FOREWORD

The Texas County Records Inventory Project, headquartered at North Texas State University, Denton, is a county-by-county survey of all records germane to the operations of county government located in county courthouses and other storage facilities. The Project is conducted in cooperation with Texas colleges and universities, county officials, and the Texas State Library. In addition, inventories have been conducted by historical groups, civic organizations, and citizens.

This Project is of value for research and records preservation and management. The published inventories are of immediate benefit to researchers. Documentation as to types, nature, and quantity of records enables researchers to locate material hitherto unknown and unused in the archives of county courthouses. Secondly, information gathered concerning local records provides a base for the implementation of the Regional Historical Resource Depository (RHRD) Program mandated by the Texas Legislature in 1971. Lastly, the data provides a basis for informed decisions concerning records management for county officials. Records retention and disposal schedules will be of great benefit to local governmental officials in exerting control over the overwhelming amount of records multiplying daily in courthouses across the State. The Texas County Records Inventory Project provides an invaluable service to the citizens of the State of Texas.

PREFACE

The inventory of the public records of Wilson County began as a pilot project in the Division of Social Sciences of The University of Texas at San Antonio. In the summer of 1975, when President Peter T. Flawn approved the proposal of inventorying the records in the Floresville courthouse, four graduate students enrolled in Seminar on State and Local History enthusiastically undertook the difficult assignment to gain practical, first-hand, on-the-scene experience in locating, measuring, counting, describing, and evaluating primary source materials in the neighboring county south of San Antonio. Although initially the project was experimental in nature, the skills which the participants acquired in the week-by-week process gave them the confidence and initiative to conduct similar inventories in other counties.

For administrative assistance and encouragement at The University of Texas at San Antonio, we would like to thank Dr. Peter T. Flawn, Dr. Kenneth H. Ashworth (now Commissioner of Higher Education), Mr. Everitt M. Mahon, Dr. Richard E. W. Adams, and Dr. Thomas C. Greaves. For the respect and cooperation extended to the UTSA students and supervising professor, and particularly for making the Wilson County Courthouse files easily accessible, we wish to thank County Judge R. L. Eschenburg; Commissioners Joe Estrada, Leonard Rotter, Mark Johnson, and Gresham Akin; County Clerk Richard Bolf; District Clerk Jody Gregory; Tax Assessor-Collector Anna Gonzales; Sheriff Asa G. Fuller, Jr.; Treasurer Peggy Jaeggli; and Justice of the Peace Manuel Toscano.

Special gratitude and appreciation are given to Judge Toscano and his custodial staff for admittance into the storage areas and for providing lighting and cooling aids which made an unpleasant task considerably more comfortable and bearable. Also, we are grateful for the news coverage Mr. Joe Fietsam gave to the inventory in The Floresville Chronicle-Journal through which he informed the community about the project's objectives and introduced the students and professor to the town and its environs. Finally, we wish to recognize the invaluable assistance given by Mrs. Mary S. Pearson, Mrs. Sharon C. Rishe, and Mr. James E. Riney, Texas County Records Inventory Project staff, and Miss Carmela Leal, Regional Historical Resource Depository Program (Archives Division) in compiling the inventory and expediting the manuscript toward publication.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The inventory of Wilson County Courthouse records represents an exhaustive listing and description of all records now contained in the various offices and storage facilities of the county.

All record entries are divided according to the office having jurisdiction and thereunder by topic. The heading indicates the current and previous titles (punctuation or wording has not been changed unless absolutely necessary for clarity), the dates of inclusion for the record, and the volume (shown by the number and dimensions for bound volumes, unbound documents, boxes, and permafiles; or by the number of cubic feet for narrow file drawers and filing cabinet drawers).

On untitled volumes or files, descriptive titles, enclosed in parentheses, are provided. If a volume or file has been mistitled, an explanatory title, pertaining to the actual contents, is added following the actual title and enclosed in parentheses.

