W. M. RAYMOND & CO.,

No. 348 Pearl Street,

ON FRANKLIN SQUARE,

NEW YORK.

TO OUR PATRONS.

NEW YORK, MAY, 1864.

Having been repeatedly solicited by our customers to supply them with Hearses, we have, at length, yielded to their solicitations, and having made the necessary and satisfactory arrangements, we herewith present you with our first Price List.

Our arrangements being with one of the best manufacturers, we can confidently claim that the workmanship on the Hearses sold by us, shall be of the highest order, and the materials shall be as good as can be procured, and we are determined to establish a reputation for Hearses second to none in the country.

Having been for many years in a business that enables us to judge of the wants of the public in the Hearse line, we have adopted designs entirely new, which we believe will commend themselves to all as not only new but of great beauty in form and finish. We have aimed at securing strength and durability, united with chaste and appropriate designs, and a light and graceful appearance. We leave it to others to judge how far we have succeeded in our various aims. While we believe our styles and work will be found superior, we believe also that our prices will be found fully as low as the market price of materials and labor justify. These prices are made up at the present market rates for materials and labor, and are liable to change according as these items change.

We shall endeavor, by cuts and description, to give a clear idea of the various style of Hearse, but it must be borne in mind that no description can be precise in all the detail.

In orders for Hearses, our customers may make such changes in the trimming and other details, as would suit their own fancy, provided they do not so far change as to add materially to the expense of furnishing. All such changes will have especial attention, and purchasers will be promptly notified if the cost has been so much increased as to make it necessary to add to the price. All alterations or changes must be described fully and clearly.

We shall make our Hearse bodies with double doors, hung on hinges, opening at the centre—our experience proves this to be the best mode—but if customers prefer a sliding door, we will make it.

If customers prefer the small bier for running the coffin into the Hearse, to the roller on the bottom, we will put it in as requested without extra charge.

We desire that you will give our designs and specifications a full and candid examination, and if any further information is desired regarding any of the styles referred to, we shall be happy to give it on having the desire made known by letter or otherwise.

Our terms will be cash, or its equivalent.

We are prepared to fill orders with reasonable dispatch, it being borne in mind that time is needed to finish a good article well.

If you are in need of a Hearse, or are thinking of purchasing one after a time, we should be glad to have you let us hear from you before you decide on your purchase.

Yours respectfully,

W. M. RAYMOND & CO.,
