottlieb Friedrich Rothe was a son of an organ player born in St. Gorgenstedt, Saxony, in East Germany. He was a foreman in a mine in Frobeshammer near Warmensteinach and in the government lumber business. No other information is known about him.

Erhardt Friedrich Rothe (1773 – 18 Jan 1840) was the only child of Gottlieb Friedrich. He married Maria Barbara Greiner (1771 – 12 Mar 1822), who came from Bischofsgrun just over the hill from Warmensteinach. Like his father, Erhardt was also in the government lumber business. He was ordered by the King of Bavaria to run a shuttle service across the river. The name of the river is not known. He was also the owner of a farm and of a factory. Eleven children were born of this union between Erhardt and Maria.

Christoph Gottlieb Heinrich, henceforth known as Heinrich, was the second child born to Erhardt and Maria on August 5, 1793, in Warmensteinach, Bavaria, Germany. He was the oldest of three sons.

Heinrich married Emilie Rosa Wurzbach on February 12, 1838. Emilie was the daughter of Johan Wurzbach and Agnes Boehler of Nurnberg. Heinrich and Emilie had six children. One daughter was stillborn on August 28, 1842; she was never named. For all practical purposes, we will use the number of five for the number of children as we know them: (FRITZ) Johann Friedrich Justus (21 Dec 1838 – 2 Mar 1916), (HENRY) Heinrich Louis Emil (3 May 1840 – 1 Apr 1918), (LOUIS) Johann Georg Louis (5 Sept 1843 – 8 Jul 1921), (AUGUST) Christian August (19 Oct 1846 – 29 May 1914), and (ERNESTINE) Ernestine Elise (17 Nov 1849 – 20 Jun 1936). These children were all baptized in the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, a picturesque site on a hill just above the Rothe homestead. It was built in 1705 A.D. The tower, of artistic design, dominates the landscape.

Later it was in the possession of Frank and Gus Rothe, sons of Fritz. Josie Rothe borrowed it and made copies for herself and a few other descendants. Various individuals used it to help them locate the home in Warmensteinach.

In Germany, Heinrich was considered to be a man of means, "of the bourgeoisie." He held a civic office, performed certain duties connected with determining land values based upon the richness of soil. He also owned land and cattle on the surrounding slopes of Warmensteinach and owned a button and bead factory. Like his father and grandfather, he was also in the government lumber business. Heinrich and his family were accustomed to very comfortable living and the conveniences in Germany at that time.

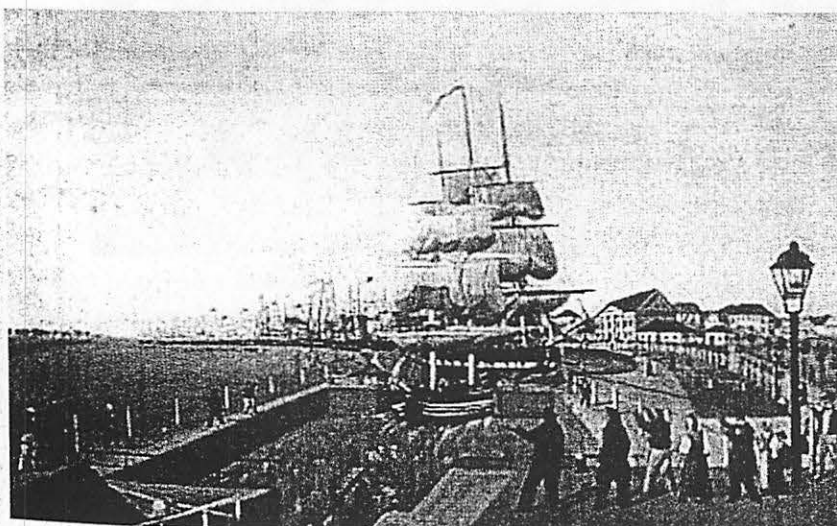

Warmensteinach is referred to as "a little Dorf" not far from Bayreuth and less than a hundred miles from what is said to have been the oldest ancestral seat, Rothenburg. The Rothe homestead in Warmensteinach sits below the Church of the Holy Trinity. It bears an inscription over the entrance – 1769. It was and still is a beautiful two-story structure. The Rothe homestead was known to be one of the oldest in the village. A Coat-of-Arms is painted above the front door inside the house. Today the exterior lines of the Rothe homestead are exactly as they were in 1854. The interior of the home has been partitioned to increase the number of rooms but the original huge arched dining room with its fireplace remains the same. The last known owners were Karl and Gretchen Richter who ran it as a "pension" or inn.

Fritz and Henry received good educations in Germany. Fritz attended the Frankfort-on-the-Main where he studied Architecture and a course in Surveying. He also received English lessons.

Several reasons prompted the Rothe family to come to Texas. There was much strife and political upheaval in Germany. On the other hand, the Wurzbachs, relatives of the mother, Emilie Rosa Wurzbach Rothe, had written of many accounts of the opportunities in Texas. Heinrich and Emilie wanted to give their children the best opportunities for social improvement. So the move from Germany to Texas began on September 2, 1854, from the Port of Bremen on a two-masted vessel--the 150 ton Salucia (listed today on immigration records as the Lucie).

This picture shows the port from which the Rothes left Germany and a ship similar to the Salucia that brought them to Texas.

This map shows the location of Warmensteinach in present day Germany. Another point of interest to Rothe descendents is the port town of Bremerhaven, northwest of Warmensteinach, from which the Rothes departed Bavaria-Germany 150 years ago.

CHRISTOPH GOTTLIEB HEINRICH ROTHE

5 AUG 1793 - 12 DEC 1872

Prepared by MaryAnn Laughlin Abbott

Born in Bayreuth, Baden, Warmensteinach, Bavaria, on August 5, 1793, Christoph Gottlieb Heinrich Rothe was the son of Erhardt Friedrich Rothe and Maria Barbara Gruener.

He married Emilie Rosa Wurzbach on February 12, 1838, in Bayreuth. Their family grew to include four sons and one daughter.

A member of the middle class, Heinrich was considered well off financially. His and Emilie's home, a large, two-story stone structure, built in 1769, was located close to the church they attended, the House of the Most Blessed Trinity. He held a civil position and a part of his responsibility was to establish land worth as determined by soil richness. He operated a button-and-bead factory near his home. He also owned cattle and land on the surrounding slopes.

Due in part to economic conditions, political changes, a yearning for social improvement, and impending compulsory military service for their four sons, Heinrich and Emilie were swayed by the wondrous terms with which her brother, Franz Justus Wurzbach, described southwest Texas. Heinrich and his family made ready to leave their possessions and the land of their birth. They were able to take a desk and many books with them.

In September 1854, the Rothes began their journey to their new home. They arrived in Galveston, Texas, after a sixty-six day voyage. Emilie was extremely ill, having eaten little and drunk less of the bad water on board the 150-ton, two-masted ship called Salucia. They then boarded a steamboat whose destination was Indianola. Here they were met by Franz Justus. The rest of the journey to the Wurzbach compound has been described in Ernestine's biography.

After only fourteen days in their new country, Emilie died of pneumonia. She was buried near the Medina River, in her brother's garden. A description of her death and burial has been related in Ernestine's biography.

The bereft father and children stayed with relatives for a few months. Heinrich then relocated his remaining family about six miles up the Medina River, fenced in approximately fifty acres, and began farming. Heinrich, who was accustomed to a softer, easier life, found himself caring for his children, even learning to cook. He prepared various kinds of bread outdoors in a Dutch oven, surrounding the oven with coals. Kindly neighbors provided milk. Little Ernestine helped him and quickly assumed the tasks required to run a household.

When the Richard Reily three-year cattle contract was completed, the brothers joined together in that business. When the partnership was established, Heinrich walked into a wood and returned with four sticks approximately the circumference of a person's finger. After he had gathered his sons around him, he broke one of the sticks. He then placed the four together and was unable to break them. "Now, that is the way it will be with you in this business," Heinrich said. "One of you can break it. But, if the four of you stick together not anything can break it."