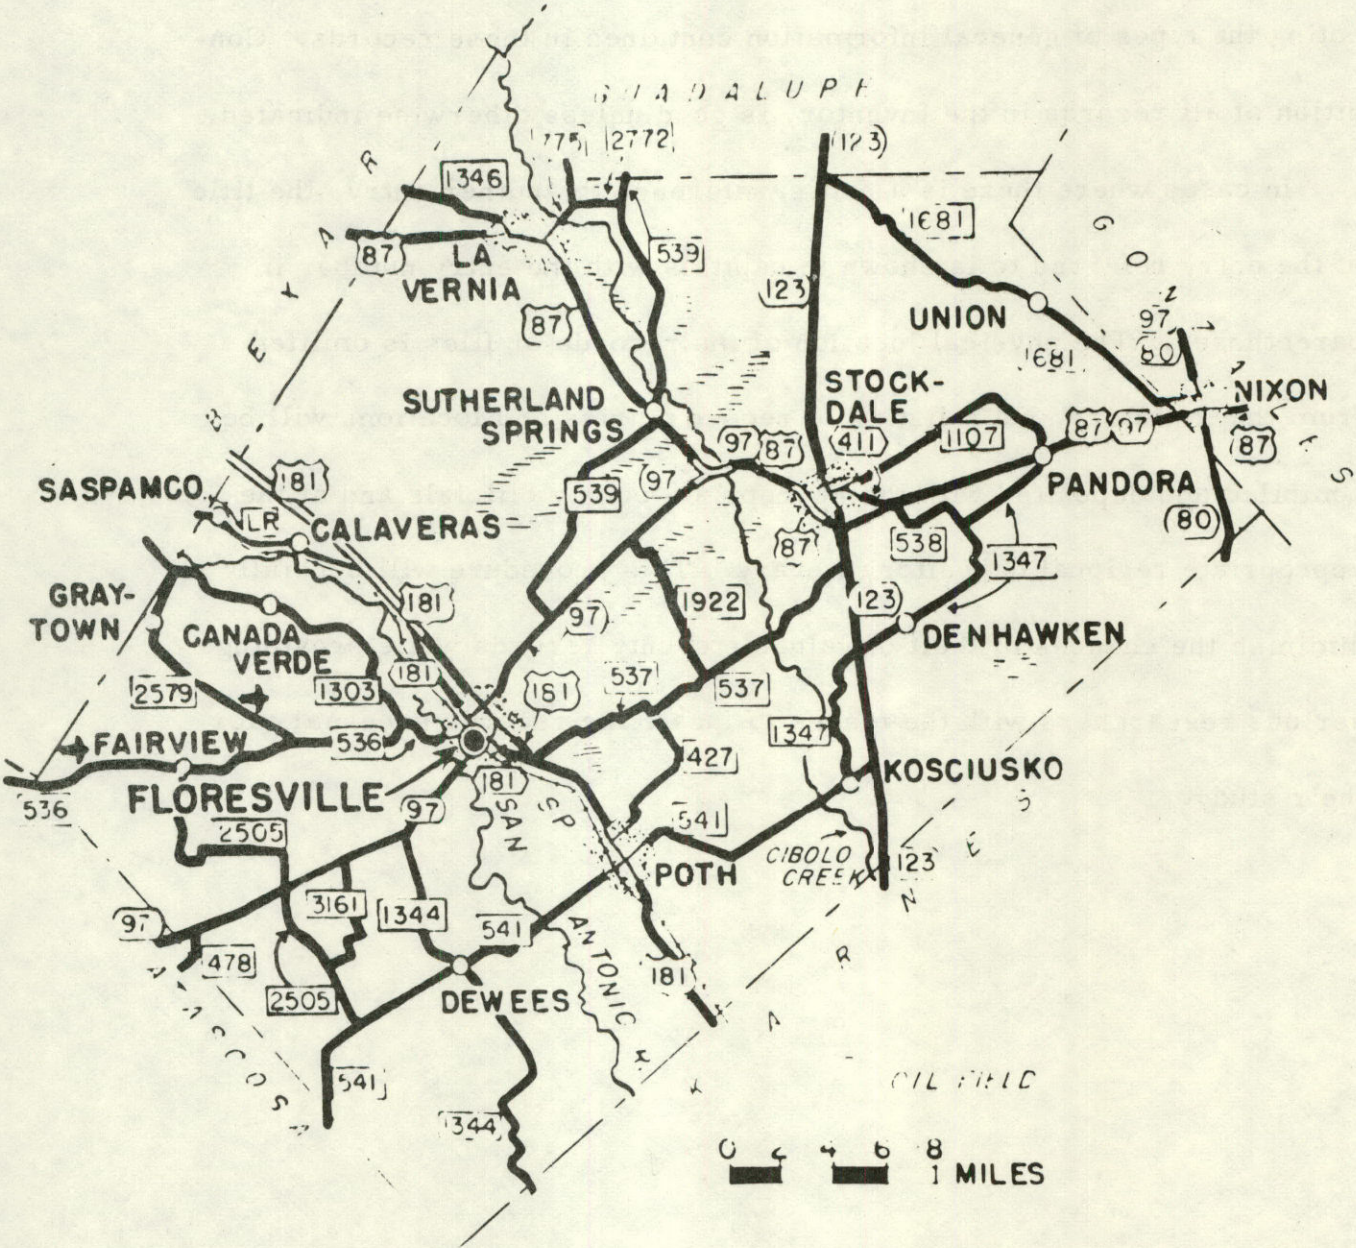

A brief description of the contents follows: what information the record contains, how it is arranged, and whether it is indexed. The current or most recent description for the various records is used unless otherwise noted in the record entry, and the arrangement is deleted for volumes or files with only one entry recorded therein. Self-indexed record volumes are noted as being indexed in file. Volumes indexed separately are cross-referenced to the appropriate index volume. For the purpose of this inventory, only pure indexes are cross-referenced. A volume that merely references another record will not be noted as an index.

The abbreviation SPF indicates that the record is kept on a standard printed form. A further indication follows as to whether this information is handwritten or typed onto the form.

Restricted records are closed to the public by law. For these descriptions, the inventory taker has used a blank standard printed form, noting the types of general information contained in these records. Condition of all records in the inventory is good unless otherwise indicated.

In cases where there is a cross-reference to another entry, the title of the entry referred to is shown in capitals with the entry number in parentheses. The physical location of the records or files is omitted from the inventory, but a listing of record entries and locations will be compiled and deposited with the appropriate county officials and at the appropriate regional depository library. This procedure will hopefully diminish the chances of theft of valuable county records while providing serious researchers with the means to locate the records necessary for their study.

INTRODUCTION

