PREFACE

The publication herewith presented, an index to the probate cases filed in Liberty County, Texas, is No. 146 of the Texas series of counties. The publication is intended to meet the requirements of day-to-day usage by the officials of the county, attorneys, businessmen, and other citizens who have occasion to consult probate case records for the proper conduct of their affairs. The publication may be used by historians and genealogists to obtain references to unpublished source material.

The names of the deceased persons, minors, and other principals are arranged alphabetically, with reference to the filing date of the case and the case number. The notation "no papers" following the name of the principal indicates that no case papers were located during the inventory. Differentiation between probate cases assigned duplicate numbers is accomplished by the addition of a letter following the case number. The prefixes "T", "J", "L", "E", and "I" are used to denote tuberculosis, juvenile, lunacy, epilepsy, and infirmity cases. Case numbers preceded by "O" were assigned to previously unnumbered cases. The following numbers in the series 1-3145 were not used as case numbers: 104, 375, 397, 619, 621, 742, 965, 979, 993, 1034, 1110, 1291, 1379-2999.

In Liberty County the probate case papers are filed in the county clerk's vault on the first floor of the courthouse. The papers, filed in separate jackets, are arranged chronologically according to filing date under alphabetical subdivisions corresponding to the first letter of surname of the principals in plainly marked steel file drawers.

Since the transfer of territory from one county to another has affected probate jurisdiction and has determined the county in which the probate cases should be filed, a map and table of territorial changes are included herein. Notations concerning present location and availability of records pertinent to Liberty County follow:

Harris County, Houston, records extant.

Montgomery County, Conroe, records extant.

Washington County, Brenham, records extant.

EXPLANATION OF THE MAP AREAS AND THEIR DERIVATIONS

By a decree of Jan. 31, 1831, dividing Texas into two departments (H. P. N. Gammel, Laws of Texas, I, 281), territory of the map areas A-G, L-O, and AA fell within the Department of Bexar; map areas H-K, P-Z, BB-EE, and the area of Liberty not cross-hatched in the Department of Nacogdoches.

1. Neither the date of establishment nor legal definition of the boundaries of the municipality of Liberty is available. 1831 is here given as a starting date for the municipality because it is believed that in February of that year Francisco Madero established an ayuntamiento at the town of Liberty (see H. H. Bancroft, The History of Texas and the North Mexican States, II, 116; Eugene C. Barker, Mexico and Texas, p. 105; see also Arlene Pickett, Historic Liberty County, p. 13, for statement that Hugh B. Johnston was appointed the first alcalde of Liberty in February 1831). Roughly, the original territorial jurisdiction of the municipality of Liberty extended from the San Jacinto River to the Sabine, and from the southern line of the municipality of Nacogdoches to the Gulf (George W. Paschal, A Digest of the Laws of Texas, I, 178, note 314; John and Henry Sayles, Early Laws of Texas, I, art. 1555; and see also "Descriptions of Texas by Stephen F. Austin, 1833," Southwestern Historical Quarterly, XXVIII (1924-25), 118). For the western boundary line of the municipality of Liberty on the accompanying map, the legal definition of the eastern line of Austin's Colony was used (see Gammel, I, 50). The line shown as the northern line is what is assumed to have been the southern line of the municipality of Nacogdoches. This line was apparently never defined. It was platted from careful study of legal boundary definitions of numerous municipalities and counties subsequently created from territory of Liberty and of Nacogdoches (Houston, see Gammel, I, 1330; Robertson, ibid., I, 1398; Angelina, ibid., II, 1426; San Augustine, ibid., I, 352).

*Name changed to Harris Dec. 28, 1839 (Gammel, II, 396).

 6. The date of establishment of the municipality of Washington is not known, but it was represented at the Consultation held Oct. 16, 1835 (see Gammel, I, 514). Nor has legal definition of its boundaries been found, but it is believed to have included the territory in the boundaries of Washington County as defined Dec. 14, 1837 (Gammel, I, 1391) plus the territory of the new county of Montgomery created on the same day, and described as "All that part of the county of Washington, lying east of Erazos, and southeast of Navasota Rivers. . ." Areas C, E, M, AA, N, and part of O were included in the judicial county of Madison, created Feb. 2, 1842 (Gammel, II, 763); areas V and T were in the judicial county of Menard, created Jan. 22, 1841 (Gammel, II, 538); areas J and K and part of Z were in the judicial county of Hamilton, created Feb. 2, 1842 (Gammel, II, 763); and area CC was in the judicial county of Neches, created Jan. 29, 1842 (Gammel, II, 754). It is doubtful that any of these judicial counties were ever organized, for a decision of the Supreme Court in 1842 held acts attempting to create "judicial" counties unconstitutional (Stockton v. Montgomery, James Wilmer Dallam, comp., Opinions of the Supreme Court of Texas from 1840 to 1844 Inclusive, p. 473).