After Ernestine, Fritz, and Louis married, Heinrich went to live with Fritz, who had constructed a house close to the original home.

Heinrich and Ernestine shared many hours of companionship. He would read while she crocheted or knitted some type of apparel for the family. When Heinrich suffered from a cataract growing in his eye, his children took him to a physician in San Antonio. When he became extremely homesick, the doctor allowed him to return home on his confirmation he would not remove the bandages covering his eyes. Ernestine cared for him during this time. One day she left him alone for a short time to pick lettuce from his garden. Upon her return to the house, she found he had removed the bandages and was sitting outside in the glaring sunlight. His vision was permanently damaged. Even though he was able to see little after that day, Heinrich persisted in gathering kindling and growing tobacco. His vision deteriorated until he was completely blind for many years. He enjoyed a daily walk through one of the pastures near his home; however, one day he did not return to the house. The family searched throughout the night and found him nearby. He had been unable to walk back to the house. He lived with his children until his death on December 12, 1872. The family patriarch was buried in the Seco Compound's cow lot.

About 1933, Heinrich's remains were moved to the graveyard established by his son, Louis. His new resting place was unmarked until Sunday, November 20, 1983, when more than 160 of his descendants assembled at the grave to dedicate a large, flat, stone marker to his memory and to note his wife's burial at the Franz Justus Wurzbach homestead.

Existing photographs show Heinrich in his later years, his face covered partially by a mustache, a short beard, and a fluffy fringe of white around the sides of his head.

EMILIE ROSA WURZBACH ROTHE

1815 - 17 DEC 1854

Prepared by: MaryAnn Laughlin Abbott

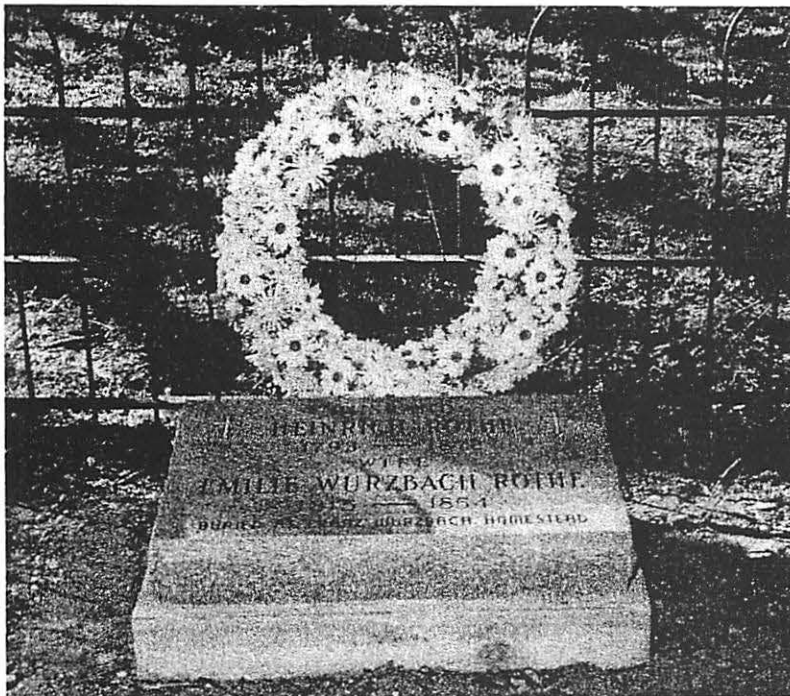

Emilie Rosa Wurzbach was born in Nurnberg, Baden, Bavaria, the daughter of Johan Jonathan Von Wurzbach and Agnes Boehler Wurzbach. Her paternal grandparents were Christian Adolph Von Wurzbach and Aloisia Ostfeld Von Waldsassen Von Wurzbach. Only her birth year, 1815, is known. She married Christoph Gottlieb Heinrich Rothe 12 Feb 1838 in Bavaria. Their home, on a hillside near Warmensteinach, still stands.

Her brother, Franz Justus Wurzbach, had left their native land and moved to Geronimo, Medina County, Texas. He sent glowing descriptions of the land and urged Emilie and her family to come to this rich country. Convinced by his enthusiastic letters, Heinrich, Emilie, and their five children departed Bremen aboard the small ship Lucie on 29 Aug 1854 headed for Texas, United States of America.

Emilie became sick during the journey and was able to eat little. The family paused at Franz Justus' San Antonio house for a meal, then pressed on to the Wurzbach compound near Rio Medina. Emilie stayed in San Antonio overnight to rest and see a doctor. The next day, Franz Justus drove her to Geronimo. She then saw a doctor from Castroville nearly every day. Although the doctor's prognosis was positive regarding her recovery, she succumbed to pneumonia on Sunday morning, December 17, 1854, at her brother's home. Her sister-in-law, Johanna Elizabeth Degen Wurzbach, selected her burial place in the Wurzbach garden, fourteen feet due east of a giant pecan tree near the Medina River. Emilie was laid to rest on December 18th, attended by an evangelical minister from Castroville, amidst the bitter tears of her little family and a neighbor.

On Sunday, November 20, 1983, over 160 of Heinrich and Emilie's descendents gathered at the Louis Rothe cemetery near D'Hanis to dedicate a marker for his grave and to note her burial at the Franz Justus Wurzbach homestead.

Emilie died so young in her new country, she never knew of her role in establishing a dynasty of hard-working, successful men and women which continues to thrive.

Heinrich and Emilie's headstone is in the Louis Rothe Cemetery which is now located on the Rowe Ranch. The headstone notes that Emilie is buried at the Franz Wurzbach Homestead.

Emilie Wurzbach Rothe is believed to be buried fourteen feet from the large pecan tree at the junction of the Medina River and Geronimo Creek (see map). The land is now owned by Werner Stinson, who allowed a group of Rothe descendants to locate the gravesite. Tom Rothe, Werner Stinson, Cheri De Salme, and Rothe Carle are pictured at Emilie's gravesite. (See map next page for location.)

LETTER WRITTEN BY FRITZ ROTHE ON DECEMBER 18, 1854Translated by Josie Rothe Finger

At the Medina

The 18th day of December, 1854

Don't wait for any good news from us, as we haven't any. We have stood the trip very well, but here we had very bad luck. We have had an irreplaceable loss; our dear Mother is not here anymore.

On our land voyage she became ill and hardly ate anything. In San Antonio about 8 hours from here we talked to the doctor and since our arrival here, the doctor from Castroville, which is two hours from here, saw her practically everyday. But even with the best care from the doctor, she passed away in the morning of December 17th without saying anything. We were all outside except our Father. Uncle and I were in the garden; Henry and Louis were in the cow pen. Yes, we needed our Mother very bad because my brothers are all small. We cannot start anything for ourselves; it is a very sad and terrible situation.

About the funeral, I told my Father that we would not bury our Mother in Castroville. If it is agreeable with our Uncle, we could bury her in the garden under the pecan and cypress trees. It is such a nice place. Later, our Aunt told my Father if it was agreeable with us that she had selected a little place in the garden fifteen steps from the Medina (which flows past the garden) under the three pecan trees. This is where I want to rest when I die.

My Father said, "Now there, we have had a thought." And now we will bury her under warm tears on the 18th of December in the presence of a few neighbors and the Evangelical Pastor from Castroville. After some time I am going to plant a flower garden around the grave.

Our Louis has been sick the last few days and is in bed.

Now I want to write to you a little about our trip. On the second day of September, we left from brake where our ship was lying. It was a brand new two mast of 150 tons, a rather small one. Our sea voyage lasted 66 days, an unusually long time and so lonesome. We had 3, 4, and 2 calm days and we had 3 storms, but not strong enough to break the masts of the ship. The food on the ship was bad and the drinking water was pumped out of the Weser. It was black as rinse water or ink, and we could only have one-half pint per person. How can a person make out on such a little? It was stale and smelled like rotten eggs. My Mother, Henry and I drank very little. Yes, that was a horrible trip. I have written a diary and will send it to you later.

