Annual License Renewal Fee to Increase This Fall

The fee to renew your CPA license will increase from $30 to $41 this fall. Yet, compared to just about everything else, Texas licensees are still getting a bargain. Of the $251 that the Board will collect from you, it will only be able to keep $41, just as it now keeps only $30. For each professional license it issues, the Board is mandated to collect $200 to be deposited into the state's General Revenue Fund and $10 to be deposited into the fifth-year accounting students scholarship trust account, with the remainder going to the day-to-day operation of the agency.

The Board is self-funded. All operating expenses must be paid from what it collects in license renewal fees, firm registrations, exam fees, sponsor registrations, and other collections. Based on projected expenditures and fund balances for the next three fiscal years, the Executive Committee and Board have determined that a fee increase is necessary to maintain the same high level of services for Texas licensees that it has historically provided.

Over its nearly 100-year history, the Board has raised licensing fees 16 times, and decreased them 10 times. For example, fees were doubled in 1991 and again in 2005, from $30 to $60, to help cover the costs associated with major case enforcement, but they were brought back to their previous level as soon as the need had passed. So, the $30 annual renewal fee that Texas licensees have been paying in recent years is actually the same as was paid in 1981-83 (not including the $10 scholarship fee mandated by the Legislature in 1991). Retired CPAs and those with a permanent disability pay only $10. CPAs who work for certain governmental entities and who are not using their licenses outside their governmental positions are exempt from the $200 fee, but will pay $51 rather than the $40 they have been paying.

Even with the increase, licensing fees for CPAs are more than reasonable compared to those of other professions. While our licensees are paying $251, attorneys licensed less than three years will be paying $268, and attorneys licensed more than five years will be paying $435. Dentists will pay $350; psychologists, $405; and architects, landscape architects, and interior designers, $305, with each of their licensing agencies forwarding the requisite $200 per licensee to the General Revenue Fund. Virtually all state professional licensing agencies have additional fees for exams, late fees, etc., just as the Board does. As always, the Board will continue to seek ways to streamline procedures and provide greater value to our stakeholders through efficient use of technological and human resources.

C. CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

1. Investigation No.: 10-12-11N
 Respondent: Charles G. Showery, Jr.
 Hometown: El Paso
 Act Violation: 901.453

Board staff initiated an investigation of this matter based on a complaint. Complainant provided a business card and engagement letter wherein Respondent used the terms "accountant" and "accounting" and asserted an expertise in accounting by offering "accounting services" although Respondent did not hold individual or firm licenses issued by the Board during all relevant times.

These actions constitute a violation of Public Accountancy Act, Section 901.453. Respondent also offered services to the public that involve the use of accounting, attest or auditing skills, including tax services. Offering these services while representing to potential clients that he is licensed by the Board is the practice of public accountancy under Section 901.003 of the Public Accountancy Act.

Board staff determined that Respondent had not held individual or firm licenses issued by the Board during all relevant times.

Holding oneself out as a CPA when not licensed constitutes a violation of Public Accountancy Act Section 901.451. Respondent also offered services to the public that involve the use of accounting, attest or auditing skills, including tax services. Offering these services while representing to potential clients that Respondent is licensed by the Board is the practice of public accountancy under Section 901.003 of the Public Accountancy Act.

Respondent repeatedly ignored the Board's attempts to gain his compliance with Texas law, making it necessary for the Board to immediately issue a Cease and Desist Order against Respondent.