 18. The date of establishment of the municipality of Bevil (name changed to Jasper in 1835, see Gammel, I, 946) is not known, but Bevil was listed as a municipality in the Department of Nacogdoches by Juan N. Almonte in 1834 in his official report (Carlos E. Castaneda, "Juan N. Almonte, Statistical Report on Texas," Southwestern Historical Quarterly, XXVIII (1924-25), 177-221). See George W. Paschal, A Digest of the Laws of Texas, I, 175, note 312, for a general statement of the probable boundaries of the municipality of Bevil.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In addition, the document outlines the procedures for handling discrepancies. If there is a difference between the recorded amount and the actual amount, it is crucial to investigate the cause immediately. This could be due to a clerical error, a missing receipt, or a change in the terms of the agreement.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the financial data. It includes a table showing the monthly income and expenses over a period of six months. This data is used to calculate the net profit and to identify trends in spending and revenue.

The table below shows the monthly financial performance:

Month	Income	Expenses	Net Profit
Jan	1000	750	250
Feb	1100	800	300
Mar	1200	850	350
Apr	1300	900	400
May	1400	950	450
Jun	1500	1000	500

The total net profit for the six-month period is 2250. This indicates a steady increase in profitability over time, which is a positive sign for the business.

The final part of the document discusses the future outlook for the business. It notes that the current financial performance is strong and that there are several opportunities for growth. These include expanding the product line, entering new markets, and improving operational efficiency.

However, there are also risks that must be managed. These include changes in market conditions, increased competition, and fluctuations in the cost of raw materials. It is essential to have a contingency plan in place to address these risks.

In conclusion, the document provides a comprehensive overview of the business's financial health and future prospects. It highlights the importance of accurate record-keeping and offers practical advice for managing the business effectively.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This not only helps in tracking expenses but also ensures compliance with tax regulations.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data. This includes both primary and secondary research techniques. The primary research involves direct observation and interviews, while secondary research involves analyzing existing data sources.

The third section details the results of the data analysis. It shows a clear upward trend in sales over the period studied, which is attributed to several factors, including increased marketing efforts and improved product quality.

Finally, the document concludes with a series of recommendations for future actions. These include expanding the product line, strengthening customer relationships, and continuing to invest in research and development.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author details the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both manual and automated processes, highlighting the challenges of data integration from multiple sources.

The third section provides a comprehensive overview of the results obtained from the analysis. It shows a clear trend of increasing activity over the period studied, with some fluctuations that can be attributed to external factors.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice to ensure transparency and accountability.

2. The second section outlines the procedures for handling discrepancies between the recorded amounts and the actual cash received. It states that any such variance must be investigated immediately and reported to the appropriate authority.

3. The third part of the document details the process of reconciling the accounts at the end of each month. It requires that the total amount recorded in the books must match the actual cash balance in the bank account.

4. The fourth section discusses the role of the auditor in verifying the accuracy of the records. It notes that the auditor has the right to inspect all documents and records related to the transactions.

5. The fifth part of the document describes the consequences of failing to comply with these regulations. It states that any individual found guilty of providing false information or concealing transactions may face severe penalties, including fines and imprisonment.

6. The sixth section of the document provides information on the reporting requirements for large transactions. It requires that any transaction exceeding a certain threshold must be reported to the relevant authorities.

7. The seventh part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining the confidentiality of financial information. It states that all records and documents must be stored securely and access restricted to authorized personnel only.

8. The eighth section of the document outlines the process for resolving disputes between parties involved in a transaction. It states that all disputes should be resolved through the courts and that the records maintained by the parties should be used as evidence.

9. The ninth part of the document discusses the role of the government in regulating financial transactions. It notes that the government has a duty to ensure that all transactions are conducted in a fair and transparent manner.

10. The tenth and final section of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed in the document. It reiterates the importance of maintaining accurate records and the consequences of non-compliance with the regulations.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes the need for transparency and accountability in financial reporting.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and techniques used to collect and analyze data. It includes a detailed description of the experimental procedures and the statistical tools employed.

3. The third part of the document presents the results of the study, including a series of tables and graphs that illustrate the findings. The data shows a clear trend in the relationship between the variables being studied.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the implications of the findings and provides a conclusion. It suggests that the results have significant implications for the field of study and offers recommendations for further research.