We did travel between decks; we rode in the second cabin and still were uncomfortable. Soon after our arrival in Galveston, we learned that out of the eight ships in the voyage, ours had the worst food. That we know and can prove it to all others.

We stayed in Galveston for 5 days until the steamship left for Indianola. We stayed aboard for 3 days and 2 days we stayed in a guest house or hotel that belonged to Fritz Velkenhagen, a very nice host. The charges were 50 cents a day for one person and half that much for children.

Our baggage all came through tariff free. Henry and I smuggled the little cotton chest through.

We found a letter at Kaufman and Co. from Uncle that he was waiting for us at Indianola. That was a very friendly message. He was at our landing place when we arrived. It was a very friendly visit for both sides. In town he had made reservations at a private lodging place. He brought 7 yoke of oxen and 2 wagons along. The big wagon that we brought with us was put together, the loose iron was hammered out and welded together and it was freshly painted, and a bed was built on it. It took 8 days until everything was ready. Werner did not want to go along, he wanted to stay in Indianola and that day he wanted to earn a dollar, which he could do; everything was so high there. His wife (Werner's) is a wicked woman. That was a big surprise when we learned to know them.

After our baggage was loaded, Werner decided to go along. Our land voyage was nothing but a pleasant one. At night the oxen were unhitched and their front legs tied together so that they could take only short steps, and then they were turned loose. We camped under the blue sky. Mother and Ernestine rode on the big wagon. A servant drove the big wagon. The little wagon was tied to the big wagon and we used it during the day for our bedding and our cooking utensils.

On the fifth day Werner got sick, and he got so bad that he could not get off the small wagon by himself where he was laying.

On the eleventh day we arrived in San Antonio. My Mother was very weak. That night we stayed with Mr. Justus Wurzbach who lived there. The next day she rode in a stagecoach to Castroville on the Medina.

We ate dinner with Mr. Wurzbach, which was a delicious meal. After the meal we drive on with the oxen. Uncle stayed with Mother to tell the doctor the results of the medicine and the next day he rode the stagecoach home (on the Medina) where they arrived an hour before we did, on Sunday evening, the 2nd of December.

The Aunt had expected us a few days later, but we had a very successful and short land trip. We arrived unexpectedly with a sick Mother, a very sad arrival. You all know the course of her sickness. The Aunt nursed our Mother very carefully. We changed off and sat up at night. We had the best hopes but nothing helped.

Now, a little about our present home. The country here is very pretty and romantic, the house stands on a hill; in front of the house is a big four-cornered yard. Close to the house stands a long storeroom with a large chicken house, a wagon house and a corncrib.

The Medina flows four hundred steps to the right of the house, a very fast flowing crystal clear stream, bigger than the Main in Bonegrumth, and flows in this direction for a quarter of an hour distance, then makes a left turn and makes a big bend in which lie several hundred acres of land of which about 90 acres are built up land by the stream. We can see all that from our house door.

Uncle has over two hundred heads of cattle; among those are sixty cows. To the right of the house a creek runs into the Medina, it has a very steep bank about 30 feet deep. It has no flowing water, just some water holes, about one every forty steps.

On the triangle lies the garden. On the point of the triangle where the black dot is, is my Mother's grave.

Cypress, pecan, sycamore, mulberry and wild grapes and lots of other shrubs are growing on the banks of the Medina. Don't think that we live in a wilderness. The country is well settled. On the other side of the Medina lives an Elsasser. He has 8 sons, and some of them have their homes and they have sons. A few other farmers live in our vicinity. A little further up lives the last settler, a Sackes, his name is Turpe. He built a nice German like house and a wine distillery. We can see the sun rise from behind the house out of the hills. The hills are not as high as the Ochsenkopf, just about as high as the Rindesberg in Meidenger, and covered with grass. Between the hills little shrubs of evergreen or live oaks are growing; they look like apple trees from here. The village Hasslach in Meidenger is just like it. All that is lacking is the farmhouses, for this is all unsettled. We have wildlife here, too, wild doves and quail, a lot of them, wild ducks and geese, hundreds of them on the Medina and on the water holes in the creek. We have wild turkeys, several miles from here. We have deer, too, and fewer than 125 steps a person can shoot one. You have to know how to shoot at 150 steps. I have only seen one rabbit. We have lots of squirrels; we kill them because they eat all our nuts. Henry, Julius, Adolph and I are shooting already. Rudolph has a small gun.

Our Blanka (a dog) arrived healthy, and she points the quail perfectly. She is now pregnant.

My letter is getting too long. I have to close. I will write more in the next one. With best regards from all of us, write as soon as possible. In our situation, a letter from Europe is a great pleasure. Write soon. The sooner your letter arrives, the quicker you will get an answer.

For my sponsors on the Rosenhammer and the kinfolks in Lichtenberg, I am sending our address

Again best regards a thousand times.

COPY OF LETTER WRITTEN BY FRITZ ROTHE ON DECEMBER 18, 1854

An Der Medina den 18 Dezember 1854

Teure Verwandten und Freunde!

Erwartet nur keine guten Nachrichten von uns, denn die koennen wir Euch nicht geben. Die Reise habe wir zwar gluecklich ueberstanden aber heir hat uns ein schweres Unglueck betroffen; einen unersetzlichen Verlust haben wir erlitten denn unsere liebe Mutter ist nicht mehr. Auf der Landreise wurde sie krank und konnte fast nichts essen. In San Antonio, acht Stunden von hier, fragten wir den Doktor, und seit unserer Ankunft heir besuchte sie der Koktor aus Castoville, swei Studen von hier, fast taeglich, aber trotzdem dass der Doktor die besten Erwartungen hegte verschied sie doch am vergangenen Sonntag, den 17. Dezember morgens, ohne etwas zu sprechen. Wir waren bis auf den Vater alle ausser dem Hause, ich mit dem Onkel im Garten, Heinrich und Louis in der Kuhweide.

Denket Euch unseren Schrecken und Jammer bei dieser Nachricht; ja, und wir brauchten unsere liebe gute Mutter so notwendig da mein Brueder noch alle klein sind. Wir koennen jetzt gar nichts fuer uns anfangen; es ist ein trauriges schreckliches, Verhaengnis.

Als vom Begrabnisz die Rede war sagte ich su meinem Vater; "In Castroville lassen wir die Mutter nicht begraben, sondern wenn es dem Onkel recht ist, drueben im Garten unter den Pekannuss und Cypressen Baeumen das ist so ein schoener Platz." Spaeter sagte die Tante zum Vater: "Wenn es Ihnen recht ist habe ich ein Plaetzchen ausersehen. Drueben im Garten fuenfzehn Schritte von der Medina (der Flusz fliesst neben dem Garten vorbei) unter den drei Nuszbaeumen, dort will ich auch ruhen wenn ich einmal sterbe." "Nun, da haben wir einen Gedanken gehabt," sagte mein Vater; und so begruben wir sie dann unter heissen Traehnen, am 18. Im Beissein einiger Nachbarn und dem evangelischen Pfarrer aus Castroville. Um das teure Grab will ich einen kleinen Blumengarten anlegen mit der Zeit.

Doch nun will ich Euch einiges ueber unsere Reise schreiben. Am sweiten September reisten wir von Brake ab, wo unser Seeschiff gelegen hatte; es war ein nagelneues Zweimasten Schiff von 150 tonnen, also ein ziemlich kleines. Unsere Seereise dauerte 66 tage, eine ungewoehnlich lange Zeit, und so langweilig. Wir hatte 3 und 4 und 2 Tage fast Windstille und 3 mal Sturm, aber doch nicht so stark dass die Masten brachen.