Wilson County (1973 est. population 13,900) occupies an 802-square-mile region of level to rolling terrain located on the upper coastal plain of South Texas. Created and organized in 1860, the county formerly was part of Bexar and Karnes counties. The county's name honors James Charles Wilson, itinerant Methodist minister and member of the Mier Expedition who served as Representative to the Third Legislature, Senator to the Fourth Legislature, and Commissioner of the Court of Claims.

Sutherland Springs became the first county seat, with an unused storage building converted into the first courthouse. Between 1860 and 1885 the site of county government alternated between Lodi and Sutherland Springs. Although fire destroyed one Lodi courthouse in 1883, the county records were saved. Since 1885 the offices of county government have been located in Floresville.

Originally the home of the Comanche, Tonkawa, and Lipan-Apache Indians, the area lay in the path of early Spanish explorations en route to East Texas. Settlement began before 1830, but chiefly consisted of dispersed ranches. Not until the establishment of Sutherland Springs in 1831 was there any locality large enough to be called a village. An influx of planters from the southern states, German immigrants from Guadalupe County, and Polish immigrants from Karnes County caused population to increase to 2,556 by 1870 and 7,118 by 1880. The greatest population expansion took place prior to 1940 when Wilson County numbered 17,066 citizens.

Early transportation routes fostered county growth. The San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railroad was extended to Floresville in 1886 and the San Antonio and Gulf traversed the county between 1893 and 1898. The Texas and New Orleans System later absorbed these two lines into a major transportation network.