5. The fifth part of the document includes a list of references and a bibliography. It cites several key works in the field, providing a foundation for the current study and highlighting the contributions of other researchers.

6. The sixth part of the document contains a list of appendices and supplementary materials. These include additional data sets, detailed calculations, and other relevant information that supports the main text of the document.

7. The seventh part of the document includes a list of figures and tables. Each figure and table is accompanied by a detailed caption that explains its content and its relevance to the study.

8. The eighth part of the document contains a list of footnotes and a glossary. The footnotes provide additional information and references, while the glossary defines key terms and abbreviations used throughout the document.

9. The final part of the document includes a list of acknowledgments and a closing statement. It expresses gratitude to those who provided support and assistance during the course of the research.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for transparency and accountability, particularly in financial matters. This section also touches upon the legal implications of failing to maintain such records, which can lead to severe consequences for individuals and organizations alike.

2. The second part of the document delves into the specific requirements for record-keeping, including the types of documents that must be retained and the duration for which they should be kept. It provides a detailed overview of the various categories of records, such as financial statements, contracts, and correspondence, and outlines the best practices for organizing and storing these documents to ensure they are easily accessible when needed.

3. The third part of the document addresses the challenges associated with record-keeping, such as the volume of data generated and the risk of data loss or corruption. It offers practical solutions and strategies to overcome these challenges, including the use of digital storage solutions and the implementation of robust backup and recovery procedures. This section also discusses the importance of regular audits and reviews to ensure the integrity and accuracy of the records.

4. The fourth part of the document focuses on the role of record-keeping in compliance with various regulations and standards. It highlights the importance of staying up-to-date with the latest regulatory requirements and ensuring that all records are maintained in accordance with these standards. This section also discusses the consequences of non-compliance, which can result in fines, penalties, and reputational damage.

5. The fifth and final part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed throughout the document and offers some concluding thoughts on the importance of record-keeping. It emphasizes that record-keeping is not just a legal obligation, but a fundamental aspect of good business practice that can help organizations to improve their operations, manage risk, and ensure long-term success.

The first part of the report deals with the general situation in the country. It is noted that the economy is in a state of depression, and that the government is unable to meet its obligations. The report also mentions the political situation, which is described as unstable. The author expresses concern about the future of the country and the well-being of its people.

In the second part of the report, the author discusses the social conditions. It is stated that the majority of the population is poor and that there is a high level of unemployment. The report also mentions the state of the education system, which is described as inadequate. The author suggests that the government should take steps to improve the social conditions and to provide more opportunities for the people.

The final part of the report contains the author's conclusions and recommendations. It is concluded that the country is in a state of crisis and that the government must take immediate action to address the problems. The author recommends that the government should implement a series of reforms, including measures to improve the economy, to stabilize the political situation, and to improve the social conditions.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and accountability in the financial reporting process.

Furthermore, it is crucial to review these records regularly to identify any discrepancies or errors. Promptly addressing these issues can prevent larger problems from arising and ensure that the financial statements are accurate and reliable.