Die Schiffskost war schlecht, und erst Trinkwasser; es war aus der Weser gepumpt und schwartz wie Spuelwasser oder Tinte undauf eine Person taeglich einen halben Seidel, wie soll man damit ausreichen; und matt war es und stank wie faule Eier. Ich, meine Mutter, und Heinrich tranken fast garkeines. Ach das war eine beschwerliche Reise. Ich habe ein Tagebuch geschrieben und will es Euch spaeter schicken. Wir reisten nicht im Zwischendeck sondern in der 2. Kajute stellte es sich heraus dass von den acht angekommenen Wanderschiffen unseres die schlechteste Kost hatte. Das wissen wir, und alle anderen koennen es beweisen.

In Galveston blieben wir fuenf Tage bis das Dampschiff nach Indianola abging. Drei Tage blieben wir an Bord und zwei Tage im Gasthause bei Fritz Velkenhage, ein huebscher Wirt: die Person den Tag 50 cent, Kinder die Haelfte. Unser Gepaeck ging alles zollfrei ein. Das Baumwollen Kaestchen schmuggelten ich und Heinrich durch. Bei Kaufmann et comp. Fanden wir einen Brief vom Onkel, dass er uns in Indianola erwartete; das war eine sehr erfreuliche Nachricht. Bei unserer Ankunft war er auch am Landungsplatze. Es war ein freudiges Wiedersehen von beiden Seiten. In der Stadt hatte er schon ein private Logis gemietet. Er hatte sieben Joch Ochsen und zwei Wagen mitgebracht. Der Wagen den wir mitbrachten wurde zusammengerichtet, das lockere Eisen aufgehauen und geschweisst und frisch angetrieben und ein Kasten darauf gemacht. Das dauerte acht Tage bis alles fertig war. Werner hatte aber keine Lust mitzugehen. In Indianola wollte er bleiben, und dort wollte er den Tag einen Dollar verdienen; das konnte er auch wirklich. Der Onkel sagte ihm zwar dass er dabei nichts ersparen wuerde denn alles is schrecklich teuer dort. Seine Frau ist eine boese Sieben, das lernten wir zu unserer grossen Verwunderung kennen. Als unsere Kisten aufgeladen wurden entschlossen sie sich aber doch noch zim Mitgehen. Die Landreise war nichts weniger als angenehm. Abends wurde ausgespannt und den Ochsen die vorderen Beine zusammengebunden so dasz sie nur ganz kleine Schritte machen knooten; dann liesz man sie laufen. Wir campierten immer unter freiem Himmel. Die Mutter und Ernestinchen auf dem grossen Wagen wo noch Platz war; der andere war vollgeladen; und des Onkels aeltester Sohn Julius, sieben Monate aelter aber kleiner als ich, trieb ihn: den grosseen, trieb der Knecht. Unseren kleinen Wagen hatten wir an den grossen gehaengt und er diente uns waehrend des Tages unsere Betten und Kochgeschirr darauf zu legen. Am fuenften Tage wurde Werner krank und wurde zuletzt sp schwach dass er nicht mehr allein vom kleinen Wagen, wo er lag, herab konnte. Am elften Tage kamen wir in San Antonio an, meine Mutter war sehr schwach, und beim Vetter Justus Wurzbach, der dort wohnt blieb sie ueber Nacht und fuhr den anderen Tag in einer Chaise ueber Castroville en den Medina. Wir aber assen beim Vetter auf Mittag, ein praechtiges Essen das uns recht schmeckte, und fuhren dann mit den Ochsen weiter. Der Onkel blieb bei der Mutter um die Wirkung der Arznei dem Dokter anzuzeigen, und ritt am anderen Tage mit der Chaise nach Hause an die Medina wo sie eine Stunde vor uns ankamen; Sonntag den zweiten Dezember abends. Die Tante hatte uns erst einige Tage spaeter erwartet. Wir hatten aber eine sehr guenstige und kurze Landreise und kamen ganz unerwartet an, mit einer Kranken Mutter; ein trauriger Einzug. Den Verlauf der Krankheit wisst Ihr. Die Tante pflegte die Mutter sehr sorgfaeltig. Wir wachten abwechselnd nachts, aber leider es half nichts obgleich wir die beste Hoffnung hatten

Nun noch einiges ueber unsere jetzige Heimat. Die Gegend hier ist sehr schoen und romantisch. Das Haus liegt auf einem sanften Huegel. Vor dem Hause ist ein grosser viereckiger Hof. Unten am Hause ein langes Voratshaus mit einem sehr grossen Huebnerstall, Wagenremisen, und Kornspeichern. Vier hundert Schritte rechts vom Hause fliesst der Medina Flusz vorbei, ein raschfliessender, krystallheller Flusz, groesser als der Mein by Bayreuth und fliesst in dieser Richtung eine gute Viertelstunde weit, dann macht er linksum und beschreibt so einen grossen Bogen worin einige hundert Acker Land liegen von denen gegen 90 angebaut sind, das koennen wir alles uebersehen von der Haustuere aus.

Der Onkel had ueber zwei hundert Stueck Rindvieh, darunter etliche sechzig Kuehe. Rechts vom Hause fliesst ein Bach in den Medina Flusz, der ein sehr steiles, ungefaehr 30 Fuss tiefes Bett hat aber gegenwaertig gar kein fliessendes Wasser, sonder nur Wasser-loecher hat; alle 40 Schritte eines. (Here follows a hand drawn sketch of the garden and his mother's grave.) Auf dem Dreieck liegt der Garten und in der Spitze, der schwarze Punkt, ist meiner Mutter Grab. Die Ufer des Medina sind mit ungeheuren Cypressen, Pekannuessen, Cycamore, Mulbeere, wilden Reben und vielen anderen Holzarten Bewachsen. Ihr duerft nicht glauben dass wir in einer Wildniss wohnen; bewahre, die Gegend ist bewohnt; an der anderen Seite der Medina wohnt ein Elsaesser mit acht Soehnen, von denen einige schon wieder Haeuser und Soehne haben. Einige andere Farmen sind in unserer Naeh. Eine kleine Stunde aufwaerts ist die letzte Niederlassung. Ein Sachse namens Tuerpe hat ein sehr schoenes Haus auf deutsche Art und auch eine Brantwein-brennerei gebaut.

Die Sonne sehen wir alle Tage hinter dem Hause aus den Bergen aufgehen und vor dem Hause hinter den Bergen untergehen. Die Bergesind aber nicht so hoch wie der Ochsenkopf sondern ungefaehr wie der Rundesberg bei Meidenberg, und mot Gras bewachsen daszwischen kleine Waeldchen von Immergruenen oder Lebeneichen, die sehen von hier aus wie lauter Apfelbaeume. Das Oertchen Hasslach bei Meidenberg ist gerade so, nur fehlen hier die Bauernaeser denn das is alles unbewohnt.

Wild gibt es heir auch, wilde Tauben und Feldhuebner sehr viel und ueberall. Wilde Enten und auch Gaense zu ganzen hunderten in der Medina und in den Wasserloechern des Baches. Wilde Truthuehner gibt es etliche Meilen von hier; Rehe und Hirsch auch noch viele, aber unter 125 Schritten schiesst man keines; man muss auf 150 Schritte schiessen koennen; Hasen habe ich erst einen gesehen denn sie fressen uns die Nuesse weg. Heinrich und ich schiessen auch schon mit Julius und Adolph, auch Rudolph hat ein Flintchen.

Unser Blanca ist wohlbehalten angekommen und steht die Feldhuehner perfect, sie ist jetzt praechtig.

Doch mein Brief wird zu lang ich muss schliessen. Mit dem naechsten schreibe ich mehr. Seid alle herzlich gegruessst von uns allen und schreibt uns nur auch gleich wieder denn in den gegenwaertigen Verhaeltnissen ist uns ein Brief von Europa ein wahres Freudenfest; also schreibt uns bald denn je eher ein Brief ankommt desto eher bekommt desto eher bekommt ihr die Antwort darauf. Fuer meinen Herrn Pathen auf den Rossenhammer, und die Verwandten in Lichtenberg fuege ich noch unsere Adresse: H. Rothe, bei Franz Wurzbach, Castroville in Medina Co. Texas, Nordamerica und schreibt oben darueber via Liverpool und New York. Also seid nochmals tausendmal gegruessst von uns Allen und in Sonderheit von.