With a variety of native timbers, fertile soil, and water furnished by the San Antonio and Cibolo rivers, Wilson County land is especially suitable for agricultural and stockraising pursuits. Peanuts, grain sorghums, corn, melons, cotton, truck vegetables, pecans, and flax are the chief crops; these are raised during a 280-day growing season. Beef, dairy cattle, hogs, and poultry also contribute to the county's agribusiness. A $2.6 million average yearly income derives from the production of oil, gas, and clays. The Stockdale Watermelon Festival and the Floresville Peanut Festival are among annual celebrations of Wilson County's harvests.

Wilson County operates under the Constitution of 1876 which outlines the major offices of county government and their functions.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT

The Commissioners' Court serves as the administrative body of the county. The powers and duties of this body are granted and limited by the Constitution of the State of Texas. The court consists of four commissioners, two of whom are elected every two years. The County Judge, elected from the county as a whole, presides over the Commissioners' Court.¹ Two of the most important powers of the court are the setting of the tax rate for the county and the approval of the county budget.² Other duties include providing for the disposition of all school lands granted to the county; providing for necessary public buildings and their repair; conducting elections; establishing and maintaining roads, bridges, and ferries; auditing and settling accounts against the county; providing for the support of paupers and mentally incompetent persons unable to support themselves;³ and serving as a board of equalization of State and county tax assessments.⁴ The Commissioners' Court possesses powers usually thought of as separate in American government since it has judicial, executive, and limited legislative power.⁵

COUNTY CLERK

The Constitution provides that the County Clerk

shall be clerk of the County and Commissioners Courts and recorder of the county, whose duties, perquisites and fees of office shall be prescribed by the Legislature, and a vacancy in whose office shall be filled by the Commissioners Court, until the next general election; provided, that in counties having a population of less than 8,000 persons there may be an election of a single Clerk, who shall perform the duties of District and County Clerks.¹

These three functions result in this office having the responsibility for recording and maintaining the largest volume of records in the operation of county government.

Clerk as Recorder

During the Republic period the statutory duties of the County Clerk had, to a large extent, already been defined. The Clerk was to record all deeds, conveyances, mortgages, and other liens on land; to record all estrays; to issue and record all marriage licenses; to issue various types of business licenses; and to post a list of taxpayers.² State laws after 1846 further required the Clerk to record deeds of trust, bonds, covenants, defeasances, and other instruments relating to property, including marriage contracts, powers of attorney, abstracts of judgments, and land titles. He is also to provide an alphabetical list of all names occurring in his records and to record all livestock marks and brands in the county.³

Since 1903 the Clerk has been required to record all births and deaths in the county, and since 1919, he has been required to record official discharges of persons from military service.⁴

From time to time, these basic responsibilities of the County Clerk have been expanded to include the recording of business and professional records, such as assumed name certificates; licenses for dentists, nurses, optometrists, and morticians; plats; reports of animals killed on railroad rights-of-way; and condominium records.⁵

Clerk of the County Court

As Clerk of the County Court, the County Clerk has the duties of recording all proceedings and preserving all books, papers, and effects of the Court.⁶ The County Court is charged by the State Constitution with original jurisdiction of all misdemeanors (excepting those cases where Justice Court has exclusive original jurisdiction), civil cases of value between $200 and $500, general jurisdiction for probate cases, and appointments of guardians for minors, lunatics, idiots, and drunkards.⁷

Clerk of the Commissioners' Court

The final broad area of responsibility of the Clerk is in support of the Commissioners' Court. This support includes attending all Commissioners' meetings, posting notices of such meetings, preparing the agenda for each meeting, taking minutes, and indexing and maintaining these records.⁸

DISTRICT CLERK

According to the Constitution, the State is to be divided into as many judicial districts as may be provided by law.¹ The District Court has jurisdiction in all criminal cases of the grade of felony; in all suits in behalf of the State to recover penalties, forfeitures and escheats; of all cases of divorce; of all misdemeanors involving official misconduct; of all suits to recover damages for slander or defamation of character; of all suits for trial of title to land and for the enforcement of liens thereon; of all suits for the trial of the right of property levied upon by virtue of any writ of execution, sequestration or attachment when the property levied on shall be equal to or exceed in value five hundred dollars; of all suits, complaints or pleas whatever, without regard to any distinction between law and equity, when the matter in controversy shall be valued at or amount to five hundred dollars exclusive of interest; of contested elections, and said court and the judges thereof, shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, injunction and certiorari, and all writs necessary to enforce their jurisdiction.²