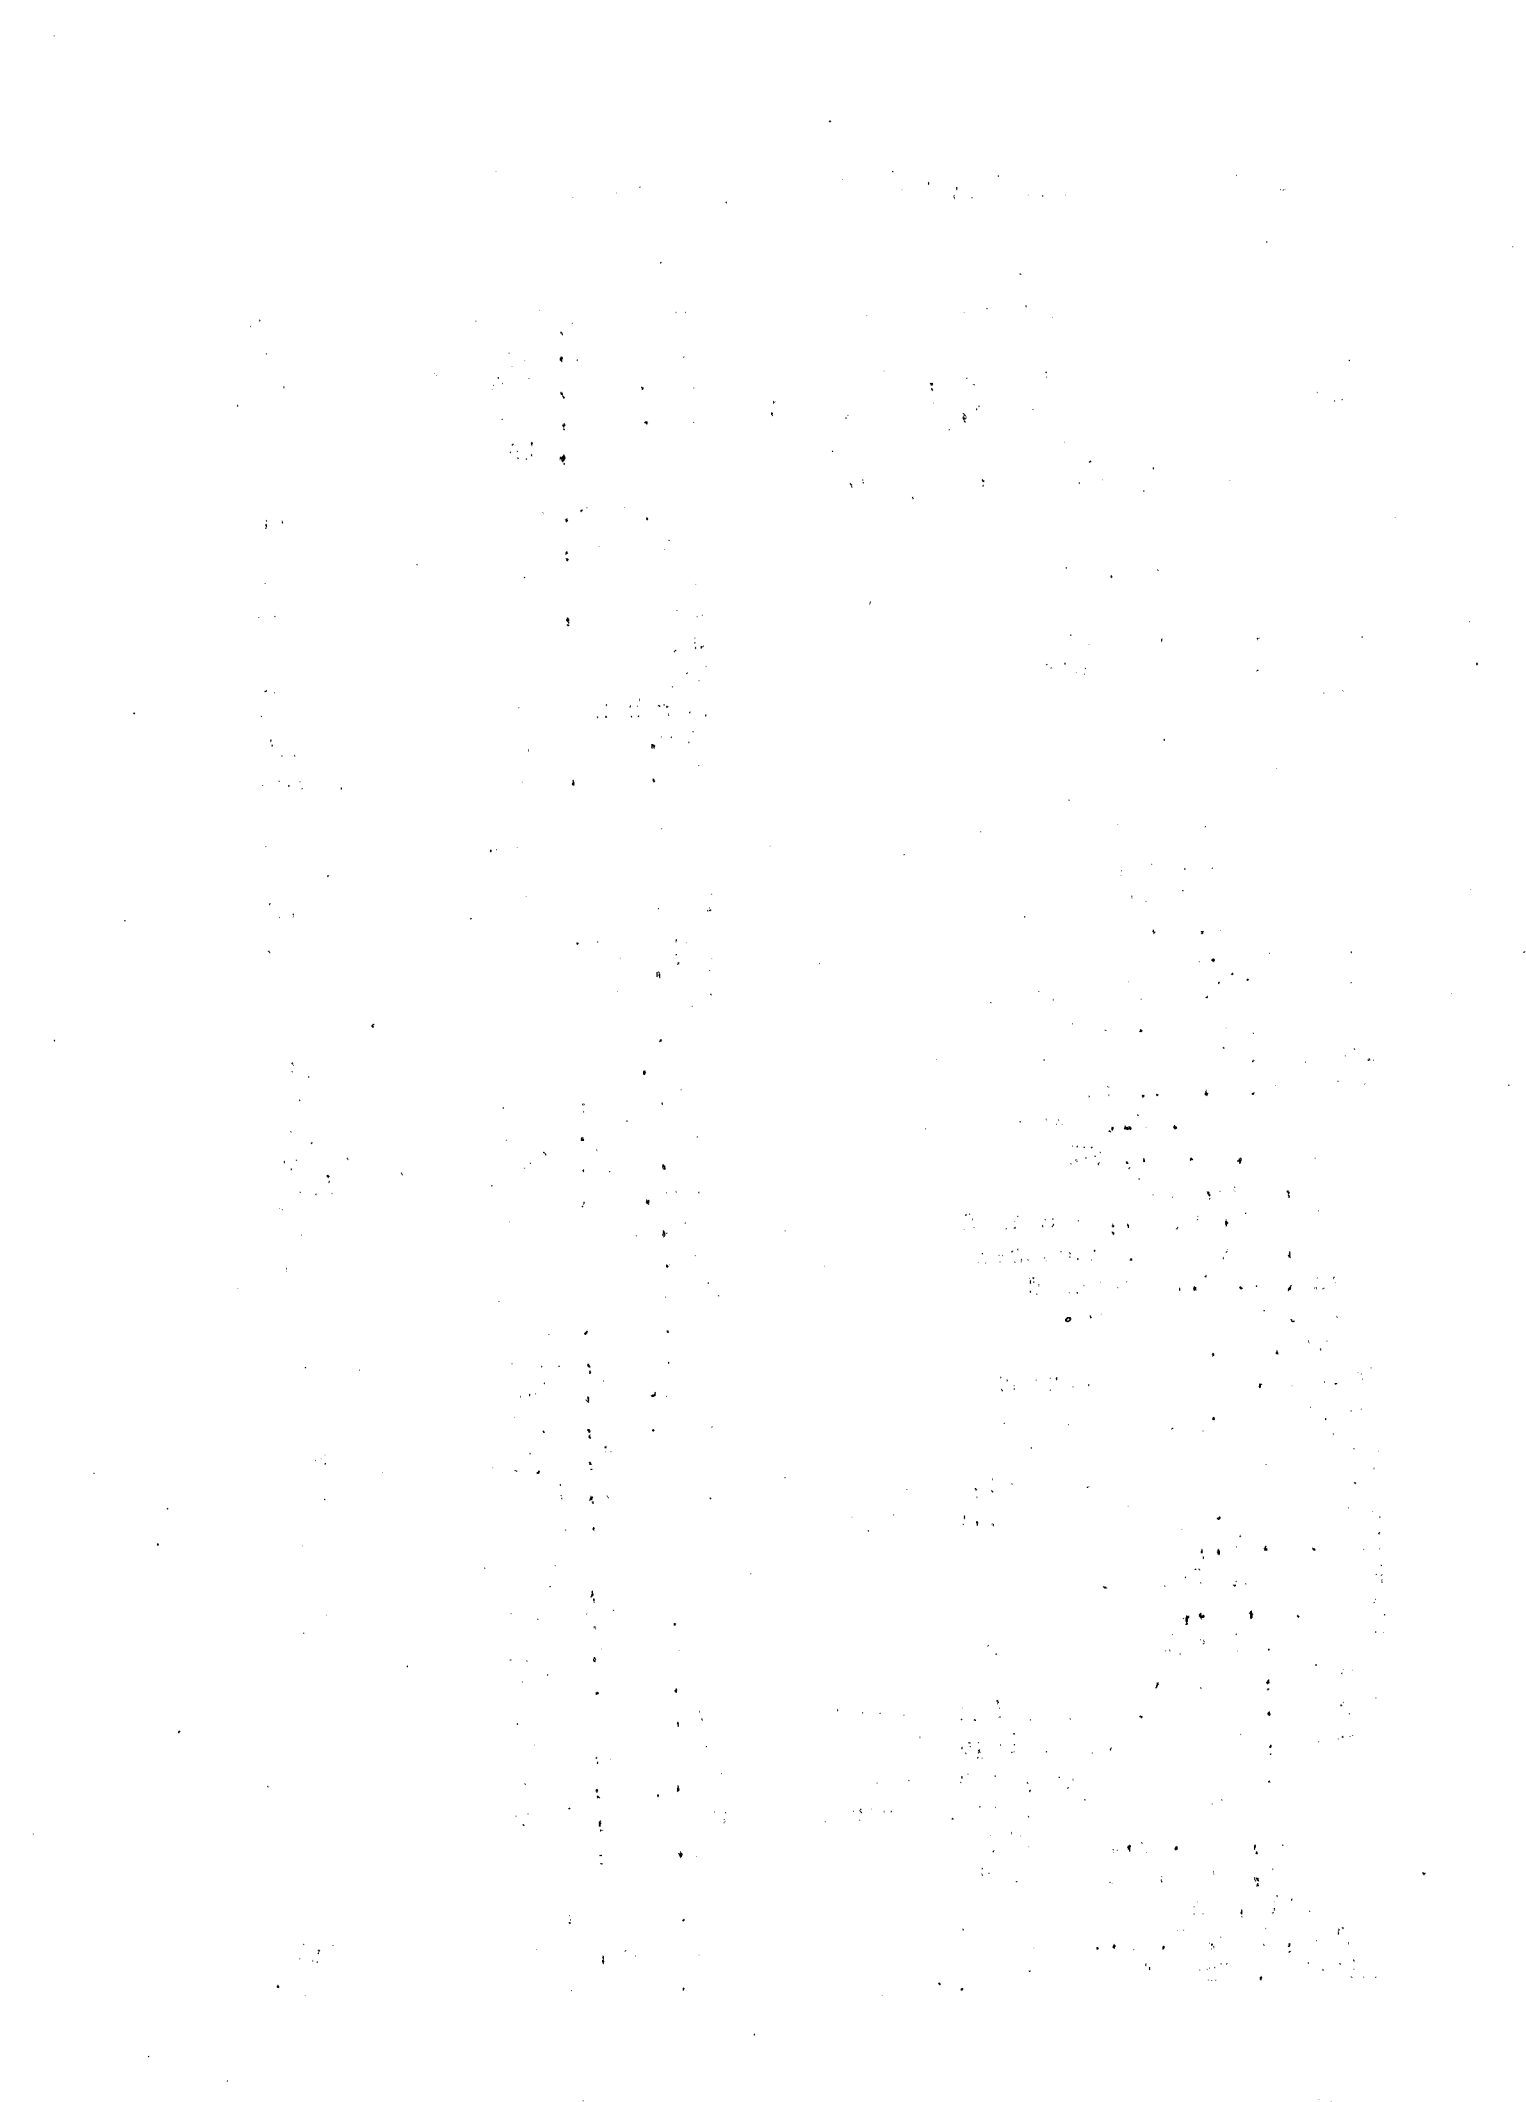

In addition, the document highlights the need for proper categorization of expenses. This allows for a more detailed analysis of the company's financial performance and helps in identifying areas where costs can be reduced or optimized.

Finally, it is recommended to keep all financial records for a sufficient period of time, as required by law. This is essential for audits and to provide a clear history of the company's financial activities.