Eurem Neffen,
Fritz Rothe

Mein Herr Pathe, gruesse auch den Steger und den Reviertoerster Meinzing, Herr Pf Wolffart, und Revierfoerster Herzer vielmals von Meinen Vater, und teile ihnen einiges ueber uns mit.

ROTHE FAMILY COTTON BOX NOTES TRANSLATION

Submitted by LeAnn Fohn Bills

The cotton box notes were notes that were similar to entries in a guest book, which the Rotheres stored in a Cotton Box. All but two of these cards appear to have been brought over with them from Germany and seem to be cards from friends saying good-bye and wishing them well in the months leading up to their departure. Almost all of the notes are sent from people in Münchberg, a town approximately ten miles north and slightly east of Warmensteinach.

Cheri De Salme made copies of the fronts and backs of these notes; there were four pages of eight cards each. All but one of the notes was translated from Old German script to modern German by Gisele Krenz of Luneberg, Germany. She is the grandmother of two classmates of my son, Trevor, from a Kindermusik class here in America and was visiting for the holidays in December 2003-January 2004.

Gisele said that she studied in Old German script for one year of school before they switched to new German script. We were very lucky to have made her acquaintance, lucky for her visit and education, and lucky to have her visit overlapped with our timetable for translation. One note's copy was too faint, and there were a couple of other places where the copy was too faint or the script illegible, but she was able to translate perhaps 98%.

Page 1 was translated from German to English by Alexander Vonk and LeAnn Bills.

3d English - We both were coming from the same fatherland to Texas. Shake hands to seal our friendship. Our destiny didn't look too good, but our future will be bright and our friendship will glow forever. To the memory of one of your Texan friends, Richard Türpe November 1, 1860

3h German - Deine Freude mag sich vermehrenmit einem großen Stock von Mähren Nebenbei ein Liebchen holdund dazu das nötig Goldwirst ohne Neid zum Freund [behalten-she underlined with dotted lines so she may not have been sure, or else went back to fill in.] T.S. Türpe den Alten 1 Nov. 1860

3h English - You shall spread your joy with a big herd of sheep besides a pretty sweetheart and the necessary gold. I will keep you as my friend without jealousy. T.S. Türpe the Elder, or the Old One November 1, 1860

The front side of 1e is representative of many of the good wishes of friends from approximately March through April 1854. The back has a saying that must have been a common thing to write in a family book, as it is listed six times, at least in part. One of the other friends who wrote this in the book signed, "Your loving cousin, Sophie [—],” from Münchberg, but her last name was illegible to our German translator, unfortunately.

4c is interesting because it is more original than many of the notes. It rhymes in German, even with the author's name. A number of these are rhymes. Perhaps Karl Barth wrote this in a number of people's books and it is funny or had some other meaning. Tanja feels that it could mean that Heinrich was a shoemaker by craft. She said that craftsmen were sometimes able to earn a great deal of money and marry into good families. We have not verified or do not have information telling us that he was a shoemaker, but perhaps someone doing further research in the future would be able to tell if he was a shoemaker, in addition to, the owner of a bead factory and a civil servant.

2c mentions the stars, which will be one of the only things that the friends will have in common when they are separated by an ocean.

I would include 3a, because it lists another cousin's name, although our German translator was also unable to read Natalie's last name on the copy.

Finally, I thought 3d was interesting, because it seemed to be the only note that did not express a friend's wish for Heinrich or his family members before they left Germany. It and 3h are the only notes written six years later in Texas. 3h is humorous. All of the other notes are clustered from approximately March 1854 to August 1854.

Albert Fey Reunion – 60 Years!

This year (2004), in July, the descendents of Albert Fey and Rosa Sievers Fey will celebrate their 60th Family Reunion. The first reunion was held in August of 1945 right after the end of World War II. It has been held annually, without fail, every year since then.

Albert and Rosa Fey raised their eleven children on a farm on Judson Road in Selma, Texas. Already, from the very beginning, the children would bring their own families to the Fey farm on Sundays. Then, after Albert's death, the farm was sold, so the Family Reunions were initiated.

There were forty-four grandchildren born to the Fey family. Four of the grandsons became Catholic Priests. For the past decades, Father Albert Hubertus and his brother, Father Gerald Hubertus, have begun each Reunion with the celebration of a Mass. Sadly Father Gerald died last December and his memory will be held dear at this next reunion. The rest of the cousins, and their children, serve as the music leaders and the minor ministers of the Mass.

The greatest majority of the Fey descendents live in Texas and most of them actually live in the greater San Antonio area. Even the descendents of the Fey brothers of Albert live chiefly in the San Antonio area. From the very beginning, it seemed that the Feys settled along the "old Highway 81" from Selma to San Antonio. It seems they liked this area and decided to stay here!

The family meal, games, displays, music, stories, a picture album of all the families – all are a staple at the Reunion. While we have no present accurate count of the descendents, it is between 300 and 375. At least 200+ are able to attend each year. There is a different display each year chronicling a different phase of the Fey Family History. It is heart-warming to see that these displays are of interest of so many of the younger people each year.

This Fey Reunion will continue for many, many years!

SS Peter & Paul School, New Braunfels 100 years ago!

During Catholic School Week in New Braunfels at the end of January, I listened with interest to the plans, unveiled by Principal Suzette Anderson, to continue to assure the highest standards of education at the SS Peter and Paul Education Center. Preparing the local student body with the moral values, scientific knowledge and artistic skills for a full religious-centered life is an awesome responsibility.

Then, aware that our Parish School had always tried to keep its academic standards on a high level, I wondered "What was the State of our School 100 years ago? What can we glean from our Archive Resources about the School Year of 1903-1904?"

By 1903, our Parish School was already a seasoned institution. Having been started in the Fall of 1871, it was in its 32nd year of education. Three years before, in 1900, the Sisters of Divine Providence had negotiated with the Bishop to build a new brick school next to our SS Peter and Paul stone Church. The former old multi-purpose wooden school building had housed 59 pupils in the year of 1899-1900 and was now considered too small for the increasing number of children. Besides the local children, there were several students from out-of-town, even from out-of-State.

An interesting side-note can be added here. In May of 1900, there were already 20 pupils in the Kindergarten. Two of these children were siblings of Claudia Ayers, who would later become Mother Angelique, the future Superior of the Sisters of Divine Providence in San Antonio!

The scholastic year of 1900-1901, the first year in the new building, was successful. There were 64 pupils admitted of whom 21 were enrolled in music lessons! The Kindergarten enrollment had risen to 25. At the end of the scholastic year, on June 27th, 1901, the school held a Musical Program with 20 selections of various songs, marches and recitals by piano, violin and mandolin students. One number was titled "The Bicycle Gallop" and was performed by the school's string quartet.

In the 1901-1902 academic year, the enrollment almost doubled—to 114 pupils. Then, according to a Zeitung article, it was obvious that the new brick school was already too small in the 1902-1903 year and plans were initiated to enlarge it to the size in which it remained until it was razed.

With this stage set, we can now look at the year of 1903-1904, a century ago. There were 131 pupils enrolled during that year. At least 16 of the students were boarding students who were housed in the top floor of the new building. Once again, 21 pupils (including one adult) were enrolled in music lessons.

During that year, tuition (ranging from 50¢ to $1.00 monthly) was charged. The fees for the music lessons ranged from 75¢ to $4.00 monthly. A total of $539.85 was collected in school tuition and $263.85 for the music lessons.

Several years later, realizing that social mores were changing, the Sisters added several Business Courses to their curriculum. In a time when the young women of our parish found it acceptable to seek employment outside the home, many were prepared with the office skills necessary to compete in the work-place. Today, a hundred years later, our Parish Education Center is providing modern business skills in the curriculum and in the Computer Lab. The same attentive care to meet the needs of the 20th Century in 1904 is present in our parish in the 21st Century in 2004.