In addition, the District Court has appellate jurisdiction over the County Court in probate cases, as well as appellate jurisdiction and general supervisory control over the County Commissioners' Court. According to a 1931 law, the District Court also presides over adoption proceedings.³

The Constitution provides that there shall be a Clerk for the District Court of each county, who shall be elected by the qualified voters for State and county officers, and who shall hold his office for four years, subject to removal by information, or by indictment of a grand jury, and conviction of a petit jury. In case of vacancy, the Judge of the District Court shall have the power to appoint a Clerk, who shall hold until the office can be filled by election.⁴

The District Clerk has the responsibility of recording and preserving all records created by the District Court. In addition to this primary function, the Clerk records licenses of physicians, chiroprodists, and chiropractors; makes reports to various agencies, including those to the Texas Industrial Accident Board, the Texas Judicial Council, and the Department of Public Safety; and prepares ballot boxes for all elections.⁵

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

The office of the Justice of the Peace can trace its beginning to the Constitution of the Republic of Texas and has been included in every constitution since that time. Charged by the present Constitution with jurisdiction in criminal matters of all cases where the penalty or fine to be imposed by law may not be more than for two hundred dollars, and in civil matters of all cases where the amount in controversy is two hundred dollars or less....¹

Because of its jurisdiction the Justice of the Peace Court is often referred to as the "poor man's court."

The Justice of the Peace is also empowered to issue writs and warrants, arraign prisoners, and hold preliminary hearings.² In addition, he may act as registrar of vital statistics for his precinct area in towns of less than 2,500 people, and he is empowered to conduct inquests in cases where doubt exists as to cause of death.³

SHERIFF

The office of Sheriff is an old one in American local government, tracing its roots back to the Anglo-Saxon heritage of the English-speaking people. In Texas the office has been provided for in every constitution of the Republic and of the State. The present Constitution provides that there shall be elected by the qualified voters of each county a Sheriff, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, whose duties and perquisites, and fees of office, shall be prescribed by the Legislature, and vacancies in whose office shall be filled by the Commissioners Court until the next general election.¹

Chief among these duties is that of peace officer of the county, but the Sheriff is also an officer of both the county and the district courts in which he is responsible for the service of writs and processes. In addition to these duties, the Sheriff is also charged with the maintenance of the county jail and the supervision of its prisoners.

TAX ASSESSOR-COLLECTOR

The Assessor and Collector of Taxes is elected in each county to a four-year term. As assessor of taxes in the county, he has the responsibility of making a list of taxable property and assessing the value of it. As collector, he receives and collects all taxes assessed in the county. ¹

During the Republic period a tax assessor was appointed for each county and the sheriff served as collector. ² The two offices were combined in 1846 in an elective position which required the Tax Assessor-Collector, in addition to assessing and collecting taxes on real and personal property, to draw up a list of delinquent taxpayers. ³

The Constitution of 1876 originally provided for the election of a tax assessor for each county and for a tax collector in counties with a population of over 10,000, with the Sheriff serving as collector in the smaller counties. In 1932 this provision was amended to combine the offices of tax assessor and collector in counties with a population of over 10,000, and the Sheriff filled both offices in the smaller counties. A 1954 constitutional amendment authorized counties with less than 10,000 population to create a separate office of Tax Assessor-Collector upon the approval of the electorate. ⁴

From the time the office was created, the duties of the Assessor and Collector of Taxes have been to assess and collect both State and county taxes on real and personal property. In addition the Tax Assessor-Collector is "registrar of voters," and thereby responsible for the registration of voters, keeping of records, preparation of lists of registered voters, and such other duties incident to voter registration as are placed upon him by law.⁵

He is also charged by statutory law with the registration of all motor vehicles in the county.⁶

TREASURER

The office of County Treasurer was created by the Republic as an appointive position in 1840.¹ The Constitution now provides for the election of the County Treasurer who serves a four-year term, and has the primary responsibility of receiving and disbursing county funds.²
