Texas Libraries is issued bi-monthly by the Texas State Library. Opinions expressed in signed articles are not necessarily those of the Texas Library and Historical Commission. Persons are urged to submit articles and items on every phase of librarianship and library development to: Editor, Texas State Library, State Capitol, Austin.

INTRODUCTION

Analysis of 1960 public library reports filed with the Texas State Library reveals that 289 libraries serve 8,497,552 Texans, or 88.7% of the State's total 1960 census population of 9,579,677. Of these, 197 submitted reports which form the framework of this directory.

The Texas County Library Law provides that a maximum of 12c per $100 tax valuation of a county may be spent on library service, this amount from either the General Fund or the Permanent Improvement Fund. According to the State Comptroller of Public Accounts, the total tax valuation of the state for 1960 is $12,719,810,939, which means that $15,263,773 could be invested in libraries. If this full amount were spent for county library service, it would represent an expenditure of $1.59 per capita for the total population of Texas.

In reality, 96 counties, with a tax valuation of $8,642,707,886 spent $1,277,139 or 11.8% of what could be spent according to the limit established by the county library law. This percentage compares with the percentage of Texans without public library service—11.3%. Of the remaining 158 counties, 105, whose public libraries did report, do not appropriate county funds for library service; the public libraries in 53 counties did not report thus making it impossible to determine whether or not these counties appropriate funds for libraries. The number of counties without public library service stands at 50, with 377,696 Texans, or 31% of those without library service, residing in these counties.

The total income of the reporting libraries was $6,305,880, of which $5,759,246 was from the city and county governments. This represents a per capita expenditure of $0.66 for the total population, and $0.74 for the population served.

Book stock and circulation figures from the reports submitted and the reports that contained this data indicate that 5,336,574 books circulated 18,303,303 times, or approximately 3½ times per book.

Of the reporting libraries, data show that there are 87 stations, 97 branches, and 40 bookmobiles in Texas. The Texas State Library has five (5) bookmobiles operating in multi-county areas of Texas as one of the projects for the further extension of library services in the rural areas authorized by the Library Services Act of 1956 and amended in 1960.