Let us continue to be proud of, and support, our Parish Education Center.....for the 133rd time!

Everett A. Fey, SS Peter and Paul Church Archives

P.S. The author, Everett A. Fey, having learned English at the ~~S~~Kindergarten in the First Protestant Church, then attended eight years at the SS Peter and Paul School. He entered the First Grade in September of 1942 and graduated from the Eighth Grade in May of 1950. He took several years of piano lessons from Sister Rosalia at the school. His eighth grade teacher, Sister Josephine, first taught in SS Peter and Paul School in 1898!

P.P.S. The SS Peter and Paul Museum and Archives is currently attempting to list and preserve the names of all the students in this institution from 1871 to the mid-1900s. Several sets of grandparent, parent, child and grandchild have been educated within its walls. The school spirit, built up throughout the years certainly is justified.

Hello Everyone,

Just wanted to see if there are any other members from the midwest region. My G-grandparents where from the Black Forest region and settled in Illinois in the 1860's. My family has lived in Texas since 1969, so I joined German-Texans Historical Society. I am German, Alsatian and Norwegian. (with a little bit of English and Irish on my moms side). Our German surnames are Gass, Baltzer and Adams.

Take Care,

The European Texans

This work about European-descent Texans by Allan O. Kownslar is part of a series from the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio. Other books in this series include The Indian Texans, The Mexican Texans, The African Texans, and The Asian Texans.

It is unlikely that most readers will be aware of the full diversity of European peoples who immigrated to Texas. There were those who came in adequately large numbers to be familiar, such as the Germans and the Czechs, but there were also the lesser-known groups such as the Norwegians and Wends. All told, the author addresses 18 European cultural groups. In a work of this size, one can deduce that the book surveys more than fully addresses each group. Nonetheless, the book provides sufficient insight that a broad range of readers will find it interesting. There are even a few recipes for each ethnic group included.

The Germans were the largest European group to settle in Texas. Dr. Kownslar, a history professor at Trinity University, reports that between 1870 and 1910 about 165,000 Germans settled in Texas. Much of the author's German material, about men such as Prince Solms and John Meusebach, will be relatively familiar to persons conversant with the history of Germans in Texas. It is interesting, he points out, that some of these early German settlers, tended to exaggerate the quality of life in the new land when reporting to the folks back home. Friederich Ernst, Texas' first German settler, for example, extolled the virtues of life in Texas to persons in the Oldenburg area, while his daughter, Caroline, recalled later the extremely difficult living conditions that she found in Texas as an eleven year old girl. The children sometimes went without shoes, and "We often held an umbrella over our bed when it rained at night." Those familiar with Alvin Soergel's contemporary account of that time, A Sojourn in Texas, 1846-47, published by the German-Texas Heritage Society, will recall his disparaging comments about the misrepresentative accounts that circulated in Germany about the ease of resettling in Texas.

The Czechs were another large European immigrant group to settle in Texas. In the same time frame as the Germans, from incomplete records, only about 13,000 were reported to have settled in Texas. The Austro-Hungarian Empire generally made life difficult for Czechs in their homeland. Many young men were drafted, reluctantly, to fight in European wars. Czech families mostly lacked sufficient wealth to acquire farmland in Europe and saw a greater opportunity in Texas. The majority of Czechs were Catholics, but other Protestant groups included members of the Moravian Brethren who traced their origins to Jan Hus, the 15th century Czech martyr. An example of some of the fine historical photographs in this book is one of some young Czech men in downtown Granger who served as part time mail deliverymen on motorized bicycles.

The Norwegians were an immigrant group who came to Texas in quite small numbers. Between 1870 and 1910, less than 5,000 settled in Texas. The largest, early Norwegian colony was northwest of Waco in Bosque County. Virtually without exception, Norwegian settlers opposed the slavery they found in Texas. The author reports that they paid free blacks the same wages as whites, a practice quite unusual in that day. One black man who had worked for years for a Norwegian family reportedly learned to speak the language. In the 1890's, he made it a habit to meet new arrivals, as they got off the train in Bosque county and speak to them in their own language. Unable to resist a joke, he told these folks, many of whom had never seen a black man, to avoid too much time in the hot Texas sun—otherwise they might become black like him.

Between 1870 and 1910, the census data for Wendish settlers in Texas are incomplete. Only a little over 1,200 arrivals were tallied. Indeed, they were one of the smallest European groups to resettle in Texas. For those unfamiliar with the Wends, the author explains that they came from Saxony in southeastern Germany and spoke a language similar to "Polish, Czech, and Slovak". Discriminated against by the Prussian government and even forbidden from speaking their own language, they left in order to preserve their own unique cultural identity, language, and religion. The largest group to come to Texas settled in Lee County, about 50 miles from Austin in the town of Serbin. Most Wends were assimilated into the larger Texas culture, as they were not opposed to marrying outside of their group and moving to other areas.

On the whole, as a high-level survey of the European cultures whose peoples contributed to and impacted the history of Texas, this book serves its purpose well. Certainly, it provides several hours of interesting reading.

Rosa: A German Woman on the Texas Frontier

Ann Fears Crawford

Halcyon Press, Ltd., Houston

2003

Hardcover, 60 pages with drawings

Price 16.95

ISBN 1-931823-09-X

This is a children's book by the late Ann Fears Crawford, Texas historian and author, who died in May 2004, with illustrations by Cheryl Fain. Fears edited, authored, or co-authored historical works such as John B. Conally: Portrait in Power, Women in Texas, and Barbara Jordan: Breaking Barriers. The author's other books for children, included Lizzie—Queen of the Cattle Trail, Jane Long, Frontier Woman, and Mary Maverick of Old San Antonio.

It is particularly appropriate for organizations such as The German-Texas Heritage Society, that seek to promote the preservation of the German language and culture, to build rapport with younger persons, who are the only ones who can carry on such traditions. To that end, this review discusses a book for younger readers about a German woman who came to Texas in 1834. Her name was Rosalie von Roeder.

Fear's book traces von Roeder's life from age 21 when her well-to-do father's financial star had dimmed in Germany. He was also influenced by the descriptions of life in Texas by Johann Friederich Ernst to relocate the entire von Roeder family to Texas. But not before Rosalie von Roeder married Robert Justus Kleberg. Fears writes that Rosalie (Rosa) wore her wedding gown aboard the ship and that she sailed for Texas on her wedding day. However, this seems somewhat fanciful, as The Handbook of Texas Online has it that the wedding took place on September 4, with the ship sailing on September 30.

In any event, Fears relates that the journey to Texas was ill starred, and it foreboded other difficulties to come. The Atlantic crossing was long and difficult, and the vessel carrying the family from New Orleans to Texas shipwrecked off Galveston Island. But the crew and passengers survived. The von Roeders eventually settled in Harrisburg in Stephen F. Austin's Colony. Later, they resettled in Cat Spring.

In 1835, Texans talked openly of gaining independence from Mexico with whom Texas soon found itself at war, and Robert Kleberg and Rosa's brothers left to join General Houston's army. Word of the fall of the Alamo forced the colonists to flee east toward the United States.

After San Jacinto, the Klebergs returned home to Cat Spring to find that the Mexican soldiers had burned their home and ruined everything that they had left behind. The family persevered and rebuilt their home. But in 1847 the Kleburg family moved west to Dewitt County where Robert Kleberg became county judge. The town and county of Kleberg were named for him. In Dewitt County, Robert and Rosa raised seven children, an eighth dying in childhood. Three of their sons distinguished themselves. Their son, Rudolph, was elected to the U.S. Congress. Marcellus was elected to the Texas House and served as a member of the board or regents of the University of Texas. Robert Kleberg, Jr. was a lawyer, who assumed the management of the King Ranch when he married Alice Gertrudis King. Robert, Sr. died in 1888 and Rosa in 1907. Before she died, one of Rosa's grandsons recorded her fond memories of her life in Texas.

Fears' book includes a list of 32 words for the young reader to learn. Examples of these words are passage, colony, independent, livestock, hearth, violin, county judge and regent. Cheryl Fain's simple but illustrative pen and ink drawings will help maintain the young person's interest in the story. Insofar as an older person can judge a younger person's reading interests, it seems likely that he or she will find this book enjoyable and informative.

COMPUTER GERMAN

By Ron Hunka

In my work as a test engineer at a computer company in Austin, I occasionally encounter German technical terms in documentation or in e-mails relating to issues in Germany where the company does business. A few times, co-workers, who know about my interest in German, have asked me to translate an e-mail about a business problem. With a little help from my faithful online dictionary, I have accommodated them.

Recently, when an issue about German documentation of a software program came up, I decided that it would be helpful to create a quick reference guide of some of the most useful computer terms that one is likely to encounter. Since quite a few members of the German-Texan Heritage Society seem to be computer conversant, I decided to expand this project a little and submit a short article to "The Journal" of the GTHS to share my vocabulary list with some other folks who might be interested.

When I began to compile my list, I noted that many of the German terms were very similar to their English counterparts. It seems pretty clear that this is another instance of American technological terminology sneaking into the German language.

The first of the following lists gives some German terms that are similar to English. Other lists logically group related terms. Some words from the first list are on others. Naturally, there may be more than one word for the same thing.

BAVARIA—Where making merry is a must

Every Christmas dream is just waiting for fulfillment in the Alps:
the fun, the food, the traditions accompanied by the oom-pah of joy

Christmas in Bavaria—the Christmas of children's dreams; a world of gingerbread and sugarplums, magic and glitter, where the Spirit of Christmas Past is absolutely present. Nowhere on earth is the season any prettier.

Among the storybook towns of Bavaria, Garmisch-Partenkirchen stands out for the beauty of its houses and narrow, winding streets, the charm of its tradition and its reputation as the winter sports capital of Germany. Treat yourself to an Old World Christmas in its special atmosphere, and find yourself in the perfect place for a winter holiday.

Two ancient towns separated by the Partnach River, Garmisch and Partenkirchen were united just before the Fourth Winter Olympics in 1936. Lovely Partenkirchen, founded in 15 B.C. on the east side of the river, is the older and smaller of the two. What strikes a first-time visitor most of all is the overwhelming presence of windows—in the thick old walls of houses, fronting cupolas, opening onto balconies, looking out on the town and beyond to the great, jagged peak of the 9,787 foot-high Zugspitze, Germany's grand and highest mountain. Frescoes in multicolored pastels define the windows, decorate exterior walls. Garmisch-Partenkirchen is home to one of the few remaining practitioners of this dying art of Lüftmalerei—Gerhard Friedrick Ester's frescoes, based on traditional or biblical scenes, as Lüftmalerei always has been, adorn houses in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. (See Mr. Ester's own house, page 70.)

The houses are furnished with cherished antiques, charming, hand-painted wooden cabinetry, pewter and pottery. Provincial fabrics cover cushions and drape windows. Wonderful old tile ovens nestle in cozy corners of special rooms, warming occupants with their heat and the pleasure of their beauty. Christmas trees are decorated with delightful collections of straw and shaved wood ornaments or with lebkuchen (decorated gingerbread cookies) strung on red ribbons. Tables are laden with traditional sweets—Stollen and lebkuchen, Spekulatius (spiced butter cookies), lovely star-shaped Zimsterne and Hutzelbrot (fruit bread). For weeks ahead, gingerbread and spices and chestnuts scent the air of houses bustling with Christmas preparations.

About 5 P.M. on Christmas Eve, there is a special children's mass. Then, at the sight of the first star, candles are lit on Christmas trees and the Christ Child brings his gifts. Hours later, the churches swell with the glories of Midnight Mass. Between Christmas and the 6th of January, small boys dressed as the Three Holy Kings take to the streets. Making their way from house to house, they return home with bags full of cookies and cakes.

In the hotels, the hoteliers usually join their guests for special candlelit Christmas Eve dinners (with carp as the traditional main course). Food, always a major event in Bavaria, becomes more of a celebration than ever. Among the most lovely of Christmas places—the elegant Posthotel in Partenkirchen. Furnished with rare, old, painted cupboards and carved beds (complete, of course, with the feather comforters that top virtually every bed in Bavaria and neighboring Tyrol, however simple the lodging), it is the epitome of provincial refinement—wood everywhere, handcrafted pottery, old candelabra made into lamps, vases of fresh flowers—all the cherished comforts of a people used to long Alpine winters.

Dressed in traditional Alpine suits of gray and green loden, the hospitable owners of the Posthotel are themselves a major part of the traditional atmosphere. In fact, local costumes—suits, knickers, dirndls, capes—seem right to the point all over the area and are worn by both local people and visitors. A perfect place to start a study of Bavarian Christmas goodies is the Café of the Posthotel, or the Café Krönner, in the center of Garmisch, long famous for afternoon coffee. The displays of cakes and cookies themselves are works of art—this is no time to consider calories.

As for Christmas dinner—midday on the 25th is the time for a multi-course feast of goose, pork, turkey or ham, dumplings, vegetables cooked in uniquely Bavarian ways, special bread—all of it most likely begun with a clear soup with dumplings (there's hardly a limit to the variety of dumplings in this part of the world)—cakes, cookies, fruits, nuts, coffee (mit Schlag, naturally). Special places for a traditional Christmas dinner: The Gasthof Frauendorfer for typically Bavarian food and a perfect, rustic Bavarian atmosphere; the Reindl Grill in the Hotel Partenkirchner Hof; and, about half an hour's drive from town between Ettal and Oberammergau, the lovely Benediktenhof, an old farmhouse converted to a restaurant and hotel. (All its food is good, but absolutely not to be missed is its famous Himbeersahne Torte—a cake made mostly of whipped cream and raspberries.) Reservations are essential everywhere Christmas Eve and Day.

One of the beauties of indulging in Christmas food in Garmisch-Partenkirchen is that, afterward, you can go outside and ski or skate or walk it off.

Tiny, gracious inns dot the ski slopes of the Bavarian Alps, offering warmth

Twelve cable cars and 36 other lifts transport skiers to 40 runs. (Christmas skiers, though, should come equipped with a little extra patience. Lift lines are long during the holidays, and European skiers do not have the orderly sense of them that Americans do.) The cable cars also carry non-skiers to restaurants and sun terraces at the top-stations. Non-skiers and skiers wanting to improve might investigate the local ski schools (which have 120 instructors). Children have a ski school of their own, and a special lift to learn on. Cross-country skiers will find miles of well-maintained tracks, guides for off-the-track skiing and instruction for beginners. All ski equipment, downhill and cross-country, can be rented.

Souvenir of the '36 Olympics is one of the most beautiful ice sports centers in Europe with two rinks outside, one inside. For non-skating spectators, there are ice shows and hockey matches. For everybody, 63 miles of walking paths are kept clear of snow. At the Alpspitze-Wellenbad there are six indoor swimming pools (including an enormous one with waves), a sauna, solarium, nightclub and children's playground. There is also tobogganing, curling, horse-drawn sleigh rides across the sparkling landscape, wonderful shopping for sports clothes and equipment and Bavarian handcrafts in town (stop in at A. & C. Schneider's charming Alpenlandische Volkskunst shop in Garmisch for Christmas decorations, gifts, accessories) and glorious sight-seeing a bit out of town. A thirty-minute drive away is the high-domed baroque monastery of Ettal, famous, among other things, for its liquor. A bit farther in the same direction is the fanciful Castle Linderhof, built in 1870 by Ludwig II, dedicated to Louis XIV, and full of gold, marble, porcelain and gems. A marvelous half-day excursion easily made by train is one to Mittenwald, the picturesque Alpine village famous for its tradition of violin making. Take time to visit the violin-making museum and the beautiful baroque church on the main street.

Classical music concerts, Bavarian folk music and dance, theater and peasant theater are year-round events in Garmisch-Partenkirchen. Christmas offers special concerts and, of course, the music of Christmas Mass.

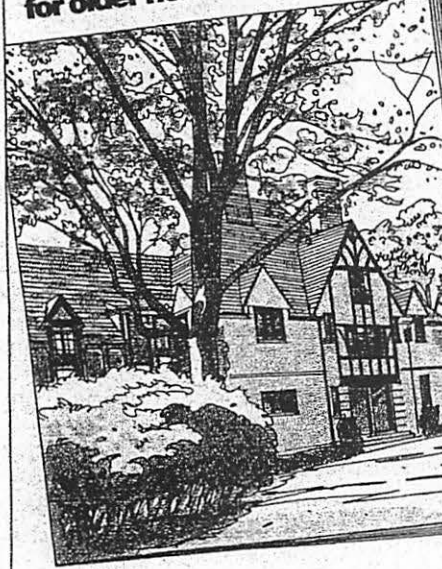

Accommodations run the gamut from simple to luxe, from pensions to elegant hotels. There's even a Holiday Inn full of Bavarian antiques and friendly local flavor.

Devotees of cross-country skiing might want to slip across the German-Austrian border to Seefeld, site of the cross-country events in the '64 and '76 Olympics. Thirty miles away, it's less than an hour's trip by train. Sixty miles of beautifully maintained trails make it the cross-country center of Europe. The elegantly rustic Karwendelhof, the place to stay, is comfortable, friendly, and houses the gambling casino. The town trademark is one of the most beautiful onion tower churches in the region (see cover).

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, an hour from Munich, is easily reached by train or car. Christmas visitors, who ordinarily reserve months in advance, might want to plan a day or two in Munich, before heading for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, to wander through the magical stalls, booths, tents of the 600-year-old Christkindlmarkt (Christmas market), set up in the pedestrian zone of the Marienplatz in front of the City Hall. Selling Christmas decorations, candles, crèches, music boxes and special foods from the beginning of December until the 24th, this is one of the most festive and colorful markets anywhere.

For more information about Seefeld: Austrian National Tourist Office, 545 Fifth Ave., New York City 10017; (212) 697-0651. About getting there: Pan Am offers daily service, and the only nonstop flights from the United States to Munich. Nonstop service departs New York every Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the 7 hour, 45 minute trip, returning from Munich, nonstop every Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The rest of the week the flight, both directions, goes through Frankfurt. For special skiers' packages, ask your travel agent about Pan Am's Holiday ski vacations. ■

JOURNEY TO THE LAND OF THE NUTCRACKERS

You'll only be four hours from Munich, but you'll feel light-years away in Seiffen, a picture-pretty German village known for its Christmas crafts, friendly townspeople, and breathtaking scenery

Gazing at the shop windows that line the streets of Seiffen, you can't help but suspect that Santa's elves secretly do their holiday shopping here in the Ore Mountains, the cradle of Germany's centuries-old Christmas handcraft tradition. Although many Americans don't realize it, dozens of the Christmas traditions they cherish were first instituted in the towns and villages of this mountainous region, located just a few hours' drive from either Munich or Prague.

For decades, this forested region on the border of what is now the Czech Republic was isolated behind the Iron Curtain. Although travel to Seiffen has increased since the fall of Communism, in 1989, the overcommercialization that has befallen many other scenic places in Europe has not occurred here.

A trip to the Ore Mountains (Erzgebirge in German), especially for visitors interested in the region's Christmas decorations, is best centered around Seiffen, home to more than 100 craft workshops and dozens of retail stores specializing in handmade nutcrackers, Nativity scenes, angels, and wooden figures.

For decades the scenic villages of the Ore Mountains were isolated behind the Iron Curtain.

Since the 18th century, talented Seiffen artisans have worked in small village shops (generally family-owned businesses), busily fashioning toys and holiday ornaments. The craftspeople in these workshops (Werkstätte) often specialize in crafting one particular type of ornament, such as candle arches, music boxes, or nutcrackers, using designs and techniques developed by their forebears. And unlike Santa's secretive elves, quite a few of Seiffen's workshops welcome onlookers and collectors—look for signs that read Schauwerkstatt ("demonstration workshop") or Verkauf ("sale"), which indicate that the workshop sells directly to the public.

The most beloved craft found in the Ore Mountains is the nutcracker. Although Located in what was once East Germany, the village of Seiffen (top) was off-limits to Western visitors prior to the fall of Communism late in the 1980s. Travelers can visit many of Seiffen's workshops to watch artisans assembling and painting colorful Christmas decorations (below).

these whimsical creations were first sold at German Christmas markets late in the 18th century, for Americans they are postwar phenomena. Americans first became conscious of the stately wooden soldiers when Tchaikovsky's 1892 ballet The Nutcracker began to gain widespread popularity in the United States after it was first performed in the mid-1940s. Other ornaments created by the region's artisans, including candlelit carousels (called Pyramide in German) and incense-burning pipe "smokers," continue to gain popularity among American collectors, many of whom were introduced to the crafts by family mem-the trade, lanterns and hammers and chisels.

To fully appreciate how the region's extensive mining culture could give rise to such a rich, grassroots artistic tradition, tour Seiffen's Erzgebirgisches Spielzeugmuseum (Ore Mountain Toy Museum), home to one of Germany's largest and most impressive folk art collections. A mile away, the Toy Museum also operates Erzgebirgisches Freilichtmuseum, an open-air museum that features nearly a dozen 18th- and 19th-century cottages, including a toymaker's house and a miner's residence. Carefully preserved and outfitted with period furnishings, the structures provide compelling glimpses of the simple lives once led by the people of the region. The open-air museum also features one of the country's last water-turned lathes, dating from 1760. A woodworker is generally on hand to demonstrate how lathes were used to hand turn wood into traditional Ore Mountain toys like the nutcracker.

If the weather is fair, join local villagers and head off on a hike along the well-tended footpaths that connect Seiffen to neighboring towns. In winter, when the paths become excellent cross-country skiing trails, ski gear can be rented from village shops and hotels.

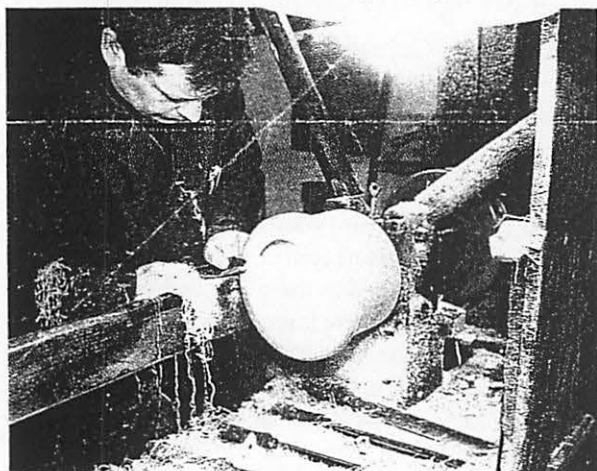

Accommodations in the region are plentiful and many hotels have undergone full renovations in the past few years. Expect to pay somewhere between $70 and $100 for a double room with bath and breakfast. Although restaurant cuisine can prove lackluster, hotel breakfast buffets are wonders to behold, offering a wide variety of fresh rolls and breads, sliced meats, cheeses, soft-boiled eggs, yogurt, granola, and fresh fruit.

While English is not yet spoken widely in the Ore Mountains, Americans will find the region's inhabitants friendly and accommodating. Indeed, most townspeople will go out of their way to help visitors create memories as precious as the treasures they inevitably bring home. ☼

bers who had been stationed in Germany while serving in the military.

The region's long mining history remains another folk art theme, one that finds expression in carefully crafted wooden miners and miners' wives. Although the mines were depleted in the mid-19th century, for centuries the Ore Mountains were a rich source of silver and tin. It's still quite common to find shops that carry colorful wooden depictions of miners in dress uniform—green cylindrical caps, black cutaway jackets, and white pants—carrying the tools of
